INTRODUCTION.

SECT. 1.

THE SHEMITIC LANGUAGES IN GENERAL.

1. THE Hebrew is but a single branch of a large stock of languages in Western Asia, which was native in Palestine, Phœnicia, Syria, Mesopotamia, Babylonia, Arabia: that is, in the countries from the Mediterranean Sea to the Tigris, and from the Armenian mountains to the south coast of Arabia. In early antiquity, moreover, it became diffused from Arabia over Æthiopia, and, by means of Phœnician colonies, over many islands and shores of the Mediterranean, but especially over the whole Carthaginian coast.

There is no name, sanctioned by long usage, for the nations and languages united in this stock. The name Shemites, Shemitic languages (suggested by Gen. x. 21, etc., where most of the nations using these tongues are derived from Shem) is, however, generally received at present, and may well be retained in the absence of a better.*

2. This Shemitic class of languages consists of three principal divisions: I.) The Arabic, which has its seat in the south of the territory of the Shemites. To this belongs the Æthiopic as a branch of the southern Arabic (Himyaritic),† and the language of the inscriptions on Sinai as an offspring of the northern Arabic.‡ II.) The Aramæan in the north and north-east; which is called Syriac, in the form in which it appears in the Christian Aramæan literature, but Chaldeæ, as it exists in the Aramæan writings of the Jews. To these writings belong some later portions of the Old Testament, viz., Ezra iv. 8—vi. 18, and vii. 12—26;

* From Shem were derived (Gen. x. 21, etc.) the Aramæan and Arabian races as well as the Hebrew, but not the Canaanites (Phœnicians), who are derived from Ham (vs. 6, 15, etc.), though their language is decidedly Shemitic. The Assyrian language has been proved, after long uncertainty, to be Shemitic, as might indeed be presumed, since Asshur also stands among the Shemites in Gen. x. 22; where too the Elamites stand, whose language is not yet ascertained.

† See Rödiger's Excurs zu Wellsted's Reisen in Arabien (Halle, 1842), Bd. II., S. 361.

‡ See Tuch in d. Zeitschr. d. deutschen Morgenl. Gesellschaft, Bd. III., S. 129 ff.

Dan. ii. 4—vii. 28.* As the Chaldee frequently presents a Hebrew colouring, so the Samaritan exhibits a strong admixture of Hebrew forms, although, according to its fundamental character, it belongs to the Aramæan. The Aramæan of the Nassoræans (John's disciples, Sabians†) is a very low and corrupt dialect, and just so the vernacular Syriac of the present day. III.) The Hebrew, with which the Canaanitish and Phœnician (Punic) stand in close connexion, occupies in a measure, according to its character and geographical situation, a middle place between the Arabic and the Aramæan.

All these languages stand to each other in much the same relation, as those of the Germanic family (Gothic, ancient Northern, Danish, Swedish; High and Low German in more ancient and more modern dialects), or as those of the Slavic (Lithuanian, Lettish; ancient Slavic, Servian, Russian; Polish, Bohemian). They are now either wholly extinct, as the Phœnician, or they exist only in a degenerate form, as the modern Syriac among the Jews and Syrian Christians in Mesopotamia and Kûrdistan,‡ the Æthiopic in the newer Abyssinian dialects (Tigré, Amharic), and also the Hebrew among a portion of the modern Jews (although these in their writing aim especially at a reproduction of the Old Testament language). The Arabic is the only one that has not only kept to this day its original abode, Arabia proper, but has also spread abroad on all sides into the regions of other tongues.

The Shemitic family of languages was bordered on the east and north by another still more widely extended, which became diffused under most diverse forms, from India to the west of Europe, and is called the Indo-Germanic, as embracing the Indian (Sanskrit), ancient and modern Persian, Greek, Latin, Slavic, and Gothic, together with the other German languages. With the ancient Egyptian, from which the Coptic is derived, the Shemitic came many ways into contact in very early times. Both have accordingly much in common, but their mutual relation is as yet not accurately defined.§ The Chinese, the Japanese, the Tartar, and other languages have a fundamentally different character.

3. The grammatical structure of the Shemitic languages has many peculiarities, which, as a whole, constitute its distinctive character, although many of them are found singly also in other tongues. These peculiarities are: a) Among the consonants, which always form the main body of these languages, are many gutturals varying in grade; the vowels, originating in the three primary sounds

* The most ancient passage where Aramæan words, as such, occur, is Gen. xxxi. 47. Comp. also the Aramæan verse in Jer. x. 11.

† So called from  $\text{ܨܘܪܐܝܝܢ}$  as being βαρριτοραϊ: see Neander's Kirchengeschichte, B. I., S. 646.—TR.

‡ See Rüdiger in der Zeitschrift für die Kunde des Morgenlandes, B. II., S. 77 ff.

§ See Gesenius in d. Allg. Lit. Zeitung, 1839, No. 77 ff., 1841, No. 40. Th. Benfey über das Verhältniss der ägypt. Sprache zum Semit. Sprachstamme, Leipzig, 1844, Svo. Schwartze in den Alten Aegypten, and in Bunsen's Aegypten, 1., S. 520, etc.

(a, i, u), serve for more subordinate distinctions; b) most of the radical words consist of three consonants; c) the verb has only two forms of tenses, with a peculiarly limited usage, and great regularity and analogy prevail in the formation of verbals; d) the noun has only two genders and a more simple indication of case; e) in the pronoun all oblique cases are indicated by appended forms (suffixes); f) scarcely any compounds appear in verbs or nouns (except proper names); g) in the syntax is found a simple combination of sentences, without much periodic subordination of members.

4. In respect, also, to the character of their lexicography, the Shemitic tongues vary essentially from the Indo-Germanic; yet they appear to have more in common here than in their grammatical structure. A great number of stems and roots* resemble in sound those of the Indo-Germanic class. But irrespectively of expressions obviously borrowed (see below), the actual similarity is reduced, partly to words which imitate sounds (onomatopœtica), and partly to those in which the same, or a similar, sense results from the nature of the similarity of sounds, according to a universal law of human speech. All this, however, is insufficient to establish an historic (gentilic) affinity, which latter can only be proved by an additional agreement in the grammatical structure itself.†

As onomatopœtics, or roots similar in the nature of their sounds, may be classed together קָלַף, לָחַץ, λείψω, lingo, Sanskrit lih, Germ. lecken, Eng. lick [Welsh † llio], French lécher; לָלַץ (kindred roots לָלַץ, לָלַץ) κάλλω, κέλλω, κελίω, volvo [Welsh olwyn], Germ. quellen and wallen, Eng. to well; קָרַץ, קָרַץ, קָרַץ, χαράττω [Welsh carthu, crath], Persian khariden, Ital. grattare, French gratter, Eng. grate, scratch, Germ. kratzen; קָרַץ, frango, Germ. brechen [our break, Welsh brech, brin], etc. An example somewhat different is am, ham (sam), gam, kam, in the sense of together. Hence in Heb. אָמַץ (kindred word אָמַץ people, prop. an assembling), אָמַץ together with, אָמַץ (whence אָמַץ also), Arab. نمى collect; Persian ham, hamah, at once; Sansk. amā, with. Greek ἄμα ἄμφω, ὄμος, ὄμου (ὄμιλος, ὄμαδος), and harder κοινός, Lat. cum, cumulus, cunctus [Welsh cym = Lat. com], with the corresponding sibilant Sansk. sam, Greek σύν, ξύν, ξυνός = κοινός, Goth. sama, Germ. sammit, sammeln. Notwithstanding, much in this list is of doubtful affinity.

* For the use of the terms, stems and roots, see § 30, Remarks 1 and 2.—Tr.

† Gesenius has attempted, in the later editions of his Lexicon, and in his Thesaurus Linguae Hebraeae, to exhibit the points of contact between the Shemitic and the Indo-Germanic languages, and others have carried this comparison farther, or taken it up in their own fashion. But it needs great caution and a comprehensive knowledge of the relations of sounds in both families, in order to avoid error and deception, which present themselves in investigations of this kind more readily and frequently than in any other. In this process, it is as expedient to keep that distinct which does not bear all the marks of affinity, as it is to discover at a glance what is likely to contain all points of agreement. This, however, may be confidently relied upon, that these two parent-languages do not stand in a sisterly or any close relationship to each other, and that the characteristic structure of both must be dissected before we can discover the constituent elements which they possess in common. This comparative analysis, however, belongs to the province of the Lexicon rather than that of the Grammar.

‡ That the Celtic dialects (not unlike the Shemitic in their relation to each other, namely, Welsh, Cornish, Essentially different from this more internal relationship between the languages, is the mutual adoption of words one from another (borrowed words). Thus,—

a) When Indian, Egyptian, and Persian objects are called in Hebrew by their native names; e. g. נִיְלוֹ Egyptian gor, yero, yaro river, the Nile; אֶרֶב (Egypt. aki, achi) Nile-reed; סַבְרִיָּה = παράδισος, Persian pleasure-garden, park; דַּרְיָהּ Persian gold coin; טַוֵּשֵׁת, from Ind. (Tamil) toyai, peacocks. Several such words are found also in the Greek, as ἄπε (Sansk. kapi) ape, κήπος, κήβος; סַבְרִיָּה (Sansk. karṣāsa) cotton, κάρπασος, carbasus.

b) When Shemitic words, names of Asiatic products and articles of commerce, have passed over to the Greeks along with the things; e. g. בִּיֶזַע, βύσσος, byssus; לְבָנָה, λιβανωτός, incense; קָנֶה, κάνα, canna, reed; כִּמְוִן, κύμινον, cuminum, cumin; כּוֹר מִרְרָה, myrrha, myrrh; קַסְיָה, κασσία, cassia; כַּמֶּלֶךְ, κάμηλος, camelus, camel; אֶרְחָבוֹן, arrhabon, arrha, earnest-money, pledge. The like transitions may have been brought about by Phœnician commerce.

5. As no alphabet is so perfect as to express all the modifications of sounds in a language, so the Shemitic had from the beginning this striking imperfection, that the consonants only (which indeed form the essential part of the language) were arranged in the line as real letters. Of the vowels only the longer ones, and even these not always, were represented by certain consonants (§ 7). It was not till a later period that all the vowels were indicated by means of small signs (points or strokes above and below the line, § 8) subordinate to the letters, but which were wholly omitted for more practised readers. These languages are written always from right to left.* However dissimilar the Shemitic written characters may appear now, they have undoubtedly all come, by various modifications, from one and the same original alphabet, of which the truest copy now extant is the Phœnician, from which also the ancient Greek, and through it all other European, characters were derived.

For a view of the Phœnician alphabet and of the oriental and occidental characters immediately derived therefrom, see Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, (Leipzig, 1837, Tom. I.—III. 4to.) Tab. 1—5, comp. p. 15, etc., and his article Palæographie, in Ersch und Gruber's Encyclopædie, Sec. III., Bd. 9, with its proper illustration in Taf. 1.

6. In regard to the relative age of these languages, the oldest written works are found in Hebrew (see § 2); the Aramæan begin about the time of Cyrus (in the book of Ezra); the Arabic not till the earliest centuries after Christ (Himyaritic inscriptions, the Æthiopic version of the Bible in the fourth century; and the Armorican or dialect of Brittany; Gaelic, Erse; Manks) belong to the Indo-Germanic family, admits of abundant proof; see Pritchard's Eastern Origin of the Celtic Nations, and Pictet de l'Affinité des Langues Celtiques avec le Sanscrit.—Tr.

* The Æthiopic is the only exception; but its deviation from the Shemitic usage is probably an innovation by the first missionaries who introduced Christianity into that country, for its earlier mode of writing, as an ancient inscription shows, was like the kindred southern Arabic (Himyaritic), also from right to left. See Rödiger in d. Zeitschrift f. d. Kunde des Morgenlandes, Bd. II., S. 332, etc., and his Notes to Wellsted's Reisen in Arabien, II., 376, etc.

northern Arabic literature since the sixth century). But distinct from this is the question, as to which of these languages has adhered longest and most true to the original Shemitic character, or which of these has come to us in a more antique appearance of its development. For the slower or quicker progress of a language spoken by a people depends on causes quite distinct from the development of a literature; and often the structure of a language is materially altered, before it attains to a literature, especially by early contact with foreign tongues. So in the Shemitic department, the Aramæan dialects exhibit the earliest and greatest decay,* and next to them the Hebrew-Canaanitish; the Arabic was the longest to maintain the natural fulness of its forms, being preserved undisturbed among the secluded tribes of the desert, until the Mahomedan revolution, when it suffered considerable decay. It was not till so late a period as this that the Arabic reached nearly the same point at which we find the Hebrew, even as early as the times of the Old Testament.†

This accounts for the facts (erroneously considered so very surprising) that the ancient Hebrew, in its grammatical structure, agrees more with the modern than with the ancient Arabic, and that the latter, although it appears as a written language at a later period, retains yet, in many respects, a fuller structure and fresher vowel system than the other Shemitic languages, and therefore takes a place among them similar to that which the Sanskrit occupies among the Indo-Germanic, or the Gothic in the narrow circle of the Germanic. The Lithuanian, as compared with the other tongues properly called Slavic, shows how a language may preserve its fuller structure even in the midst of decaying sister tongues. So the Doric preserved with great tenacity older sounds and forms; and so the Friesic and Icelandic among the German and Northern languages. But even the most steadfast and enduring structure in a language often deteriorates in single forms and inflexions; while, on the other hand, we find here and there, in the midst of universal decay, traces of the original and the ancient. Such is the case with the Shemitic languages. Even the Arabic has its chasms and its later growth; yet in general it is entitled to the precedence, particularly in its vowel system.

To establish and work out these principles would be the province of a grammar for comparing the Shemitic languages with one another. From what has been advanced, however, it follows—1) that the Hebrew language, as it appears in the ancient sacred literature of the Jews, has suffered more considerably in its structure than the Arabic, which appears later in our historical horizon; 2) that we are still not to concede to the Arabic the priority in all respects; 3) that, finally, it is a mistake to consider, with some, that the Aramæan, on account of its simplicity (occasioned, in fact, by derangement of structure and curtailing of forms), is the more original model of the speech of the Shemites.

* A new point of importance for observation would accrue, if it should be proved that the language of the cuneiform inscriptions found in Aramæan districts be Shemitic. But this subject rests as yet upon too uncertain a basis to engage our attention here.

† The language of the Beduins in the Arabian desert has still preserved some of the antiquated forms. See Burckhard's Travels in Arabia, Append. VIII., p. 466, his Notes on the Beduins and Wahabys, p. 244; Wallin in d. Zeitschr. d. Morgenl. Ges., Bd. V. (1851), S. 1, etc.; VI., S. 190, etc., 369, etc.

On the character, literature, grammars, and lexicons of these languages, see Gesenius's Preface to his Heb. Handwörterbuch, from 2nd to 4th edition. [Translated in the American Biblical Repository, vol. iii.]

SECT. 2.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF THE HEBREW LANGUAGE.

1. This language was the mother tongue of the Hebrew or Israelitish people, during the period of their independence. The name, Hebrew language (לְשׁוֹן עִבְרִית, γλῶσσα τῶν Ἑβραίων, ἑβραϊστί,) does not occur in the Old Testament, and appears rather to have been the name in use among those who were not Israelites. It is called, Is. xix. 18, language of Canaan (from the country in which it was spoken). In 2 Kings xviii. 26 (comp. Is. xxxvi. 11, 13), and Neh. xiii. 24, persons are said to speak יְהוּדִית Judaicè, in the Jews' language, in accordance with the later usage which arose after the removal of the ten tribes, when the name Jew was extended to the whole nation (Hag., Neh., Esth.).

Of the names Hebrews (עִבְרִים, Ἑβραῖοι, Hebræi) and Israelites, (בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל), the latter was more a national name of honour, and was applied by the people to themselves with a patriotic reference to their descent from illustrious ancestors; the former was probably the older and less significant name by which they were known among foreigners, on which account it is seldom used in the Old Testament, except when they are distinguished from another people (Gen. xl. 15; xliii. 32), or when persons who are not Israelites are introduced as speaking (Gen. xxxix. 14, 17; xli. 12; comp. the Lex. under עִבְרִי). The Greeks and Romans, as Pausanias and Tacitus, and so also Josephus, use only the name Hebrews. It may be regarded as an appellative, meaning what is beyond, people from the country on the other side, with reference to the country beyond the Euphrates, from עֲבָרָא a land on the other side, with the addition of the derivative syllable ' ( § 86, No. 5). This appellation might then have been given to the colony which, under Abraham, migrated from the regions east of the Euphrates into the land of Canaan (see Gen. xiv. 13). The Hebrew genealogists, however, explain it, as a patronymic, by sons of Eber (Gen. x. 21. Num. xxiv. 24).

In the times of the New Testament, the term Hebrew (ἑβραϊστί, John v. 2; xix. 13, 17, 20; ἑβραῖς διάλεκτος, Acts xxi. 40; xxii. 2; xxvi. 14;) was also applied to what was then the vernacular language of Palestine (see No. 5 of this section), in distinction from the Greek. Josephus, who died about A. D. 95, understands by it the ancient Hebrew as well as the vernacular of his time.

The name lingua sancta was first given to the ancient Hebrew in the Chaldee versions of the Old Testament, because it was the language of the sacred books, in distinction from the Chaldee, the popular language, which was called lingua profana.

2. In the oldest written monuments of this language, contained in the Pentateuch, we find it in nearly the same form in which it appears down to the Babylonish exile, and even later; and we have no historical documents of an earlier date, by which we can investigate its progressive development. So far as we can trace its history, Canaan was its proper home: it was essentially the language of the Canaanitish or Phœnician* race, by which Palestine was inhabited before the immigration of Abraham's descendants, with whom it was transferred to Egypt and brought back again to Canaan.

That the Canaanitish tribes in Palestine spoke the language now called Hebrew, is proved by the Canaanitish proper names; e. g. מֶלֶךְ צְדָקָה king of righteousness; קִרְיַת סֵפֶר book-town.

No less do the remaining fragments of the Phœnician and Punic language agree with the Hebrew. These are found, partly, in their own peculiar character (§ 1, 5) in inscriptions (about 130 in number) and on coins (see copies in Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, T. III. Tab. 6—48, and the explanations on pp. 90—328; Judas, Etude de la Langue Phœnicienne, Paris, 4to. 1817; Bourgade, Toison d'or de la Lang. Phœn., Paris, fol. 1852; De Luynes, Memoire sur le sarcophage d'Esmanazar, Paris, 4to. 1856), and partly in ancient Greek and Latin authors, as, for instance, in Plauti Pœnulus, 5, 1, 2, where an entire piece is preserved. From the former source we ascertain the native orthography, and from the latter the pronunciation and vowel sounds, so that from both together we get a distinct notion of this language, and of its relation to the Hebrew.

Deviations in the orthography and inflection of words are, e. g. the almost constant omission of the vowel-letters (§ 7, 2), as בַּת for בית house, לַל for לול voice, צִרְוֹן for צִירוֹן כהנים for כֹּהֲנִים priests, and the feminine ending in ת (ath) even in the absolute state (§ 80, 2), co-existing with that of ס (6), and many others. More striking are the deviations in pronunciation, especially in Punic, where the א is generally sounded as á, e. g. שִׁפֶּט sáfet (judge), שָׁלוֹשׁ salús (three), רִישׁ rús = ראשׁ (head); and where we find the obscure obtuse y often in the place of short i and e, e. g. מִיָּעוּמ miyumu (eccc eum), יֵת yth; and o for u, e. g. מוֹעַר Mocar (comp. מוֹעָדָה LXX. Μοχάδ). See a collection of the grammatical peculiarities in Mon. Phœnicia, p. 430, etc., and Mövers' article Phœnicien, in Ersch and Gruber's Encyclop., Sect. III. Bd. 24, S. 434, etc.

3. The remains of this language, which are extant in the Old Testament, enable us to distinguish but two periods in its history. The first, which may be called its golden age, extends to the close of the Babylonish exile, at which epoch the second or silver age commences.

The former embraces the larger portion of the books of the Old Testament; viz., of prose writings, the Pentateuch, Joshua, Judges, Ruth, Samuel, and Kings; of poetical writings, the Psalms (with the exception of many later ones), Proverbs, Canticles, Job; of the earlier prophets, in the following chronological order:—Joel, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Nahum, Obadiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel. The writings of the last two, who lived and taught just before the commencement and during the first years of the captivity, as well as the latter part of the book of Isaiah (chapters 40—66, together with some of the earlier chapters †), stand on the borders of the two ages.

* מֶלֶךְ צְדָקָה is the native name both of the Canaanitish tribes in Palestine, and of those who dwelt at the foot of Lebanon and on the Syrian coast, whom we call Phœnicians, while they are called מֶלֶךְ צְדָקָה on their own coins. Also the people of Carthage went by the same name.

† For an able defence of the genuineness of the latter part of Isaiah, see Hengstenberg's Christology of the Old Test., vol. i., p. 398 ff., of Keith's translation, or in the American Bib. Repository, vol. i. p. 700, etc.; also Hävernick's Einführung ins Alte Testament, §§ 217—220. That of the Pentateuch has also been successfully vindicated by many distinguished critics. See a valuable article on the subject in the American Bibliotheca Sacra, vol. ii., No. 6.—Tr.

The point of time at which we are to date the commencement of this period, and of Hebrew literature in general, is certainly as early as that of Moses, even if the Pentateuch, in its present shape and compass, be considered a work remodelled at a later period. For the history of the language, and for our present object, it is sufficient to remark, that the Pentateuch certainly contains some peculiarities of language which have the appearance of archaisms. When these books were composed, the words אִשָּׁה he (§ 32, Rem. 6), and צָעִיר young man, were still of the common gender, and used also for she, and young woman (like ὁ παῖς and ἡ παῖς). Some harsh forms of words, e. g. קָצָץ, קָצָץ, which are common in these books, are exchanged in others for the softer ones, קָצַץ, קָצַץ.

On the other hand, in Jeremiah and Ezekiel are found decided approximations to that Aramaean colouring which distinguishes the language of the second or silver age. See No. 5.

4. In the books of the first period, which cover about 1000 years, we find considerable differences in language and style, owing partly to the difference of date and place, and partly to the individual gifts of the writers: e. g. Isaiah writes quite differently from the later Jeremiah, as also from his own contemporary Micah; and the historical books not only differ according to their dates, like Judges and Kings, but also contain older documents strikingly different in language and style from those of the later writer himself. Yet the structure of the language, and, with trifling exceptions, its store of words and its usage, are on the whole the same, especially in the prose works. But the language of poetry is everywhere distinguished from prose, not only by a rhythm consisting in measured parallel members, but also by peculiar words, forms, and significations of words, and constructions in syntax; although this distinction is not so strongly marked as it is, for example, in Greek. Of these poetical idioms, however, the greater part occur in the kindred languages, especially the Aramaean, as the ordinary modes of expression, and probably are to be regarded partly as archaisms, which were retained in poetry, and partly as enrichments, which the poets who knew Aramaean transferred into the Hebrew.* The prophets, moreover, in respect to language and rhythm, are to be regarded almost entirely as poets, except that in their poetical discourses the sentences run on to greater length, and the parallelism is less measured and regular, than in the writings of those who are properly styled poets. The language of the later prophets, on the contrary, approximates more to that of prose.

On the rhythm of Hebrew poetry, see De Wette's Commentar über die Psalmen, Einleitung, § 7.† [The subject is briefly treated in the Reading Book at the end of this Grammar.]

Of poetical words, for which others are used in prose, the following are examples, viz. אִשָּׁה = אִשָּׁה man; אִשָּׁה = אִשָּׁה path; אִשָּׁה = אִשָּׁה to come; אִשָּׁה = אִשָּׁה word; אִשָּׁה = אִשָּׁה to see.

* In Isaiah's time (2nd half of the 8th century before Christ) the more educated Hebrews, at least the officers of state, understood Aramaean, as is expressly mentioned in 2 Kings xviii. 26; comp. Is. xxxvi. 11.

† Translated in the Biblical Repository, No. IX.—TR.

Under poetical significations of words may be ranked the use of certain poetical epithets for substantives, e. g.  $\text{יְהוָה}$  strong one, for God;  $\text{בָּקָר}$ , do. for bullock, horse;  $\text{לְבָנָא}$  alba, for luna;  $\text{חַיִּיתָהּ}$  unica, that which is dearest, for life.

Examples of poetical forms are, the longer forms of prepositions of place (§ 103, 3), e. g.  $\text{עַל־עַל}$ ,  $\text{לְעַל־לְעַל}$  =  $\text{לְעַל}$ ,  $\text{עַל־עַל}$  =  $\text{עַל}$ ; the endings  $\text{־י}$ ,  $\text{־י}$ , appended to the noun (§ 90); the suffixes  $\text{־ו}$ ,  $\text{־ו}$ ,  $\text{־ו}$  for  $\text{ו}$ ,  $\text{־ו}$ ,  $\text{־ו}$  (§ 58); the plural ending  $\text{־ו}$  for  $\text{־ו}$  (§ 87, 1). Among the peculiarities of Syntax, are, the far less frequent use of the article, of the relative, and of the accusative particle  $\text{אֵת}$ ; the use of the construct state even before prepositions, and of the apocopated future in the signification of the common future (§ 128, Rem. 2); and in general an energetic brevity of expression.

5. The second or silver age of the Hebrew language and literature, extending from the return of the Jews from the exile to the time of the Maccabees, about 160 years before Christ, is chiefly distinguished by an approximation to the Aramaean or Chaldee dialect. To the use of this dialect, so nearly related to the Hebrew, the Jews easily accustomed themselves while in Babylonia, and after their return it became the popular language, exerting a constantly-increasing influence on the ancient Hebrew as the language of books, in prose as well as poetry, and at last banishing it from common use. Yet the Hebrew continued to be known and written by learned Jews.

The relation of the two languages, as they existed together during this period, may be well illustrated by that of the High and Low German in Lower Saxony, or by that of the High German and the popular dialects in Southern Germany and Switzerland; for in these cases the popular dialect exerts more or less influence on the High German, both oral and written, of cultivated society. It is a false impression, derived from a misinterpretation of Neh. viii. 8, that the Jews, during their exile, had wholly forgotten their ancient language, and were obliged to learn its meaning from the priests and scribes.

The Old Testament Scriptures belonging to this second period, in all of which that Chaldee colouring appears, though in different degrees, are the following, viz.—Ezra, Nehemiah, Chronicles, Esther; the prophetic books of Jonah,* Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi, Daniel; of the poetical writings, Ecclesiastes, and the later Psalms. These books are also, as literary works, decidedly inferior to those of earlier date; though this period is not wanting in compositions, which, in purity of language and poetic merit, scarcely yield to the productions of the golden age; e. g. several of the later Psalms (cxx. etc., cxxxvii., cxxxix.).

To this later form of the language, as affected by the influence of the Chaldee, belong,—

Words, for which others are used by the earlier writers; e. g.  $\text{זְמַן}$  time =  $\text{עַתָּה}$ ;  $\text{לְקַח}$  to take =  $\text{לָקַח}$ ;
 $\text{לְקַח}$ ;
Significations of words; e. g.  $\text{צִוִּי}$  (to say) to command;  $\text{עָנָה}$  (to answer) to commence speaking.

Peculiarities of grammar; e. g. the frequent scriptio plena of  $\text{ו}$  and  $\text{י}$ , as  $\text{וְיָרַח}$  (elsewhere  $\text{וַיָּרַח}$ ), \* See a defence of the earlier date and the genuineness of Jonah, in Hävernicks Einleitung ins A. Test., §§ 242—247.—Tr.

and even קִרְיָט for קִרְיָט, רֹב for רֹב; the interchange of הָ and סָ final; the more frequent use of substantives in וּ, לָ, ת), etc.

We are not to regard as Chaldaisms all the peculiarities of these later writers. Some of them are not found in Chaldee, and must have belonged in early times to the Hebrew popular dialect, especially in northern Palestine, where, perhaps, Judges and Canticles [and Jonah] were composed; and hence we may account for the use in these more ancient books of וָ for וָ ( § 36), which obtained also in Phœnician.

Remark 1. Of peculiarities of dialect in the ancient Hebrew, only a few slight traces are found. Thus from Judges xii. 6 it appears that the Ephraimites always pronounced וּ like וּ or וּ; and in Neh. xiii. 23, 24, the dialect of Ashdod (of the Philistines) is mentioned.

2. It is not to be supposed that the remains of old Hebrew literature in our possession contain all the treasures of the ancient language. These must have been more copious and richer than they now appear in the canonical books of the Old Testament, which are only a part of the national literature of the ancient Hebrews.

SECT. 3.

GRAMMATICAL TREATISES ON THE HEBREW LANGUAGE.

(Gesenius's Gesch. der hebr. Sprache, §§ 19—39.)

1. After the gradual extinction of the Hebrew as a spoken language, and the collection of the books of the Old Testament into the canon, the Jews applied themselves to interpretation and criticism of the text, and to the preparation of translations of this their sacred codex. The oldest version is that into Greek by the so-called Seventy interpreters (LXX). It was executed by several translators, and at different periods of time. The work was begun with the translation of the Pentateuch, under Ptolemy Philadelphus, at Alexandria. Its design was to meet the wants of Jews residing in Alexandria and other Grecian cities, and was made, in part, from a knowledge of the Hebrew, whilst yet a living language. At a somewhat later period, the Chaldee translations or Targums (תַּרְגּוּמֵי, i. e. translations) were made in Palestine and Babylonia. The interpretations, drawn in part from alleged traditions, relate almost exclusively to civil and ritual laws, and to doctrinal theology. These, as well as the equally unscientific observations on various readings, are preserved in the Talmud, of which the first part (Mishna) was composed in the third century of the Christian era, the second part (Gemara) not till the sixth. The Mishna forms the commencement of the modern Hebrew literature, while the language of the Gemara closely approximates to the Chaldee dialect.

2. To the interval between the conclusion of the Talmud, and the age of the first writers on the grammar of the language, is especially to be assigned the application of vowel-signs to the hitherto unpointed text (§ 7, 3). Of the same period is the collection of critical observations called the Masora (מִסְרָה traditio), by which our received text of the Old Testament was settled, continued down in MSS., and from which it bears the name of the Masoretic text.

The various readings of the Q<sup>eri</sup> are the most important and ancient portion of the Masora (§ 17). The composition of the Masora is not to be confounded with the task of supplying the text with the points. The latter is a work of earlier date and much more ability than the former.

3. The first attempts to illustrate the grammar of the language were made by the Jews, after the example of Arabian scholars, at the beginning of the tenth century. What was attempted by Saadia (ob. 942), and others in this department, is wholly lost. But there are still extant, in manuscript, the works of R. Jehuda Chayug (called also Abu Zakaria Yahya, about the year 1030), and R. Jona (Abulwalid Merwân ben Gannâch, about 1050), composed in the Arabic language. Aided by these labours, Abraham ben Ezra (about 1150), and R. David Kimchi (1190—1200), acquired a classical reputation as grammarians of the language.

From these, as the earliest writers on the subject, are derived many of the methods of classification and of the technical terms which are still in part employed; e. g. the use of the forms and letters of the verb פִּעֵל (formerly employed as a paradigm) in designating the conjugations, and the different classes of irregular verbs; the voces memoriales, as מִפְּתִיחֵי, etc.*

4. The father of Hebrew philology, among Christians, was the celebrated Joh. Reuchlin (ob. 1522), to whom Greek literature also is so much indebted. He, however, as well as the grammarians down to Joh. Buxtorf (ob. 1629), adhered almost entirely to Jewish tradition. After the middle of the seventeenth century the field of view gradually widened; and the study of the kindred languages, through the labours, especially, of Alb. Schultens (ob. 1750), and N. W. Schröder (ob. 1798), led to important results in the science of Hebrew grammar.

To estimate correctly those works which have since appeared, and which are of permanent, scientific value, it is necessary to understand what is required of one who attempts to exhibit the grammar of an ancient language. This is, in general, 1) a correct observation and a systematic arrangement of all the phenomena of the language; 2) the explanation of these phenomena, partly by comparing them with one another, and with analogous appearances in the kindred languages,

SECT. 4.

DIVISION AND ARRANGEMENT OF GRAMMAR.

The division and arrangement of Hebrew grammar are suggested by the three elementary parts of every language; viz., 1) articulate sounds expressed by letters, and their union into syllables; 2) words; and 3) sentences.

The first part (which treats of the elements) contains, accordingly, instruction respecting the sounds, and the representation of them by letters. It describes, therefore, the nature and relations of the sounds of the language, teaches how to express the written signs by sounds (orthoepy), and shows how to write agreeably to established usage (orthography). It treats, moreover, of sounds as connected into syllables and words, and exhibits the laws and conditions under which this connexion takes place.

In the second part (which treats of grammatical forms and inflexions) words are considered in their quality as parts of speech. It treats, 1) of the formation of words, or the rise of the several parts of speech from the roots, or from one another; 2) of inflexions, i. e. of the various forms which words assume, according to their relation to other words, and to the sentence.

The third part (syntax) shows, 1) how the various inflexions of the language serve to modify the original meaning of words, and how other modifications, for which the language furnishes no forms, are expressed by periphrasis; 2) assigns the laws by which the parts of speech are united into sentences (syntax in the stricter sense).

* For the sounds of the consonants and vowels in this table, see § 6 and note on § 8.—Tr.

† The Latin q serves well for the Shemitish ק (Greek κόππα), as it occupies its very place in the alphabet.

2. The letters now in use, with which the manuscripts of the Old Testament are written (called the Assyrian or square character), are not of the original form. On the coins of the Maccabaean princes, and upon some signet stones, is found another character, doubtless in general use at an earlier period, which bears a strong resemblance to the Samaritan and Phœnician letters (§ 1, 5). The square letter may also be traced back to the Phœnician; but it agrees best with certain Aramean inscriptions found in Egypt, and with the Palmyrene.*

3. The five characters which have a different form at the end of a word (final letters), † ך, ם, ן, ף, ץ, terminate (with the exception of ם,) in a perpendicular stroke directed downwards, whilst the common form has a horizontal connecting line, directed towards the following letter.

4. Hebrew is read from right to left. The division of a word at the end of a line is not allowed. To complete a line, certain letters (dilatables) are at times dilated. These are in our printed books the five following:—

ם, ת, ל, ה, נ, (אֵלֶּהֶם).

Remark I. The figures of the letters were originally slight and abridged representations of visible objects, the names of which began with the sounds of the several characters; e. g. ך, א, the rude figure of a camel's neck, denotes properly a camel (אֵלֶּם = אֵלֶּם), but as a letter only the initial א; ם prop. eye, עַי, stands only for ע, the initial letter of this word. In the Phœnician alphabet especially, the similarity of the figures to the object signified by the names is for the most part still apparent, and even in the square character it is still preserved in some letters; e. g. ו, ז, ט, י, ל, נ, ט.

The most probable signification of each name is given in the alphabet. [For further information, see the initial articles under the several letters in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon.]

However certain it is, on the one hand, that the Shemites were the first to adopt this alphabet, it is yet highly probable, on the other, that the Egyptian writing (the so-called phonetic hieroglyphics) suggested the principle though not the figures; for these hieroglyphic characters indicate, likewise, chiefly the initial sound in the name of the object sketched; e. g. the hand, tot, indicates the letter t; the lion, laboi, the letter l. †

2. The order of the letters (the antiquity of which is clearly proved by the alphabetical poems in Ps. xxv., xxxiv., xxxvii., cxix., Lam. i.—iv., Pr. xxxi. 10—31) certainly depended originally on a grammatical consideration of the sounds, as we may see from the occurrence in succession of the three softest labial, palatal, and dental sounds, viz., ב, ג, ד, also of the three liquids, ל, מ, נ, and other similar arrangements (see Lepsius, sprachvergleichende Abhandlungen, Berlin, 1836. No. 1):

* On the ancient Hebrew signet stones, see Rüdiger in d. Zeitsch. der deutschen Morgenl. Gesellschaft, Bd. III. (1849), S. 243 and 347.

† These letters are supplied with vowels and pronounced together, thus וַיִּזְכֹּרְנִי. Such voces memoriales were invented by the early Hebrew grammarians to assist in remembering certain classes of letters.

‡ See the works of Young, Champollion, and others, on the Hieroglyphics. Lepsius exhibits the chief results in his Lettre à M. Rosellini sur l'alphabet hiéroglyphique. Rom. 1837, 8vo. Comp. Gesenius in der Allgem. Litt. Zeitung, 1839. No. 77—81. Hitzig, die Erfindung des Alphabets. Zürich, 1840, fol. J. Olshausen über den Ursprung des Alphabets. Kiel, 1841, 8vo.

but other considerations and influences have doubtless also had some effect upon it, for it is certainly not a mere accident, that two letters representing a hand (Yodh and Kaph), also two exhibiting the head (Qoph and Resh), are put together, as is done moreover with several characters denoting objects which are connected (Mem and Nun, Ayin and Pe).

Both the names and the order of the letters (with a slight alteration) passed over from the Phœnician into the Greek, in which the letters, from Alpha to Tau, correspond to the ancient alphabet. Just so are the old Italic and Roman alphabets, and all directly or indirectly proceeding from them, dependent upon the Phœnician.

3. The letters are used also for signs of number, as the Hebrews had no special arithmetical characters or eiphers. But this usage [exhibited in the table of the alphabet] does not occur in the Old Testament text; it is found first on coins of the Maccabees (middle of the 2nd cent. B. C.). It is now employed in the editions of the Bible for counting the chapters and verses. As in the numeral system of the Greeks, the units are denoted by the letters from א to ז, the tens by י—ט, 100—400 by ק—ת. The hundreds from 500—900, are sometimes denoted by the five final letters, thus, 7 500, 8 600, 1 700, 2 800, 3 900, and sometimes by ת=400, with the addition of the remaining hundreds, as קת 500. In combining different numbers the greater is put first, as יא 11, קכא 121. Fifteen is marked by טו = 9 + 6, and not by יה, because with these the name of God יהוה commences; from a similar consideration also טז is written for 16 instead of יז. The thousands are denoted by the units with two dots above, as ס̣ 1000.

4. Abbreviations of words are not found in the text of the Old Testament. On coins, however, they occur, and they are in common use by the later Jews. The sign of abbreviation is an oblique stroke, as יי̣ for יי̣א, פ̣ for פ̣לני, ונ̣ for ונ̣י, et completio = et cetera [&c.], ו̣ or ו̣ for ו̣ה.

PRONUNCIATION AND DIVISION OF CONSONANTS.

1. It is of the greatest importance to understand the original sound of every consonant, since very many grammatical peculiarities and changes (§ 18, etc.) are regulated and explained by the pronunciation. Our knowledge of this is derived partly from the pronunciation of the kindred languages, particularly of the yet living Arabic, partly from observing the resemblance and interchange of letters in the Hebrew itself (§ 19), partly from the tradition of the Jews.*

The pronunciation of the Jews of the present day is not uniform. The Polish and German Jews imitate the Syriac, while the Spanish and Portuguese Jews, whom most Christian scholars (after the example of Reuchlin) follow, prefer the purer Arabic pronunciation.

The manner in which the Seventy have written Hebrew proper names in Greek letters, furnishes an older tradition of greater weight. Several, however, of the Hebrew sounds they were unable to represent for want of corresponding characters in the Greek language, e. g. פ, צ, so that, to relieve * Important aid may also be derived from an accurate physiological observation of the whole system of sounds, and of their formation by the organs of speech. See on this subject Liskovius's Theorie der Stimme, Leipzig, 1814; J. Müller's Handbuch der Physiologie, Bd. II. S. 179, etc.; also Strodtmann's Anatomische Vorhalle zur Physiologie der Stimme und der Sprachlaute, Altona, 1837. In its reference to grammar, see H. Hupfeld, von der Natur und den Arten der Sprachlaute, in Jahn's Jahrbücher f. Philologie, 1829, II. 4; and H. E. Bindseil's Abhandlungen zur allgem. vergleichenden Sprachlehre, Hamb., 1838. I. Physiologie der Stimm- und Sprachlaute, S. 1, etc.

the difficulty, they had to resort to various expedients. This is likewise the case in the transcribing of Hebrew words with Latin characters, as Jerome sometimes gives them according to the pronunciation of the Jews of his time. On the pronunciation of the present Jews in the north of Africa, see Barges in the Journ. Asiat. 1848, Nov.

2. The following list embraces those consonants the pronunciation of which requires special attention, exhibiting in connexion those which bear any resemblance in sound to each other.

1. Among the gutturals א is the lightest, a scarcely audible breathing from the lungs, the spiritus lenis of the Greeks; similar to ה but softer. Even before a vowel it is almost lost upon the ear (אָמַר ámap), like the h in the French habit, homme [or Eng. hour]. After a vowel it is often not heard at all, except in connexion with the preceding vowel sound, with which it combines its own (מֵאֵסָ mátsá, § 23, 1).

ה before a vowel is exactly our h (spiritus asper); it is also a guttural after a vowel at the end of a syllable (נֶחֱ-פָּחַ něh-pákh); but at the end of a word it often stands in the place of a vowel, so that its consonant breathing is not heard (גָּלָה gālā), on which see § 7, 2, and § 14.

ע is related to א; and is a sound peculiar to the organs of the Shemitic race. Its hardest sound is that of a g slightly rattled in the throat, as עָמַרְהָ, LXX. Γόμορρα; עָזָה, Γάζα; it is elsewhere, like א, a gentle breathing, as in אֵלִי, Ἠλί; אֲמַלֵּךְ, Ἀμαλέκ. In the pronunciation of the Arabian, the first often strikes the ear like a soft guttural r, the second as a sort of vowel sound like a. It is properly as incorrect entirely to pass over ע, as some do, in reading and transcribing words with our own letters, e. g. אֵלִי Eli, אֲמַלֵּךְ Amalek, as it is to read it simply like g. The best representation we could give of it in our letters would be gh or rg, though its sound is sometimes softer, as אֲרַבָּה, something like arba<sup>sh</sup>, אֲרַבָּה rg<sup>a</sup>mora. The Jewish pronunciation of it by the nasal gn or ng is decidedly false.

ח is the firmest of the guttural sounds. It is a guttural ch, as uttered by the Swiss [and Welsh], resembling the Spanish x and j. While the Hebrew was a living language, this letter had two grades of sound, being uttered feebly in some words and more strongly in others.*

ך also the Hebrews frequently pronounced with a hoarse guttural sound, not as a lingual made by the vibration of the tongue. Hence it is not merely to be reckoned among the liquids (l, m, n, r), but, in several of its relations, it belongs also to the class of gutturals (§ 22, 5).

2. In sibilant sounds the Hebrew language is rich, more so than the kindred dialects, especially the Aramæan, which adopts instead of them the flat, lingual sounds.

ש and שׁ were originally one letter שׁ (pronounced without doubt like sh), and in unpointed Hebrew this is still the case. But as this sound was in many words softer, approaching to a simple s, the grammarians distinguished this double pronunciation by the diacritic point into שׁ sh (which occurs most frequently), and שׁ s.

שׁ resembled שׁ in pronunciation: it differed from this letter, however, and was probably uttered more strongly, being nearly related to שׁ. Hence שׁרַבַּר to close up, and שׁרַבַּר to reward, have different meanings, being independent roots, as also שׁבַּל to be foolish, and שׁבַּל to be wise. At a later period this distinction was lost, and hence the Syrians employed only שׁ for both, and the Arabians only their ס. They also began to be interchanged even in the later Hebrew; קָרַר = שָׁרַר to hire, Esr. iv. 5; שָׁכְלוּת for סְכָלוּת folly, Eccles. i. 17.

י was like ds (hence in the Septuagint ζ), as צ was ts. It is well represented by the French and English z.

3. ק and ט differ essentially from כ and ת. The former (as also צ) are uttered with strong articulation, and with a compression of the organs of speech in the back part of the mouth.

3. The six consonants,

ת, פ, ב, ג, ד, ב (בְּגִדֵּי־בָּת)

have a twofold pronunciation:* 1) a harder, more slender sound (tenuis), as b, g, d, k, p, t, and 2) a soft sound uttered with a gentle aspiration (aspirata). The harder sound is the original. It is found at the beginning of words and syllables, when no vowel immediately precedes it, and is indicated by a point in the letter (Daghesh lene, § 13), as בּ b, גּ g, דּ d, כּ k, פּ p, תּ t. The aspirated sound occurs after a vowel immediately preceding, and is denoted in manuscripts by Raphe (§ 14, 2), but in the printed text it is known by the absence of the Daghesh. In some of these letters (especially ג) the difference is less perceptible to our ear. The modern Greeks aspirate distinctly β, γ, δ, and the Danes d at the end of a word. The Greeks have two characters for the two sounds of the other letters of this class, as κ χ, π φ, τ θ.

For the particulars as to when the one or the other pronunciation is applicable, see § 21. The modern Jews sound the aspirated ב as v, and the ת nearly as s, e. g. רֵשֶׁת reshis, רַב rav.

4. After what has been said, the usual division of the consonants, according to the organs of speech employed in uttering them, will be more intelligible and useful. The common division is as follows:—

- |                                     |              |
|-------------------------------------|--------------|
| a) Gutturals, ח, ה, ע, א            | (אֶהָחֵע)    |
| b) Palatals, ק, כ, ג, י             | (גִּיכֶק)    |
| c) Linguals, ט, ת, ד, with נ, ל     | (דִּטְלָנֶת) |
| d) Dentals or sibilants, צ, ש, ס, ז | (זֶסְצֵש)    |
| e) Labials, פ, ב, מ                 | (בּוּמֶפ)    |

The letter ר partakes of the character of both the first and third classes.

The liquids also ר, ג, מ, ל, which have many peculiarities in common, are to be regarded as a separate class.

* Sound ת as t, ת as th in thick; ד as d, ד dh as th in that; פ as p, פ as ph or f; ב as b, ב bh as v; ג and ג both as g in go; כ and כ both as k. If one wishes to give the aspirated sound of ג and כ, let him pronounce g and k, rolling the palate with the same breath, the former as the German g in sagen, and the latter as ch in ich.—In.

In the Hebrew, as well as in all the Shemitic dialects, the firmer and stronger pronunciation, which characterised the earlier periods of the language, gradually gave way to softer and feebler sounds. In this way many nice distinctions of the earlier pronunciation were neglected and lost.

This appears, 1) in the preference of the softer letters; e. g. פֶּזֶז, פֶּזֶזֶ (see § 2, Rem. 3) Syr. פֶּזֶזֶ; 2) in the pronunciation of the same letter; thus in Syriac פ has always a feeble sound, while the Galileans uttered it, as well as פ, like פ; in Ethiopic פ has the sound of s, פ that of h.

SECT. 7.

ON THE VOWELS IN GENERAL, VOWEL LETTERS, AND VOWEL SIGNS.

1. That the scale of five vowels, a, e, i, o, u, proceeds from the three primary vowel sounds, A, I, U, is even more distinctly seen in the Hebrew and the rest of the Shemitic tongues than in other languages. E and O are derived from a blending together of the purer vowels, viz., I and U with a preceding short A, and are properly diphthongs contracted, ê arising from ai, ô from au, according to the following scheme* :—

The more ancient Arabic has not the vowels é and ô, and always uses for them the diphthongs ai and au; e. g. اِيَّ, Arabic bain, بَيْن, Arab. yaum. It is only in the modern popular language that these diphthongs are contracted into one sound. The close relation of those sounds is also sufficiently familiar from Greek and Latin, (e. g. Καῖσαρ, Cæsar; θαῖμα, Ion. θῶμα), from the French pronunciation of ai and au, from the Germanic languages (Goth. auso, auris, Old High-Ger. ôra, ear; Goth. snairs, Old High-Ger. snêo, Schnee [snow]), and even from the modern German vulgar dialect (Oge for Auge, Goth. augó [eye]; Steen for Stein, Goth. Stains [stone; comp. in Eng. ai in said, and au in naught]).

In the present Arabic of the Beduins, the use of the vowels does not extend itself in the pronunciation so much beyond the three primary sounds, a, i, and u, as in the Arabic spoken in Syria and Egypt (see Wallin alluded to ante, p. 5, note), and the same is reported of the African Jews by Barges in the Journ. Asiat., 1840, Nov.

2. With this is connected the manner of indicating the vowel sounds in writing. As only three principal vowel sounds were distinguished, no others were designated in writing; and even these were represented not by appropriate signs, but by certain consonants employed for this purpose, whose feeble consonant powers, according to their nature, approximate so very much to the vowel sounds to be expressed. Thus ו (like the Lat. V) represented U and also O; י (like the Lat. J) represented I and E. The designation of A, the purest of all the vowels, and of most frequent occurrence, was regularly omitted,* except at the end of a word, where long a was represented by א, and sometimes by א.† These two letters stood also for long e and o final.

* For the sound of these vowels, see note on § 8.—Tr.

[The four letters mentioned (forming the mnemonic םאיוו eh'vi) are commonly called quiescent or feeble letters.]

Even those two vowel letters (ו and י) were used but sparingly, being employed only when the sounds which they represent were long, and not always then (§ 8, 4).‡ Everything else relating to the tone and quantity of the vowel sounds, whether a consonant should be pronounced with or without a vowel, and even whether ו and י were to be regarded as vowels or consonants, the reader was to decide for himself.

Thus, for example, קטל might be read qātal, qātāl, qātōl, qētōl, qótāl, qittāl, qattāl, quttāl; דבר, dābhār (a word), dābhēr (pestilence), dibber (he has spoken), dabbēr (to speak), dōbhēr (speaking), dubbar (it has been spoken); מות might be mārēth (death), or mūth, mōth (to die); בין might be read bīn, bēn, bāyin.

How imperfect and indefinite such a mode of writing was, is easily seen; yet during the whole period in which the Hebrew was a spoken language, no other signs for vowels were employed. Reading was therefore a harder task than it is with our more adequate modes of writing, and much had to be supplied by the reader's knowledge of the living mother tongue.

3. But when the Hebrew ceased to be a spoken language, and the danger of losing the correct pronunciation, as well as the perplexity arising from this indefinite mode of writing, continually increased, the vowel signs or points were invented, which minutely determined what had previously been left uncertain. Of the date of this invention we have no historical account; but a comparison of

* So in Sanscrit, the ancient Persian cuneiform writing, and Ethiopic, short a alone of all the vowels is not indicated by any sign, but the simple consonant is pronounced with this vowel.

† The close connexion between the aspirates ה, א, and the A sound, ו and the U sound, י and the I sound, admits of easy physiological explanation, if we attend to the formation of these sounds by the organs of speech. The vowel A is formed by opening the mouth without changing the position of the organs; so also ה and א. U is sounded in the fore part of the mouth, with the lips a little projecting and rounded; so also ו [our u]. And I is formed at the fore part of the palate; so also י [our y]. E sounds at the back of the palate, between i and a; O in the under part of the mouth, between u and a.

‡ The Phœnicians did not indicate even the long vowels, except in very rare cases, and their oldest monuments have scarcely any vowel signs. (See Mon. Phœnicia, pp. 57, 58; and ante, § 2, 2.)

historical facts warrants the conclusion, that the present vowel system was not completed till the seventh century of the Christian era. It was the work of Jewish scholars, well skilled in the language, who, it is highly probable, copied the example of the Syrian and perhaps also of the Arabian grammarians.

See Gesch. d. hebr. Spr. S. 182 ff. and Hupfeld in den theolog. Studien und Kritiken, 1830, No. 3, where it is shown that the Talmud and Jerome make no mention of vowel points.

4. This vowel system has, probably, for its basis the pronunciation of the Jews of Palestine; and its consistency, as well as the analogy of the kindred languages, furnishes strong proof of its correctness, at least as a whole. We may, however, assume, that it exhibits not so much the pronunciation of common life as the graver style in reading the sacred books, which was sanctioned by tradition. Its authors have laboured to represent by signs the minute gradations of the vowel sounds, carefully marking even half vowels and helping sounds (§ 10), spontaneously adopted in all languages, yet seldom expressed in writing. To the same labours we owe the different marks by which the sound of the consonants themselves is modified (§§ 11—14), and the accents (§§ 15, 16).

The Arabs have a much more simple vowel system. They have only three vowel signs, according to the three primary vowel sounds. The Syriac punctuation is likewise based upon a less complicated system. It is possible that the Hebrew also had at an earlier period a more simple vowel system, but no actual traces of it are found.

SECT. 8.

THE VOWEL SIGNS.*

1. Of full vowels, besides which there are also certain half vowels (§ 10, 1, 2), grammarians have generally reckoned ten, and divided them into five long and five short. As this division is simple and convenient for the learner, it is here presented †:—

Long Vowels.	Short Vowels.
ֶֿ Qā mēts, ā, יָֿ yām.	ֶֿ Pǎ thǎch, ā, בַּֿ bǎth.
ֶֿ Tsē rē, ē, שֶֿׁ shēm.	ֶֿ Sēghōl, ē, בֶּֿ bēn.
ִֿ Chǎ rēq long, ī, בִּיןִֿ bīn.	ִֿ Chǎ rēq short, ī, מִיןִֿ mīn.
ֹֿ or ֻֿ Chō lēm, ō, קוֹלֹֿ qōl, סוֹבֵֿ sōbh.	ֹֿ Qā mēts-chātūph, ō, חֹקֶֿ chōq.
ִֿ Shū rēq, ū, מוֹתִֿ mūth.	ִֿ Qīb būts, ū, שְׁלֵחָֿ shūlchān.

* The vowels, as represented in this translation, are supposed to be sounded as follows:—ā or á like a in father; ä like a in fat; ü like a in fate; ē or é like e in there; ě like e in err; ī like i in pique; ĩ like i in pick; ō or ó like o in no; ǒ like o in not; ū like u in rule; ũ like u in full.—TR.

† It is not given in the six latest editions of the original.—TR.

A more philosophic and useful exhibition of the vowels, according to the three primary vowel sounds (§ 7, 1, 2), is the following:—

First Class. For the A sound.

- 1)  $\bar{\text{א}}$  Qā'mēts,  $\bar{\text{א}}$ ,  $\hat{\text{א}}$ ,  $\text{יָ}$  yādlh (hand),  $\text{קָם}$  qām (he arose\*).

|   |   | 4) ( $\bar{\text{א}}$ ) Qā'mēts-chātāph , $\bar{\text{א}}$ , $\text{חֹק}$ chōq (statute).                                                                                                                         |
- 5) also  $\bar{\text{א}}$ , obtuse  $\bar{\text{א}}$ , so far as it springs from u or o, as in  $\text{אַתָּם}$  ātthēm (ye),  $\text{אֵת}$  ēth (from אוֹת).

The names of the vowels are nearly all taken from the form and action of the mouth in uttering the sounds. Thus,  $\text{פֶּתַח}$  signifies opening,  $\text{צִרְיָ}$  (also  $\text{צִרְיָ}$ ) bursting (of the mouth),  $\text{גִּנְיָ}$  gnashing,  $\text{חֹלֶם}$  fulness, from its full tone (also  $\text{פֹּמָה}$  full mouth),  $\text{טִבְיָ}$  properly σπιρισμός,  $\text{בִּינְיָ}$  closing (of the mouth). This last meaning belongs also to  $\text{קִינְיָ}$ ; and the reason, why long a and short o ( $\text{קִינְיָ}$  Qamets correptum) have the same sign and name, seems to be that the inventors of the vowel signs pronounced the long a rather obscurely, and somewhat like o, as it then passed over to a perfect o with the present German and Polish Jews. (Comp. the Syriac ā with the Maronite = ó, the Swedish å, and the already early change of ā into ó even in the Hebrew, § 9, 10, 2) †. The distinction between them is shown in § 9. But Seghol ( $\text{קְנוֹל}$  cluster of grapes) appears to be named after its form; so too some call Qibbut's  $\text{שְׁלֹשׁ נְקֻדּוֹת}$  three points.

† The Jewish grammarians call Seghol also "small Pathach."

‡ It has been conjectured that the signs for these vowels were originally different (as  $\bar{\text{א}}$ ,  $\bar{\text{א}}$ ) and became identical only through carelessness in writing; but such a difference cannot be proved, for these two marks are quite identical, the former ( $\bar{\text{א}}$ ) being only the original, and the second ( $\bar{\text{א}}$ ) the modified form.

The names were, moreover, so formed that the sound of each vowel was heard in the first syllable; and in conformity to this, some write Sūghol, Qomets-chatuph, Qūbbuts.

2. As appears from the examples given above, the vowel sign is regularly put under the consonant after which it is to be pronounced, ר̣ rā, ר̣ rā, ר̣ rē, ר̣ ru, etc. There is an exception to this rule in Pathach, when it stands under a guttural at the end of a word (Pathach furtive, see § 22, 2, b), for it is then spoken before the consonant, as ר̣ר̣ ru<sup>a</sup>ch (wind, spirit). We must also except Cholem (without Vav), which is put to the left over the letter, ר̣ rō.*

When Cholem (without Vav) and the diacritic point over ו (ו̣, ו̣) come together, one dot serves for both, as ס̣ו̣ sō-nē for ס̣ו̣, מ̣שׂה not מ̣שׂה mo-she. ו̣ (with two points), when no vowel stands under it, is shō, as מ̣שׂה shō-mēr; when no vowel goes before it, ōs, as י̣ר̣ yir-pōs.

The figure ו̣ is sometimes sounded ov, the ו̣ being a consonant with Cholem before it, as ל̣ו̣ lō-vē (lending); and sometimes vō, the Cholem being read after the Vav, as ו̣ ā-vōn (sin) for ו̣ו̣. In very exact impressions a distinction is made thus: ו̣ ov, ו̣ vo, and ו̣ ō.

3. The vowels of the first class [for the A sound] are, with the exception of ו̣ in the middle, and of ר̣, ס̣ at the end of a word, indicated only by vowel signs (§ 7, 2); but in the two other classes [for the I and E sound and for the U and O sound] the long vowels are mostly expressed by vowel letters, the sound of which is determined by the signs standing before or within them. Thus,— ו̣ may be determined by Chireq (ו̣), Tsere (ו̣), Seghol (ו̣).

ו̣ by Shureq (ו̣) and Cholem (ו̣).†

In Arabic the long a is regularly indicated by the vowel letter Aleph (ס̣) written in the text, so that in it three vowel letters answer to the three vowel classes. In Hebrew the relation is somewhat different (§ 9, 1, and § 23, 4, Rem. 1).

4. When, in the second and third classes, the long vowel is expressed without a

* Only very recently we have been made acquainted with a vowel system in many respects different from the common one. It is found at Odessa, in some MSS. coming from Persian Jews. All the vowels besides ו̣ are placed above the consonants, and deviate almost throughout in figure, and partly also in respect to the sound. Thus, for instance, Pathach and Seghol, when they have the tone, are expressed by the same sign; but the short vowels without the tone are marked variously, according as they stand in a sharpened syllable, by Daghesh forte (§ 12) or not. The accents deviate less, and stand partly under the line of the consonants. Comp. Pinner's Prospectus of the Ancient Heb. and Rabbin. MSS., belonging to the Odessa Society for History and Antiquities, Od. 1845, 4to.; and a sketch of this Persian Jewish vowel system, by Rōdiger, in the Halle Allgem. Lit. Zeit. 1848, Aug., No. 169.

† The vowel sign, which serves to determine the sound of the vowel letter, is said to be homogeneous with that letter. Many, after the example of the Jewish grammarians, use here the expression, "The vowel letter rests (quiescēs) in the vowel sign." Hence the letters ו̣ and ו̣ (with ס̣ and ר̣, see § 23) are called literæ quiescibiles; when they serve as vowels, quiescentes, when they are consonants, mobiles. But the expression is not suitable; we should rather say, "The vowel letter is sounded as this or that vowel, or stands in place of the vowel." The vowel letters are also called by grammarians, matres lectionis [since they partly serve as guides in reading the unpointed text].

vowel letter, it is called scriptio defectiva, when with a vowel letter, scriptio plena. Thus קול and קום are written fully, קֹל and קֹם defectively.

The choice of the full or the defective mode of writing is not always arbitrary, as there are certain cases in which only the one or the other is admissible. Thus, the full form is necessary at the end of a word, e. g. קטלו, קטלתו, ירו, מלכי; but the defective is most usual when the vowel is preceded by the analogous vowel letter as consonant, e. g. גויים for גויים.

But in other cases, much depended on the option of the transcribers, so that the same word is written in various ways, e. g. הקימותי Ezek. xvi. 60, הקמתו Jer. xxiii. 4, where other editions have הקמותו (comp. § 25, 1). It may be observed, however,

a) That the defective writing is used chiefly, though not constantly, when the word has increased at the end, and the vowel of the penultima has lost somewhat of its stress in consequence of the accent or tone of the word being moved forward [see § 29, 2], as צדקים, צדקים, קול, קלות; זבול, זבול;

b) That in the later books of the Old Testament the full form, in the earlier the defective, is more usual.*

5. In the kindred dialects, when a vowel letter has before it a vowel sign that is not kindred or homogeneous, a diphthong is formed, e. g. וֹ au, וֹ eu, אֵ ai, אֵ ai. But in Hebrew, according to the pronunciation handed down by the Jews, ו and א retain here their consonant sound, so that we get av, ev, ay, † e. g. וֹ vāv (nail), וֹ gāv (back), חֵ chāv (living), גֵ gāv (nation). In sound וֹ is the same with וֹ, namely, av, as דְּבָרָיו d'bhārāv (his words).

The LXX. give generally, in these cases, an actual diphthong, as in the Arabic, and this must be considered as an earlier mode of pronunciation; the modern Jewish pronunciation is, on the other hand, similar to the modern Greek, in which av, ev sound like av, ev. In the manuscripts Yodh and Vav are, in this case, even marked with Mappiq (§ 14, 1). The Italian Jews sound these syllables more like diphthongs, e. g. chài, gèu, and so also bàit (בַּיִת).

CHARACTER AND VALUE OF THE SEVERAL VOWELS.

Numerous as these signs appear, they are yet insufficient for completely representing the various modifications of the vowel sounds in respect to length and shortness, sharpness and extension. It may be observed further, that the indication of the sound by these signs cannot be called always perfectly appropriate. We therefore give here, for the better understanding of this matter, a short commentary

* The same historical relation may be shown in the Phœnician, and in the Arabic where ay is used as a vowel letter,—in the latter especially, by means of the older Koran MSS. and the writing on coins.

† The y in this case should be sounded as much as possible like y in yet, not as in may.—Tr.

on the character and value of the several vowels, especially in respect to length and shortness; but at the same time their changeableness (§§ 25, 27) will be noticed in passing.

I. First Class. A sound.

1. Qamets, though everywhere long a, is yet in its nature of two kinds:

1) The essentially long and unchangeable â (§ 25), for which the Arabic has  $\aleph$   $\text{---}$ , as  $\text{קָטַב}$  k'thâbh (writing),  $\text{גָּנַב}$  gammâbh (thief),  $\text{קָם}$  qâm (he arose), written at times  $\text{קָאם}$ . 2) The prolonged â of prosody (see § 26, 3), both in the tone-syllable and close before or after it. This sound invariably proceeds from the original short a,\* and is found in an open syllable (i. e. one ending with a vowel, see § 26, 3), e. g.  $\text{לֶךְ}$ ,  $\text{קָטַל}$ ,  $\text{גָּדוֹל}$ ,  $\text{יָקוּם}$ , and also in a closed syllable (i. e. one ending with a consonant,) as  $\text{יָר}$ ,  $\text{עוֹלָם}$ . In the closed syllable, however, it can stand only when this has the tone, †  $\text{דְּבַר}$ ,  $\text{עוֹלָם}$ , but in the open, it is especially frequent before the tone-syllable, as  $\text{דְּבַר}$ ,  $\text{זֶקֶן}$ ,  $\text{גָּדוֹל}$ ,  $\text{קָטַלְנִי}$ ,  $\text{לָכֶם}$ . When the tone is either moved forward or lessened, this vowel becomes, in the former case, short a (Pathach), and in the latter, vocal Sheva (§ 27, 3),  $\text{דְּבַר}$ ,  $\text{דְּבַר}$  (d'bhâr);  $\text{הָכֶם}$ ,  $\text{הָכֶם}$  (ch'khâm);  $\text{קָטַל}$ ,  $\text{קָטַל}$ .

Under the final letter of a word, Qamets may stand alone ( $\text{קָטַלְתָּ}$ ,  $\text{לֶךְ}$ ), but in this position it is also indicated by  $\text{ה}$  ( $\text{קָטַלְתָּה}$ ,  $\text{אָתָּה}$ ,  $\text{אֲשֶׁה}$ ).

2. Pathach, or the shorter a, stands properly only in a closed syllable with and without the tone ( $\text{קָטַלְתָּם}$ ,  $\text{קָטַלְתָּ}$ ). Most of the cases where it now stands in an open syllable ( $\text{נָעַר}$ ,  $\text{בֵּית}$ ), had the syllable originally closed ( $\text{נַעַר}$ ,  $\text{בֵּית}$ , see § 28, 4). Otherwise such an a in an open syllable is changed into â ( $\text{---}$ ), comp. above, Nos. 1, 2.

On the rare union of Pathach with  $\aleph$  ( $\aleph\text{---}$ ), see § 23, 2: on a as a helping sound (Pathach furtive), see § 22, 2, b. and § 28, 4.

3. Seghol (ä, ë) belongs chiefly to the second class of vowels, but now and then, according to its origin, to the first or the third class. It belongs to the first, when it is a modification of a (like German Gast, Gäste [comp. Celtic bardh, pl. beirdh]), e. g.  $\text{אָרְיָן}$  from  $\text{אָרְיָן}$ . Although an obtuse sound, it can stand in the tone-syllable, as in the first syllable of  $\text{קָרְיָן}$  qâren, and even in the gravest tone-syllable at the end of a clause or sentence (in pause, § 29, 4).

II. Second Class. I and E. sound.

4. The long î is most commonly expressed by the letter ' (a fully written Chireq '  $\text{---}$ ); but even when this is not the case, it makes no essential difference, provided the vowel is long by nature (§ 8, 4), e. g.  $\text{צָרִיק}$  pl.  $\text{צָרִיקִים}$ ;  $\text{יָרֵא}$  pl.  $\text{יָרֵאוּ}$ .

† When the tone is marked in this book, the sign  $\text{---}$  is put over the first letter of the syllable, see § 15, 1, 3.—TR.

Whether a defectively written Chireq is long, may be best known from the grammatical origin and character of the form, but often also from the character of the syllable (§ 26), or from the position of Methegh (§ 16, 2) at its side, as in יִרְאוּ.

5. The short Chireq (always written without ' ) is especially frequent in sharpened syllables (קָטָל, אָמִי)*, and in closed unaccented syllables (לְקָטָל). It originates, not unusually, in a by shortening, as in בְּתִי (my daughter) from בֵּת, דְּבָרִי from דְּבַר, יִקְטֹל out of יָקָטָל. Sometimes also it is a mere helping vowel, as in בֵּית for בִּית ( § 28, 4).

The Jewish and the older grammarians denominate every fully written Chireq, Chireq magnum, and every defectively written one, Chireq parvum. In respect to the sound, this is a wrong distinction.

6. The longest ê, Tsere, with Yodh (ױֿ), is a contracted sound of the diphthong ai ױֿ ( § 7, 1), which, in the Arabic and Syriac, is employed instead of the former, as הַיְכָל (palace), in Arab. and Syr. haikal. It is therefore a very long and an unchangeable vowel, longer even than ױֿ, since it approaches the quantity of a diphthong. This ױֿ is but seldom written defectively (עֵינִי for עֵינִי Is. iii. 8), and then it retains the same value.

At the end of a word ױֿ and ױֿ must be written fully: most rare is the form קָטָלָה ( § 44, Rem. 4).

7. The Tsere without Yodh is the long ē of a secondary order, and stands only in and close by the tone-syllable, like the Qamets above in No. 1, 2. Like that, it stands in either an open or a closed syllable; the former in the tone-syllable or before it (סֵפֶר book, שֵׁנָה sleep), the latter only in the tone-syllable (בֶּן son, אֵלֶם dumb).

8. The Seghol, so far as it belongs to the second class, is most generally a short obtuse e sound obtained by shortening the (ֵֿ), as תֵּן from תֵּן (give). It arises also out of the shortest e (vocal Sh'va, § 10, 1), when this is made prominent by the tone (in pause, § 29, 4, b), as וְיָהִי for וְיָהִי, לָהִי for לָהִי; and it appears besides as a helping sound, סֵפֶר for סֵפֶר, יָגֵל for יָגֵל ( § 28, 4). The Seghol with Yodh (ױֿֿ) is a long but yet obtuse ä (è of the French) formed out of ai, גְּלִינָה gl'èna, and hence belongs rather to the first class (§ 8, 1, c).

See more on the rise of Seghol out of other vowels in § 27, Rem. 1, 2, 4.

* For this sharp i the LXX. mostly use ε, Ἐπινοῦσα Ἐπινοῦσα.

III. Third Class. U and O sound.

9. In the third class we find quite the same relation as in the second. In the u sound we have: 1) the long  $\bar{u}$ , whether a) fully written ו Shureq (answering to the ו־ of the second class), e. g. וְבַיִל (dwelling), or b) defectively written without Vav ו־ (analogous to the long ו־ of the second class), Qibbuts; viz., that which stands for Shureq, and might more properly be called defective Shureq (וְבַיִל, וְבַיִל), being in fact a long vowel like Shureq, and only an orthographic shortening for the same.

2) The short  $\bar{u}$ , the proper Qibbuts (analogous to the short Chireq), in an unaccented closed syllable, and especially in a sharpened one, as שְׁלֵחַן (table), קַבְדָּה (bedchamber).

For the latter the LXX. put o, e. g. עֲדָלָם, Ὀδολλάμ; but it by no means follows that this is the true pronunciation, though they also express Chireq by ε. Equally incorrect was the former custom of giving to both sorts of Qibbuts the sound  $\bar{u}$ .

Sometimes also the short u in a sharpened syllable is expressed by ו, e. g. יֵלֶךְ = יְלֶךְ (see § 27, Rem. 1).

10. The O sound stands in the same relation to U, as E to I in the second class. It has four gradations: 1) the longest  $\hat{o}$ , obtained from the diphthong au (§ 7, 1), and mostly written in full ו (Cholem plenum), as שׁוֹט (whip), Arabic saut, עוֹלָה (evil) from עוֹלָה; sometimes it is written defectively, as שֶׁרֶךְ (thy bullock), from שׁוֹר;

2) The long  $\hat{o}$ , which has sprung from an original  $\hat{a}$  [comp. Germ. alt = Eng. old], usually written fully in a tone-syllable and defectively in a toneless one, as קָטַל Arab. and Chald. qâtel אֵלֹהֵי Arab. and Chald. êlâh, plur. עוֹלָם Arab. and Chald. âlam.

3) The tone-long  $\bar{o}$ , which is lengthened from an original short o or u by the tone, and which becomes short again on its removal, as כָּל (all), כֹּל־ (kôl), כְּלָם (küllâm), יִקְטַל, יִקְטְלוּ, יִקְטְלוּ (in this last instance it is shortened to vocal Sh<sup>e</sup>va, yiq'tlu). In this case the Cholem is fully written only by way of exception.

4) The Qamets-chatuph (ו־), always short and in the same relation to Cholem as the Seghol of the second class to the Tsere, כֹּל־ kôl, וַיָּקָם vây-yâ-qôm. On the distinction between this and Qamets, see post, in this section.

11. The Seghol belongs here also, so far as it arises out of u or o (No. 3), e. g. in אָתָם, קָטְלָתָם. (See § 27, Rem. 4, b.)

On the half vowels, see the next section.

12. In the following table we give a scale of the vowel sounds in each of the three classes, with respect to their quantity, from the greatest length to the utmost shortness. The table does not indeed suffice to exhibit all vowel transitions which occur in the language, but yet it furnishes a view of those in more frequent use:—

		Greatest shortening to ◌̄ <sup>o</sup> or ◌̄ <sup>e</sup> in an open syllable, besides the short ◌̄ or ◌̄ ô in the closed.

ON THE DISTINCTION OF QAMETS AND QAMETS-CHATUPH.*

As an instance of incongruity in the vowel system, we may notice the fact, that the long ā (Qamets) and the short õ (Qamets-chatuph) are both represented by the sign (◌̄), e. g.  $\aleph$ ◌̄ qām,  $\aleph$ ◌̄ kōl.† The beginner who has as yet no knowledge of that surest of guides, viz., the grammatical derivation of the words he has to read, may, in order to distinguish between these two vowels, attend to the following two rules:—

1. The sign (◌̄) is õ in a closed syllable which has not the tone [or accent]: for such a syllable cannot have a long vowel (§ 26, 5). The examples are various:

- a) When a simple Sheva follows, dividing syllables, as in  $\aleph$ ◌̄ chōkh-má (wisdom),  $\aleph$ ◌̄ zōkh-ra; with a Methegh, on the contrary, the (◌̄) is ā, and closes the syllable, and then the following Sheva is a half vowel (voeal Sheva) as  $\aleph$ ◌̄ zā-kh'era, according to § 16, 2.
- b) When Daghesh forte follows, as  $\aleph$ ◌̄ bōttim (houses),  $\aleph$ ◌̄ chōn-ú-ni (pity me); also  $\aleph$ ◌̄ bōttikkém (notwithstanding the Methegh, which stands by the vowel in the ante-penultima).
- c) When Maqqeph follows (§ 16, 1), as  $\aleph$ ◌̄ kōl-haadhám (all men).
- d) When the unaccented closed syllable is final, as  $\aleph$ ◌̄ rayyáqōm (and he stood up).—There are some cases where á in the final syllable loses its tone by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1) and yet remains unchanged, e. g.  $\aleph$ ◌̄ Esth. iv. 8;  $\aleph$ ◌̄ Gen. iv. 25. Methegh usually stands in these cases, but not always.

In cases like  $\aleph$ ◌̄ lámma, where the (◌̄) of the closed syllable has the tone, it is ā, according to § 26, 6.

* This portion must, in order to be fully understood, be studied in connexion with what is said on the syllables in § 26, and on Methegh in § 16, 2. [In the original it is all printed in small type, but its importance justifies the change we have made].

† For the cause of this, see p. 21.

2. The sign (◌) as short ō in an open syllable is far less frequent, and belongs to the exceptions in § 26, 3. It occurs: a) when Chateph-Qamets follows, as פָּעֵלָו* pō°-lō (his deed); b) when another Qamets-chatuph follows, as פָּעֵלְךָ pō-ōl'kha † (thy deed); c) in two anomalous words, where it stands merely for (◌), which are found so even in manuscripts, viz., קִדְשִׁים qō-dhashim (sanctuaries) and שְׂרָשִׁים shō-rashim (roots), see § 93, 6, Rem. 3.

In these cases (◌) is followed by Methegh, although it is ō, since Methegh always stands in an open second syllable before the tone. The exceptions that occur can be determined only by the grammatical derivation, as בַּנִּי in the ship (read: ba'ni) 1 Kings ix. 27, with the article included; on the contrary אִפְרַיִם bōch'eri aph (in anger's glow) Ex. xi. 8, without the article.

SECT. 10.

THE HALF VOWELS AND THE SYLLABLE-DIVIDER (SH<sup>VA</sup>).

1. Besides the full vowels, chiefly treated in § 9, the Hebrew has also a series of very slight vowel sounds, which may be called half vowels.‡ They are to be regarded in general as extreme shortenings, perhaps mere traces, of fuller and more distinct vowel sounds in an earlier period of the language.

To them belongs, first, the sign ◌, which indicates the shortest, slightest, and most indistinct half vowel, something like an obscure half ě. It is called Sh<sup>va</sup>,§ and also simple Sh<sup>va</sup>, to distinguish it from the composite (see post, No. 2), and vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> (Sh<sup>va</sup> mobile), to distinguish it from the silent (Sh<sup>va</sup> quiescens), which is merely a divider of syllables (see post, No. 3). This last can occur only under a consonant closing the syllable, and is thus distinguished from the vocal Sh<sup>va</sup>, whose place is under a consonant beginning the syllable, whether a) at the beginning of the word, as קָטֹל q<sup>t</sup>ōl, מַמְלֵא m<sup>m</sup>allē, or b) in the middle of the word, as קוֹטְלָה qō-t<sup>t</sup>lā, יִקְטְלוּ yiq-t<sup>t</sup>lū, קִטְלוּ qit-t<sup>t</sup>lū. So also in cases like הִלְלוּ ha-l<sup>l</sup>ū (which stands for הַלְלוּ hal-t<sup>l</sup>ū), further לְמַנְצַח la-m<sup>n</sup>ats-ts<sup>ē</sup>ch (for לִמְ), further הַמְשֵׁל ha-m<sup>ē</sup>shōl Judges ix. 2 (where the interrogative ה makes a syllable by itself), מַלְכֵי ma-l<sup>ē</sup>khē. In the last examples the Sh<sup>va</sup> sound is specially slight, in consequence of the very short syllable preceding.

* That פָּ ought here to be considered and divided as an open syllable פָּעֵלָו appears from § 26, Remark.
† This case is connected with the foregoing, so far as the second Qamets-chatuph is sprung from Chateph-Qamets.

‡ In the table § 9, 12, the half vowels have already been exhibited for the sake of a more complete view. We express them by letters of a small type.

§ The name שְׂוָה is written also שְׂוָה, and its derivation and proper meaning are obscure.

The sound ē may be regarded as representing vocal Sh<sup>va</sup>, although it is certain that it often accorded in sound with other vowels. The LXX. express it by ε, even η, קְרוֹבִים Xerovbím, הַלְלֵנוּ állhghlouía, oftener by α, שָׁמוֹנִיָּל Samoníyl, but very often they give it a sound to accord with the following vowel, as סֹדוֹם Sódóm, שֹׁלֹמוֹן Solomón (besides also Salomón), שַׁבָּאֹת Sabáót, נַחֲשֹׁן Nachón.* A similar account of the pronunciation of Sh<sup>va</sup> is given also by the Jewish grammarians of the middle ages.†

How the Sh<sup>va</sup> sound springs from the slight or hasty utterance of a stronger vowel, we may see in בְּרַכָּה (for which also בְּרָכָה occurs, see No. 2, Rem.) from barakha, as this word also sounds in Arabic. This language has still regularly for vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> an ordinary short vowel.

The vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> is too weak to stand in a closed syllable; but yet it can with the consonant before it form a hasty open syllable, as appears from the use of Methegh (see § 16, 2), and also from the fact that it can become an accented ◌̄, as לִּהְיֶה from לְהִי (§ 26, 4).

2. With the simple vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> is connected the so-called composite Sh<sup>va</sup> or Chateph (rapid), i. e. a Sh<sup>va</sup> attended by a short vowel to indicate that we should sound it as a half ǎ, ě, or ǝ. We have, answering to the three principal vowel sounds (§ 7, 1), the following three:

(=) Chateph-Seghol, as in מֹר môr (to say).

The Chatephs, at least the two former, stand chiefly under the four gutturals (§ 22, 3), the utterance of which naturally causes the annexed half vowel to be more distinctly sounded.

Rem. Only (-) and (=) occur under letters which are not gutturals.

The Chateph-Pathach is thus found instead of simple vocal Sh<sup>va</sup>, but without any fixed law, especially a) under a doubled letter, since the doubling causes a more distinct utterance of the vocal Sh<sup>va</sup>, sometimes also where the sign of doubling has fallen away. עֵץ for עֵצֵץ Gen. ix. 14, וְתַאֲלָהוּ Judges xvi. 16; b) after a long vowel, e. g. יָהֳבֵה (gold of), but יָהֳבֵה Gen. ii. 12; שִׁמְעֵה (hear), but שִׁמְעֵה Deut. v. 24, comp. Gen. xxvii. 26, 38.

The Chateph-Qamets is less connected with the gutturals than the first two, and stands frequently for simple vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> when an O sound was originally in the syllable, and requires to be partly preserved, e. g. רִאִי for רִאִי vision (§ 93, VI. Rem. 6), רִדְדָה for the usual רִדְדָה Isa. xxxv. 6, from רִדְדָה; רִדְדָה his pate, from רִדְדָה. It is used, also, like (-) when Daghesh forte has fallen away, רִדְדָה for רִדְדָה Gen. ii. 23. In רִדְדָה 1 Kings xiii. 7, and רִדְדָה Jer. xxii. 20, the choice of this composite Sh<sup>va</sup> is dependent on the following guttural and the preceding U sound.

3. The sign of the simple Sh<sup>va</sup> (◌̄) serves also as a mere syllable-divider, without expressing any sound, and therefore called in this case silent Sh<sup>va</sup> (Sh<sup>va</sup>

* This is not unusual in the Phœnician language, e. g. מַלְכָּה Malacca, גַּבּוּלִים gubulim (see Gesen. Mon. Phœnicia, p. 436, Mover's article, Phönizien, in the Encyclop., etc., p. 436). Comp. the Latin augment, in momordi, purpugi, with the Greek in τέτυφα, τετυμμένος, and the old form memordi.

† See especially Juda Chayúg, p. 4 and p. 200 of the edition by Dukes, also in Ibn. Ezra's Tsachoth, p. 3, Gesenius's Lehrgebäude der heb. Sprache, S. 68.

‡ As in רִבְבֵי (branches), Zech. iv. 12.

quiescens), answering to the Arabic Sukûn. It stands in the midst of a word under every consonant that closes a syllable; at the end of words, on the other hand, it is omitted, except in final ך, e. g. מֶלֶךְ (king), and in the less frequent case where a word ends with two consonants, as in נָרֶדֶךְ (nard), אַתָּה (thou, fem.), קָטַלְתָּ (thou hast killed), וַיִּשָּׁבֵב, וַיִּשָּׁבֵב, אֶל-הַתַּיִתָּה, etc.

Yet in the last examples Sheva under the last letter might rather pass for vocal, since it is pretty clear that a final vowel has been shortened, e. g. אֶסְ אֶלְ from אֶתִי אֶלְ, קָטַלְתָּ from קָטַלְתָּי, יִשְׁבֵּב* from יִשְׁבֵּבָה,* etc. The Arabic actually has a short vowel in the analogous forms. In נָרֶדֶךְ, borrowed from the Indian, this is less clear. קִיְשָׁב (truth) Prov. xxii. 21, seems to require the pronunciation qōshht. For אֶל-תּוֹסֵבֶךָ (ne addas) Prov. xxx. 6, others read אֶל-תּוֹסֵבֶךָ.

SIGNS WHICH AFFECT THE READING OF CONSONANTS.

In intimate connexion with the vowel points stand the reading-signs, which were probably adopted at the same time. Besides the diacritic point of ׀ and ׀ (p. 16), a point is used in a letter, in order to show that it has a stronger sound, or is even doubled; and, on the contrary, a small horizontal stroke over a letter, as a sign that it has not the strong sound. The use of the point in the letter is threefold: a) as Daghesh forte or sign of doubling; b) as Daghesh lene or sign of the hard (not aspirated) sound; c) as Mappiq, a sign that the vowel letter (§ 7, 2), especially the ה at the end of a word, has the sound of a consonant. The stroke over a letter, Raphe, has a contrary effect, and is scarcely ever used in the printed Hebrew copies.

OF DAGHESH IN GENERAL; AND DAGHESH FORTE IN PARTICULAR.

1. Daghesh is a point written in the bosom † of a consonant, and is employed for two purposes; a) to indicate the doubling of the letter (Daghesh forte), e. g. קָטַלְתָּ qit-tāl; b) the hardening of the aspirates, i. e. the removal of the aspiration (Daghesh lene.)

The root דגש, from which דגשׁ is derived, in Syriac signifies to thrust through, to bore through (with a sharp iron). Hence the word Daghesh is commonly supposed to mean, with reference to its figure merely, a prick, a point. But the names of all similar signs are expressive of their grammatical power, and in this case, the name of the sign refers both to its figure and its use. In grammatical language דגש means, 1) acuere literam, to sharpen the letter by doubling it; 2) to harden the letter by taking away its aspiration. Accordingly דגש means sharp and hard, i. e. sign of sharpening or hardening (like Mappiq, דגשׁ proferens, i. e. signum prolationis), and it was expressed in writing by a mere prick of the stilus (punctum). (In a manner somewhat analogous, letters and words are represented, in the criticism of a text, as expunged (ex-puncta) by a point or pointed instrument (obeliscus) affixed to them). The opposite of Daghesh is דגשׁ soft (§ 14, 2). That דגש, in grammatical language, is applied to a hard pronunciation of various kinds appears from § 22, 4, Rem. 1.

* So thought Juda Chayúg among the Jewish grammarians.

† Daghesh in is easily distinguished from Shureq, which never admits a vowel or Sheva under or before the ׀. The Vav with Daghesh (׀) ought to have the point not so high up as the Vav with Shureq (׀). But this difference is often neglected in typography.

2. Its use as Daghesh forte, i. e. for doubling a letter, is of chief importance (compare the Sicilius of the ancient Latins, e. g. Luculus for Lucullus, and in German the stroke over n̄ and n̄). It is wanting in the unpointed text, like the vowel and other signs.

For further particulars respecting its uses and varieties, see § 20.

SECT. 13.

DAGHESH LENE.

1. Daghesh lene, the sign of hardening, belongs only to the aspirates (literæ aspiratæ) דגשׁ (§ 6, 3). It takes away their aspiration, and restores their original slender or pure sounds (literæ tenues), e. g. מלך mālēkh, but מלכו malkō; תפר tāphar, but יתפר yith-pōr; שטה shāthā, but ישטה yish-tē.

2. Daghesh lene, as is shown in § 21, stands only at the beginning of words and syllables. It is thus easily distinguished from Daghesh forte, since in these cases the doubling of a letter is impossible. Thus the Daghesh is forte in אפי appī, רבי rabbīm, but lene in יגדל yighdal.

3. Daghesh forte in an aspirate not only doubles it, but takes away its aspiration, thus serving at once for both forte and lene, as אפי appī; רבות rak-koth. (Compare in German stechen and stecken, wachen and wecken.)

This is accounted for by the difficulty of doubling an aspirated letter in pronunciation. In confirmation of this rule we may refer to certain Oriental words, which, in the earliest times, passed over into the Greek language, as אפי kάππα (not kάφφα), yet אפי σάπφαιρος.

The doubling of a letter does not occur in Syriac, at least in the Western dialects. Where it would be required, however, according to etymology and analogy, the aspiration at least is removed: thus אפי in Syriac is read apeq, for appēq.

MAPPIQ AND RAPHE.

1. Mappiq, like Daghesh, to which it is analogous, is a point in a letter. It belongs only to the vowel-letters ו, י, and ס, ה (literæ quiescibiles), and shows that they are to be sounded with their full consonant power, instead of serving as vowels. It is at present used only in final ה, for in the body of a word this letter always has a consonant force, e. g. גַּבְהֵּה ga-bhah (the h having its full consonant sound), אֶרְצָהּ ar-tzah (her land), in distinction from אֶרְצָהּ ár-tsā (to the earth), which ends with a vowel.

Without doubt such a ה was uttered with stronger aspiration, like the Arabic He at the end of the syllable, or like h in the German Schuh, which in common life is pronounced Schuch. The use of it in and under ס, ו, י, to mark them as consonants, is confined to manuscripts, e. g. גֹּיִ (góy), קָיִ (qāv).

The name מַפִּיק signifies producens, and indicates that the sound of the letter should be clearly expressed. The same sign was selected for this and for Daghesh, because the design was analogous, viz., to indicate the strong sound of the letter. Hence also Raphe is the opposite of both.

2. Raphe (רַפֵּה i. e. soft) written over the letter, is the opposite of both Daghesh and Mappiq, especially of Daghesh lene. In exact manuscripts an aspirate has generally either Daghesh lene or Raphe, e. g. מַלְכֵּה mälekh, תַּפְּרֵה, שְׁתַּהּ; but in printed editions of the Bible it is used only when the absence of Daghesh or Mappiq is to be expressly noted, e. g. וְתַאֲלָצְרוּ for וְתַאֲלָצְרוּ, Judges xvi. 16, and v. 28, (where Daghesh lene is absent), Mappiq in Job xxxi. 22.

SECT. 15.

THE ACCENTS.

1. The design of the accents in general is, to show the rhythmical members of the verses in the Old Testament text. But as such the use is two-fold, according to which they are chiefly to be noticed in the grammar, viz., a) to show the logical relation of each word to the whole sentence; b) to mark the tone-syllable to each word. In respect to the former, they serve as signs of interpunction; in respect to the latter, as signs of the tone or accent.

By the Jews, moreover, they are regarded as signs of cantillation, intimating the elevation and depression of the tone, and are used as such in the recitation of the Scriptures in the synagogues. The use made of them in this way is also connected with the general rhythmical design.

2. As a sign for marking the tone of a single word, the accent, whatever its rhythmical value may be besides, stands regularly (comp. Rem. 2) with the syllable which has the chief tone in the word. In most words the tone is on the last syllable, less frequently on the penultima. In the first case, the word is called by the grammarians mīl-rā (מִלְרַע Chald., from below), e. g. קָטֹל qatūl; in the second, mīl-ēl (מִלְעֵיל Chald., from above), e. g. מַלְלֵךְ mā'lekh. On the third syllable from the end (antepenultima) the chief tone never stands; but we often find there a secondary one or by-tone, which is indicated by the Methegh (§ 16, 2).

3. The use of the accents as signs of interpunction is somewhat complicated, since they serve not merely to separate the members of a sentence, like our period, colon, and comma, but also as marks of connexion. Hence they form two classes, Distinctives (Domini) and Conjunctives (Servi). Some are, moreover, peculiar to the poetical books* (Job, Psalms, and Proverbs), which have a stricter rhythm.

The following is a list of them according to their value as signs of interpunction:

A. Distinctives (Domini).

I. Greatest Distinctives (Imperatores), which may be compared with our period and colon. 1. (־) Sillūq (end), only at the end of the verse, and always united with (:) Sōph-pāsūq, which separates each verse, e. g. :יְרֵרָה. 2. (־) Athmāch (respiratio), generally in the middle of the verse, dividing it in two halves; but in the three books, Job, Psalms, and Proverbs, it is lighter than Mēr-kā-Māhpāk (No. 3), and then divides the second half of the verse. 3. (־) Mēr-kā with Māhpāk*, in Job, Psalms, and Proverbs, mostly principal dividers in the middle of a verse.

II. Great Distinctives (Reges): 4. (־) Sēghōl-tā ††: 5. (־) Zāqēph-qātōn: 6. (־) Zāqēph-gādhōl: 7. (־) Tīphchā.

III. Smaller (Duces): 8. (־) Rēbhūa: 9. (־) Zār-qā ††: 10. (־) Pāshta ††: 11. (־) Yēthūbh †: 12. (־) Tēbhūr: 13. (־) Shālshēlēth*: 14. (־) Tīphchā initiale †.

IV. Smallest (Comites): 15. (־) Pāzēr: 16. (־) Qār-nē-phārā: 17. (־) Great Tēlishā †: 18. (־) Gū'rēsh: 19. (־) Double Gū'rēsh: 20. ( ) Pēsīq, between the words.

B. Conjunctives (Servi).

21. (־) Mēr-kā: 22. (־) Mūnāch: 23. (־) Double Mēr-kā: 24. (־) Māhpāk:

* These accents are marked in the following list with an asterisk. On the mark † and †† see below, Rem. 2.

25. (◌) Qāḏhmā: 26. (◌) Dāryā: 27. (◌) Yū'rāch: 28. (◌) Little Tēlishā ††:
 29. (◌) Tīphchā final*: 30. (◌) Mērkā with Zārqā*: 31. (◌) Māhpākḥ with

REMARKS ON THE ACCENTS.

I. As Signs of the Tone.

1. As in Greek (comp. εἰμί and εἶμι), so also in Hebrew, words which are written with the same consonants and vowel signs are often distinguished by the accent, e. g. בָּנִי ba-nū (they built), בָּנֵנוּ bānu (in us); הָמָה qāmā (she stood up), הָמָה qamā (standing up, fem.). (Compare in English compact and cómpact.—TR.)

2. As a rule, the accents stand on the tone-syllable, and properly on its initial consonant. Some, however, stand only on the first letter of a word (prepositive), others only on the last letter (postpositive). The former are designated in the table by †, the latter by ††. These do not, therefore, clearly indicate the tone-syllable, which must be known in some other way. Those marked with an asterisk are used only in the poetical books.

3. The place of the accent, when it is not on the final syllable, is indicated in this book by the sign (◌), e. g. הָמָה qa-tál-ta.*

II. As Signs of Interpunction.

4. In respect to this use of the accents, every verse is regarded as a period, which closes with Silluq, † or, in the figurative language of the grammarians, as a realm (ditio), which is governed by the great Distinctive at the end (Imperator). According as the verse is long or short, i. e. as the empire is large or small, so varies the number of Domini of different grades, which form the larger and smaller divisions.

5. Conjunctives (Servi) unite only such words as are closely connected in sense, as a noun with an adjective, or with another noun in the genitive, etc. For the closest connexion of two or several words Maqqeph is used (§ 16, 1).

6. In very short verses few conjunctives are used, and sometimes none; a small distinctive, in the vicinity of a greater, having a connective power (servit domino majori). In very long verses, on the contrary, conjunctives are used for the smaller distinctives (fiunt legati dominorum).

7. The choice of this or that conjunctive depends on very subtle laws of consecution, with which the learner need not trouble himself at present. It is sufficient for him to know the greater distinctives, which answer to our period, colon, and comma, though they often stand where a half comma is scarcely admissible. They are most important in the poetical books for dividing a verse into its members. (See in the Reading Book at the end of this Grammar, and more fully in Nordheimer's Heb. Grammar, §§ 1151—1157.)

MAQQEPH AND METHEGH.

These are both closely connected with the accents.

1. Maqqeph (הַקֶּפֶה binder) is a small horizontal stroke between two words, which

* [In the present edition, although we have used this mark (◌) in the body of the work, we have adopted this (◌) instead, in the tables of the pronouns and conjugations, as the more convenient.]

† This has the same form with Methegh (§ 16, 2); but they are readily distinguished, as Silluq always stands on the last tone-syllable of a verse, while Methegh never stands on the tone-syllable.

thus become so united that, in respect to tone and interpunction, they are regarded as one, and have but one accent. Two, three, and four words may be united in this way, e. g. אָדָם כָּל-אָדָם every man; אֶת-כָּל-יְעֵשֶׁב every herb, Gen. i. 29; אֶת-כָּל-אֲשֶׁר-לוֹ all which to him (was), Gen. xxv. 5.

Certain monosyllabic words, like אֶל to, אֶת- sign of the Acc., כָּל- all, are almost always thus connected. But a longer word may also be joined to a monosyllable, e. g. הִתְהַלְּקֶינָם Gen. vi. 9, וַיְהִי-כֵן Gen. i. 7, 9; or two polysyllables, e. g. שִׁבְעָה-עָשָׂר Gen. vii. 11.

2. Methegh (מֶתֶגַּח a bridle), a small perpendicular line on the left of a vowel, forms a kind of check upon the influence of the accents as marking the tone-syllable, and shows that the vowel, though not accented, should not be hastily passed over in pronunciation. It stands, therefore, regularly by the vowel of the antepenultima when the last syllable has the tone, whether that vowel be long, as הַאָדָם, הַתְּרָאָה, or short, as קֹדְשִׁים qōdhashim, בֹּתְתֵיכֶם bōttekhém. But this rule is to be understood according to the view which regards the half vowels (simple Sh'va vocal and composite Sh'va vocal) as forming a syllable (§ 10, 1, and § 26, 4); accordingly Methegh stands a) by the vowel which precedes a vocal Sh'va (simple or composite), קָטְלָה qā-t-lā, יִירָאוּ yī-r-ā, שִׁחֲדוּ shī-h-dū, הִזְעִרוּ, פָּעִלוּ pō-lō, and b) by even the vocal Sh'va itself קָרְאֵנָא Job v. 1.

When it stands by Sh'va, many Jewish Grammarians call it Ga'ya גַּיָּא, while others use this name in general for every Methegh.

N.B. It is of special service to the beginner, as indicating (according to letter a above) the quantity of Qamets and Chireq before a Sh'va. Thus in זָכְרָה zā-kh-rah the Methegh shows, that the (◌) stands in the antepenultima, and that the Sh'va is here vocal and forms a syllable; but the (◌) in an open syllable before (◌) must be long (§ 26, 3), consequently Qamets, not Qamets-chatuph. On the contrary, זָכְרָה zōkh-rah without Methegh is a dissyllable, and (◌) stands in a closed syllable, and is consequently short (Qamets-chatuph). Thus also יִירָאוּ (they fear) with Methegh is a trisyllable with a long i, yī-r-ā, but יִרְאוּ (they see) without Methegh is a dissyllable with short i, yī-r-ā. (See above, the rule about Qamets and Qamets-chatuph, in § 9 at the end.)

The margin of the Hebrew Bible exhibits a number of various readings of an early date (§ 3, 2), called קָרְי (to be read), because in the view of the Jewish critics they are to be preferred to the reading of the text, called כְּתוּב (written). Those critics have therefore attached the vowel signs, appropriate to the marginal reading, to the consonants of the corresponding word in the text; e. g. in

Jer. xlii. 6, the text exhibits  $\text{קָרִי אֲנַחְנוּ}$ , the margin  $\text{קָרִי אֲנַחְנוּ}$ . Here the vowels in the text belong to the word in the margin, which is to be pronounced  $\text{אֲנַחְנוּ}$ ; but in reading the text  $\text{אֲנַחְנוּ}$ , the proper vowels must be supplied, making  $\text{אֲנַחְנוּ}$ . A small circle or asterisk over the word in the text always directs to the marginal reading.

As to the value of the marginal readings in point of criticism, see Gesenius's Gesch. der Hebr. Sprache, S. 50, 75.

CHAPTER II.

PECULIARITIES AND CHANGES OF LETTERS; OF SYLLABLES AND THE TONE.

SECT. 18.

In order fully and rightly to comprehend the changes which the forms of the various parts of speech undergo, it is necessary first to get acquainted with certain general laws on which those changes depend. These general laws are founded partly on the peculiarities of certain classes of letters, considered individually or as combined in syllables, and partly on certain usages of the language in reference to syllables and the tone.

CHANGES OF CONSONANTS.

The changes occasioned among consonants by the formation of words, inflexion, euphony, or certain influences connected with the progress of the language, are commutation, assimilation, rejection and addition, transposition.

1. Commutation takes place most naturally among letters which are pronounced similarly, and by the aid of the same organs, e. g.  $\text{עָלָה}$ ,  $\text{עָלָם}$ ,  $\text{עָלִין}$  to exult;  $\text{לָאָה}$ ,  $\text{לָהָה}$ ,  $\text{לָהָה}$ ,  $\text{לָהָה}$ ,  $\text{לָהָה}$  to tire;  $\text{יָן}$  and  $\text{יָן}$  (as plural ending);  $\text{נָהָין}$ ,  $\text{נָהָין}$  to press;  $\text{סָגַר}$ ,  $\text{סָגַר}$  to close;  $\text{פָּלַט}$ ,  $\text{פָּלַט}$  to escape. In process of time, and as the language approximated to the Aramaean, hard and rough sounds were exchanged for softer ones, e. g.  $\text{נָאַל}$  for  $\text{נָעַל}$  to reject;  $\text{שָׁחַק}$  for  $\text{שָׁחַק}$  to laugh; for the sibilants were substituted the corresponding flat sounds, as  $\text{ד}$  for  $\text{ד}$ ,  $\text{ט}$  for  $\text{ט}$ ,  $\text{ת}$  for  $\text{ת}$ .

This interchange of consonants affects the original forms of words more than it does their grammatical inflexion; the consideration of it, therefore, belongs rather to the lexicon.* Examples occur, however, in the grammatical inflexion of words; viz., the interchange a) of ת and ט in Hithpaël (§ 54), b) of ו and י in verbs Pe Yodh (§ 69), as יָלַד for וָלַד (he begat).

2. Assimilation usually takes place when one consonant at the close of a syllable passes over into another beginning the next syllable, so as to form with it a double sound, as illustris for inlustris; difusus for disfusus. In Hebrew this occurs—

- a*) most frequently with the feeble nasal נ, especially before the harder consonants, e. g. מִקְרָם for מִנְקָרָם from the east; מִיָּה for מִנְיָה from this; יִתֵּן for יִתְּנֵן he will give; נָתַתָּ for נָתַתְּנָתָּ thou hast given. Before gutturals נ is commonly retained, as יִנְחַל he will possess; seldom before other letters, as שְׁבַנְתָּ thou hast dwelt.
- b*) less frequently, and only in certain cases, with ל, ר, ת, e. g. יִקַּח for יִלְקַח he takes; הִכְוִינֵן for הִתְכּוֹנִינֵן to be established; אֲשֵׁי for אֲשֵׁר who (§ 36).

In all these cases, the assimilation is expressed by a Daghesh forte in the following letter. In a final consonant, however, as it cannot be doubled (§ 20. 3, a), Daghesh is omitted, e. g. אָף nose for אֲנַף or אָנַף; הַת for הֲתַת to give; לַת for לִת to bear. (Comp. τψās for τψavs.)

In these last cases the assimilated letter has not Sh'va, but the helping vowel Seghol (§ 28, 4), which, however, does not render the assimilation impracticable.

In the way of assimilation, we occasionally find a second weaker sound swallowed up by the stronger one before it; e. g. קָטַלְתִּי from קָטַלְתִּיּוּ (§ 59, Rem. 3), מִיָּנִי for מִיָּנִיּוּ from him (§ 103, 2). With this may be classed up יָסַב for יָסַבּ he surrounds (§ 67, 5).

3. The rejection or falling away of a consonant easily happens in the case of the feebly-uttered vowel letters א, ה, ו, י, and also of the liquids. It happens—

- a*) at the beginning of a word (aphoresis), when such a feeble consonant has not a full vowel, and its sound is easily lost upon the ear, as נִהְנֵנוּ and אֲנִיְהֵנוּ (we); אֲשֵׁר for אֲשֵׁר (comp. No. 2, b); יָעַב (sit) for יָעַבּ; יָתֵן (give) for יָתֵנּוּ.
- b*) in the midst of a word (contraction), when such a feeble consonant is preceded by a Sh'va, e. g. לְמַלְךְּ, the prevailing form for לְהַמְלִיךְ (§ 23, 5, and § 35, Rem. 2); יִקְטִיל for יִהְקְטִיל (§ 53, 1).
- c*) at the end of words (apocopè), e. g. יִקְטִילוּ for יִקְטִילוּן; בָּנִים sons, before the genitive בְּנֵי.

Bolder changes were made in the infancy of the language, particularly in casting away consonants at the end of a word; thus, from יָסַב was formed אָף only; from בִּית, בָּ; from הָלַךְ, הָ (see § 99, and § 100, 4). Here belongs also the change of the feminine ending תַּת ath to תָּ ā (see § 44, 1, and § 80, 2).

* See the first article on each letter in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon, translated and edited by Dr. Tregelles. Small Quarto. Bagster and Sons.

4. In other cases a harshness in pronunciation is prevented by the addition of ס (Aleph prostheticum) with its vowel at the beginning of a word, e. g. אָרוּעַ and אָרוּעַ אַרְמ׳ arm (comp. χ<sup>θ</sup>ός, εἰχ<sup>θ</sup>ός, Lat. spiritus = French esprit).

5. Transposition, in grammar, seldom occurs. An example of it is הַשְׁתַּמֵּר for הַתְּשַׁמֵּר (§ 54, 2), because shl is easier to sound than thsh. Cases are more frequent which fall within the province of the lexicon, as כָּבֵשׁ and כָּשֵׁב lamb; שְׂמֹלֶה and שְׂרָבֵה garment; they are, however, chiefly confined to the sibilants and liquids.

Consonants, especially the weaker, may also at the end of a syllable be softened to vowels, like אָס from אִס, chevaux from cheval (comp. § 30, 2, e), e. g. כּוֹכֵב star from כְּכָבֵב, כְּנָבֵב; אִישׁ man from אִישׁ or אִישׁ (where the Seghol is merely a helping vowel, see above, No. 2).*

SECT. 20.

DOUBLING OF CONSONANTS

1. The doubling of a letter by Daghesh forte takes place, and is essential, i. e. necessary to the form of the word (Daghesh essential)—

- a) when the same letter is to be written twice in succession, without an intermediate vowel; thus for נָתַנְנוּ we have נָתַנְנוּ we have given; for שָׁתַּי, שָׁתַּתִּי I have set.
- b) in cases of assimilation (§ 19, 2), as יָתַן for יָתַן. In both these instances it is called Daghesh compensative.
- c) when the doubling of a letter originally single is characteristic of a grammatical form, e. g. לָמַד he has learned, but לָמַד he has taught (Daghesh characteristic).

The double consonant is actually and necessarily written twice, whenever a vowel sound, even the shortest (a vocal Sh'va), comes between. Hence this is done a) when a long vowel precedes, as in הוֹלְלִים (insolent), which is read hó-l'lim (§ 26, Rem.), frequently also after a mere tone-lengthened vowel, as in שְׁמִינִי, which is, however, usually contracted into שְׁמִי; b) when a Daghesh has already been omitted, as הָלְלוּ hál-l'lu for הָלְלוּ hál-l'lu; c) when the two consonants have come to stand together by composition, but properly belong to two words, as בְּרַכְךָ (he blesses thee), יְקַרְאוּנִי (they call me), where ך and י are suffixes; d) when the form has come from another which has a long vowel, as קָלַת construct of קָלְלָה. Sometimes the same word is found in both the full form and the contracted, e. g., יִשְׁרָדָם Jer. v. 6, and יִשְׁרָדָם Prov. xi. 3, Qeri; הִנְנִי Ps. ix. 14, and הִנְנִי Ps. iv. 2.

2. A consonant is sometimes doubled merely for the sake of euphony. The use of Daghesh in such cases (Daghesh euphonic) is only occasional, as being less essential to the forms of words. It is employed—

- a) when two words, of which the first ends in a vowel, are more closely united in

* In the Punic, מַלְךְ malch (king) is in this way contracted to mókh (see Mon. Phœnicia, p. 431).

pronunciation by doubling the initial consonant of the second (Daghesh forte conjunctive), as מַה־זֶּה what is this? for זֶה; קוּמוּ צִאוּ qu-mûts-ts'û, arise! depart! Gen. xix. 14; וְאַכְלֶתָּ שֶׁם Deut. xxvii. 7.*

In some instances words thus united are contracted into one, as מַה־זֶּה for מַה־זֶּה, מִלְכָּם for מִה־לְכֶם, מַה לְכֶם what to you? Is. iii. 15.

Analogous to the usage above mentioned is the Neapolitan le llagrine for le lagrime, and (including the union of the two words in one) the Italian alla for a la, della for de la.

b) when the final consonant of a closed syllable, preceded by a short vowel, is doubled in order to sharpen the syllable still more, e. g. עֲנָבִי for עֲנָבִי grapes, Deut. xxxii. 32. (Compare Gen. xlix. 10; Ex. ii. 3; Is. lvii. 6—lviii. 3; Job xvii. 2; 1 Sam. xxviii. 10; Ps. xlv. 10.) Examples of this, however, are comparatively rare, and without any regard to uniformity.

Compare the following forms as found in very ancient Greek inscriptions, viz., ἀριστος, τελεσται, Ἄσσκληπιος (Böckh. Corpus Inscr. Gr. I. p. 42), and in German anndere, unnsere (for andere, unssere), as written in the time of Luther.

c) when the final tone-syllable of a sentence (§ 29, 4) is to receive more firmness and stress by the doubling, e. g. נְתַנּוּ for נְתַנּוּ they give, Eze. xxvii. 19; וַחֲלַוּ for וַחֲלַוּ they waited, Job xxix. 21, Is. xxxiii. 12.

3. The Hebrews omitted, however, the doubling of a letter by Daghesh forte, in many cases where the analogy of the forms required it; viz.—

a) always at the end of a word, because there the syllable did not admit of sharpening. Thus the syllable all would be pronounced, not as in German with a sharpened tone,† but like the English all, call, small. Instead, therefore, of doubling‡ the consonant, they often lengthened the preceding vowel (§ 27, 2), as עַם (people), with a distinctive accent (§ 15, 3) for עַם from עַמִּים. The exceptions are very rare, as אַתָּה thou f., נְתַתָּה thou hast given, Eze. xvi. 33, (see § 10, 3, Rem.).

b) often at the end of a syllable, in the body of a word (where the doubling of a letter is less audible, as in Greek ἀλο Homeric for ἀλλελο); e. g. הַמְבַקְשִׁים for הַמְבַקְשִׁים.

* Here belong cases like נִצָּחַהּ נִצָּחַהּ, Ex. xv. 1, 21; so that the assertion is not correct, that the first of the two words must be a monosyllable, or accented on the penultima.

† This distinction may be illustrated by the English word alley compared with alloy.—Tu.

‡ The doubling of a final letter is also omitted in Latin, as fel (for fell) gen. fellis, mel gen. mellis, os gen. ossis. In the ancient German, the doubling of consonants never took place at the end of a word, but always in the middle, as val (Fall) gen. valles, svam (Schwamm), etc; Grimm's Deutsche Gram., 2nd ed. I. 383.

In these cases it may be assumed as a rule, that the Daghesh remains in the letter with Sh'va (which is then vocal, § 10, 1), and is never left out of the aspirates, because it materially affects their sound, e. g. אֲכַפְּרָה akhäpp'rä (not אַכְפְּרָה akhäphrā) (Gen. xxxii. 21, וַתִּתֵּן בְּתָתִי Is. ii. 4, וַתִּדְבֹר וַתְּהִי הַמְדַבְּרִים, וַיְדַבֵּר הַמְדַבְּרִים, וַיְדַבֵּר הַמְדַבְּרִים, וַיְדַבֵּר הַמְדַבְּרִים; so also in וַיְהִי, and in cases like הַלְלִי for הִלְלִי, הִנְנִי for הִנְנִי.

In some cases a vowel or half vowel was inserted to render the doubling of the letter more audible, e. g. עִמָּכֶם with you for עִמְכֶם; סִבּוֹתָ for סִבְתָּ (§ 67, 4), יִקְבְּנִי Is. lxii. 2.

c) In the gutturals (see § 22, 1).

Rem. In the later books we sometimes find Daghesh omitted, and then compensation made by lengthening the preceding vowel (comp. mīle for mille), as יְהִי־תֵן he terrifies them for יְהִי־תֵן (Hab. ii. 17), מוֹרְגִים threshing-sledges for מוֹרְגִים, 1 Chron. xxi. 23.

SECT. 21.

ASPIRATION AND THE REMOVAL OF IT BY DAGHESH LENE.

The pure hard sound of the six aspirates (ת, פ, כ, ד, ג, ב,) with Daghesh lene inserted, is to be regarded, agreeably to the analogy which languages generally exhibit in this respect, as their original pronunciation, from which gradually arose the softer and weaker aspirated sound (§ 6, 3, and § 13). The original hard pronunciation maintained itself in greatest purity when it was the initial sound, and after a consonant; but when it followed a vowel sound immediately, it was softened and aspirated by the influence of the vowel, so יֶרֶן pārats becomes יֶרֶן yīphrōts. Hence the aspirates take Daghesh lene:

1. At the beginning of words, when the preceding word ends with a vowelless consonant, as עַל־כֵּן äl-kēn (therefore), עֵץ פְּרִי ets p'rī (fruit-tree); or at the beginning of a chapter or verse, or even of a minor division of a verse (consequently after a distinctive accent, § 15, 3), e. g. בְּרֵאשִׁית in the beginning, Gen. i. 1; וַיְהִי כַּאֲשֶׁר it happened, when, Judges xi. 5; on the contrary, וַיְהִי־כֵן it was so, Gen. i. 7; וַיְהִי־כֵן (with dist. accent) iv. 5, but in ver. 6 נִפְלְאוּ כְּנִיחָה (with conj. accent).

Also a diphthong (§ 8, 5), so called, is here treated as ending in a consonant, e. g. שְׁנֵי Judges v. 15. (Daghesh lene is therefore regularly found after יהוה, because אֶרְנִי was read instead of it.)

2. In the middle and at the end of words after silent Sh'va, i. e. at the beginning of a syllable, being immediately preceded by a vowelless consonant, e. g. יִרְפָּא he heals, יָהָרְגוּ קְטָלָתָם ye have killed, יִשְׂתֵּה let him drink. On the contrary, after vocal Sh'va they take the soft pronunciation, e. g. רַפָּא heal thou, כְּבִדָּה she is heavy.

N.B. The aspirates have the soft sound also especially in—

a) Forms which are made, by the addition or omission of letters, immediately from other forms in which they had their soft sound; e. g. רָדְפוּ (not רָדְפוּ) from רָדַף; מְלָבִי (not מְלָבִי) formed immediately from מִלְכִים (on the contrary, מִלְכִי mäl-kī, because it is formed directly from מִלְכָּ מִלְכָּ mälk) ; בְּבִתָּב (not בְּבִתָּב) from בְּתָב. In these cases, that pronunciation of the word, to which the ear had become accustomed, was retained ; thus, rid'phū, mal'khé, bikh' thābh.*

Rem. 1. The form מִלְכָּה, where we might expect the feeble pronunciation of ת on account of the preceding vowel, was originally מִלְכָּה; and the relation of ה, notwithstanding the slight vowel sound thrown in before it, was regarded as unchanged. Comp. § 28, 4.

b) The כ in the suffixes כִּי, כִּם, כֵּן, has always its soft sound, because vocal Sh'va is before it. § 58, 3, b.

2. Also the tone appears at times to affect the division of a word into syllables, and consequently the sound of the aspirates ; thus, לְפָתָה Num. xxxii. 14, but לְפָתָה Ps. xl. 15 ; גִּבְרָן (göbrān), but גִּבְרָן (in pause) Eze. xl. 43.

c) Finally in certain classes of forms, e. g. מִלְכָּה (mal'khāth), יְלָוִת.

3. That the hard or soft pronunciation of these letters did not affect the signification of words, affords no reason to doubt that such a distinction was made. Comp. in Greek θρόξ, τριχός.

SECT. 22.

PECULIARITIES OF THE GUTTURALS.

The four gutturals, ה, ה, ע, א, have certain properties in common, which result from the pronunciation peculiar to them ; yet א and ע, having a softer sound than ה and ה, differ from these in several respects.

1. The gutturals cannot be doubled in pronunciation, and therefore exclude Daghesh forte. To our organs also there is a difficulty in doubling an aspiration. But the syllable preceding the letter which omits Daghesh appears longer in consequence of the omission ; † hence its vowel is commonly lengthened, especially before the feebler letters א and ע, e. g. הַעַיִן the eye for הַעַיִן ; יֵאָמַר it is said for יֵאָמַר, etc. The harder gutturals, ה and ה, allowed a sharpening of the syllable, though orthography excluded Dagh. f. (as in German the ch in sicher, machen, has the sharp pronunciation without being written double), and hence the short vowel almost universally maintains its place before these letters, e. g. הַחֹדֶשׁ the month, אֵהָרָה that.

As these last forms are treated as though the guttural were doubled, the grammarians not inappropriately speak of them as having a Daghesh forte implicitum, occultum, or delitescens ; e. g. אֵהָרָה for אֵהָרָה brothers ; אֵהָרָה suaves ; אֵהָרָה thorns. See more in § 27, Rem. 2.

2. They are inclined to take a short A sound before them, because this vowel stands organically in close affinity to the gutturals. Hence—

* A particularly instructive case occurs in § 45, 3, in the Inf. with prefixes.

† Comp. terra and the French terre ; the Germ. Rolle and the French rôle ; Germ. drollig, and Fr. drôle. In this omission, we see the diminished vigour of the language. The fresher and more original sounds of the Arabic (§ 1, 6) still admit the doubling of the gutturals.

- a) Before a guttural, Pathach is used instead of any other short vowel, as  $\bar{i}$ ,  $\bar{e}$  (Chireq paruum, Seghol), and even for the rhythmically long  $\bar{e}$  and  $\bar{o}$  (Tsere and Cholem); e. g.  $\text{זָבַח}$  sacrifice for  $\text{זָבַח}$ ,  $\text{שָׁמַע}$  report for  $\text{שָׁמַע}$ . This is still more decisively preferred when the form with Pathach is the original one, or is used in common with another. Thus in the Imp. and Fut. Kul of verbs;  $\text{שָׁלַח}$  send,  $\text{יִשְׁלַח}$  he will send (not  $\text{יִשְׁלַח}$ ); Pret. Piel  $\text{שָׁלַח}$  (not  $\text{שָׁלַח}$ );  $\text{נָעַר}$  a youth, where Pathach in the first syllable is the original vowel;  $\text{יְחַמֵּר}$  for  $\text{יְחַמֵּר}$  he will desire.
- b) But a strong and unchangeable vowel, as  $\bar{u}$ ,  $\bar{v}$ ,  $\bar{y}$ , (§ 25, 1), and in many cases Tsere, is retained. Between it and the guttural, however, there is involuntarily uttered a hasty  $\bar{a}$  (Pathach furtive), which is written under the guttural. This is found only in final syllables, and never under  $\aleph$ ; e. g.  $\text{רוּחַ}$  rū<sup>ch</sup> (spirit),  $\text{שְׁלוּחַ}$  shā-lū<sup>ch</sup> (sent),  $\text{רִיחַ}$  rē<sup>ch</sup> (odour),  $\text{רֵעַ}$  rē<sup>a</sup> (companion),  $\text{גְּבוּהַ}$  gā-bhū<sup>a</sup> (high),  $\text{הִשְׁלַחַת}$  hīsh-lā<sup>ch</sup>, etc.

For the same reason the Swiss pronounces ich as i<sup>a</sup>ch, and the Arabian  $\text{مِسِيح}$  mesī<sup>ch</sup>, though neither writes the supplied vowel. [Analogous to this is our use of a furtive e before r after long  $\bar{e}$ ,  $\bar{i}$ ,  $\bar{u}$ , and the diphthong ou; e. g. here (sounded hēr), fire (fī<sup>r</sup>), pure (pū<sup>r</sup>), and our (oū<sup>r</sup>).]

The Pathach furtive falls away when the word receives an accession at the end, e. g.  $\text{רוּחַ}$  spirit,  $\text{רוּחִי}$  my spirit, where the  $\text{ח}$  is made the beginning of the new syllable.

The LXX. write  $\epsilon$  instead of Pathach furtive, as  $\text{נֶחֱ$  Nō $\epsilon$ .

Rem. 1. The guttural sometimes exerts an influence on the following vowel. But the examples of this usage are few, and are rather to be regarded as exceptions than as establishing a general rule, e. g.  $\text{נָעַר}$  a youth for  $\text{נָעַר}$ ;  $\text{פָּעַל}$  deed for  $\text{פָּעַל}$ . The A sound is preferred only where it would be admissible without the influence of the guttural, as in the Imp. and Fut. of verbs, e. g.  $\text{שָׁחַט}$ ,  $\text{יִשְׁחַט}$ . If, however, another vowel serves at all to characterise the form, it is retained, as  $\text{יָקַחַם}$  he fights;  $\text{וַיְחַל}$  and he waited, not  $\text{וַיְחַל}$ .

2. Seghol is used instead of Pathach both before and under the guttural, but only in an initial syllable, as  $\text{יַבֵּד}$  he binds,  $\text{הַבֵּל}$ . Without the guttural these forms would have Chireq, in place of Seghol.

When, however, the syllable is sharpened by Daghesh, the more slender and sharp Chireq is retained even under gutturals, as  $\text{הַלֵּל}$ ,  $\text{הַגִּיהַ$ ,  $\text{הַחֲפָה}$ ; but when the character of the syllable is changed by the falling away of Daghesh, the Seghol, which is required by the guttural, returns, e. g.  $\text{הַזֵּיּוֹן}$  const. state  $\text{הַזֵּיּוֹן}$  thought;  $\text{הַזֵּיּוֹן}$ ,  $\text{הַזֵּיּוֹן}$  vision.

3. Instead of simple Sh<sup>va</sup> vocal, the gutturals take a composite Sh<sup>va</sup> (§ 10, 2), e. g.  $\text{אֶקְטַל}$ ,  $\text{עֲבַד}$  to stand,  $\text{שָׁחַטוּ}$  they have slain,  $\text{יִשְׁחַטוּ}$  they will slay. This is the most common use of the composite Sh<sup>vas</sup>.

4. When a guttural stands at the end of a (closed) syllable, in the midst of a word, and has under it the syllable-divider (silent Sh<sup>va</sup>, § 10, 3), then the division of syllables often takes place as usual, especially when that syllable has the tone, e. g.  $\text{שָׁלַחְתָּ}$  thou hast sent. But when the syllable stands before the tone, there is usually a softening of the sound by giving to the guttural a slight vowel (one of the composite Sh'vas), which has the same sound as the full vowel preceding, as יְהִשָּׁב (also יְהִשָּׁב), יְהִשָּׁב (also יְהִשָּׁב), יְהִשָּׁב (also יְהִשָּׁב); this composite Sh'va is changed into the short vowel with which it is compounded, whenever the following consonant loses its full vowel in consequence of an increase at the end of the word, e. g. יְהִשָּׁב, יְהִשָּׁב yō-ōbkhū (from יְהִשָּׁב), יְהִשָּׁב yāhāphkhū (from יְהִשָּׁב).

Rem. 1. Simple Sh'va under the gutturals, the grammarians call hard (רַבָּה), and the composite Sh'vas in the same situation soft (רַבָּה). See more in the observations on verbs with gutturals (§§ 62—65).

2. Respecting the choice between the three composite Sh'vas it may be remarked, that—

- a) ה, ה, ע, at the beginning of words prefer ה, but א, e. g. אָמַר ass, הָרַג to kill, אָמַר to say. But when a word receives an accession at the end, or loses the tone, א also takes ה, as אָלַי to you; אָלַי to eat; but אָלַי Gen. iii. 11. Comp. § 27, Rem. 5.
- b) In the middle of a word, the choice of a composite Sh'va is regulated by the vowel (and its class) which another word of the same form, but without a guttural, would take before the Sh'va; as Pret. Hiph. הָעִמִּיר (according to the form הָקָטִיל), Inf. הָעִמִּיר (conformed to הָקָטִיל), Pret. Hoph. הָעִמִּיר (conformed to הָקָטִיל).

For some further vowel changes in connexion with gutturals, see § 27, Rem. 2.

5. The ו, which the Hebrew uttered also as a guttural (§ 6, 2, 1), shares with the other gutturals only the characteristics mentioned above in No. 1, and a part of those given in No. 2; viz.—

- a) The exclusion of Daghesh forte; in which case the vowel before it is always lengthened, as בָּרַךְ he has blessed for בָּרַךְ; בָּרַךְ to bless for בָּרַךְ.
- b) The use of Pathach* before it in preference to the other short vowels, though this is not so general as in the case of the other guttural sounds, e. g. וָיָרָא and he saw, while for the full form וָיָרָא is in use; וָיָסַר for וָיָסַר and he turned back, and for וָיָסַר and he caused to turn back.

Unfrequent exceptions to the principle given under letter a are מָרָה mōr-rā, Prov. xiv. 10; שָׁרַךְ shōr-rēkh, Eze. xvi. 4, where ו is notwithstanding doubled (also in Arabic it admits of doubling, and the LXX. write שָׁרַךְ Σάρρα). There are some other cases in which neither the doubling of the ו nor the lengthening of the vowel has taken place, as וָיָסַר (for וָיָסַר) 2 Sam. xviii. 16.

SECT. 23.

THE FEEBLENESS OF THE BREATHINGS א AND ה.

1. The א, a light and scarcely audible breathing in the throat, regularly loses its feeble power as a consonant (it quiesces), whenever it stands without a vowel at the end of a syllable. It then serves merely to prolong the preceding vowel (like the German h in sah), as מָצָא he has found, מָלָא he was filled, הִיא she, מָצָא to find, הוּא he; מִצָּאתָ, מִצָּאנָה, מִצָּאָה. This takes place after all vowels; but in this situation short vowels, with few exceptions, become long, as מָצָא for מִצָּא, מִצָּא for מִצָּאָה.

2. On the contrary א generally retains its power as a consonant and guttural in all cases where it begins a word or syllable, as אָמַר he has said, מָאָסוּ they have rejected, לֶאֱכֹל for to eat. Yet even in this position it sometimes loses its consonant sound, when it follows a short vowel or a half vowel (vocal Shewa) in the middle of a word; for then the vowel under א is either shifted back so as to be united with the vowel before it into a long sound, as לְאָמַר for לֶאֱמַר, יֶאֱכֹל for יִאֱכֹל, also יֶאֱכֹל (with â changed to ô, § 9, 10, 2) for יֶאֱכֹל, or it wholly displaces it, as in בָּרָאם for בָּרָאָם Neh. vi. 8, חָטְאוּם (chôtim) for חָטְאוּם (sinning) 1 Sam. xiv. 33, מֵאתַיִם (two hundred) for מֵאֲתַיִם, רְאִישִׁים (heads) for רְאִישִׁים. Sometimes there is a still greater change in the word, as יִשְׁמְעָאֵל for יִשְׁמְעָאֵל, מְלֶאכֶה (business) for מְלֶאכֶה. Sometimes also the vowel before א remains short when it is â, e. g. וְאֶרְנִי for וְאֶרְנִי, לְאֶרְנִי for לְאֶרְנִי, לְקָרְאָתָּה for לְקָרְאָתָּה.

Instead of א in such a case, there is often written one of the vowel letters ו and י, according to the nature of the sound, the former with ô and the latter with é and î; e. g. בּוֹר for בּוֹר (cistern), גִּים (buffalo) for גִּים, רִישׁוֹן for רִישׁוֹן (the first) Job viii. 8, comp. לוֹ for לוֹ (not) 1 Sam. ii. 16, כֶּתִיב; at the end of a word ה also is written for א, as מִלֵּא (he fills) for מִלֵּא Job viii. 21.

3 When א is thus quiescent, it is sometimes entirely dropped, e. g. יָצֵאתִי (I went forth) for יָצֵאתִי, מְלֵאתִי (I am full) Job xxxii. 18, for מְלֵאתִי, אָמַר (I say) constantly for אָמַר, מְלוֹ Eze. xxviii. 16, for מְלוֹ, לְהִשׁוֹת (to lay waste) 2 Kings xix. 25, for לְהִשׁוֹת Is. xxxvii. 26.

Rem. 1. In Aramaean the א becomes a vowel much more readily than in Hebrew; but in Arabic, on the contrary, its power as a consonant is much firmer. According to Arabic orthography א serves also to indicate the lengthened â; but in Hebrew the examples are very rare, in which it is strictly a vowel letter for the long â sound, as קָאם Hos. x. 14 for the usual קָם he stood up, רָאֵץ poor Prov. x. 4, xiii. 23 for רָץ. Hebrew orthography generally omits, in this case, the vowel letter (§ 8, 3).

2. In Syriac א even at the beginning of words cannot be spoken with a half vowel (vocal Shewa), but then always receives a full vowel, usually E, as אֶחָל in Syr. ekhal. Accordingly in Hebrew, also, instead of a composite Shewa it receives, in many words, the corresponding long vowel, as גִּירְלָה girdle for גִּירְלָה, אֶתְלִים tents for אֶתְלִים, אֶרְיוֹת stalls for אֶרְיוֹת.

3. We may call it an Arabism, or a mode of writing common in Arabic, when at the end of a word an א (without any sound) is added to a ו (not being part of the root), as הִלְכֵוּ for הִלְכֵוּ (they go) Josh. x. 24, אָבִוּא (they are willing) Is. xxviii. 12. Similar are קָיִי for קָיִי pure, לִיִּי for לִיִּי if, אָשִׁי for אָשִׁי then. The case is different in הוּא and הִיא; see § 32, Rem. 6.

4. The ם is stronger and firmer than the ץ, and scarcely ever loses its aspiration (or quiesces) in the middle of a word;* also at the end it may remain a consonant, and then it takes Mappiq (§ 14, 1). Yet at times the consonant sound of the ם at the end of a word is given up, and ם (without Mappiq, or with Raphe ם) then remains only as a representative of the final vowel, e. g. לָהּ (to her) Num. xxxii. 42, for לָהּ Job xxxi. 22; Ex. ix. 18. The ם at the beginning of a syllable preceded by vocal Sh'va often disappears and is omitted in writing, as לְבֹקֶר (in the morning) for לְהַבְקֶר, בְּצֹרֶן (in the land) for בְּהַצֹּרֶן contracted בְּצֹרֶן. In these cases of contraction, the half vowel ◌◌◌ before ם is displaced by the full vowel under it. In other cases, however, the vowel under ם is displaced by the one before it, as בָּם (in them), from בְּהֵם; or both are blended into a diphthongal vowel, as כּוּסוֹ (also כּוּסוֹה) from כּוּסוּהוּ, קְטִלּוֹ from קְטִלּוּהוּ.

According to this, the so-called quiescent ם at the end of a word stands, sometimes, in the place of the consonant ם. But usually it serves quite another purpose, viz., to represent final ā, as also ō, ē and ü (Seghol), e. g. אִשָּׁה, גְּלָהּ, גְּלָהּ, יִגְלָהּ. See § 7, 2, and § 8, 3.

Rem. In connexion with ō and ē it is occasionally changed for ם and ץ (קָהָה=קָהָה, קָהָה=קָהָה Hos. vi. 9), and in all cases for ץ according to later and Aramaean orthography, particularly in connexion with ā, e. g. שָׁנָה (sleep) Ps. cxxvii. 2, for שָׁנָה, נָשָׁה (to forget) Jer. xxiii. 39, for נָשָׁה, etc.

CHANGES OF THE FEEBLE LETTERS ם AND ץ.

The ם [the sound of which is probably between our w and v] and the ץ [our γ] are as consonants so feeble and soft, approaching so near to the corresponding vowel sounds u and i, that they easily flow into these vowels in certain conditions. On this depend, according to the relations of sounds and the character of the grammatical forms, still further changes which require a general notice in this place, but which will also be explained in detail wherever they occur in the inflexions of words. This is especially important for the form and inflexion of the feeble stems, in which a radical ם or ץ occurs (§ 69, etc., and 85, III.—VI.).

1. The cases where ם and ץ lose their power as consonants and flow into vowel sounds, are principally only in the middle and end of words, their consonant sound

* A very few examples are found in proper names, as עֲשֵׂהָאֵל פְּרָהֶצוֹר, which are compounded of two words, and in many MSS. are also written in two separate words. One other case, יַפְהִינָה Jer. xlvi. 20, is also in the printed text divided by Maqqeph, in order to bring the quiescent ם at the end of a word.

being nearly always heard at the beginning.* These cases are chiefly the following:—

- a) When ו or י stands at the end of a syllable, immediately after a vowel. The feeble letter has not strength enough, in this position, to maintain its consonant sound. Thus הַיֹּשֵׁב it is inhabited for הַיֹּשֵׁב or הַיֹּשֵׁב; יִקְוֶן he awakes for יִקְוֶן; בִּיהוּדָה for בִּיהוּדָה; so also at the end of the word, e. g. יִשְׂרָאֵלִי yisrā'ēlî (properly, -liy, hence fem. -liyya), עֵשָׂו (made) Job xli. 25, for עֵשָׂו (comp. עֵשָׂוֹת 1 Sam. xxv. 18, K<sup>c</sup>thibh). After homogeneous vowels, particularly pure u and i, ו and י constantly quiesce in these cases. But after a heterogeneous vowel they sound as consonants (according to § 8, 5), as שָׁלוֹ quiet, וַיֹּ May month, גּוֹי nation, גְּלוֹי disclosed. But with a preceding short a ו and י mostly form a diphthongal ô and ê; see below, No. 2, b.
- b) When ו or י is preceded by vocal Sh<sup>e</sup>va, and such syllables are formed as q<sup>u</sup>vom, b<sup>u</sup>vo. Hence בּוֹא to come for בּוֹא, קוֹם to arise for קוֹם. So also especially when ו and י preceded by Sh<sup>e</sup>va come to stand at the end of a word; as יְהִי for יְהִי (from יְהִי), פְּרִי fruit for פְּרִי.
- c) Very seldom when the feeble letter has a full vowel both before and after it; as קוֹם survendo for קוֹם, קוֹם for קוֹם. Comp. [parvum contr. parum], mihî contr. mî, quum contr. cum.

In Syriac, where these letters flow still more readily into vowel sounds, י is sounded, even at the beginning of words, merely as i, not as י or י (like e for ē); and so in the LXX. הַיְהוּדָה is written Ἰουδαία, יְהוּדָה Ἰουδαία. Hence may be explained the Syriac usage, examples of which occur also in Hebrew, which transfers the vowel i, belonging to the feeble letter, to the preceding consonant, which should properly have simple Sh<sup>e</sup>va, e. g. בְּיִתְרוֹ as the superiority for בְּיִתְרוֹ Eccles. ii. 13, וַיְחַלְּלוּ (in some editions) for וַיְחַלְּלוּ Job xxix. 21 and they waited.

2. When such a contraction has taken place, the vowel letter quiesces (see p. 22, note †) regularly in a long vowel. Respecting the choice of this vowel, the following rules may be laid down:—

- a) When the vowel, which an analogous form without the feeble letter would take, is homogeneous with the vowel letter, it is retained and lengthened, as יֵטֵב he is good for יֵטֵב (analogous form יֵקַטֵּל); הַיֹּשֵׁב (habitare factus est) for הַיֹּשֵׁב.
- b) When a short a stands before י and ו, there arise diphthongal ê and ô (according to § 7, 1); thus כִּי טֵיב becomes כִּי טֵיב doing well; הַיֹּשֵׁב, הַיֹּשֵׁב; עוֹלָה, עוֹלָה. †

* An exception is י for י and, see § 26, 1, and § 104, 2, b.

† Instances in which no contraction takes place after a short a are, מִיְמִינִים, using the right hand, 1 Chron. xii. 2; אֲיִסְיָרִים I chastise them, Hos. vii. 12; שְׁלֵחָתִי I am at ease, Job iii. 26. At times both forms are found, as עוֹלָה and עוֹלָה evil; חַי living, construct state חַי. Analogous is the contraction of מָוֶת death, constr. מוֹת, עַיִן eye, constr. עֵינַי.

e) But when the vowel sign is heterogeneous, and at the same time is an essential characteristic of the form, it controls the feeble letter, and changes it into one which is homogeneous with itself. Thus יִרְשׁ becomes יִרְשׁ; קָנִים becomes קָנִים qám; גָּלִי and שָׁלוֹ become גָּלָה and שָׁלָה.*

An original ׀ at the end of words becomes—

- a) הָ (for ׀ is never written at the end of a word), when the impure sound ā must be used; e. g. הָגָל for גָּלִי (§ 75, 1); מְרָאָה form for מְרָאִי; שָׁרְיָ field (poet.), common form שָׁרְיָה. †
- b) הָ, when the A sound predominates, and is characteristic of the form; as גָּלָה, גָּלָה, גָּלָה for גָּלִי, גָּלִי, גָּלִי.

SECT. 25.

UNCHANGEABLE VOWELS.

What vowels in Hebrew are firm and irremovable, can be known, with certainty and completeness, only from the nature of the grammatical forms, and from a comparison with the Arabic, in which the vowel system appears purer and more original than in Hebrew. This holds, especially, of the essentially long vowels in distinction from those which are long only rhythmically, i. e. through the influence of the tone and of syllabication, and which, having arisen out of short vowels, readily become short again by a change in the position of the tone and in the division of the syllables. The beginner may be guided by the following specifications:—

1. The essentially long and therefore unchangeable vowels of the second and third class, viz., ī, ū, ê, ô, are mostly expressed among the consonants [or in the line] by their vowel letters, ī and ê by י, ū and ô by ו, with their appropriate vowel signs; thus יִ, יֵ, ו, ו, as in מְשִׁיחַ anointed, הַיָּכָל palace, גְּבוּל boundary, קוֹל voice. The defective mode of writing these vowels (§ 8, 4) is indeed frequently sufficient; e. g. מְשִׁחַ for מְשִׁיחַ, גְּבֹל for גְּבוּל, קוֹלוֹת voices for קוֹלוֹת; but this is merely a difference of orthography, by which nothing is essentially changed in the nature and quantity of such a vowel, and î in מְשִׁחַ is as necessarily long as that in מְשִׁיחַ.

The exception here is, when, on the contrary, now and then a merely rhythmically long vowel of these two classes is written fully, e. g. ô in יְקַטֵּל for יְקַטֵּל.

2. The essentially long and unchangeable â has in Hebrew, as a rule, no representative among the consonants, though in Arabic it has, viz., the ا, which occurs

* The Arab writes in this case, etymologically, gā, but speaks gala. So the LXX. write γαῖ, Σωᾶ. But for שָׁלוֹ is written in Arabic شال.

† When any addition is to be made to the ending הָ, it is written ׀, and sometimes also the original ׀ is restored. See § 93, 9, Rem.

here but very seldom (§ 9, 1, § 23, 3, Rem. 1). For ascertaining this case, therefore, there is no guide but a knowledge of the forms (see § 84, Nos. 6, 13, 28).

Cases like מִצָּד (§ 23, 1) do not belong here.

3. Unchangeable is also a short vowel in a sharpened syllable, followed by Daghesh forte, e. g. גָּנֵב thief; likewise in every closed syllable which is followed by another closed syllable, e. g. מְלִבְיֹשׁ garment, אֲבִיוֹן poor, מְדִבְרָה wilderness.

4. Such are also the vowels after which a Daghesh forte has been omitted on account of a guttural, according to § 22, 1 (forma dagessanda), e. g. הַרְיֵי־אֵל for הַרְיֵי־אֵל mountains of God; בְּרַךְ for בְּרַךְ he has been blessed.

SYLLABLES AND THEIR INFLUENCE ON THE QUANTITY OF VOWELS.

To obtain an adequate view of the laws, according to which the long and short vowels are chosen or exchanged one for another, a previous acquaintance is required with the theory of syllabication, on which that choice and exchange depend. The syllable may then be viewed with reference, partly to its commencement (its initial sound) as in No. 1, and partly to its close (its final sound) as in Nos. 2—7. The latter view is of chief importance.

1. With regard to the commencement of the syllable, it is to be observed, that every syllable must begin with a consonant; and there are no syllables in the language which begin with a vowel. The single exception is ו (and), in certain cases for ו, e. g. in וּמְלָךְ (§ 104, 2, b).* The word אֶמֶר is no exception, because the א has here the force of a light breathing.

2. With regard to the close of a syllable, it may end—

a) With a vowel, and is then called an open or simple syllable, e. g. in קַטְלָהּ the first and last are open. See No. 3.

b) With a half vowel or vocal Sh'va, as p<sup>e</sup> in פְּרִי p<sup>e</sup>rī (fruit), ch<sup>a</sup> in חֲצִי ch<sup>a</sup>tsī (half), t in קַטְלוּ qā-t-lū. Such we call half syllables; see No. 4.

c) With one consonant: a closed or mixed syllable, as the second in קַטַל, לֶבֶב. See No. 5.

Here belongs also the sharpened syllable, as the first in קַטַל qāt-tl̄. See No. 6.

* It may be questioned whether ו in the above position be a real exception; for וּמְלָךְ ought probably to be pronounced wūmlēkh (not ūmlēkh), the ו retaining its feeble consonant sound before the Shureq.—TR.

d) With two consonants, as קֶשֶׁט qōshṭ, קַמְלֵת; comp. § 10, 3. We shall now (in Nos. 3—7) treat in particular of the vowels that are used in these various kinds of syllables.

3. The open or simple syllables have, as a rule, a long vowel,* whether they have the tone, as בָּךְ in thee, כֶּכֶר book, קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary. or not, as קַמְלֵל, לֶכֶב heart, יִרְאוּ they will fear. Usually there is a long vowel (Quants, less frequently Tsere) in an open syllable before the tone (pretonic vowel), e. g. לָהֶם, יָכוֹם, קַמְלֵל, לֶכֶב. †

Short vowels in open syllables occur only in the following cases:—

- a) In dissyllabic words formed by means of a helping vowel (§ 28, 4) from monosyllables (Segholutes), as בְּלֵךְ, נֶעַר, בַּיִת, הוֹסֵף, מִלֵּךְ, נֶעַר, בַּיִת, יָרַב. The reason is, that the final helping vowel is very short, and the word sounds almost as one syllable. Yet the first vowel is also lengthened, as in יָרַב, another form for יָרַב (§ 75, Rem. 3, b), נֶעַר (in pause, § 29, 4).
- b) In certain forms of the suffixes, as קַמְלֵי, דְּרָרָה (from דְּרָרָה).
- c) Before the so-called He local, which has not the tone (§ 90, 2), e. g. בְּרָמָלָה towards Carmel, הַיְדֵּשׁ towards the wilderness.

In all these cases the short vowel is supported by the chief tone of the word. Elsewhere it has at least the support of Methegh, viz.—

- d) In these connexions,  $\frac{\text{---}}{\text{---}}$ ,  $\frac{\text{---}}{\text{---}}$ ,  $\frac{\text{---}}{\text{---}}$ , as טַעֲמוֹ his taste, יַבְבֵּךְ he will bind, בְּעָלָהּ his deed, וְהִדְרִיד and thy adorning.
- e) In some other forms, as יְחִזְקוּ yē-chē-zēqū (they are strong), בְּעָלָהּ pō-ōlkhā (thy deed), שְׁרָשִׁים shō-rāshīm (roots); comp. page 27 and § 28, 3.

The first syllable in הִדְרִיד, הַיְדֵּשׁ, and in similar forms, does not come under this, but under No. 6, below.

4. There is also a slighter sort of open syllables, consisting of one consonant and a half vowel (or vocal Shēva, § 10, 1, 2), and may be called half syllables. They are so short, and so unfit to stand by themselves, that they constantly lean on the stronger syllable that follows, e. g. לְחִי (cheek) l'chī, יְלֻמְדוּ yil-m'dhū, חֲלִי (sickness) ch'li, פְּעָלוֹ pō-'lō.

The modern grammarians do not regard these as actual syllables, but always reckon them as part of that which immediately follows [thus they regard לְחִי as forming but one syllable l'chī, and

* This is certainly a fundamental law in Hebrew, as its pronunciation is now indicated by the vowel signs, but not a matter of absolute necessity, for other languages very often have short vowels in open syllables, as éyéro, Arab. qūtālū. At an earlier period the Hebrew, like the Arabic, most probably had short vowels in those open syllables in which the vowel was not essentially long, and the present pronunciation is derived in part from the solemn, slow, and chanting way of reading the Old Testament in the synagogues.

† The Arabic has for this pretonic vowel constantly a short vowel; the Chaldee only a vocal Shēva, לְחִי to them, יָכוֹם, קַמְלֵל, לֶכֶב, which is the case also in Hebrew, when the tone is shifted forward (§ 27, 3, a). But this pretonic vowel must not be regarded as if it had been adopted, perhaps in place of Shēva, on account of the tone on the following syllable; but it originally belongs to this place, and the circumstance of its standing before the tone-syllable only causes it to remain, whilst it is reduced to a vocal Shēva upon the shifting forward of the tone.

not two l-chi]. The half vowel is certainly not fit to serve as the final sound of a full syllable; and, according to the pronunciation handed down to us, this syllable with Sheva is obviously of a different sort from the open syllable with a full vowel (No. 3). But yet that half vowel is in general but a shortening of an original long vowel, which is commonly still to be found in Arabic; and even the Jewish grammarians, from whom the vowels and accents came, have assigned to the union of a consonant with a half vowel the value of a syllable, as appears from the use of Methegh (see § 16, 2, b).

5. The closed syllables, ending with one consonant, have necessarily, when without the tone, short vowels, both at the beginning and at the end of words,* as מַלְכָּה queen, הַיְשׁוּבוֹן understanding, הַחֲכָמָה wisdom; וַיָּסֹבֵר and he turned back, וַיָּקָם and he set up, וַיָּקָם and he stood up.

When with the tone, they may have a long vowel as well as a short, e. g. הַחֵם wise, הָיָה he was wise; yet of the short vowels only Pathach and Seghol have strength enough to stand in such a syllable having the tone.† Examples of long vowels in the final syllable, are דָּבָר, קָטַל, יָקַטַל; in the last but one, קָטַלְנָה, קָטַלְנָה. Examples of short vowels, קָטַל; אָתָם, שָׁבָם; in the penultima, קָטַלְתָּ, יָקַטְלוּ.

6. A peculiar sort of closed syllables are the sharpened, i. e. those which end with the same consonant with which the following syllable begins, as אֲמִי im-mī, כְּלִי kāl-lī. Like the other closed syllables, these have, when without the tone, short vowels, as in the examples just given; when with the tone, either short, as סָבְנוּ, הִגְבְּנוּ, or long, as שָׁמָה, יָמָה.

Sharpened syllables are wholly avoided at the end of words; see § 20, 3, letter a.

7. Closed syllables, ending with two consonants, occur only at the end of words, and have most naturally short vowels, as קָטַלְתָּ, וַיִּשָּׁבֵב, yet sometimes also Tsere, as נִרְדָּ, וַיִּבְרָךְ, and Cholem, as קִשְׁטָ. But compare § 10, 3. Most commonly this harshness is avoided by the use of a helping vowel (§ 28, 4).

Rem. In the division into syllables, accordingly, a simple Sheva after a short vowel belongs to the foregoing syllable, and is quiescent, as מִירְמָה mīr-mā; but after a long vowel to the following, and is vocal (§ 10, 1), as קוֹטְלָה qō-tlā, הוֹלְלִים hō-līm. The composite Sheva belongs always to the following syllable, as פְּעֻלוֹ pō-ʾlō, even after a short vowel, as טְעֻמוֹ tā-ʾmō, אֶהְלוֹ ē-hʾlō.

* There are some exceptions, when a word loses the tone through Maqqeph, as כְּתַב־הַדָּת (kēthābh), Esth. iv. 8.

† See § 9, 2. Short Chireq (i) occurs only in the particles אֵם and עַם, which, however, are mostly toneless, because followed by Maqqeph.

SECT. 27.

CHANGES OF VOWELS, ESPECIALLY IN RESPECT TO THEIR QUANTITY.

As to the changes, which the vowels undergo by the inflexion of words, we may first lay down these fundamental principles,—

- a) That they generally occur only in the last syllable and the last but one, very seldom in the antepenultima, e. g. דָּבָר word, constr. st. דְּבַר; זְכוֹרֹן remembrance, זְכוֹרֹן; רְעִיּוֹן vision, רְעִיּוֹן.
- b) That they are usually made within the limits of one and the same vowel class [§ 8]. Thus  $\bar{a}$  may be shortened into  $\bar{a}$  and  $\bar{a}$ ,  $\bar{e}$  into  $\bar{e}$  and  $\bar{e}$ ,  $\bar{o}$  into  $\bar{o}$  and  $\bar{u}$ ; and with the same limitation the short vowels may become long. But such a change as turning a into u can never take place.

The most material exception consists in the approximation of the first vowel class to the second, by attenuating Pathach into Chireq and Seghol; see below, Rem. 2 and 3. So also in the derivation of obtuse Seghol from vowels belonging to all three classes; see Rem. 4.

The vowels, with the changes of which we are chiefly concerned here, are all the short ones, and as many of the long as owe their length simply to the tone and rhythm, viz.—

Long vowels (by the influence of the tone),

- ־  $\bar{a}$
- ־  $\bar{e}$
- $\bar{o}$

Corresponding short vowels,

- ־  $\bar{a}$
- { ־  $\bar{a}$ ,  $\bar{e}$
- ־  $\bar{e}$
- { ־  $\bar{o}$  (Qamets-chatuph)
- ־  $\bar{u}$

To these add the half vowels or Sh<sup>vas</sup> ־, ־, ־, ־, as the utmost shortenings.

Let the student compare here again what was said in § 9, on the character and value of the several vowels; and in § 25, on the unchangeable vowels.

Agreeably to the scale of § 26, the following changes occur:—

1. A tone-long vowel is changed into a kindred short one, when a closed syllable loses the tone (§ 26, 5). Thus, when the tone is moved forwards, יָד hand becomes יֵד, as יְדֵי־יְהוָה hand-of-Jehovah; בֶּן son, בְּנֵי־הָאָדָם son-of-man; כֹּל whole, כָּל־הָעָם

the whole-of-the-people; also when the tone is moved backwards, e. g. וְיִקְרָא, וְיִקְרָא; וְיִקְרָא, וְיִקְרָא. So also, when an open syllable with a long vowel becomes by inflexion a closed one, e. g. כִּפְּרִי book, כִּפְּרִי my book; קִדְּשֵׁי sanctuary, קִדְּשֵׁי my sanctuary. In these cases Tsere (ē) passes over into Seghol (ĕ) or Chireq (ī), Cholem (ō) into Qamets-chatuph (ō̄). But when a closed syllable with a long vowel becomes a sharpened one, i. e. ending with a doubled consonant, Tsere is attenuated into Chireq, and Cholem into Qibbutz, as אִמִּי mother, אִמִּי my mother; חֹק statute, plur. חֻקִּים.

The short vowels ĭ and ĕ are more pure, and hence pass for shorter than ē and ō.

2. On the contrary, a short vowel is changed into a corresponding long one,—

- a) When a closed syllable, in which it stands, becomes an open one, i. e. when the word receives an accession, beginning with a vowel, to which the final consonant of the closed syllable is attached, as קָטַלְהוּ, קָטַלְהוּ he has killed him; סוּפוֹתַי from סוּפּוֹת.
- b) When a syllable, which should be sharpened by Daghesh forte, has a guttural for its final consonant (see § 22, 1), or stands at the end of a word (see § 20, 3, a).
- c) When it meets with a feeble letter (according to § 23, 1, 2; § 24, 2), as מָצָא for מָצָא he has found.
- d) When the syllable is in pause, i. e. is the tone-syllable of the last word in the clause (§ 29, 4).

3. When a word increases at the end, and the tone is at the same time shifted forward, all vowels (long and short) may, according to the division of syllables, either pass over into a half vowel (vocal Sh'va), or may even be entirely dropped, so that only the syllable-divider (silent Sh'va) supplies their place; e. g. for the first case is שֵׁם (name) pl. שְׁמוֹת become שְׁמִי (my name) and שְׁמוֹתָם (their names); for the second is בְּרָכָה (blessing) constr. בְּרַכְתָּ. Whether the full vowel remains, or is changed into a half vowel, or is altogether dropped (רָם, רָמִי; שֵׁם, שְׁמִי), and which of the two vowels disappears in two successive syllables, must be determined by the nature of the word; but in general it may be said, that in the inflexion of nouns the first vowel is mostly shortened in this manner, while the second, when it stands immediately before the tone-syllable (as a pretonic vowel), remains, as יָקָר (dear), fem. יְקָרָה y'qārā; in the inflexion of verbs, the second, as יָקָר (he is dear), fem. יְקָרָה y'qārā. Thus we have a half vowel in place of—

- a) Qamets and Tsere in the first syllable (principally in the inflexion of nouns), as דָּבָר word, plur. דְּבָרִים; גְּדוֹל great, fem. גְּדוּלָה; לֵב heart, לבבי my heart; תָּשׁוּב *she will return, תְּשׁוּבֵינָה * they (fem.) will return.*

b) The short or merely tone-long vowels a, e, o, in the last syllable, especially in the inflexion of verbs, e. g. קָטַל fem. קָטְלָה qāt'lā; קוּטַל plur. קוּטְלִים qōt'līm; יִקְטַל, יִקְטְלוּ yīqt'lū. The Seghol as a helping vowel is entirely rejected (becomes silent Sh'va), e. g. מָלַךְ (for מִלְךְ), מִלְפִי. If there be no shifting of the tone, the vowel will remain notwithstanding the lengthening of the word, as יִשְׁוּב, יִשְׁוּבוּ; בְּרָמְלָה, בְּרָמְלוּ.

Where the tone is advanced two places, both the vowels of a dissyllabic word may be shortened, so that the first becomes ī and the second becomes Sh'va. From דָּבָר we have in the plur. דְּבָרִים, and with a grave suffix [i. e. one that always has the tone] this becomes דְּבָרֵיהֶם their words (comp. § 28, 1). On the shortening of ā into ī, see especially in Rem. 3, below.

Some other vowel changes, chiefly also with respect to quantity, are exhibited in the following remarks:—

Rem. 1. The diphthongal ī ō (from au), as also the ō derived from the firm á (§ 9, 10, 2), is longer than ī ū; and therefore, when the tone is moved forward, the former is often shortened into the latter: e. g. נָקוּם, נְקִיבוֹת, (see Paradigm M. Niph.); מְנוּס flight, fem. מְנוּסָה, with suffix מְנוּסִי; מְתוּק sweet, fem. מְתוּקָה. The ī stands sometimes even in a sharpened syllable, הַיְקָה Ps. cii. 5, חִנְקוּ Eze. xx. 18. Nearly the same relation exists between ē and ī; see examples in § 75, 2.

N.B. On the contrary, ī ū is shortened into ē, which in the tone-syllable appears as a tone-long ō (Cholem), but on the removal of the tone it becomes again ō (Qamets-chatuph), as יָקִים (he will rise), יָקֵם (jussive: let him rise), יָקָם (and he rose up), see Parad. M. Kal. So also ē becomes a tone-long Tsere (ē), and in the absence of the tone, Seghol (ē), as יָקִים (he will set up), יָקָם (let him set up), יָקָם (and he set up); see Parad. M. Hiphil.

2. From a Pathach (ā) in a closed syllable, there arises a Seghol (ē), through a further shortening or rather weakening of the sound. This happens—

a) Sometimes when the tone hastens on to the following syllable, as יָדְכֶם your hand for יָדְכֶם; אֲבִיתָר, יָדְכֶם (prop. n.) for אֲבִיתָר; especially when a Daghesh forte is omitted in a letter which would regularly close a sharpened syllable, as אֲבָלְךָ Ex. xxxiii. 3, for אֲבָלְךָ I destroy thee, אֲבָלְךָ Ezekiel for אֲבָלְךָ whom God strengthens.

b) This is more regularly the case, when Daghesh forte is omitted in a guttural that has a Qamets under it. Thus always חָ- for חָ- (Ch'va) e. g. אֲחָיו his brothers for אֲחָיו, from אֲחָיו the vision; שֶׁשׁ false for שֶׁשׁ, and so always with ה. With ה and ע the Seghol is used only where a greater shortening is required on account of the distance of the tone; hence, הָהָרִים for הָהָרִים the mountains, but הָהָר the mountain; הָעֵוֹן the misdeed, but הָעָם the people. Before א and ר, where a short sharpened vowel cannot so easily stand (§ 22, 1), Qamets is almost constantly used, as הָאָבוֹת the fathers, הָרָקִיעַ the firmament. Comp. also the interrogative הָ (הָ, הָ) § 100, 4.

* The vowel, which here disappears on the shifting of the tone forward, is the so-called pretonic vowel in an open syllable, concerning which see in § 9, 1, 2, and § 26, 3.

c) In syllables properly ending with two consonants, e. g. כָּלֶבֶת (also in Arabic pronounced kālb), for which we get, first, כָּלֶבֶת, and then with a helping Seghol (§ 28, 4) כָּלֶבֶת; יִנְלֵ (jussive in Hiphil from חָלַה, then יִנְלֵ, and finally יִנְלֵ.*

3. In a closed (and sharpened) syllable, which loses the tone, ā is at times attenuated into ʔ, e. g., רְמִיָּם your blood for רְמִיָּם, מִדּוֹ his measure for מִדּוֹ; יִלְרְתִי I have begotten, יִלְרְתִי I have begotten thee.] Comp. above, רְבִירְהָם.

4. The Seghol arises, besides the cases given above, in Rem. 1 and 2, also—

a) From the weakening of ā (Qamets) at the end of a word (comp. Roma, French Rome; Arab. ḫalīfā read ḫalīfā), as קָה and קָה what? (§ 37, 1). See similar examples in Ps. xx. 4; Is. lix. 5; Zech. ix. 5.

b) Even from the weakening of u, as אָתָם (you) from the original attum (Arab. antum), see § 32, Rem. 5 and 7; לָהֶם (to them) from the original lahum. Comp. § 8, Third Class of Vowels, p. 21.

5. Among the half vowels, (◌◌◌) is shorter and lighter than (◌◌◌), and the group (◌◌◌) than (◌◌◌), e. g. אֶדֹם Edom, אֶדְמִי Edomite; אֶמֶת truth, אֶמְתּוֹ his truth; נֶעְלָם hidden, plur. נֶעְלָמִים; הֶעֱבַרְתִּי וְהֶעֱבַרְתִּי.

RISE OF NEW VOWELS AND SYLLABLES.

1. When a word begins with a half syllable (§ 26, 4), i. e. with a consonant which has a half vowel (vocal Sh'va), and there comes another half syllable before it, then this latter receives, instead of the Sh'va, an ordinary short vowel, which is regularly ī (Chireq), but with gutturals ā (Pathach; e. g. נָפַל (to fall) n'phōl, with the preposition בְּ, not בְּנָפַל b'n'phōl, but בִּנְפַל bīn'phōl; so also כִּנְפַל kīn'phol for כְּנָפַל; לְפָרִי for fruit for לְפָרִי; בִּיהוֹרָה (whence בִּיהוֹרָה according to § 24, 1) for בִּיהוֹרָה; הִמְעַט (num parum est?) hām'at for הִמְעַט h'm'at. At times another division of syllables takes place, so that the second consonant gives up its half vowel and forms a closed syllable with the first, as לְנָפַל līn-pōl Num. xiv. 3, כְּנִפְרָ Jer. xvii. 2.

A similar process occurs in the body of a word, as רִשְׁפֵּה rīshpé and רִשְׁפֵּה rīshpé, אֲנִי from אֲנִי; yet here the initial vowel comes immediately from a full vowel, and is more like ī in אֲנִי (§ 27, 3).

In Syriac, the usual vowel here is ā (ē), even in the absence of gutturals; in Chaldee it is the same as in Hebrew; the Arabic has always a firm short vowel for the vocal Sh'va.

2. When the second of the two consonants is a guttural with composite Sh'va, then the first takes, instead of simple Sh'va, the short vowel with which the other is compounded, so that we obtain the groups ◌◌◌, ◌◌◌, ◌◌◌, e. g. כְּאִשֶּׁר how,

* So the LXX. also express כְּלִבְי־צָרָק by Μελαχισεδέκ.

† Analogous to this attenuating of ā into ī, is the Latin tango, attingo; latus, prolixus; and to that of ā into ē, (in Rem. 2) the Latin carpo, decerpo; spargo, conspergo.

לְעַבֵּד to serve, לֶאֱכַל to eat, בְּחָלִי in sickness, for בְּאִשֶּׁר, לְעַבֵּד, לֶאֱכַל, בְּחָלִי. The new vowel in such cases has Methegh, according to § 16, 2, a.

3. When the first Sh'va is composite, and comes to stand after an open syllable with a short vowel, then it is changed into the short vowel with which it is compounded, e. g. יַעֲמְדוּ yā'āmdhū for יַעֲמְדוּ they will stand, נִהְפְּכוּ nīhēph'khū for נִהְפְּכוּ they have turned themselves, פְּעֹלְכֶם pōōl'khū (thy work). Comp. § 26, 3, e.

4. At the end of words, syllables occur which close with two consonants (§ 10, 3, § 26, 7); yet this takes place only when the last of these is a consonant of strong sound, ט, ק, or an aspirate with its hard sound (tenuis), viz., ב, ד, ג, ת,* e. g. יִשְׁטֵן let him turn aside, וַיִּשְׁקֵן and he caused to drink, קָטַלְתְּ thou (fem.) hast killed, וַיִּבְכֶּה and he wept, יִרְדֵּךְ let him rule, וַיִּשְׁבֶּךָ and he took captive. This harsh combination of letters is, however, avoided in general by supplying between the two consonants a helping vowel, which is mostly Seghol, but Pathach under gutturals,† and Chireq after י, e. g. וַיִּגְלֵךְ and he revealed for וַיִּגְלֵךְ; קִדְשֵׁךְ sanctuary for קִדְשֵׁךְ; נַעַר a youth for נַעַר; וַיִּשְׁלַחְתָּ ‡ for וַיִּשְׁלַחְתָּ thou hast sent; בַּיִת house for בַּיִת. Compare German Mayl and the old form Māged. These helping vowels have not the tone, and they are dropped whenever the word increases at the end.

These helping vowels have inappropriately been called furtive, a term which should be restricted to the Pathach sounded before a final guttural, according to § 22, 2, b.

5. Full vowels rise out of half vowels also by reason of the Pause; see § 29, 4.

THE TONE; CHANGES OF THE TONE; THE PAUSE.

1. The principal tone, indicated by the accent (§ 15, 2), rests on the final syllable of most words, e. g. קָטַלְתָּ, דָּבַרְתָּ; דָּבַרְתָּ, קָטַלְתָּ (the last two examples have

* There is no instance of a similar use of ג and ד, which would in that case likewise require Daghesh. The use of תוסף in Prov. xxx. 6 (shortened from תוסף) is the only exception; and in some MSS. the ד has Daghesh.

† With the exception, however, of ש, as פָּרָשׁ wild ass, רִיפָן fresh grass. On account of the feeble sound of the ש, the helping vowel may also be omitted, as חַטָּא sin, נַיִן valley.

‡ In this form (§ 65, 2) Doghesh lena remains in the final Tar, just as if no vowel preceded (§ 22, 2), in order to indicate that the helping Pathach has a very short sound, and at the same time to suggest קָטַלְתָּ as the original form. (Accordingly קָטַלְתָּ thou hast taken is distinguished also in pronunciation from קָטַלְתָּ ad sumendum.) The false epithet furtive given to this helping vowel, in connexion with the notion that such a vowel must be sounded before the consonant, caused the decided mistake, which long had its defenders, viz., that קָטַלְתָּ should be read shaláucht; although such words as שָׁחַת נַחַל, שָׁחַת נַחַל were always correctly sounded shúchãth, náchãl not naachl. Quite analogous is יַחַד yichãd (from יַחַד, see § 75, Rem. 3, d).

it even on additions to the root); less frequently on the penultima, as in מְלֶךְ, קָטֹלָה לַיְלִיָּה night, קָטֹלָה.

Connected with the principal tone is Methegh, a kind of secondary accent (§ 16, 2). Small words which are united by Maqqeph with the following one, are destitute of the tone (§ 16, 1).

It is not necessary here to single out the words accented on the penultima (vores penacutæ); for the sake, however, of calling attention to these words, they are chiefly marked in this book with ־, as a sign of the tone.

In Arabic the tone is more on the penultima, and even on the antepenultima. The Syrians accent mostly the penultima; and the Hebrew is pronounced thus, contrary to the accents, by the German and Polish Jews, e. g. בְּרֵשִׁית בְּרֵשִׁית בְּרֵשִׁית brëshis bóro.

2. The original tone of a word frequently shifts its place on account of changes in the word itself, or in its relation to other words. If the word is increased at the end, the tone is thrown forward (descendit) one or two syllables, according to the length of the addition, as דָּבָר word, דְּבָרִים words, דְּבָרֶיךָ your words; קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary, קֹדְשֵׁימִים sanctuaries; קָטֹלָהוּ, קָטֹלָה. For the consequent shortening of the vowels, see § 27, 1, 3.

In one case the tone is thrown forward in consequence of accession at the beginning of the word. See § 44, Rem. 5, b.

3. On the contrary, the original tone is shifted from the final syllable to the penultima (ascendit)—

- a) When the syllable וֹ (§ 49, 2) is prefixed, as יֹאמַר he will say, וַיֹּאמֶר and he said; יֵלֶךְ he will go, וַיֵּלֶךְ and he went; יָקֻם let him rise, וַיָּקָם and he rose.
- b) When a monosyllabic word, or one with the tone on the penultima follows, in order to avoid the meeting of two tone-syllables;* e. g. אֶלְלָר בּוֹ I was born in it Job iii. 3, for אֶלְלָר בּוֹ; הוֹלֵם פְּעָם beating the anvil Is. xli. 7, for הוֹלֵם פְּעָם Gen. i. 5; iii. 19; iv. 17; Job xxii. 28; Ps. xxi. 2.
- c) In pause. See No. 4.

The meeting of two tone-syllables (letter b) is avoided in another way, viz., by writing the words with Maqqeph between them, in which case the first wholly loses the tone, as וַיִּקְרַבְיָם. The mode given above (letter b) is adopted whenever the penultima is an open syllable with a long vowel. Compare § 47, Rem. 1, § 51, Rem. 3, § 52, Rem. 2.

4. Very essential changes of the tone, and consequently of the vowels, are effected by the Pause. By this term is meant the strong accentuation of the tone-

* Even the prose of the Hebrews proceeds, according to the accentuation, in a kind of Iambic rhythm. That the authors of the system intended to secure this object is evident, particularly from the application of Methegh.

syllable of the word which closes a period or member of a period, where one of the great distinctive accents stands, as הַמַּיִם, הַאֲרִיזִין. The changes are as follows:—

a) When the syllable in pause has a short vowel, it becomes long; as קָטַל, קָטַל; מִים, מִים; קָטַלְתָּ, קָטַלְתָּ; קָטַלְתָּ, קָטַלְתָּ; קָטַלְתָּ (conspiracy), קָטַלְתָּ 2 Ki. xi. 14; אֲרִיזִין, אֲרִיזִין Jer. xxii. 29.

b) When a final tone-syllable is preceded by a half syllable (as קָטַלְתָּ, see § 26, 4), the vocal Sh'va of the latter gives place to a full vowel; a more fitting position is thus secured for the tone, which is moved from the last syllable to the new penultima; e. g. יִקְטְלוּ, יִקְטְלוּ; מְלֹאָה, מְלֹאָה; קָטַלְתָּ, קָטַלְתָּ. The vowel selected is always that which had been dropped from the same syllable, in consequence of the lengthening of the word.* Moreover, vocal Sh'va in pause becomes Seghol, as לְחִי, לְחִי; and a Chateph gives place to the analogous long vowel, as אֲנִי I, אֲנִי; חָלִי, חָלִי sickness.

c) This tendency to place the tone on the penultima in pause shows itself, moreover, in several words which then regularly retract the tone, as אֲנָכִי I, אֲנָכִי; אָתָּה thou, אָתָּה; עֲתָּה now, עֲתָּה; and in single cases, like פָּלוּ Ps. xxxvii. 20, for פָּלוּ, and also לָעוּ Job vi. 3, for לָעוּ, from לָעוּ.

The rule given under letter a relates mainly to Pathach and Seghol. Seghol is, however, strong enough to be retained in pause, as מְלֹאָה, and specially when the syllable closes with Daghesh forte, as, יִקְטַלְנוּ.

Pathach is sometimes adopted in place of Seghol, as וַיִּלֶּךְ, in pause וַיִּלֶּךְ; אֶל-תֵּלֶּן lodge not, in pause אֶל-תֵּלֶּן Judg. xix. 20. Pathach even takes the place of Tsere in pause; e. g. הֵיטֵב bring back, for הֵיטֵב, Is. xlii. 22, although more usually Tsere remains; and, on the other hand, Pathach occurs also even when the word is not in pause; e. g. תָּרַר for תָּרַר Ecc. iii. 48.

Several other changes occasioned by the pause will be noticed farther on, when treating upon the Forms and Inflexions.

THE STEM-WORDS AND ROOTS (BILITERALS, TRILITERALS, QUADRILITERALS).

1. THE stem-words of the Hebrew and of the other Shemitic languages have this peculiarity, that by far the most of them consist of three consonants, on which the meaning essentially depends, while its various modifications are expressed by changes in the vowels, e. g. אָרַם he was red, אָרַם red, אָרַם man (prop. red one). Such a stem-word may be indifferently either a verb or a noun, and usually the language exhibits both together, as מָלַךְ he has reigned, מֶלֶךְ king. Yet it is customary and of practical utility for the beginner to consider the third person singular of the Preterite, i. e. one of the most simple forms of the verb, as the stem-word, and the other forms of both the verb and the noun, together with most of the particles, as derived from it, e. g. צָדַק he was righteous, צְדָקָה righteousness, צְדִיק righteous, etc. Sometimes the language, as handed down to us, exhibits only the verbal stem without a corresponding form for the noun, as סָקַל to stone, נָהַק to bray; and occasionally the noun is found without the corresponding verb, e. g. נָנֵב south, תִּשְׁעָה nine. Yet it must be supposed that the language, as spoken, often had the forms now wanting; most of them being actually found in the cognate dialects.

Rem. 1. The Jewish grammarians call the stem-word, i. e. the third person singular of the Preterite, the root, שֹׁרֵשׁ, for which the Latin term radix is often used; and hence the three consonants of the stem are called radical letters, in contradistinction from the servile letters (viz. א, ב, ה, ו, י, כ, ל, מ, נ, ט, פ, ק, ר, ש, ת, forming the mnemonic expression אֵיתָן מִיֵּהָ וְקַלֵּב Ethan, Moses, and Caleb), which are added in the derivation and inflexion of words. We, however, employ the term root in a different sense, as explained here, in No. 2.

2. Many etymologists give the name root to the three stem-consonants, viewed as vowelless and unpronounceable, from which the stems for both the verbs and the nouns are developed, as, in the vegetable kingdom (from which the figurative expression is taken), the stems grow out of the concealed root. Thus for example—

Root: מלך to reign.

Verb-stem: מָלַךְ he has reigned.      Noun-stem: מֶלֶךְ king.

This supposition of an unpronounceable root is, however, an abstraction too remote from the actual state of the language; and it is better, at least for the historical mode of treatment, to consider the concrete verb [3rd pers. sing. Pret.] as the stem-word.

3. These trilateral stems are generally of two syllables. But among them are reckoned also such as have for their middle letter a ו, which is uttered as a vowel (§ 24, 2, c), and thus reduces the form to one syllable, e. g. מָוַם for מָוַם.

2. The use of three consonants in the stems of the verbs and nouns is so prevalent a law in the Shemitic languages, that it is to be regarded as a characteristic peculiarity of this family. Even such monosyllabic nouns as might be deemed originally monosyllables (bilateral roots), since they express the first, simplest, and commonest ideas, as אב father, אם mother, אח brother, come under this law; thus, we have אמי my mother, as if derived from אמם. Yet, on the other hand, stems with three consonants (trilateral roots) may be reduced to two consonants, which, with a vowel uttered between, form a sort of root-syllable, from which again several trilateral stems with the same meaning have sprung up. Such root-syllables are called primary or bilateral roots. They are very easily distinguished when the stem has a feeble consonant or the same consonant in the second and third place. Thus, the stems דָּבַדְּךָ, דָּוָךְ, דָּבַדְּךָ, דָּבַדְּךָ have all the meaning of to beat and to beat in pieces, and the two stronger letters דך dakh [comp. Eng. thwack] constitute the monosyllabic root. The third stem-consonant may also be strong. To such a monosyllabic root there often belongs a whole series of trilateral stems, which have two radical letters and the fundamental idea in common.

Only a few examples of this sort here:—

From the root קצ, which imitates the sound of hearing, are derived immediately קָצַץ to cut off; then קָצַב, קָצַע, קָצַר, with the kindred significations to shear, to mow, and metaph. to decide, to judge (hence קָדִין Arab. Kadi, a judge). Related to this is the syllable קָט, קָט, from which is derived קָטַם to cut into; קָטַב to sharpen; קָטַה to pare. With a lingual instead of the sibilant קָט, קָר; hence קָרַב to cut down, to destroy; קָרַל to cut down, to kill; קָרַץ to cut off, to shorten; קָרַף to tear off, to pluck off; קָרַר to cut asunder, to split. A softer form of this radical syllable is קָם; hence קָמַם to cut off, to shear off; קָמַם Syr. to sacrifice, to slay for sacrifice. Still softer are קָו and קָו; hence קָוַו to mow, to shear; קָוַה to hew stones; קָוַע, קָוַל, קָוַר to hew off, to cut off, to cut off, to graze; and so קָוַר to cut, קָוַע, to cut off; compare also קָוַה, קָוַר. With the change of the palatal for the guttural sound קָצַב, קָטַב to hew stones and wood, קָצַץ, קָטַץ to split, divide, קָצַץ arrow (σχιζα), קָצַר to sharpen, קָצַץ arrow, lightning, also קָצַה to see (Lat. cernere, Germ. unterscheiden), and many others.

The syllable הם expresses the humming sound made with the mouth closed (μύω); hence הָמָה, הָמָם, נָמָם, נָמָס, נָמָס. Arab. המיהם, to hum, to buzz. To these add הם to be dumb; רהם to become mute, to be astonished.

The root syllable רע, of which both letters have a tremulous sound, means to tremble, in the stem-words רָעַר, רָעַל, רָעַם, רָעַט, רָעַט: then it is expressive of what causes tremulous motion or agitation, as thunder רָעַם, the act of shattering, of breaking in pieces (רָעַע, רָעַע).

Compare with these the root-syllable נב with the idea of elevation, curving upward (gibbous), נב to break, לָע, לָה, to lick, to sup, under the articles נָבַב, פָּרַר, לֹוַע, in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon.

From a further consideration of this subject, we may draw the following observations:—

- a) These roots are mere abstractions from stems in actual use, and are themselves not in use. They merely represent the hidden germs (semina) of the stems which appear in the language. Yet the latter have, now and then, so short a form, that they exhibit only the elements of the root itself, as הם perfectus fuit, לָל light.
- b) Most of these monosyllabic roots are imitations of natural sounds, and sometimes coincide with the roots of the Indo-Germanic stock (§ 1, 4); e. g. תָּפַח [comp. Eng. tap], טָּפַח (טיפω), רָפַח (ράφω), קָלַח [comp. Eng. club], קָלַח (κολάπτω).
- c) The stems with hard, strong consonants are to be regarded, according to the general progress of language (§ 6, 4), as the oldest, while the feebler and softer consonants distinguish forms of a later period, which consequently are more frequently used for the derivative and metaphorical significations: e. g. נָמָם and נָמָס to be smooth, to be shorn, to be bald; and even נָמָה to be bare. Sometimes, however, the harder or softer sound is essential to the imitative character of the word, as גָּלַל to roll (spoken of a ball, of the rolling of waves), but נָמַר more for a rough sound, as made in the act of scrapping = σαίρω, σέρω, verro: הָצַב to cut stones or wood, requires a stronger sound than נָמַר to cut grass, to mow.
- d) It appears also that those consonants, which resemble each other in strength or feebleness, are commonly associated in the formation of root-syllables, as קָנַן, כָּס, נָו, נָר (never כָּיַן, נָיַן, נָס, קָו); פָּיַן (seldom פָּו); קָטַן, נָר (not נָט). Scarcely ever are the first two radicals the same (דָּרָה) or very similar (הָלַה). On the contrary, the last two are very often the same (§ 67).*
- e) The tendency to substitute smooth for harsh sounds (see letter c) is sometimes so great, that l, n, r, especially when used as middle stem-letters, are even softened to vowels, as דָּרַשׁ, דָּרַשׁ to tread down, to thresh; נָמַס, נָמַס (comp. אָנַס), to press, and many others. Comp. salvare, French sauver; calidus, Ital. caldo, in Naples caudo, French chaud; falsus, falso, in Calabria fauzu, French faux; and the pronunciation of the English words talk, walk. Comp. § 19, 5, Rem.
- f) Often, however, the three stem-letters must all be regarded as original, since all are necessary to make the sound of the word expressive of the sense, e. g. הָרַק, הָרַק, עָנַק, to be narrow, to afflict, אַנְגָו, ango [Anguish, Welsh yny, angau]; רָרַר to tread [comp. track]; בָּרַם, βρέμω, fremo, [Welsh brfu, Ger. brummen], to make a humming sound (to buzz, hence to spin), etc.

A fuller development of this active change among the elements of the language is to be sought for in the Lexicon.

3. To a secondary process or later epoch of the language belong stem-words of four, and, in the case of nouns, even of five, consonants. These are, however, comparatively far less frequent in Hebrew than in its sister dialects.* This enlargement of the form is effected in two ways: a) by adding a fourth stem-letter; b) by combining into one word two trilateral stems, by which process even quinqueliterals are formed. Such enlarged forms as arise from the mere repetition of some of the three stem-letters, as קָטַל, קָטַלְטַל; קָבַב, קָבַבְבַּב, are not regarded as quadrilateral, but as variations in conjugation (§ 55). So likewise the few words which are formed by prefixing ט, as טְלַהֲבַת flame, from לָהַב, Aram. conj. Shaphel טְלַהֲבַת.

* Letters which are not found associated as radicals are called incompatible. They are chiefly such as too strongly resemble each other, as קָנַן, נָקַן, בָּרַן, פָּבַן. Some letters, however, have been falsely considered incompatible, as ל, ר, which are often found associated, e. g. in לָרַל and רָרַל, from the harsher forms לָרַר, רָרַר. Comp. γραπτός along with γραπτός, ἀκρω along with ὄκρω, and much that is analogous in Sanskrit.

Rem. on a). Some forms are made by the insertion particularly of l and r between the first and second radicals; as קָסַם, קָסַמְסַם to shear off, to eat off; יִטְרַבִּיט = יִטְרַבִּיט sceptre; זָעַה to glow, זָעַהֲזָעַה hot wind (the first form with ר frequent in Syr.). This mode of formation is analogous with P'îl, and in Aramæan the two forms exist together, as עָרַגַּל, עָרַגְלַל. In Latin there is a corresponding enlargement of the stem; as fundo, scindo, tundo, jungo (in Sanskr., Class VII.), from fid, scid (σκεδάω,) tud, jug. Additions are also made at the end, principally of l and n; as זָרַן an axe, from זָרַן to cut (comp. graze); עֲרֻמָּל an orchard, from עָרַם; נִבְעַל flower-cup, from נָבִיעַ cup; from תָּרַנַּן to tremble, תָּרַנְנַל to hop (the termination el has perhaps a diminutive force, as it has in many languages).

Rem. on b). In the combination of triliterals, it generally happens that letters common to them both are written but once in the compound form, as צַפְרִיָּע a frog, perhaps prop. marsh-hopper, from צַפַּר to hop, and Arab. ررأع a marsh. שְׁלֵאֲנָן tranquil, from שָׁלַח to be quiet, and שָׁאֲנָן to be at rest; or a feeble letter is cast away, as עֲטָרָה a bat, from עָטַל dark and עָרַף flying. Still bolder changes are sometimes made in the amalgamation of words, as פְּלִנִי אֶלְמִי (ὁ δέινα) Dan. viii. 13, from פְּלִנִי אֶלְמִי.

It should be remarked that quadrilaterals may be shortened again into triliterals; e. g. from הֲרַנְנַל (hop, see above), הַנַּל with the same signification; hence הֲנִילָה a partridge (from its hopping, limping gait); שְׁרַטָּה a chain for שְׁרַטְרָה, from שָׁרַר, שְׁרַרְרַר.

4. To an earlier stage of the language, on the contrary, belong the pronouns (§ 32, foll.), and some particles, especially interjections (§ 105, 1), which, as an ancient and crude formation, have not attained to the model of the trilateral stems, and follow peculiar and freer laws of inflexion.† Most of the particles, however, are either derived from nouns or resemble them in inflexion, although their form is often very much shortened on account of their enclitic nature, and their origin can no longer be known. (See § 99, etc.)

* Especially in Æthiopic, where these forms are very frequent; see Hupfeld's Exercitatt. Æthiop. pp. 24 foll.

SECT. 31.

GRAMMATICAL STRUCTURE.

1. The formation of the parts of speech from the roots, and their inflexion, are effected in two ways: a) by changes in the stem itself, particularly in its vowels; b) by the addition of formative syllables. A third method, viz., the use of several separate words in place of inflexion (as in expressing the comparative degree and several relations of case), belongs rather to the syntax than to that part of grammar which treats of forms.

The second mode of forming words, viz., by agglutination, which is exemplified in the Egyptian, appears on the whole to be the more ancient of the two. Yet other languages, as well as the Shemitic, had early-recourse also to the first mode, viz., internal modification of the stem, and in the period of their youthful vigour developed a strong tendency to follow this process; but in their later periods this tendency continually diminished in force, so that it became necessary to use syntactical circumlocution. This is exemplified in the Greek (including the modern) and in the Latin with its corrupt branches (called the Romance language). The formation of words by agglutination is prevalent in ancient and modern Egyptian; that by internal modification, in Sanskrit and Greek. The Chinese is almost entirely destitute of any grammatical structure, and supplies its place by syntactical methods.

2. Both methods of formation and inflexion are found in Hebrew. That which is effected by vowel changes exhibits considerable variety (קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל). We have an example of the other method in הִתְקַטַּל, and of both in the same word in הִתְקַטַּל. Inflexion by the addition of formative syllables occurs, as in almost all languages, in the formation of the persons of the verb, where also the import of these annexed syllables is still, for the most part, perfectly clear (see §§ 44, 47); moreover, it occurs in the distinction of gender and number in the verb and the noun. Of case-endings, on the contrary, there appear in Hebrew only slight traces [§ 90].

CHAPTER I.

THE PRONOUN.

THE PERSONAL OR SEPARATE PRONOUN.

1. THE personal pronoun (as well as the pronouns generally) is among the oldest and simplest elements of the language (§ 30, 4). On this account, and because it lies at the foundation of the flexion of the verb (§§ 44, 47), it properly claims our first attention.

2. The separate and primary forms of this pronoun, and as such expressing the nominative, are the following:—

Singular.	Plural.
1. comm. אֲנֹכִי, in pause אָנֹכִי; } I.	1. comm. אֲנָהֶנּוּ, (נָהֶנּוּ), (אָנּוּ) } we.
אֲנִי, in pause אָנִי
2. { m. אַתָּה (אתָּ), in pause אָתָּה } thou.	2. { m. אַתֶּם } ye.
{ f. אַתְּ (אתְּ) prop. אַתִּי }	{ f. אַתֶּן, אַתְּנָה }
3. { m. הוּא } he.	3. { m. הֵם, הֵמָּה } they.
{ f. הִיא } she.	{ f. הֵן, הֵנָּה }

The forms included in parentheses seldom occur. A complete view of these pronouns, with their abbreviated forms (suffixes), is given at the end of § 33.

REMARKS.

I. First Person.

1. The form אֲנֹכִי is nearly as frequent in the Old Testament as אֲנִי. The former is found in the Phœnician, but in no other of the kindred dialects;* from the latter are formed the suffixes (§ 33). In the Talmud, אֲנֹכִי is very seldom used, and אֲנִי is prevalent.

2. The formation of the plural in this and the other persons, though analogous with that of verbs and nouns, exhibits (as also in the pronoun of other languages) much that is irregular and arbitrary. The plural אֲנָהֶנּוּ is manifestly formed from אֲנֹכִי (with the exchange of נ for ה) by the addition of אָנְךָ. The form אָנְךָ, from which the suffixes are derived, occurs only in Jer. xlii. 6 (Kethibh). The form אָנְךָ is found only six times; e. g. Gen. xlii. 11; Numb. xxxii. 32. (In the Talmud אָנְךָ alone appears.)

* In Phœnician it is written אֲנֹךְ, without the ending ך, and spoken somewhat like anekh (Plauti Parmulus, V. 2, 35, Gesenii Mon. Phœnicia, pp. 376, 437). A trace of this form is found in the Æthiopic qatalku (I have killed). In ancient Egyptian, ANK (pronounced anok).

3. The first person alone is of the common gender, because one that is present speaking needs not the distinction of gender as does the second person addressed (in Greek, Latin, and German, the distinction is omitted here also), and, much more, the third person spoken of.

II. Second Person.

4. The forms אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, are contracted from אָנְךָ, etc., and the kindred dialects have still the u before the אָ, Arab. anta, f. anti thou, plur. antum, f. antum ye. The essential syllable is אָנְךָ tā, and on it the meaning thou depends (see § 44, 1); the an prefixed is demonstrative, and gives more support to the form. אָנְךָ without אָ occurs only five times, e. g. Ps. vi. 4, and each time as Kethibh with the Qeri, אָנְךָ. As the vowels of the text belong to the Qeri (§ 17), the reading of the Kethibh may have been אָנְךָ, as an abbreviation from אָנְךָ.

The feminine form was originally pronounced אָנְךָ (with the feminine designation אָ, probably from אָנְךָ she, properly thou she; compare אָנְךָ § 47, 2), as in Syriac, Arabic, and Æthiopic. This form is still found in a few instances (Judg. xvii. 2, 1 Kings xiv. 2). Some forms in the inflexion of the verb are derived from it (see § 44, Rem. 4, § 59, 1). The final t sound, however, was gradually given up (in Syriac also it was at length only written, not pronounced), and the אָ therefore dropped, so that the Jewish critics, even in the above-mentioned passages, place in the Qeri אָנְךָ, the Sheva of which stands in the punctuation of the text (§ 17). The same final אָ appears, moreover, in the unfrequent forms of the suffix, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ (§ 58).

5. The plurals אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, are blunted forms (comp. § 27, Rem. 4, b) of אָנְךָ (Arab. antum, Chal. אָנְךָ, a form which lies at the foundation of some verbal inflexions, § 59, 1), and אָנְךָ or אָנְךָ, the full final vowel giving place to the obtuse sound of e, somewhat in the manner of the third person. אָנְךָ is found only once (Eze. xxxiv. 31, where another reading is אָנְךָ), and אָנְךָ (for which MSS. have also אָנְךָ) occurs only four times, viz., in Gen. xxxi. 6; Eze. xiii. 11, 20; xxxiv. 17. For the ending אָנְךָ, see No. 7.

III. Third Person.

6. The אָ was, perhaps, heard at the end of אָנְךָ and אָנְךָ, as a kind of half vowel, húa, hía, as e in German die (old Germ. thiu, thiu), sie, wie. A trace of this is also preserved in the Arabic, as huwa, hiya, in the common dialect húa, hía.

The masculine אָנְךָ is of common gender in the Pentateuch,* in which it is used also for she. (See § 2. 3.) The punctators, however, whenever it stands for אָנְךָ, give it the appropriate pointing of this form (אָנְךָ), and require it to be read אָנְךָ (comp. § 17). It is, however, to be sounded rather according to the old form אָנְךָ.

7. The plural forms אָנְךָ and אָנְךָ are obtained from אָנְךָ and אָנְךָ in the same manner as אָנְךָ from אָנְךָ. In Arab., where they are pronounced hum, huma, the obscure vowel sound is retained, for which Seghol stands also in the suffixes אָנְךָ and אָנְךָ (comp. § 27, Rem. 4, b). The אָנְךָ in both forms (He paragogic) has a demonstrative force. In Chald. (אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ), Arab., and Æthiopic. (hūmā, hōmū) there is an ó or ú appended, which appears in Hebrew in the poetical forms אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ (§ 58, 1).

8. The pronouns of the third person, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, אָנְךָ, are also demonstrative pronouns (see § 122, 1).

* Some rare exceptions occur; see in Lev. xiii. 10; xx. 17.

THE SUFFIX PRONOUN.

1. The full and separate forms of the pronoun, as given in the foregoing section, express only the nominative:* the accusative and genitive, on the contrary, are expressed by shortened forms or fragments, which are joined to the end of verbs, nouns, and particles (suffix pronouns, usually suffixes); e. g. הוּ and הִ his (from הוּא he), thus קָטַלְתִּיהוּ I have killed him, סוּסוֹ his horse.

Instances of the same construction occur in Greek, Latin, and German, as πατήρ μου for πατήρ ἐμὸν, Lat. ecum in Plautus for ecce eum, Germ. du hast's for du hast es [comp. vulgar English give'm for give them]. In Hebrew this is done systematically, as in Egyptian, Hungarian, and some other languages.

2. In respect to the cases which these suffixes denote, let it be remarked—

- a) When joined to verbs, they denote the accusative (but comp. § 121, 4), קָטַלְתִּיהוּ I have killed him.
- b) When joined to substantives, they denote the genitive (like πατήρ μου, pater ejus), and then serve as possessive pronouns, as אָבִי (abh-i) my father; סוּסוֹ his horse (so that it is as much equus ejus as equus suus, comp. § 124, 1, b).
- c) When joined to particles, they denote either the genitive or the accusative, according as the particle includes the meaning of a noun or a verb, e. g. אִתִּי (prop. my vicinity) with me, like mea caussa, on the contrary הִנֵּנִי behold me.
- d) The dative and ablative of the pronoun are expressed by combining the prepositions that are signs of these cases (לְ sign of the dative, בְּ in, מִן from, § 102) with the suffixes, as לוֹ to him, בּוֹ in him, מִכֶּם from you.

3. Some of these suffixes are probably derived from forms of the separate pronoun, which were early lost in Hebrew, as הִּי thee, from a form like הִּיָּה = הִּיָּהָה † thou. This applies also to the affirmatives of the verb (§ 44, 1).

4. The suffix of the verb (the accusative), and the suffix of the noun (the genitive), are mostly the same in form, but sometimes they are different, e. g. ני me, מי my.

* See an exception in § 121, 3.

† That a palatal (k) and lingual (l) are liable to be exchanged, is manifest from the speech of young children, who frequently confound them, as lkkie for little. Obvious instances of this exchange are found in many languages, as Gr. δαίω = καίω, Gr. τίς = Æol. κίς, Lat. quis, and in the Hebrew itself הִיָּהָה = הִיָּהָה to drink. There is thus a strong presumption that the pronoun of the second person in the Shemitic languages must have had two forms, one with k and the other with l, as הִיָּהָה and הִיָּהָה, הִיָּהָה and הִיָּהָה.—TR.

The following Paradigm gives a view of all the forms of the pronoun, both separate and suffix; more explanation about the suffix of the verb and the mode of attaching it to the verb will be found in §§ 58, etc., about the suffix of the noun in § 91, about prepositions with suffixes in § 103.

SECT. 34.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUN.

Sing. m. הַזֶּה* } this.      Plur. comm. הַאֵלֶּה (rarely אֵלֶּה) these.
f. זֹאת (זֹה, זֹה) }

The feminine form זֹאת is for זֹאת (from אֵת = הֵן and the feminine ending ת, see § 80), and the forms זֹה, זֹה, which are both of rare occurrence, come from זֹאת by dropping ת. אֵלֶּה and הַאֵלֶּה (akin to the Arabic article أل, see § 35, Rem. 1) are plural according to use, and not according to grammatical inflexion. The form אֵלֶּה occurs only in the Pentateuch and 1 Chron. xx. 8, and there always with the article הַאֵלֶּה (Rem. 1). The ending הַ in הַאֵלֶּה (same as הַ) is a demonstrative appendage, as in הַמִּזְבֵּחַ (§ 32, Rem. 7).

Another secondary form of the demonstrative is הֵן, used only in poetry. It stands mostly for the relative (like that for who), and it is used alike for all numbers and genders, like הַאֵשֶׁר (§ 36).

Rem. 1. This pronoun receives the article (הַ, הַאֵלֶּה, הַאֵלֶּה) according to the same rules as the adjectives, § 111, 2, and § 122, 1. There are, besides, some peculiar forms in which ה is inserted after the article, הַלֵּלָה Gen. xxiv. 65; xxxvii. 19; הַלֵּלוּ fem. Eze. xxxvi. 35, and shortened הַלֵּל usually masc. Judges vi. 20; 1 Sam. xiv. 1; xvii. 26; but fem. in 2 Kings iv. 25. In Arabic there is a corresponding form alladhī as relative pronoun.

2. Some other pronominal stems occur among the particles, § 99, etc.

THE ARTICLE.

Originally the article was a demonstrative pronoun, akin to the pronoun of the 3rd person. It nowhere occurs in Hebrew as an independent word, but always in close connexion with the word before which it stands. Its usual form is הַ, with a short sharp-spoken ā and a doubling of the following consonant (by Daghesh forte), e. g. הַשֶּׁמֶשׁ the sun, הַיָּאָר the river for הַיָּאָר (according to § 20, 3, b).

When, however, the article הַ stands before a word beginning with a guttural, which (according to § 22, 1) does not admit of Daghesh forte, then the short and sharp ā (Pathach) is lengthened into ā (Qamets) or ū (Seghol).

* In most languages the demonstratives begin with d, hence called the demonstrative sound, which is, however, interchanged with a sibilant [as in Heb. הַזֶּה] or a rough breathing. Thus in Aram. אֵת, זֶה, זֶה this, Arab. dhu, dhi, dha; Sanskr. sa, sā, tat, [Gr. ὁ, ἡ, τὸ], Goth. sa, sô, thata; Germ. da; der, die, das [our the, this, that; Welsh dyna; hyn, hynau], etc.

But to be more minute:—

1) Before the weakest guttural א and before ר (§ 22, 5) the vowel of the article is always lengthened, as הָאָב the father, הָאֲחֵר the other, הָאִמָּה the mother, הָאִישׁ the man, הָאוֹר the light, הָאֱלֹהִים ó theós, הָרֶגֶל the foot, הָרֹאשׁ the head, הָרָשָׁע the evil-doer.

2) For the other gutturals it is in general the rule, that the stronger the guttural the firmer is the syllable of the article, both as to its sharpness and its short ā. But there are then two cases to be distinguished:—

A) When the guttural is followed by any other vowel than ā, ā or ō, ā, then a) before ה and ה (as being stronger), the article regularly remains הָ, as הָהוּא that, הָחֹדֶשׁ the month, הָחֵיל the strength; with rare exceptions, as הָהִי Gen. vi. 19, and always הָהֵם those; b) before ע the Pathach is generally lengthened, as הָעַיִן the eye, הָעִיר the city, הָעֶבֶד the servant, pl. הָעֶבְדִּים. (Exceptions in Jer. 12. 9; Prov. ii. 17.)

B) But when the guttural is followed by ā, ā, then a) before ה and ע the article is always הָ, provided it stands immediately before the tone-syllable, else it is הָ, e. g. הָעָם the people, הָהָר the mountain, הָעֵץ (in pause), הָהָרָה towards the mountain, on the contrary הָהָרִים the mountains, הָעוֹן the guilt; b) before ה the article is always הָ, without regard to the place of the tone, as הָחָכִים the wise, הָחַג the feast; so also c) before ה, as הָחֲלִי the sickness, הָחֳדָשִׁים the months. (On the contrary הָחֲכָמָה according to A, a.)

It may be added, that gender and number (just as in our language) have no influence on the form of the article.

Rem. 1. The form of the Hebrew article הָ seems to have originated from הַל, the ה of which is constantly assimilated to the next letter (like הַל from הַלְהַ § 19, 2.) This assimilation is to be accounted for from the enclitical nature of the article. In the Arabic it sounds هَل (pronounced hal by the Beduins*), the ה of which is likewise assimilated, at least so before all letters sounding like s and t, and before l, n, and r; e. g. al-Koran, but as-sana (by the Bed. has-sana), e. g. Heb. הַשָּׁנָה the year. The Arabic article itself occurs also in the Old Testament in the Arabic name אֱלֹהֵי־יִשְׂרָאֵל Gen. x. 26, and perhaps also in אֱלֹהֵי־בַיִשׁ ice, hail, e. g. אֱלֹהֵי־בַיִשׁ Eze. xiii. 11, 13; xxxviii. 22; and according to others also in אֱלֹהֵי־הָעָם the people, Pr. xxx. 31.

N.B. 2. When the prepositions ה, ל, and the ה of comparison (§ 102) come before the article, the ה is dropped by contraction, and the preposition takes its points (§ 19, 3. b, and § 23. 5), as אֱלֹהֵי־שָׁמַיִם in the heaven for אֱלֹהֵי־שָׁמַיִם; לְעָם to the people for לְהָעָם; בְּהָרִים on the mountains. With ה, however (which is less closely connected with the word), the ה very often remains, as בְּהִיּוֹם Gen. xxxix. 11, but also בְּיּוֹם Gen. xxv. 31, 33; else it seldom remains except in the later books, as * See Wallin in the Zeitschr. der D. Morgenl. Ges. Bd. vi. s. 195. 217.

לְהַעֲמֵם 2 Chron. x. 7. (Yet see 1 Sam. xiii. 21; Ps. xxxvi. 6.) With ׀, which is in its conception still less closely connected with the word, the ה always remains, as עַמְּהוּ and the people.

SECT. 36.

THE RELATIVE PRONOUN.

It is the same for both genders and numbers, אֲשֶׁר who, which. In the later books, and also in some of the earlier, viz., in Canticles constantly and in Judges occasionally, instead of this full form we have אֲשֶׁ (with the א elided and the ר assimilated, § 19, 2, 3), more rarely אֲשֶׁ Judges v. 7; Cant. i. 7, once אֲשֶׁ before א Judges vi. 17 (else אֲשֶׁ before gutturals), and even אֲשֶׁ* Eccl. ii. 22; iii. 18. On the mode of expressing the cases of the relative, see § 123, 1.

אֲשֶׁ is used also as a conjunction, like quod, ὅτι, that. Closely connected with it in meaning is אֲשֶׁ, which also belongs to the pronominal stems, § 104.

SECT. 37.

THE INTERROGATIVE AND INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

1. The interrogative pronoun is מִי who? (of persons), and מַה what? (of things).

The pointing of מַה with Qamets is seldom found except in pause and before א and ר, as אַמַּה מַה what are ye? רְאִיתֶם מַה רְאִיתֶם what do ye see? rarely before ה as in Josh. iv. 6, 21. It is commonly written in close connexion with the following word: a) מַה־ with Maggeph and Daghesh forte conjunctive (§ 20, 2), as מַה־לָּךְ what to thee? and even in one word, as מַה־לָּךְ what to you? Is. iii. 15, מַה־זֶּה what is this? Ex. iv. 2; b) before the harder gutturals ה, ח, ע, it likewise receives Pathach with the Daghesh implied in the guttural (§ 22, 1), מַה־הוּא Num. xiii. 18; c) when the guttural has Qamets, it receives Seghol (according to § 27, Rem. 2), as מַה־עָשִׂיתָ what hast thou done? This Seghol stands also occasionally before letters that are not guttural, as וּגְוִי מַה קוֹל what voice, etc.? 1 Sam. iv. 6; 2 Kings i. 7, but only when the tone of the clause is far removed from the word; moreover, in the form מַה־הוּא, מַה־הוּא (see more in the Lexicon, under מַה in the note).

2. Both מִי and מַה occur also as an indefinite pronoun, in the sense of whoever, whatever.

* In Phœnician the full form אֲשֶׁר does not occur, but אֲשֶׁ is pronounced sa, se, si, and אֲשֶׁ ys, es; see Gesen. Mon. Phœnicia, p. 438. Mover's Phœnic. Text I. p. 81, etc., II. p. 44. Comp. above, § 2, 5. Also in modern Hebrew אֲשֶׁ has become quite predominant.

THE VERB.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. THE verb is, in the Hebrew, the most elaborated part of speech as to inflexion, and also the most important, inasmuch as it mostly contains the stem of the others (§ 30), and its various modifications are, to a great extent, the basis of the other forms in the language.

2. Yet all verbs are not stem-words. Like nouns they may be divided, in respect to their origin, into three classes,—

a) Primitives, e. g. מָלַךְ to reign; יָשַׁב to sit.

b) Verbal derivatives, derived from other verbs, e. g. צָדַק to justify, הִצְטִיחַ to justify one's self, from צָדַק to be just; commonly called conjugations (§ 39).

c) Denominatives, or those derived from nouns in the form both of the primitives and the derivatives; e. g. אָהַל and אָהַל to pitch a tent, from אֹהֶל a tent; שָׁרַשׁ to root out and הִשְׁרִישׁ to take root, from שָׁרֵשׁ a root.

The noun, from which the denominative verb comes, is in most cases itself derivative; e. g. לָבָן to be white, hence לְבָנָה a brick (from the colour), and hence again לָבַן to make bricks; from דָּגָה to increase greatly, דָּג a fish, and hence again דָּגַג to fish.

A peculiar kind of secondary verbs, and at least of rather late formation in the language (hence frequent in the later dialects), are those denominatives, one of whose consonants, originally a mere servile, has become a radical; e. g. נָיַח to rest, to set one's self down; hence the noun נָחַת a setting down; hence again נָחַת to descend: in like manner נִשְׁחַת grave, destruction (from נִשְׁחַת), hence נִשְׁחַת to destroy.

SECT. 39.

1. The 3rd person Preterite of the simple form of the primitive verbs (i. e. Kal, see No. 4) is generally regarded as the stem-form or ground-form of the verb, as קָטַל he has killed, כָּבַד he was heavy.* From this are derived the other persons of the Preterite and the Participle. Another, more simple still, is the Infinitive, as קָטַל, also קָטֹל, with which the Imperative generally agrees in form, and from which is derived the Future.

* The Infinitive is here used for the sake of brevity in most grammars and lexicons, thus לָמַד to learn, prop. he has learned.

The first ground-form, of two syllables (Arab. qatala, qatila, qatula), may be called the concrete, and the second, which is generally monosyllabic (Arab. qatl, qill, qull), the abstract. The same analogy prevails in the division of nouns into abstract and concrete.

In verbs whose second radical is ו, the full stem appears only in the second form; e. g. שָׁנַב, of which the 3rd person Pret. is שָׁבַב.

2. From the simple form of the primitives, viz., Kal, are formed, according to an unvarying analogy in all verbs, the verba derivativa, each distinguished by a specific change in the form of the stem, with a corresponding definite change in its signification (intensive, frequentative, causative, passive, reflexive, reciprocal); e. g. לָמַד to learn, לָמַד לְאִדָּר to cause to learn, to teach; שָׁכַב to lie, הִשְׁכִּיב to cause to lie, to lay; שָׁפַט to judge, נִשְׁפָּט to contend before a judge, to litigate. In other languages such words are regarded as new derivative verbs; e. g. to fall, to fell; lactēre, to suck, lactāre, to give suck; jacēre, to throw, jacēre, to lie; γίνομαι to be born, γεννάω to bear. But in Hebrew, where these formations are beyond comparison more regular than e. g. in the German, Latin, and Greek, they are called, since the time of Reuchlin, conjugations (Heb. בְּנִינִים, more correctly species, modifications) of the primitive form, and both in the grammar and lexicon are always treated of in connexion as parts of the same verb.*

3. The changes of the primitive form consist partly in varying its vowels, or doubling one or more of its letters (קָטַל, קִטַּל; קוּטַל, קוֹטַל; קִטַּלְל, קִטַּלְלָל; comp. to lie, to lay; to fall, to fell); partly in the addition of formative letters or syllables (נִקְטַל, הִקְטַל; comp. to speak, to bespeak; to count, to recount; to bid, to forbid); sometimes in both united, as הִתְקַטַּל. (Comp. § 31, 2.)

In the Aramæan this is effected less by the change of vowels than by the addition of formative syllables; so that, for instance, all the passives are formed as reflexives by the prefix syllable אָחַח, אָחָח. The Arabic is rich in both methods, while the Hebrew holds also here the middle place (§ 1, 6).

4. Grammarians differ as to the number and arrangement of these conjugations. The common practice, however, of giving to them still the old technical designations, prevents any error. The simple form is called Kal (קָל light, because it has no formative additions); the others (בְּבָרִים heavy, because burdened with formative additions) derive their names from the Paradigm used by the old Jewish grammarians, פָּעַל he has done.† Several of them have passives which distinguish

* The term Conjugations, therefore, is evidently to be taken here in a different sense than in Greek and Latin grammar.

† This verb, on account of the guttural which it contains, is unsuitable for a Paradigm, and has been exchanged for פָּקַד, which possesses this advantage, that all its conjugations are actually in use in the Old Testament. There is, however, some indistinctness in the pronunciation of some of its forms, as פָּקְדָה, פָּקְדָה, פָּקְדָה. The Paradigm קָטַל, themselves from their actives by the obscure vowels. The most common conjugations (including Kal) are the five following; but few verbs, however, exhibit them all:—

	Active.	Passive.
1. Kal.	קָטַל to kill.	(wanting.)
2. Niphal.	נִקְטַל to kill one's self.	(very rare.)
3. Piël.	קָטַל to kill many, to massacre.	Pual. קָטַל
4. Hiphil.	הִקְטִיל to cause to kill.	Hophal. הִקְטַל
5. Hithpaël.	הִתְקַטַּל to kill one's self.	Hothpaal. הִתְקַטַּל

There are several other less frequent conjugations, of which some, however, are more common than these in the kindred languages; and in the irregular verb in Hebrew they sometimes take the place of the usual conjugations (§ 55).

In Arabic there is a greater variety of forms, and their arrangement more appropriate. Arranged after the Arabic manner, the Hebrew conjugations would stand thus:—1. Kal. 2. Piël and Pual. 3. Poël and Poal (§ 55, 1). 4. Hiphil and Hophal. 5. Hithpaël and Hothpaal. 6. Hithpoël (§ 55). 7. Niphal. 8. Wanting in Hebrew. 9. Piël. The more appropriate division is into three classes; a) The intensive Piël, with the analogous forms derived from it; b) The causative Hiphil, and its analogous forms (Shaphel, Tiphel); c) The reflexive and passive Niphal.

SECT. 40.

1. The Hebrew verb is indebted, for whatever copiousness it exhibits, chiefly to these conjugations or derivative verbs. In moods and tenses it is poor, having only two tenses (Preterite and *Future**), an Imperative, an Infinitive (with two forms), and a Participle. All other relations of time, absolute and relative, must be expressed by these, either alone (hence the diversity in the senses of the same form, § 125, etc.) or in syntactical connexion with other words. The jussive and optative are sometimes indicated by peculiar forms of the Future (see § 48).

In the Germanic languages, also, there are distinct forms for only two tenses (the Present and Imperfect). In the formation of all the others auxiliary verbs are employed. Comp. Grimm's d. Gramm. 2. A. 1, 135.

2. In the inflection of the Pret. and Fut. by persons, the Hebrew differs from the Western languages, having in most cases distinct forms for both genders, as in the personal pronoun, which is incorporated in the forms of these tenses.

in common use since the time of Danz, obviates this inconvenience, and is especially adapted to the comparative treatment of the Shemitic languages, inasmuch as it is found with a slight change (Arab. and Æthiop. קָתַל) in all of them. In Hebrew, it is true, it has only the forms of Kal, which are not frequent, and occur only in poetry; yet it may be retained as a type or model sanctioned by usage.

* See note on "the Future and its inflection," § 47, p. 79.—Tr.

As a preliminary view for the beginner, we exhibit here in a Table the formative syllables (affirmatives and preformatives) of both tenses. Fuller instruction concerning them will be found in §§ 44—47 in connexion with the Paradigms.

SECT. 41.

The general analogy in the inflexion of verbs, which is normally exhibited in the stems with strong and firm consonants, holds good for all verbs; and the deviations which occur from this model of the strong and regular verb, are only modifications owing to the peculiar nature and the feebleness of many consonants, viz.—

- a) To the presence of a guttural as one of the stem-letters or radicals, which occasions various vowel changes according to § 22 (guttural verb, §§ 62—65).
- b) To the falling away of a strong stem-letter by assimilation or contraction (*contracted* verb*, §§ 66, 67), as נָגַט, נָכַב.
- c) To the presence of a feeble letter as one of the radicals (§§ 23, 24), so that many changes occur through its commutation, omission, or quiescence (quiescent or feeble verb, § 68, etc.), as יָשַׁב, קוּם.

The letters of the old Paradigms פֶּעֶל are used in naming the letters of the stem, פֶּ designating the first, y the second, and ל the third. Hence the expressions, verb פֶּ for a verb whose first radical is פֶּ (primæ radicalis פֶּ); verb לֶ for one whose third radical is לֶ (tertiæ radicalis לֶ); verb עֶ (y doubled) for one whose second and third radicals are the same (mediæ radicalis geminata).

* The term defective, by which some designate this class, we apply to those whose forms are not all in use (§ 75).

I. THE REGULAR VERB.

SECT. 42.

As the rules for the inflexion of the regular verb apply, with only occasional modifications, to all the irregular verbs, it will be most convenient, and it will also exhibit the subject in the clearest light to the learner, if we present, while treating of the former, whatever belongs to the general analogy of the verb.

† [Or jussive, according to Rödiger, and so throughout all the following Tables.—EDR.]

This Paradigm (together with the Table of the formative syllables in § 40, 2) exhibits a complete view of the usual and normal forms. Full explanations are given in the following sections (43—55), where every subject is elucidated on its first occurrence; thus, under Kal the inflexions of the Preterite, and of the Future and its modifications, are minutely explained with reference also to the other conjugations; and under the regular verb are given the forms and significations of conjugations which apply also to the irregular, etc.

A. THE SIMPLE FORM, OR KAL.

SECT. 43.

ITS FORM AND SIGNIFICATION.

1. The common form of the 3rd person Pret. in Kal is קָטַל, with a short A (Pathach), in the second syllable, especially in transitive verbs. There is also a form with E (Tsere), and another with O (Cholem), in the second syllable; the two latter are usually found with intransitive meaning, and serve for expressing states and qualities, e. g. כָּבֵד to be heavy, קָטַן to be small. Sometimes both forms, the transitive and the intransitive, exist together, as מָלָא to fill (Esther vii. 5), מָלֵא to be full (comp. § 47, Rem. 2), yet also with the same signification for both forms, as קָרַב and קָרַב to approach.

A verb middle E will be found in the Paradigm by the side of a verb middle A.* The example selected shows, at the same time, the effect of inflexion on Daghesh lene in the middle stem-letter.

Rem. 1. The vowel of the second syllable is the principal vowel, and hence it distinguishes between the transitive and intransitive. The pretonic Qamets in the first syllable has little strength, and becomes vocal Sh'va on the shifting of the tone, as קָטַלְהֶם. In Aramæan it wholly falls away in the root itself, as קָטַל, קָטַל.

2. Examples of denominatives in Kal; הָבִיר to cover with pitch, from הָבִיר pitch; מָלַח to salt, from מָלַח salt.

SECT. 44.

PRETERITE OF KAL AND ITS INFLEXION.

1. The inflexion of the Preterite, in respect to person, number, and gender, is effected by the addition of fragments of the personal pronouns (affirmatives) to the end of the ground-form. In explaining this connexion, we may treat the ground-form as a participle, or a verbal adjective,† thus קָטַלְתָּ thou hast killed.

* A verb middle A is one that has Pathach or Qamets under the middle radical or in the second syllable; a verb middle E, one that has Tsere; and a verb middle O, one that has Cholem.—Tr.

† On the intimate connexion between the Preterite and the verbal adjective, see what has been already said, § 39, 1. In intransitive verbs they have the same form, as מָלַח full, or he is full; קָטַן small, or he is small. In transitive verbs the participle presents, indeed, a different form (קָטַל), still with קָטַל may be compared the adjective form קָטַל, though generally it is expressive of quality, as חָכֵם wise, אֲדֹנָי adversary (§ 48, 1).

(properly killing-thou, or killer-thou, a killer wast thou, קָטַל אַתָּה), יִרָא he was fearing, יִרְאֶה fearing ye (for יִרָא אַתֶּם). In the second person this is readily seen as well as in קָטַלְנוּ we have killed for אָנוּ קָטַל. In the first person sing. קָטַלְתִּי we have י, the simple germ of the pronoun, united with the demonstrative sound ת, by which the affirmative is at once distinguished from the suffix forms נִי and י (as if one would form אָנֹכִי, אֲנִי I after the analogy of אַתָּה)*. In the third person, הִיא (originally תִּיא, comp. Rem. 4) is a designation of the feminine (as in the noun § 80, 2), and וּ (orig. וַ) is a sign of the plural.

In the Indo-Germanic tongues, the inflexion by persons originated in the same manner, by appending pronominal forms, as is shown in Sanskrit and Greek; e. g. from the stem as (to be) Sanskr. asmi, ἐγώ, Doric ἐγμύ for ἐσμύ I am, where the ending μύ belongs to μοί and μέ; Sanskr. asi, Dor. ἐσσί thou art, where σι is nearly equal to σύ; Sanskr. asti, ἐστί he is, where τί corresponds to the pronoun τό, etc.: [and this is shown better still in Welsh, e. g. wyf, I am (with ending f from fi I), wyt thou art (ending t from ti thou), yw he is (no ending as in Hebrew), ym we are (ending m from ni we), yeh you are (ending eh from chui you), ynt they are (ending nt from hwyt they)]. But the etymology in all these languages [except in Welsh] is more obliterated than in Hebrew. This is partly true also of inflexion in the other Shemitic languages; e. g. 1st pers. Arab. qataltü, Syr. qetleth, where the characteristic i is wholly lost.

2. In respect to vowel changes, the analogy of the 3 fem. sing. קָטַלְתָּ is followed by the 3 masc. plur. קָטַלְוּ, and that of the 2 masc. sing. קָטַלְתָּ, by all the forms of the first and second persons.† Only קָטַלְתָּם, קָטַלְתֶּם have the tone on the last syllable, and, in consequence, Sh'va under the first radical (§ 27, 3).

N.B. Rem. 1. Verbs middle E, falling back in their inflexion to the type of verbs middle A, generally lose the E sound, which passes over into Pathach, as the Paradigm shows. The original E appears, however, regularly in the feeble stems לָא (§ 74, Rem. 1); in strong stems only in pause, i. e. when the stress of voice falls upon it, as שֶׁבַע she cleaves, Job xxix. 10; comp. 2 Sam. i. 23; Job xli. 15.

2. In some feeble stems middle A, the a under the second radical sometimes passes over into (ֵ) or (ֶ), when the syllable is closed and toneless, and the first radical has not a full vowel (§ 27, Rem. 2, 3). Thus שִׂאֲלֶתֶם ye have asked 1 Sam. xii. 13, יִרְשְׁתֶּם ye possess Deut. iv. 1, 22; so also before suffixes, שִׂאֲלֵתִי I have asked him 1 Sam. i. 20, לִדְרֹתֶיךָ I have begotten thee Ps. ii. 7. Such forms must not be considered verbs middle E: the weakening of the vowel is owing simply to the general weakness of the form, and the 3rd pers. Pret. is strictly שָׂאֵל, יָרַשׁ, יָלַד, not שָׂאֵל, יָרַשׁ, יָלַד. See § 64, Rem. 1, and § 69, Rem. 4.

3. In verbs middle O, Cholem is retained in the inflexion where it has the tone, as יָגִירָתָּ. But when the tone is thrown forward, Cholem becomes Qamets-chatuph, as יָבִילְתֶּם ye are able, יָבִילְתִּי I have overcome him Ps. xiii. 5, וְיִבְרָכְתָּ (see § 49, 3) and thou wilt be able Ex. xviii. 23.

* Gesenius maintained (and so does Ewald), that the affirmative הִיא comes strictly from אֲנִי, אֲנִי, an ancient form supposed to have been actually used for אֲנִי.—Tr.

† In the Paradigms, the forms קָטַלְתָּ and קָטַלְתָּ are, therefore, marked out with an asterisk as model-forms, for the notice of the beginner.

4. Unfrequent forms:\* Sing. 3 fem. in  $\text{ת־}$  (as in Arab. Æthiop. Aram.) e. g.  $\text{תִּלְתֵּי}$  Deut. xxxii. 36. Before suffixes this is the prevailing form (§ 59, 1, a) common also in stems  $\text{לֵל}$  and  $\text{לֵל}$  (§ 74, Rem. 1, § 75, Rem. 1).—2 mas.  $\text{תֵּה}$  (the full form) for  $\text{תֵּה}$ , as  $\text{תֵּהֲנַרְתֵּה}$ , Mal. ii. 14; comp. Gen. iii. 12. This occurs often.—2 fem. sometimes has still a Yodh at the end, especially in Jeremiah and Ezekiel, as  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$  Jer. xxxi. 21 (which should properly be spoken  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ , according to what is said of the pronoun  $\text{תֵּהֵי}$  in § 32, Rem. 4). With this is connected the form  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$  before suffixes (§ 59, 1, c).—1 com. sometimes without Yodh, as  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ , Ps. cxl. 13; Job xlii. 2; 1 Kings viii. 48. This, however, is found only in Kethibh; the Qeri has the full form.—Plur. 2 fem.  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$  (according to others  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ ) Amos iv. 3.—3 com. seldom with the full plural ending  $\text{וֹ}$  (often in Chald. and Syr.), as  $\text{וֹתֵינָהּ}$  Deut. viii. 3, 16, or with a superfluous  $\text{ס}$  (according to Arabic orthography), as  $\text{וֹתֵינָהּ־ס}$ , Jos. x. 24. In the Future, the form with  $\text{וֹ}$  is more frequent; see § 47, Rem. 4.

N.B. 5. In connexion with the affirmatives,  $\text{תֵּה}$ ,  $\text{תֵּהֵי}$ ,  $\text{וֵה}$ , the tone is on the penultima, and the word is Milél; with the others it is Milra (§ 15. 2). The place of the tone is shifted, a) in several persons by the pause (§ 29. 4), where it is moved backwards, and at the same time the vowel of the second syllable, if dropped, is restored again, as  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ ,  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ ,  $\text{תֵּהֲלֵלְתֵי}$ ; b) by Var conversive of the Preterite, where it is moved forwards one syllable (§ 49, 3).

THE INFINITIVE.

1. The Infinitive, originally a verbal substantive, has two forms—a shorter and a longer form. The shorter (Infinitive construct), in Kal  $\text{קָטַל}$ , is the most usual; it can take the pronominal suffixes, can be followed both by the nominative of the subject and the accusative of the object (§ 133), and may be preceded by prepositions, as  $\text{לְקָטַל}$  to kill (§ 132, 2). The longer form (Infinitive absolute or emphatic), in Kal  $\text{קָטַל־}$ , is used when the action of the verb is presented by itself, without direct connexion with other words; and most frequently, when the Infinitive is added to the finite verb, as an adverbial accusative, for the sake of emphasis. The first is the original form, and has retained more of the character and flexibility of a verbal noun; the second is somewhat more inflexible, and expresses rather the abstract idea of the verb. See full explanations in the Syntax (§§ 131—133).†

2. Between  $\text{קָטַל־}$  and  $\text{קָטַל}$ , there is this difference in the form, that the latter has Cholem unchangeable, but the former has Cholem changeable (hence with sufl.  $\text{קָטַל־}$ ). In the derived conjugations (except Hiphil and Hophal), the Inf. absol. has also generally such a firm  $\text{ó}$ , although the Inf. constr. has other vowels, e. g. in Piel we have  $\text{קָטַל־}$  besides  $\text{קָטַל־}$ .

* Almost all these forms, which in Hebrew are unfrequent, are the usual ones in the kindred dialects, and may, in a proper sense, be called Chaldaisms, Syriasm, and Aralisms.

† In Rödiger's Paradigms, the Inf. constr., as the predominant form, is put before the other, under the name of Infinitive,  $\text{κατ' ἐξοχήν}$ ; but we deviate in this respect in our Tables of the present edition.—EDIT.

Besides קטל, the Infin. Kal has also the following unusual forms:—

- a) קטל, e. g. וַיִּבֶן to lie, Gen. xxxiv. 7.
 b) קטלה and קטלה (feminine forms from קטל and קטל); as שִׂנְאָה to hate, קָרְבָּה to approach Ex. xxxvi. 2, חַמִּילָה to pity Eze. xvi. 5. (As a verbal noun, also, the Infin. may take the feminine ending.)
 c) קִטְּלָה (as in Chaldee); e. g. קִיָּרָה to call, Num. x. 2.

These infrequent forms are in more common use as verbal nouns (§ 84, Nos. 10, 11, 14).

3. A sort of Gerund is formed in Hebrew by the Inf. constr. with the preposition ל, as לְקַטֵּל interficiendo, ad interficiendum, לְנַפֵּל ad cadendum, (for to fall.)

The ל is here so closely connected, that it constitutes part of the grammatical form, as appears from the syllable-division and the use of Daghesh lene, viz., לְנַפֵּל lin-pōl (§ 28. 1), so also לִיקְטֹל, just as in the Fut. יִקְטֹל, יִקְטֹל. On the contrary, בְּנַפֵּל Job iv. 13, בְּנַפֵּל 2 Sam. iii. 34, where the prepositions ב and ב are conceived to be less closely connected with the Infinitive, and by way of exception also with ל, as לְהַתְּוֹשׁ לְהַתְּוֹשׁ Jer. i. 10.

SECT. 46.

THE IMPERATIVE.

1. The leading form of the Imperative קַטֵּל (קַטֵּל) is the same which lies also at the basis of the Future (§ 47), and which, when viewed as an Infinitive (§ 45), is likewise allied to the noun.† It expresses only the second person, but has inflexions for the feminine and the plural. For the third person it has no form (see § 130, Rem. 2), but this is expressed by the Future in the jussive (§ 127, 3, c), and even the second must be expressed by the jussive form, when a negative precedes, as אַל תִּקְטֹל ne occidas (not קַטֵּל). The proper passive conjugations have no Imperative,‡ but the reflexive Niphal and Hithpaël have.

2. The inflexion is quite similar to that of the Future, and it will be comprehended from the explanations given below, in § 47, 2. Like the Future, the Imperative also has a lengthened and a shortened form, the first in the manner of the cohortative, the second after the analogy of the jussive (see § 48, 5).

Rem. 1. Besides the form קַטֵּל, there is also one with Pathach, as וַיִּבֶן (as in the Inf. and Fut.) 2 Sam. xiii. 5; but Pathach in וַיִּבֶן is the regular vowel for the Imp., from וַיִּבֶן. See the Paradigm.

† The Inf. absol. also is occasionally used, like the Greek Infinitive, for the Imperative (§ 131, 4, b). But this is no ground for taking the Imperative to be properly an Infinitive; for the Inf. absol. stands also for a Present, Perfect, and Future. It might rather be supposed, that the Imper. is a shortening of the 2nd person of the Future קַטֵּל, from וַיִּקְטֹל; but in reality these three forms are each independent, and have not sprung one from another, but stand all alike on the basis of the abstract verb (§ 39, 1). The inflexion of the Imper. may certainly have been borrowed from the Future.

‡ An Imper. is found twice (Eze. xxxii. 19; Jer. xlix. 8) in Hophal, but with a reflexive meaning.

2. Less frequently there is found in the first syllable of the feminine and plural form an ō (Qamets-chatuph), instead of the z, as קָוְצוּבֹו draw ye Eze. xxxii. 20, קִיְלָדִי reign thou (fem.) Judges ix. 10.

3. In the form קָטַלְתְּ, the הַ is at times dropped, and then a helping vowel is introduced, as in שָׁמְעוּ hear ye (fem.) for שָׁמְעַתְּ Gen. iv. 23; comp. קָרְאוּ call ye (fem.) for קָרְאֶתְּ Ex. ii. 20. The shortening is probably owing to the guttural.

SECT. 47.

THE FUTURE AND ITS INFLEXION.*

1. Fragments of the personal pronoun are employed in the inflexion of the Future as well as of the Preterite; but in the Future these fragments are pre-fixed (preformatives) † to the stem in the abstract form (קָטַל). These formative particles, inasmuch as they stand before the verbal form, the tendency of which is to have the tone at the end, are much more abbreviated than the affirmatives of the Preterite, so that in every case only one consonant remains (׳, ה, א, נ) mostly with a very short vowel, viz., vocal Sh'va. But as these are not always sufficient to mark, at the same time, the distinction of gender and of number, the defect is supplied by additions at the end. Comp. the Table, § 40, 2.

2. The derivation and signification both of the preformatives and affirmatives, are still in most cases clear.

In the 1st pers. sing. אֶקְטַל, plur. נִקְטַל, א is an abbreviation of אֲנִי, נ of אֲנֹכִי. This person required no addition at the end.

In the 2nd pers. sing. the ת in תִּקְטַל is from אֲתָה, the יְ in תִּקְטַלִּי is the sign of the feminine, as in אֲתָרִי thou (feminine, see § 32, Rem. 4). In the 2nd pers. plur. the ו (more fully וּ, see Rem. 4) in תִּקְטַלוּ is the sign of the plural as in the 3rd person and already in the Preterite (§ 44, 1), and is here appropriated to the masculine;* נָה in הַקְטַרְנָה is the sign of the plural feminine (in Chaldee ׀ֿ), or borrowed from הַנָּה cat.

* In this translation the grammatical terms, used by Gesenius himself, and by most other Hebraists, are generally retained, in preference to those adopted by Rödiger after the example of Ewald. A general change of the terminology would occasion inconvenience and some perplexity, particularly in using the best Hebrew lexicons now extant, while it would scarcely secure advantages to counterbalance. Accordingly the tenses are here designated by the usual names. By Rödiger, however, the Future is called Imperfect, as expressing what is unfinished, in progress, and future; in contradistinction from the Perfect, which expresses what is actually finished and past, or conceived to be so (see in the Syntax, § 125). It may be added, that Prof. Lee calls the Future the Present tense. In this, however, he seems to stand alone.—Tr.

† There is this striking difference in the formation of the two tenses, that the more objective Preterite begins with the verbal stem, and ends with the pronominal sign as something subordinate; while the Future, on the contrary, begins with the pronoun denoting the subject from which the action of the verb proceeds. See more in the Syntax, § 123, etc.

In the 3rd person יִקְטַל, the ׳ cannot be so easily explained, as no corresponding pronoun can be found for it in the Hebrew; the ׳ may, however, stand as a stronger consonant for ׀ (from הוּא), properly וְקַטַּל, because ׀ at the beginning of a word was mostly avoided in Hebrew (comp. יָשַׁב for וָשַׁב, § 69); and hence the plural יִקְטַלוּ by adding the plural-ending ׀. The ת in the feminines תִּקְטַלְנָה, תִּקְטַלְנָה, which are precisely the same as the 2nd person, is probably allied to the feminine-ending, תִּ [or it may come, as Gesenius thought, from הִיא she, by changing ה into ת, which is often done].

3. In the course of inflexion the final vowel is dropped in some forms, while in others it is retained. In this respect the analogy יִקְטַל is followed by all the other forms which receive no addition at the end, and that of תִּקְטַלוּ by the forms יִקְטַלוּ, תִּקְטַלוּ; analogous to קְטַלְנָה is תִּקְטַלְנָה in the Imperative.

Rem. 1. The final ō (Cholem) is only tone-long (§ 9, No. 10, 3), as in the Inf. and Imper. Hence, a) The examples in which it is written fully are very rare, and are to be regarded as exceptions. b) Before Maqqeph it becomes Qamets-chatuph; e. g. וַיִּכְתֹּב שָׁם and he wrote there, Josh. viii. 32. c) It becomes vocal Sh'va before the affirmatives ׀ and ׀. In the few instances in which it remains before such affirmatives, the pointing becomes ׀, because it stands close before the pause, e. g. יִשְׁפֹּטוּ yish-pūtū (they will judge) Ex. xviii. 26; Ruth ii. 8; comp. Prov. xiv. 3.

N.B. 2. This Cholem is confined almost exclusively to verbs middle A, like קְטַל, Intransitive verbs (middle E and O) take ā (Pathach) in the Future, as יִגְדַּל to be great, Fut. יִגְדַּל; יִקְטַן to be small, Fut. יִקְטַן. Sometimes both forms exist together; the Fut. with ō is then transitive, and that with ā intransitive; e. g. יִקְצַר he will cut off, will reap; יִקְצַר he will be cut off, i. e. will be short. So also יִקְטַל, Fut. ō, to subdue; Fut. ā, to be subdued; Ex. xvii. 13; Job xiv. 10. More seldom both occur without any difference in signification; e. g. יִשֶּׁבֶת and יִשֶּׁבֶת he will bite. In the irregular verbs, the feeble ē (Tsere) is also found in the final syllable, as יִתֵּן for יִתֶּן he will give. These three forms of the Future are called Future O, Future A, Future E.

3. For the 3rd plur. fem. תִּקְטַלְנָה is substituted in three instances, to distinguish it from the 2nd pers., the form יִקְטַלְנָה, as in Chaldee and Arabic; e. g. יִצְיָדוּנָה they shall arise, Dan. viii. 22; comp. Gen. xxx. 38; 1 Sam. vi. 12. In several instances תִּקְטַלְנָה seems to have been used improperly for the 3rd pers. singular. Ex. i. 10; Judg. v. 26 (and, according to some, Job xvii. 16; Is. xxviii. 3). (In the vulgar Arabic, neul, properly we eat, is the common form for I eat; and in the French patois, f'avais for f'ai).—In the Pentateuch ׀ (nā) occurs in place of נָה, especially after Var conversive (§ 19, 2); e. g. Ex. i. 18, 19; xv. 20, as in Arabic nā. A still more abbreviated form of this termination is found in the Imp. (§ 46, Rem. 3).—Once occurs (Eze. xvi. 50) the anomalous form תִּקְטַלְנָה with ׀ inserted, after the manner of verbs עָל and עָל (§ 67, 4, § 72. 5).

N.B. 4. The plural forms ending in ׀ appear also not unfrequently with the fuller ending ׀,

* This is also the proper gender of the plural syllable ūn. ā. It is true that in the Pret. the Hebrew employs it for both genders; but in the kindred tongues, it stands even in the Pret. for the masculine alone; as in Syriac, mas q'atalūn, fem. q'ataln, so in Arabic, mas. q'atūlū, fem. q'atūlna.

most commonly with obvious stress on the word at the end of a period, where the vowel of the second syllable is then retained, as רָזְזוּ׃ they tremble Ex. xv. 14, שָׁמְעוּ׃ ye shall hear Deut. i. 17. But it is not confined to this position; see e. g. Ps. xi. 2, תִּרְדְּבוּ׃; comp. iv. 3; Gen. xviii. 28, 29, 30—32; Is. viii. 12; 1 Sam. ix. 13. But the preference for this form at the close of a period is clearly seen in Is. xxvi. 11, יִחַזְּקוּ וְיִבְוֹשׁוּ׃ בְּלִי יִהְיוּ׃ they see not; may they see and be ashamed.* This original ending ׀ is common in Aramæan and Arabic; yet in the vulgar Arabic it is shortened. Of the Fut. with ם appended, שִׁשְׁׁ׃ Jer. x. 5, is the only example.

5. In like manner יִקְטְלוּ has a longer form with final ׀, viz. יִקְטְלוּ׃, which is also common in Aramæan and Arabic. The ׀ here is scarcely original; probably it arose from imitation of the plural-ending ׀. See examples in 1 Sam. i. 14; Ruth ii. 8, 21; iii. 4, 18.

6. In Pause, the vowel of the second syllable, if it had become Sh'va, is restored and takes the tone, as יִקְטְלוּ׃, יִקְטְלוּ׃. Comp. § 29, 4.

SECT. 48.

SHORTENING AND LENGTHENING OF THE FUTURE AND IMPERATIVE.

(Jussive and Cohortative Forms.)

1. For the insufficiency of specific forms to express the relative Tenses and the Moods in the Hebrew and its kindred dialects, a small compensation is made by changes in the form of the Future, to which a certain signification is either exclusively or principally appropriated.

2. We must distinguish, accordingly, between the common form of the Future and two others, viz., a lengthened form (with a cohortative force) and a shortened form (with a jussive force). The lengthened Future, however, occurs only in the 1st person (with unimportant exceptions), while its shortened form is confined to the 2nd and 3rd persons. In Hebrew, however, the short-spoken Jussive is not always orthographically distinguished from the common Indicative form of the Future.

In Arabic the distinction is always clear. Besides the common indicative Future yáqtulu, it has, a) a Subjunctive, yáqtula; b) a Jussive, yáqtul; and c) a so-called Future energetic, yáqtulan, which is nearly related to the Heb. Cohortative.

3. The characteristic of the Cohortative is a long a, הִקְטֹל (He paragogic), attached to the 1st person; e. g. הִקְטֹלָהּ for הִקְטֹל. It is found in all the conjugations and in all classes of regular and irregular verbs (except in the passives), and has the tone wherever it is taken by the affirmatives ׀ and ׀, hence it affects the final vowel in precisely the same manner as these do; e. g. in Kal, אֶשְׁמְרָה I will observe; in Piel, נִנְתְּקָה let us break asunder, Ps. ii. 3; but in Hiphil, אֶזְכֶּרְהָ I will make mention of.

* It is worthy of remark, that the Chronicles often omit the Nun where it stands in the books of Kings; see 1 Kings viii. 38, 43; comp. 2 Chron. vi. 29, 33.—1 Kings xii. 24; 2 Kings xi. 5; comp. 2 Chron. xi. 4; xxiii. 4.

In a very few instances the more obscure ending הֶ־ takes the place of ה־ (according to § 27, Rem. 1), e. g. 1 Sam. xxviii. 15; Ps. xx. 4. As rarely is it attached to the 3rd person (Is. v. 19; Eze. xxiii. 20; Ps. xx. 4). The 2nd person, however, receives it in the Imperative. See No. 5.

הֶ־, as an accusative-ending to a noun, denotes motion or tendency towards a place (§ 90, 2), and after the same analogy the Cohortative with this ending expresses effort and the direction of the will to an action. Accordingly it is used especially to express excitement of one's self, determination, wish (as Optative), etc. (see § 128).

4. The Jussive occurs only in the 2nd and 3rd persons. Its form is orthographically often the same as that of the Indicative, e. g. יִקְטֹל as Ind. he will kill, as Juss. let him kill. But at times the shortening is clearly indicated, as will be shown in every case under the conjugations. In the regular verb it is confined, as a distinct form, to Hiphil, as Juss. יִקְטֹל for Ind. יִקְטִיל. It is found in Kal and Hiphil of verbs עוּ, as יָבֵת and יָבֵת for יָבוֹת and יָבִית; and in all the conjugations of verbs לָהּ, where it consists in the removal (apocopé) of the ending הֶ־; e. g. יִגַּל for יִגְלֶה. (Hence the term, Future apocopated, is frequently applied to this form.) But in all cases the plural forms of the Jussive coincide with the common, only that the ending ׀ cannot occur. Also the 2nd pers. sing. fem. sounds like תִּקְטְלִי, תִּנְתְּקִי, etc., and besides also all the singular and plural forms, when they have pronominal suffixes, e. g. תִּמְיִתֵּנִי, as Indicative in Jer. xxxviii. 15, as Jussive in xli. 8.

In signification this form is similar to the other, with some modification occasioned by difference of person. In general it expresses command and wish, and stands also in conditional sentences (§ 128).

5. The persons of the Imperative, as it is allied in form and meaning to the Future, are also lengthened (by הֶ־) and shortened, in a manner perfectly analogous. So also the Arabic has an Imperativus energicus. In most conjugations only one of these forms is found, in others both together. The lengthened Imp. occurs, e. g. in Kal of the regular verb, as שָׁמַר, שָׁמְרָה, שָׁכַב, שָׁכְבָה; the shortened Imp. in verbs לָהּ, as גַּל for גְּלֶה; both together in Hiphil, as תִּקְטֹל and תִּקְטִילָהּ for תִּקְטִיל. The signification of these forms is not always so strongly marked as in the Future. The longer form, however, is often emphatic, as קוּמָה stand up, קוּמָה קוּמָה give, give!

PRETERITE AND FUTURE WITH VAV CONVERSIVE.

1. The use of the two tenses, as will be shown more fully in the Syntax (§§ 126, 127), is by no means confined to the expression of the past and the future. One of the most striking peculiarities in their use, and, indeed, in the Hebrew diction generally, is this: that in continued narrations of the past, only the first verb stands in the Preterite, the others being in the future form; and, on the contrary, in continued descriptions of the future, the first verb is in the Future, while the rest are in the Preterite form. Gen. i. 1: In the beginning created (Pret.) God the heavens and the earth. 3 v. And said (Fut.) God, Let there be light, and there was (Fut.) light. 4 v. And God saw (Fut.), etc. Just the reverse in Is. vii. 17: Jehovah will bring (Fut.) upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, days, such as have not come since, etc. 18 v. And it will happen (Pret. וְהָיָה) on that day . . . . 19 v. And they will come (Pret.). This progress of time, this succession of thought, is usually indicated by the Vav copulative, which, however, in this case, partly, receives itself a somewhat different form, and partly affects the form of the Preterite and Future to which it is prefixed.*

2. The Vav conversive of the Future is the most important. This a) is regularly prefixed with Pathach and a Daghesh forte in the next letter, as וַיִּקְטֹל and he killed, but to the 1st person sing. with Qamets (according to § 22, 1), as וַאֲקַטֵּל and I killed [see another exception with Daghesh forte omitted, as וַיִּדְבֹּר and וַיְהִי, in § 20, 3, b]; b) it takes a shortened form of the Future, when that exists (comp. § 48, 4), e. g. in Hiphil וַיִּקְטַל (§ 53, Rem. 4), and often at the same time draws the tone back to the penultima, as יָמָת, shortened יָמַת, with Vav conversive וַיָּמַת (and he died), § 67, Rem. 2 and 7; § 68, 1; § 69, Rem. 3; § 71; § 72, Rem. 4 and 7; § 73, Rem. 2.† Yet it is often, particularly in the later books, prefixed to the 1st person sing. with the lengthened form in הַ, e. g. וַאֲמַרְתָּה and I plucked, Ezra ix. 3. See more in § 129.

* Since it changes in a degree the meaning of the tenses, it is called by the Hebrew grammarians [including Gesenius] Vav conversive (i. e. converting the Fut. into the Pret. and the Pret. into the Fut.). Better [in the opinion of Rödiger, who follows Ewald] is the term Vav consecutive, since it essentially denotes sequence or progress.

† The forms, also, in וַי and וַיְ, occur very seldom after Vav conversive, וַיִּבִּין Judges viii. 1; Eze. xlv. 8.

This ו is, as to form, a strengthened Vav copulative (comp. בָּמִיָּה, בְּמִיָּה, לְמִיָּה, where the prepositions ב, כ, ל are strengthened in a similar way), in the sense of and then, and so.

The retracting of the tone is found also in similar connexions, like לְמִיָּה, and the shortening of the verb at the end (apocope) is only accidentally similar to the form of the Jussive, yet this seems to have occasioned the growing use of the Cohortative form in the 1st person.*

3. The counterpart of Vav conversive of the Future is Vav conversive of the Preterite, which joins Preterites to a foregoing Future. In form it is the usual Vav copulative (ו), e. g. וְהָיָה (after a Fut.) and it will be; yet it has generally the effect of shifting the tone to the last syllable in those verbal forms which would otherwise have it on the penultima, † e. g. וְהִלַּכְתִּי I went, וְהִלַּכְתִּי (with a Fut. preceding) and I will go, Judges i. 3; וְהִבְרִיחָהּ Pret., וְהִבְרִיחָהּ and it shall divide, Ex. xxvi. 33. See more on the use of the Preterite in § 126.

This shifting forward of the tone does not always take place, and the exceptions are sometimes strange. It does not take place a) in the 1st pers. pl. וַיִּשְׁכְּבוּ Gen. xxxiv. 16; b) in verbs לָלַךְ and לָלַח, e. g. וַיִּעֲזָבוּ Ex. xxvi. 4, 6, 7, 10, etc., (on the contrary, וַיִּפְרָחֻּם ibid. vs. 9 and others).

THE PARTICIPLE.

1. Kal has two forms of the Participle, viz., an active, called also Pōāl (פְּעֹל), and a passive, or Pāāl (פְּעוּל). † The latter is probably a remnant of a lost passive form of קָטַל.

In the Aramæan the passives of Piël and Hiphil are in like manner lost, except in the Participles.

2. The form of the Participle active of Kal in the intransitive verbs mid. E, and mid. O, coincides with the form of the 3rd person sing. of the Preterite, as יָשַׁן

* The opinion of earlier grammarians, according to which וַיִּקְטַל is an abbreviation and contraction from וַיְהַיֵּךְ it was (that) he killed, is in every respect erroneous, and now nearly obsolete. The ו is everywhere an emphatic and. When entire sections and books of the Old Testament begin with it, it is a proof that they were either originally connected with what precedes them, or have been afterwards thus combined together (Lev., Num., Josh., 1 Sam., 2 Sam., Ruth, Est.); so indeed do some books begin with the simple copulative ו (Ex., 1 Ki., Ezr.). Equally unfounded is the opinion that it is a contraction of וַיְהַיֵּךְ וַיִּקְטַל.

† As to whether the hastening of the tone forward expresses in itself the reference to the future, and, on the contrary, the shifting of it backward, as in וַיִּקְטַל, a closer connexion with what is past, may be left undecided.

‡ The Jewish Grammarians call the Participle also גְּיוּנִי (middle word); yet not in the sense of the Latin name, but as used for a present tense (§ 134, 2), and accordingly holding the middle place between the Preterite and the Future.

sleeping, from יָשַׁן; יָגַר fearing, from יָגַר. Comp. the formation of the Part. in Niphal, § 51, 1. But the Participle in verbs mid. A, takes the form of קָטַל, the ô of which has sprung from â, qôtel from qâtel (§ 9, No. 10, 2). The form קָטַל is in common use only as a verbal noun (§ 84, 1). The inflexion of the Participle in Piël, Hiphil, Hithpaël follows a different method.

3. Participles form their feminine and plural like other nouns (§§ 87, 94).

Rem. 1. An unfrequent form is הוֹמִיץ supporting, Ps. xvi. 5 (for הוֹמִיץ, from הוֹמִיץ: comp. לָבִיב 2 Kings viii. 21, and the prop. n. אֹבִיב 1 Chron. xxvii. 30. Many reckon here also יִכָּרֶה Is. xxix. 14; xxxviii. 5; but this is much rather 3 sing. fut. Hiphil of יָכַר. Compare a quite similar construction Is. xxviii. 16. The form הוֹלֵם Is. xli. 7, for הוֹלֵם, is explained by § 29, 3, b.

2. The Participle in the passive form has not unfrequently an active signification, especially when it belongs to an intransitive verb, which cannot take a passive meaning. Compare in English, aged, fled. Thus, חֹזֵק means holding (not held), Cant. iii. 8; מְבִטֵּחַ confisus for confidens, Ps. cxii. 7. Comp. the deponent verbs in Latin.

B. DERIVED CONJUGATIONS.

N I P H A L.

1. The full characteristic of this conjugation is the syllable הֵן (in the corresponding seventh conjugation in Arab. ن هـ) prefixed to the ground-form. This characteristic appears only in the Inf. constr. הֵן־קָטַל, which is contracted from הֵן־קָטַל. With this are connected the Imp., which has the same form, and the Fut. יִקְטֹל, contracted from יֵהֵן־קָטַל. In the Pret. the (less essential) He is dropped, and only Nun remains as the characteristic, hence נִקְטַל. The same applies to the Participle, which is distinguished from the Preterite only by the long (◌) as נִקְטַל fem. נִקְטַלָּה or נִקְטַלָּת. The inflexion of Niphal is perfectly analogous to that of Kal.

Niphal may be distinguished in the Pret. and Part. by the Nun prefixed; in the Imp. Inf., and Fut., by the Daghesh in the first stem-letter. The same marks are found in the irregular verbs, except that, where the first stem-letter is a guttural, Daghesh forte must be omitted (§ 63, 4). To compensate for this omission, the preceding vowel is made long (§ 22, 1).

2. The significations of Niphal. It is similar to the Greek middle voice, and hence, a) It is primarily reflexive of Kal, e. g. נִשְׁמַר to look to one's self, to beware, φυλάσσεσθαι, נִסְתַּר to hide one's self; often in verbs which express passion or feeling which re-acts on the mind, as נָהַם to trouble one's self, to grieve, נִאָּנַח to bemoan one's self, to bewail; comp. ὀδύρεσθαι, lamentari, contristari. b) Next, it frequently expresses reciprocal action, as from שָׁפַט to judge, נִשְׁפָּט to contend with another at law; יָעַן to counsel, Niph. to consult together; comp. the middle and deponent verbs βουλεύεσθαι (נוֹעֵן), μάχεσθαι (נִלְחַם), altercari, praeliari. c) It has, also, like Hithpaël (§ 54, 3, c) and the Greek middle, the signification of the active, with the addition of self, Lat. sibi, for one's self, e. g. נִשְׁאַל to ask for one's self (1 Sam. xx. 6, 28), precisely like αἰτοῦμαι σε τοῦτο, ἐνδύσασθαι χιτῶνα to put on (one's self) a tunic. Here, instead of the accusative (se), the remoter object (usually expressed by the dative sibi) lies in the idea of the conjugation. d) It is often also passive of Kal, e. g. יָלַד to bear, Niph. to be born; קָבַר to bury, Niph. to be buried; likewise of Piël and Hiphil, when Kal is intransitive or not in use, e. g. כִּבְּד to be in honour, Piël to honour, Niph. to be honoured, פָּהַר in Piël to conceal, Hiph. to make disappear, to destroy, Niph. passive of both: and in this case its meaning may again coincide with Kal (הָלַךְ Kal. and Niph. to be sick), and even take an accusative (§ 138, 2, Rem. 1).

Examples of denominatives are, נִזְרַר to be born a male Ex. xxxiv. 19, (from זָרַר a male), לָלַבב cordatum fieri Job xi. 12, (from לָבַב heart).

The older Hebrew grammarians have represented Niphal as the proper passive of Kal. This representation is decidedly incorrect; for Niphal has not the characteristics of the other passives. There are still found in Kal traces of an early passive form (§ 50, 1), and the Arabic has an independent conjugation, corresponding with Niphal (ingatala), which has its own passive; nay, in Hebrew itself, there is probably a trace of the passive of Niphal in the form נִנְחָל, Is. lix. 3; Lam. iv. 14. According to the usage of the language, the passive signification is certainly the predominant one; but it was first derived from the reflexive. The הָ prefix has the force of a reflexive pronoun, like הָהָ in Hithpaël.*

Rem. 1. The Inf. absol. נִקְטַל connects itself, in form, with the Preterite, to which it bears the same relation, as קָטַל to קָטַל. Examples of this form, נִשְׁאַל rogando 1 Sam. xx. 6, נִדְבַק desiderando Gen. xxxi. 30. An example of the other is, הִנְתָּן Jer. xxxii. 4; once נִשְׁמַע exaudiendo Eze. xiv. 3. The הָ in the final syllable (which is essentially long) is also exhibited in this Infinitive form in Piël and Pual, and it resembles, in this respect, several Arabic Infinitives, in which there is a corresponding á. Moreover, the form הִקְטַל is not less frequently used for the Inf. absol., e. g. Num. xv. 31; Deu. iv. 26; 1 Ki. xx. 19.

2. In Pause, Pathach often takes the place of Tseré in the final syllable; e. g. וַיִּזְכָּר and he was reminisced Gen. xxi. 8, as also in other cases (§ 29, 4, Rem.). In the 2nd and 3rd persons plural feminine, the form with Pathach is more common than that given in the Paradigm, e. g. הִזְכְּרָה they shall be remembered, Isa. lxxv. 17; but only few examples occur of these forms.

3. When the Fut., Inf., or Imp. is immediately followed by a word of one syllable, the tone is commonly drawn back upon the penultima, and consequently the final syllable, losing

* In other languages, too, the change of the reflexive into the passive is observed. It is still clear in Sanskrit and in Greek how the middle goes before the passive voice; the r at the end of the Latin passive is the reflexive pronoun = se; in the ancient Slavic and Bohemian, amat-se stands for amatur, in Dacoromanic io me laudu (I am praised). See Pott's Etymologische Forschungen, Th. 1, S. 133 ff., Th. 2, S. 92; Bopp's Vergleichende Grammatik, S. 686 ff.

the tone, takes Seghol instead of Tsere; e. g. בָּהַ יִפֹּטֵל he stumbles at it, Ezc. xxxiii. 12; וַיִּשְׁמָע לוֹ and he heard him, Gen. xxv. 21; comp. וַיִּשְׁמָע אֱלֹהִים and God heard, 2 Sam. xxi. 14; Ezr. viii. 23. In a few words, this form with the retracted tone has become the exclusive one, as וַיִּשְׁמָע take heed, Ex. xxiii. 21; וַיִּלָּחֶם and he fought, Num. xxi. 1.

4. For the 1st pers. sing. אֶקְטֹל the form אֶקְטִיל is equally frequent, as אֶהְרַשׁ I will be found, Ezc. xiv. 3; אֶשָּׂא I swear, Gen. xxi. 24. Comp. § 69, Rem. 5.

PIEL AND PUAL.

1. The characteristic of this conjugation (Arab. Conj. II. qattala, Aram. קָטַל) is the doubling of the middle stem-letter. In the active, the Fut. יִקְטֹל and the Part. מְקַטֵּל (preformatives of which retain their original Sh'va) are formed, according to the general analogy, from the Inf. and Imp. קָטַל. The passive (Pual) has an obscure vowel of the third class after the first stem-letter, and ā (Pathach) after the second. In other respects the analogy is the same. In the inflexion of the Preterite of Piël, Pathach takes the place of Tsere in the 1st and 2nd persons (קָטַל, קָטַלְתָּ), which properly have for their basis the form קָטַל. See Rem. 1.

The ׀, which occurs also in the succeeding conjugations, as the characteristic of the Part., is connected with ׀ who? in the sense of some one.

Piël and Pual are throughout distinguished by the Daghesh in the middle stem-letter. It is omitted only in the following cases: a) Always when this letter is a guttural (§ 64, 3). b) Sometimes, though rarely, when this letter has Sh'va (§ 20, 3, b), as יִשְׁרַחֵהוּ Job xxxvii. 3, for יִשְׁרַחֵהוּ he directs it; שִׁלְחָה she stretches forth, for שִׁלְחָה Ezc. xvii. 7; xxxi. 4; then also the omission is at times indicated (§ 10, 2, Rem.) by a Chateph under the litera dagressanda; e. g. לָקְחָהּ for לָקְחָהּ she is taken, Gen. ii. 23; comp. ix. 14; Judges xvi. 16. In the Fut. and Part. the Sh'va under the preformatives may always serve as a mark of these conjugations.

2. Significations of Piël. a) It denotes intensity and repetition (comp. the Nomina intensiva and iterativa, which are also formed by doubling the middle stem-letter, § 84, 6—9);* e. g. צָחַק to laugh, Piël to sport, to jest (to laugh repeatedly); שָׁאַל to ask, Piël to beg; hence it denotes that the action is performed upon many, as קָבַר to bury (one) Gen. xxiii. 4, Piël to bury (many) 1 Kings xi. 15.

* Analogous examples, in which the doubling of a letter has an intensive force, are found in the German words, reichen, recken; streichen (stringo, Anglo-Saxon strecan), strecken; comp. Strich, Strecke; Wacher, from wachen; others in which it has the causative signification, are stechen, stecken; wachen, wecken; in Greek τελλω to bring to an end, from the stem τελω to end, γεννάω to beget and to bear, from γένω to come into being. The above examples from the German show also that ch, when doubled, takes the form of kk, ck, in accordance with the laws relating to the Daghesh in Hebrew (§ 13, 3).

(So in Syriac frequently.) This signification of Piël is found with various shades of difference, as פָּתַח to open, Piël to loose; סָפַר to count, Piël to relate. With the eager pursuit of an object is connected the influence which the subject of it exerts upon others. Hence, b) It has a causative signification (like Hiphil), e. g. לָמַד to learn, Piël to teach. It often takes the modifications expressed by, to permit, to declare or to regard, to help, as הֵיָה to let live; צָדַק to declare innocent; יָלַד to assist in child-bearing. c) Denominatives are frequently found in this conjugation, which in general mean to make a thing (sc. that which the noun expresses), or to be in any way occupied with it; as from קַן nest, קָנַן to make a nest; from עָפָר dust, עָפַר to throw dust, to dust. It also expresses the taking away or injuring the thing or part of which the noun is the name (as in English, to behead, to skin, to bone), e. g. שָׁרַשׁ (from טָרַשׁ a root) to root out, extirpate; וָנַב (from וָנַב tail) properly to injure the tail, hence to rout the rear of an army; וָרֵשׁ to remove the ashes. So also in verbs the origin of which cannot be traced to a noun; e. g. סָקַל to stone, and also to remove the stones, sc. from a field.*

The significations of the passive will present themselves spontaneously, e. g. גָּנַב to steal, Piël to steal, Pual to be stolen.

In Piël, the proper and literal signification of a word is often retained, when Kal has adopted a figurative one, the former being the stronger and more prominent idea; e. g. רָפָא in Piël to stitch up, in Kal to heal; כָּרַא, Piël to cut, to hew out, Kal to form, to make; גָּלָה, Piël to uncover, Kal to reveal.

In intransitive verbs, also, Piël occurs as an intensive form, but only in poetry, as חָמַת frangi, Jer. li. 56; פָּתַח to be open, Is. xlvi. 8; lx. 11; רָוַה to be drunken, Is. xxxiv. 5, 7.

N.B. Rem. 1. The Pret. Piël has frequently (-) in the final syllable, instead of (·), e. g. אָפַד to destroy, שָׁפַד to break in pieces. This occurs especially before Maqqeph (Eccles. ix. 15; xii. 9), and in the middle of a period, when other words immediately follow; but at the end of a period, Tere is the more common vowel. Comp. גָּדַל Is. xlix. 21 with גָּדַל Jos. iv. 14; Esth. iii. 1. Some verbs have Seghol, as דָּבַר to speak, כָּפַר to atone, כָּבַס to wash clothes.

A single instance of (-) in the first syllable (after the manner of the Chaldee) is found in Gen. xli. 51, נָשַׁח to cause to forget, occasioned by the play upon the name מְנַשְׁשָׁה. Compare the quadriliteral פָּרַשׁ, which is analogous in form with Piël (§ 56).

2. The Fut., Inf., and Imp., when followed by Maqqeph, generally take Seghol in the final syllable, e. g. בִּקְשׁוּ לָךְ he seeks for himself Is. xl. 20, קְדַשׁוּנִי sanctify to me Ex. xiii. 2. So in Hithpael. In the 1st pers. sing. Fut., there occurs, besides אֶשְׁמַל, also in a few cases the form with (·) under א, as אֶשְׁמַל Lev. xxvi. 33; and even with (·), as אֶשְׁמַל Zech. vii. 14 (according to § 23, 4, Rem. 2). With Var. conv. we have also אֶשְׁמַל for אֶשְׁמַל Judges vi. 9. Instead of תִּשְׁמַלְנָה are found such forms as תִּשְׁמַלְנָה, but only in Is. iii. 16, and xiii. 18.

* In Arabic, denominatives of Conj. II. often express injury done to a member, the removal of vermin or of any injurious thing. This force is not wholly wanting, also, in the simplest Conj. I. Comp. Hebrew Kal קָנַר (from קָנַר) to buy and sell grain; Lat. causari, prædari, etc.

3. The Inf. absol. has the special form  $\text{קָטַל}$ , as  $\text{יָצַר}$  castigando Ps. cxviii. 18, and in Pual,  $\text{גָּנַב}$  Gen. xl. 15. But more frequently the form  $\text{קָטַל}$  is used; e. g. Jer. xii. 17; xxxii. 33.

4. In Pual, instead of Qibbuts, is found less frequently Qamets-chatuph, e. g.  $\text{דִּינְיָהָם}$  dyled red Nah. ii. 4; comp. iii. 7; Ps. lxxii. 20; lxxx. 1. It is merely an orthographic variation when Shureq takes the place of Qibbuts, as  $\text{יָלַד}$  Judges xviii. 29.

5. For the Inf. abs. of Pu. there is found  $\text{גָּנַב}$  Gen. xl. 15. The Inf. constr. does not occur in the regular verb.

6. The Part. Pual sometimes occurs without the prefix  $\text{וְ}$ ; it is then distinguished, like the Part. Niph., only by the Qamets in the final syllable, e. g.  $\text{לָקְחָהּ}$  taken, 2 Kings ii. 10; comp.  $\text{וְיָלַד}$  for  $\text{מִיָּלַד}$  Judges xiii. 8; also Eccles. ix. 12; Hos. i. 6, 8; Prov. xxv. 9.

SECT. 53.

HIPHIL AND HOPHAL.

1. The characteristic of the active is ה with (־) or (־) prefixed to the stem, and י־ inserted after the second radical. From the Inf.  $\text{הִקְטִיל}$  are formed the Fut. and the Part.  $\text{יִקְטִיל}$ ,  $\text{מִקְטִיל}$ , for  $\text{יִהִקְטִיל}$ ,  $\text{מִהִקְטִיל}$ . In the passive, the ה is expressed with an obscure vowel, and the second syllable has ā instead of ī, as  $\text{הִקְטִיל}$  or  $\text{הִקְטִיל}$ , Fut.  $\text{יִקְטִל}$  or  $\text{יִקְטִל}$ , Inf. absol.  $\text{הִקְטִל}$ ; and in its other forms it follows the general analogy. The inflexion has nothing peculiar, except that in the 1st and 2nd pers. Pret. the י־ is dropped, and Pathach takes its place, as  $\text{הִקְטִילָהּ}$ ,  $\text{הִקְטִילָהּ}$ ; which is explained by the analogy of the Aramæan ( $\text{אִקְטִיל}$ ) and of the Arabic ( $\text{اَقْتَل}$ ), where the י־ is not found. It does not appear to be an essential characteristic of the form, but it has arisen out of a shorter vowel. See Rem. 1.

The marks of this conjugation are therefore, in the Pret., Imp., and Inf., the prefix ה; in the Fut. and Part., the vowel under the preformatives, which in Hiphil is Pathach, in Hophal, Qibbuts or Qamets-chatuph.

2. Significations of Hiphil. It is properly causative of Kal, and in this sense is more frequently employed than Piël (§ 52, 2, b), e. g.  $\text{אֵצְרָהּ}$  to go forth, Hiph. to bring out of, to lead forth;  $\text{קִדְשָׁהּ}$  to be holy, Hiph. to sanctify. When Kal is transitive, Hiph. takes two accusatives (§ 139, 1). Frequently Piël and Hiphil are both in use in the same signification, as  $\text{אָבַדָהּ}$  to perish, Piël and Hiph. to destroy; but generally only one of them is found, or they have some difference of signification, as  $\text{כָּבַדָהּ}$  to be heavy, Piël to honour, Hiph. to make heavy. Intransitive verbs merely become transitive, e. g.  $\text{נָטָהּ}$  to bow (intrans.), Hiph. to bow, bend.

The causative and transitive signification of Hiphil is sometimes employed after a mode of conception familiar to the Hebrew, for the expression of ideas, which other languages express by intransitive verbs. Especially, was any change in one's habit of body conceived (and very rightly too) by the Hebrew, as the result of personal agency, and was represented, in the mode of expression, as produced by the individual himself;* e. g. נָשָׂן, Hiph. to become fat (properly to produce fat); חָזַק and חָזַצ, Hiph. to become strong (properly to develop strength); חָלַע, Hiph. to become feeble. The same analogy applies to עָשָׂר, Hiph. to become rich (properly to make, to acquire, riches); also especially to words which express the taking of a new colour, as הָאָדָם to become red, הָלָבָן to become white, etc. Moreover, what is merely a state or condition, becomes, in the Hebrew mode of conception, an act; e. g. שָׁמַט not to be silent, but properly to keep silence (silentium facere, Plin.); הִרְנִיעַ to lead a quiet life, הִאָּרַיַה to prolong (one's stay), to tarry. In such cases there is often an ellipsis, as הִיטִיב to deal well, הִשְׁחִית to do wickedly, properly to make good, or bad (sc. הִרְכִּיב, הִרְדִּיב, which are often also expressed).

These remarks apply also to Denominatives, i. e. the verb often expresses the idea of producing, or putting forth, that of which the original noun is the name, e. g. הִשְׁרִישׁ to put forth roots, הִקְרִי to put forth horns. It also expresses the actual use of a member, as הִאָּזַן to listen (properly to make ears); הִלְשִׁין to chatter, to slander (after the same analogy, properly to make tongue, to use the tongue freely).

The signification of Hophal, as of Niphal, may sometimes coincide with that of Kal, e. g. יָבַל potuit, Fut. Hoph. potens fiet, i. e. poterit.

Rem. 1. Only the Preterite of Hiphil retains always the ־י of the final syllable (in 3rd pers. sing. and plur.); on the contrary, the Inf., Imp., and Fut. frequently take Tsere instead of it (in Chaldee the usual form), although usage generally makes a distinction between forms with ī and ē. Tsere is in this case only tone-long, and hence in the lengthening of the forms it becomes vocal Sheva, and, with gutturals, it is changed into Pathach.

2. The Inf. absol. has generally Tsere, with and without Yodh; as הִקְרִישׁ Judg. xvii. 3; הִכְרִיב Ex. viii. 11; הִשְׁמִיר Amos ix. 8. After the manner of the Chaldee, we have א instead of the ה in מָנָה mane surgendo, Jer. xxv. 3. Unfrequent exceptions, in which the form with Tsere stands for the Inf. constr., are found in Deut. xxvi. 12; xxxii. 8.

3. The Imp. but seldom takes the form הִקְטִיל (Ps. xciv. 1 in pause, perhaps also Is. xliii. 8); instead of it are employed the shortened and the lengthened forms הִקְטִיל and הִקְטִילָה, as הִשְׂמֵן to make fat, הִקְטִילָה attend! The first takes Seghol before Maqqeph, as הִסְקִינָה Job xxii. 21. הִקְטִיל and הִקְטִילִי are never shortened.

N.B. 4. In the Fut. of Hiph. the form with Tsere for the Jussive is the usual one, as אִל־תִּגְדֵּל make not great Obad. 12, יִכְרֹת let him cut off Ps. xii. 4, especially with ו convers., as וַיִּבְרַח and he divided Gen. i. 4. Before Maqqeph this Tsere becomes Seghol, as וַיִּחַזְקֵהוּ and he held him Judg. xix. 4. In the plural the forms יִקְטִילוּ and יִקְטִילִי stand also for the Jussive and with ו conv., e. g. וַיִּדְבְּרוּ Judg. xviii. 22: but the ī (after the manner of the Aramæan) sometimes becomes Sheva, as וַיִּדְרְבוּ and they bent Jer. ix. 2, וַיִּדְבְּקוּ and they pursued 1 Sam. xiv. 22; xxxi. 2. The defective mode of writing Chireq, e. g. יִשְׁלַם, is not an essential variation.

5. The form of the Part. with (־) in the sing. is doubtful (Is. liii. 3); but perhaps the plurals מְהַלְמֵים dreamers Jer. xxix. 8, מְעֵזָרִים helpers 2 Chron. xxviii. 23, are derived from this form. The fem. is מְהַלְמַת, e. g. מִיִּשְׁנָה Lev. xiv. 21. Comp. Gen. xxxv. 8.

* The verb עָשָׂה to make, is employed in the expression of the same ideas, e. g. to make fat (fatness), for, to produce fat upon his body, Job xv. 27; to make fruits, to make branches, for, to produce, to put forth, Hos. viii. 7; Job xiv. 9. Compare in Latin, corpus facere, Justin. 11, 8; robur facere, Hiirtius, Bell. Afr. 85; sobolem, divitias, facere, Plin., and in Italian, far corpo, far forze, far frutto.

6. In the Pret. are sometimes found the forms הִבְלִינֵנו we have approached 1 Sam. xxv. 7, and אִנְאֵלְתִּי I have soiled (with א for ה, as in Aramæan) Is. lxiii. 3. Comp. Job xvi. 7.

7. In the Fut. and Part. the characteristic ה regularly gives place to the preformatives, as מִקְטִיל, יִקְטִיל, but not to prepositions in the Inf., לְהִקְטִיל, because their connexion with the ground-form is less intimate than that of the preformatives. To both rules there are some few exceptions, as יהוֹשִׁיעַ he will save, Ps. cxvi. 6, for יוֹשִׁיעַ; יְהַלְלֵהּ he will praise, for הַלְלֵהּ (in verbs בּוֹ only; on the contrary לְשַׁמֵּיעַ for לְהִשְׁמִיעַ Ps. xxvi. 7; לְהַאֲרִיב for לְאֲרִיב to cause to faint, 1 Sam. ii. 33. Comp. Is. xxiii. 11; Ps. lxxviii. 17.

N.B. 8. The tone, in Hiphil, does not fall on the affirmatives ו, ה, and י. They take it, however, in the Pret. when Vav conversive is prefixed, as וְהִבְדִּילָהּ Ex. xxvi. 33.

9. In the passive (Hophal) Pret., Fut., and Part. ה (ו) is found in the first syllable as well as ח (ו), הִקְטַל, but not so often in the regular verb, e. g. הִשְׁכַּב Eze. xxxii. 32, and הִשְׁעָבָה xxxii. 19; הִשְׁלַף, Part. מִשְׁלָף 2 Sam. xx. 21, and הִשְׁלַכְתָּ Is. xiv. 19; but verbs בּוֹ have ה constantly, as הִזַּר (according to § 9, 9, 2).

10. The Inf. absol. is distinguished by (ו) in the final syllable; e. g. הִתְחַלַּל fasciando Eze. xvi. 4, נִדְּוָה nuntiando Jos. ix. 24. Of the Inf. constr., as given in the Paradigm, there happens to be no example in the regular verb.

11. For Imperative Hophal, see above, § 46, 1, note.

H I T H P A E L.

1. This conjugation connects itself with Piël, inasmuch as it prefixes to the form קָטַל the syllable הֵת (Chald. אַת, Syr. אַת*), which, like הֵת in Niph'al (§ 51, 2, Rem.), has undoubtedly the force of a reflexive pronoun.

2. The ת of the syllable הֵת in this conj., as also in Hithpoël and Hithpalel (§ 55), suffers the following changes:—

a) When the first radical of the verb is a sibilant (ס, ז, ש), it changes places with ת (§ 19, 5), as הִשְׁתַּמֵּר to take heed, for הִתְשַׁמֵּר; הִסְתַּבֵּל to be burdened, for הִתְסַבֵּל. A single exception is contained in Jer. xlix. 3. With צ, moreover, the transposed ת is changed into the more nearly-related ט, as הִצְטַדֵּק to justify one's self for הִצְתַּדֵּק.

b) Before ד, ט, and ת, it is assimilated (§ 19, 2), e. g. הִדַּבֵּר to converse, הִטַּהַר to cleanse one's self, הִתְמַם to conduct one's self uprightly; sometimes also before נ and כ, as הִנְבֵּא to prophesy, elsewhere הִתְנַבֵּא; הִכּוֹנֵן for הִתְכוֹנֵן to make one's self ready. Once before ו Is. i. 16, before שׁ Eccl. vii. 16, before ר Is. xxxiii. 10.

* See also in Hebrew אֶתְחַבֵּר 2 Chron. xx. 35.

3. The significations of Hithpaël. a) Most frequently it is reflexive, but chiefly of Piël, as הִתְקַדֵּשׁ to sanctify one's self, הִתְנַקֵּם to avenge one's self, הִתְאַוֵּר to gird one's self. Then further it means, to make one's self that which is expressed by the first conjugation; hence, to conduct one's self as such, to show one's self, to imagine one's self, to affect, to be such; properly to make one's self so and so, to act so and so; e. g. הִתְגַּדֵּל to make one's self great, to act proudly, הִתְחַכֵּם to show one's self cunning, crafty; also, Eccles. vii. 16, to think one's self wise; הִתְעַשֵּׂר to make, i. e. to feign, one's self rich. Its signification sometimes coincides with that of Kal, and both forms are in use with the same meaning, e. g. אָבַל, Kal to mourn, is found only in poetry; Hithp. in the same sense, is more common in prose, and even takes an accusative (§ 138, 2, Rem. 1). b) It expresses reciprocal action (like Niph. § 51, 2, b), as הִתְרְאָה to look upon one another, Gen. xlii. 1. More frequently c) It expresses what one does indirectly to or for himself (comp. Niph. § 51, 2, c). It has then an active signification, and governs an accusative, e. g. הִתְפַּטֵּט exiit sibi (restem), הִתְפַּתְתָּה solvit sibi (vincula). So without the accusative הִתְהַדְדֵךְ to walk about for one's self (ambulare). Only seldom d) It is passive, e. g. הִתְפַּקֵּד to be numbered, mustered, Judges xx. 15, 17; xxi. 9. Comp. Niphal, § 51, 2, d. So הִשְׁתַּכַּח to be forgotten, Eccl. viii. 10.

The passive Hithpaal is found only in the few following examples: הִתְפַּקְדוּ (so always for הִתְפַּקֵּן) they were mustered, Numb. i. 47; ii. 33; הִטְמֵא to be rendered unclean, Deu. xxiv. 4; הִשְׁמַח to be washed, Lev. xiii. 55, 56; הִדְשֵׁנָה it is smeared with fat, Is. xxxiv. 6.

Denominatives with the reflexive signification are: הִתְיַהַד to embrace Judaism (make one's self a Jew), from יָהוּד, יְהוּדָה Jew; הִצְטַיֵּד to supply one's self with food for a journey, from צִידָה.

N.B. Rem. The Preterite, as in Piël, has frequently Pathach in the final syllable, as הִתְחַזַּק to be strengthened, 2 Chron. xiii. 7; xv. 8. Final Pathach occurs also in the Fut. and Imp., as הִתְחַכֵּם he deems himself wise, Eccles. vii. 16; הִתְקַדֵּשׁ sanctify thyself, Jos. iii. 5. In pause these forms take Qamets, as יִתְאַבֵּל Eze. vii. 27, יִתְלַקְדוּ Job xxxviii. 30. With the form in Piël הִתְפַּלְקָה (§ 52, Rem. 2) comp. Hithp. הִתְהַלְכָה Zech. vi. 7.

UNUSUAL CONJUGATIONS.

Of the unusual conjugations (§ 40, 2) some are connected, in form, with Piël, and are made by the doubling or the repetition of one or more stem-letters, or by the lengthening of a vowel, i. e. by changes within the stem itself; others are analogous to Hiphil, and are formed by the addition of prefix letters or syllables. To the former class, besides a passive distinguished by the vowels, belongs also a reflexive form with the prefix הִתְ, after the analogy of Hithpaël.

Those which are analogous to Piël, and which follow it in their inflexion, are—

1. Poël; as קוּטַל, pass. פּוּטַל, reflex. הִתְקוּטַל (corresponding to Conj. III. and IV. in the Arabic qátala, qátıla, taqátula), Fut. יִקוּטַל, Part. מִקוּטַל, Fut. pass. יִקוּטַל, etc. In the regular verb it but very seldom occurs. Unquestionable examples are: Part. מִיִּנְפָטִי my opponent at law, Job ix. 15; יוֹרְעָתִי I have appointed, 1 Sam. xxi. 3 (unless we should read הַיִּרְעָתִי); שִׁירֵשׁ to take root, denom. from שִׁירֵשׁ root. In verbs עָו (§ 67) it is more frequent, e. g. הוֹלֵל, סוֹבֵב, הוֹנֵן.

The signification of Poël is, like that of Piël, often causative of Kal. Sometimes both Poël and Piël are in use in the same signification, as רִצְוֵן and רִצֵּן to oppress; sometimes each has its peculiar modification of meaning, as סָבַב to turn about, to change; סוֹבֵב to go about, to surround; הֶלֵל to exult, to make foolish (from הלל to be brilliant, but also to be vainglorious, foolish); הִנֵּן to make pleusant, to commiserate; שִׁירֵשׁ to root out, שִׁירֵשׁ to take root.

With קוּטַל is connected the formation of quadrilaterals by the insertion of a consonant at the end of the first syllable, as קְרִטַל (§ 30, 3).

2. Pilel, Pulal, Hithpaël; as קְטַלְל and קְטַלְלַל, pass. הִתְקַטַּל, reflex. הִתְקַטַּלְל, like the Arabic Conj. IX. igtallu, and XI. igtállu, used especially of permanent states or conditions, e. g. of colours, as יָזַן to be at rest, רָעַנָּו to be green; pass. אָמַלְלָו to be withered; but of these verbs there is no example in Kal. It is more frequent in verbs עָו, where it takes the place of Piël and Hithpaël (§ 72, 7).

3. Pealal; as הִתְטַלְטַל, with repetition of the last two stem-letters, used especially of slight motions repeated in quick succession, e. g. סָתַרְתָּר to go about with quick motion, hence (of the heart) to palpitate, Ps. xxxviii. 11, from סָתַר to go about; pass. הִתְמַרְמַר to ferment with violence, to make a rumbling sound, Lam. i. 20. Nouns of this form are diminutives (§ 84, 23). Nearly related to this is—

4. Pilpel, formed from verbs עָו and עָו, by doubling both of the essential stem-letters; as כִּכְכַּב, from כִּב=כָּבַב; כִּלְכַּל, from כָּל (כול). This also is used of motion rapidly repeated, which all languages are prone* to express by repetition of the same sound, צִצְצָה to chirp, צִלְצַל to tinkle, זִרְזַר to gurgle, עִפְעָף to flutter (from עָף to fly).

With Hiphil are connected—

5. Tiphel; as תִּפְהַל, with ת prefixed, as תִּפְהַל to teach one to walk, to lead (denom. from תִּפְהַל a foot); in a stem of לָהּ, תִּתְהַרָה, Fut. יִתְהַרָה to vie with, Jer. xii. 5; xxii. 15 (from תִּהַרָה to be ardent, eager). The Aramæan has a similar form, תִּפְהַל to interpret.

6. Shaphel; as שִׁפְהַל, frequent in Syriac, as שִׁפְהַל to flame, from להב. In Hebrew it is found only in the noun שִׁפְהַל flame, § 84, No. 35.

Forms of which single examples occur:—7. קְטַלְטַל, pass. הִתְקַטַּלְטַל; as מִתְחַסְסָם scaled off, having the form of scales Ex. xvi. 14, from חָסַף, חָסַף to peel, to shell.—8. הִתְטַלַּל, as יוֹרֵיף a violent rain, from יָרַף. —9. נִתְקַטַּל (frequent in the Rabbinic), a form compounded of Niphil and Hithpaël, found in the examples נִתְקַטַּרוּ for נִתְקַטְרוּ they suffer themselves to be returned Eze. xxiii. 48, נִתְקַטַּר for נִתְקַטַּר to be expiated Deut. xxi. 8.

We may mention also, as worthy of notice,—10. the form הִצְוִצַר to sound the trumpet, commonly derived from the stem הָצַר. But it is probably a denom. from הַצִּיצְרָה a trumpet, an onomatopoeic form like the old Latin laratantara=tuba. Ennius apud Servium ad Æn. 9, 503.

QUADRILITERALS.

Of the formation of quadrilaterals we have already spoken (§ 30, 3). The few verbs of this kind (of nouns there are more) are formed after the analogy of Piël, once after Hiphil. The following are all the examples that occur:—

Pret. פָּרִיָּצוּ he spread out, Job xxvi. 9 (with Pathach in the first syllable, as in Chaldee). Fut. יִכְרֹסְמִיָּנָה he will devour it, Ps. lxxx. 14. Pass. רָטַפְּנִי to become green again, Job xxxiii. 25. Part. מְכַרְבֵּל girded, 1 Chr. xv. 27. After Hiphil הִטְמִיִּיל contracted הִטְמִיִּיל to turn to the left (denominative from יִטְמִיִּאל), Gen. xiii. 9, and other places.

C. REGULAR VERB WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.*

SECT. 57.

The accusative of the personal Pronoun which follows a verb active may be expressed a) by a distinct word, אֵת (the sign of the accusative), with the suffix (§ 117, 2), as קָטַל אֵתוֹ (he has killed him); or b) by a mere suffix, as קָטַלְהוּ or קָטַלוּ (he has killed him). The second method is the usual one (§ 33), and it is only of it we now treat.†

This matter embraces two points, viz., the form of the suffix, and the changes in the verbal form in consequence of appending it. The former is exhibited in § 58, and the latter in §§ 59—61.

* We treat of this subject here in connexion with the regular verb, in order to show in it the general analogy. As to the irregular verbs, the mode of shortening their forms before the suffixes will be noticed under each class.

† On the cases where the former must be employed, see § 121, 4, Rem.

SECT. 58.

THE SUFFIX OF THE VERB.

1. The suffixes appended to the verb express the accusative of the personal Pronoun; and they are the following:—

Singular.			Plural.
1. comm.	ני; נִי; נִי	me.	1. comm.	נו, נו, נו	us.
2. {	{ m. ך, ךְ (khā), in pause ךְ	} thee.	2. {	{ m. כם, כְּ f. כן, כְּ	} you.
	{ f. ך, ךְ, ךְ, ךְ

Singular.		Plural.
3. { m. הוּ, וּ; הוּ׃, (הוּ), וּ; הוּ׃ him. f. הָ; הָ׃; הָ׃ her.	3.	{ m. הֵם,* ם; םַ׃ (contr. from םַ׃), םַ׃, םַ׃ (contr. from םַ׃), םַ׃, poet. } them. מוּ, מוּ׃, מוּ׃ f. הֵן,* ן; ןַ׃, ןַ׃, ןַ׃

2. These suffixes clearly are, for the most part, shortened forms of the personal Pronoun, and only some of them require explanation.

In the suffix of the 2nd person (הָ, כָּפּ, כֶּן) the basis appears to be a lost form of the pronoun אַתָּה with כַּ׃ instead of תּ (אֲנִי, אַתָּה; אַתָּם), which was employed here in order to distinguish the suffixes from the affirmatives of the Preterite (§ 44, 1).

In the 3rd person masc., out of הוּ׃, by rejecting the feeble h, there arose ā-u, and thence ô (§ 23, 5), usually written וּ, much more seldom הוּ. In the fem., the suffixes from אִי׃ ought, according to analogy, to sound הָ, הָ׃, הָ׃; but instead of הָ׃, we have, for the sake of euphony, simply הָ׃, where the הָ is regularly a consonant, and therefore marked with Mappiq.

Once (Eze. xli. 15) אִי׃ stands for הָ, as in Chaldee and Arabic.

3. The variety in the forms of the suffixes was occasioned by the regard had to the form and tense of the verb which received them. Thus, three forms of almost every suffix may be distinguished:

- a) One beginning with the consonant itself, as הוּ, הוּ׃, (הֵם), ם, etc. This is appended to verbal forms which end with a vowel, as קָטַלְתִּיהוּ, קָטַלְתִּי.
- b) A second and a third, with the so-called union-vowels † (וּ׃, וּ׃) for the verbal forms which end with a consonant (for the exception, see § 59, Rem. 3): with the union-vowel a for the forms of the Preterite, as קָטַלְתִּי, קָטַלְתָּ, קָטַלְתָּ; with the union-vowel e (rarely a) for the forms of the Future and Imperative, as יִקְטַלְתֶּהּ, קָטַלְתֶּם. To the Preterite belongs also the suffix וּ, as having originated * םַ׃ occurs very seldom as verbal suffix (Deut. xxxii. 26); וּ׃ not at all. Yet they are given in the list as being ground-forms, which frequently occur with nouns and prepositions.

† Traces of this lost form appear still in the affirmatives of the Æthiopic Preterite, as qatalha (thou hast killed), and also in the Samaritan (see Gesenii Anecdota Orientalia, p. 43). Comp. what was said in § 44, 1, on קָטַלְתִּי. The forms with t and h are not unfrequently interchanged in languages generally (see § 33, 3, note).

‡ We retain the common name union-vowel [Bindevocal], although it rests on a rather superficial view, and is somewhat vague. These union-sounds seem, for the most part, to be residues of ancient terminations of the verb, like i in קָטַלְתִּיהוּ. Take, for example, the Hebrew form qatal-ani, when compared with the Arabic qatala-ni; and, on the other hand, the Heb. qatalatni and the Arab. qatalatni.

from  $\text{הוּ}$ . With  $\text{ך}$ ,  $\text{ם}$ ,  $\text{ן}$ , the uniting sound is only a half vowel (vocal Sh'va), as  $\text{ךְ}$ ,  $\text{םְ}$ ,  $\text{ןְ}$ , e. g.  $\text{קָטַלְךָ}$  (q'tāl'khū); or when the final consonant of the verb is a guttural,  $\text{ךְ}$ , e. g.  $\text{שָׁלַחְךָ}$ . In pause, this Sh'va becomes Seghol with the tone  $\text{ךֶ}$ .

Rem. 1. As rare forms, may be mentioned: sing. 2nd pers. m.  $\text{ךָ}$  1 Kings xviii. 44, in pause  $\text{ךְ}$  Is. lv. 5, and  $\text{כָּךָ}$  Prov. ii. 11; fem.  $\text{כִּי}$ ,  $\text{כִּי־}$  Ps. cxxxvii. 6, and in the later Psalms frequently. ( $\text{כִּי־}$ , contrary to the rule, appended to the Pret. in Judges iv. 20.)—In the 3rd pers. masc.  $\text{הוּ}$  Ex. xxxii. 25, Num. xxiii. 8; fem.  $\text{הִיא}$  without Mappiq Num. xv. 28, Jer. xlv. 19.—The forms  $\text{מוֹ}$ ,  $\text{מוֹ־}$ ,  $\text{מוֹ־}$ , are strictly poetic (except Ex. xxiii. 31); instead of  $\text{מוֹ}$ , we find  $\text{מִי}$  once in Ex. xv. 5. On the origin of these forms, see § 32, Rem. 7.

2. By comparing these suffixes of the verb with the suffixes of the noun (§ 91), we discover: a) There is here a greater variety of forms than there (because the forms and relations of the verb are themselves more various); b) the verbal suffix, where it differs from that of the noun, is longer, as  $\text{נִי}$ ,  $\text{נִי־}$ ,  $\text{נִי־}$ , me,  $\text{־י}$  my. The reason is, that the object of the verb is less closely connected with it than the possessive pronoun is with the noun; on which account, also, the former may even be expressed by a separate word (§ 117, 2).

4. The suffix gains still more strength, when instead of the union-vowels there is inserted a union-syllable,  $\text{נ־}$ ,  $\text{נ־}$  (commonly called Nun epenthetic, but better Nun demonstrative), which, however, occurs only in the Future and in pause, e. g.  $\text{יְבַרְכֶנּוּהוּ}$  he will bless him (Ps. lxxii. 15),  $\text{יְכַבְּדֶנּוּנִי}$  he will honour me (Ps. l. 23). This Nun is, however, for the most part incorporated with the suffixes, and hence we have a new series of forms, viz.—

1st pers. plur.  $\text{נִי־}$  for  $\text{נִי־}$ .

In the other persons this Nun does not occur.

Rem. The forms with Nun distinctly written are rare, only poetic (Jer. v. 22), and do not occur at all in 3 fem. sing. and 1 plur. The contracted forms (with the Nun assimilated) are rather frequent, especially in pause.

N.B. This Nun is of a demonstrative nature, and belongs to the appended accusative of the personal pronoun, to which it serves to direct attention as to the object of the verb. This Nun is frequent in Chaldee; in Samaritan it is appended also to the Preterite, and in similar cases even a  $\text{ן}$  inserted. In the Syriac there is a Yodh with consonant power used in the same way.

THE PRETERITE WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

1. The endings (affirmatives) of the Preterite have in part a different form, when connected with the suffixes; viz.—

a) In the 3 sing. fem.  $\text{ת־}$ ,  $\text{ת־}$ , the original feminine-ending, for  $\text{ה־}$ ;

- b) 2 sing. masc. besides  $\text{תָּ}$  also  $\text{תֵּ}$  to which the union-vowel is attached, but the only clear instance of it is with  $\text{גִּי}^*$  ;\*
- c) 2 sing. fem.  $\text{תִּי}$ , likewise an older form for  $\text{תָּ}$  (comp.  $\text{אֲתִי}$ ,  $\text{קָטְלִתִּי}$ , § 32, Rem. 4; § 41, Rem. 4). This form is to be distinguished from the 1st pers. sing. only by the context.
- d) 2 plur. masc.  $\text{תוּ}$  for  $\text{תֶּם}$ , which is explained by the Arabic antum, qataltum, Chald.  $\text{אֲתוּן}$ ,  $\text{קָטְלָתוּן}$  for  $\text{אֲתֶם}$ ,  $\text{קָטְלֶתֶם}$  (§ 32, Rem. 5). Of the fem.  $\text{קָטְלִיתֵן}$  with suffixes there is no instance, but probably it took the same form as the masc.

We exhibit, first, the forms of the Preterite in Hiphil as they appear in connexion with suffixes, because here no further change takes place in the stem itself, except as to the tone (see No. 2):

Sing.	Plur.
3 m. $\text{הִקְטִיל}$	3 c. $\text{הִקְטִילוּ}$
3 f. $\text{הִקְטִילָת}$
2 m. $\text{הִקְטִילְתֶּם}$ , $\text{הִקְטִילְתֶּן}$	2 m. $\text{הִקְטִילְתֶּם}$
2 f. $\text{הִקְטִילְתִּי}$ , $\text{הִקְטִילְתֵּי}$
1 c. $\text{הִקְטִילְתִּי}$	1 c. $\text{הִקְטִילְנוּ}$

The beginner is recommended to practise first the manner of connecting the suffixes with this Hiphil-form, and then to apply himself to that with the Pret. of Kal. (See No. 2.)

2. The tone inclines towards the appended suffix, so that it never remains on the stem itself. And this occasions, particularly in the Preterite of Kal, certain vowel changes, in consequence of which the following forms present themselves:—

Sing.	Plur.
3 m. $\text{קָטַל}$ ( $\text{קָטַל}$ , Rem. 1)	3 c. $\text{קָטְלוּ}$
3 f. $\text{קָטַלָת}$
2 m. $\text{קָטַלְתֶּם}$ ( $\text{קָטַלְתֶּם}$ , Rem. 4)	2 m. $\text{קָטַלְתֶּם}$
2 f. $\text{קָטַלְתִּי}$ ( $\text{קָטַלְתִּי}$ , Rem. 4)
1 c. $\text{קָטַלְתִּי}$	1 c. $\text{קָטַלְנוּ}$

These forms are exhibited in connexion with all the suffixes in Paradigm C. It will be seen there, too, how the Tsere in Piël changes sometimes into Seyhol, and sometimes into vocal Sh'va.

Rem. 1. The suffixes for the 2nd pers. pl.,  $\text{כֶּם}$  and  $\text{כֶּן}$ , are (together with  $\text{כֶּם}$  and  $\text{כֶּן}$ ) rather weightier [more strongly accented] forms than the others, and hence are called grave suffixes. They always have the tone, and cause in the 3 m. sing. of Pret. Kal a greater shortening than the others (called light suffixes), e. g.  $\text{קָטַלְכֶם}$ ,  $\text{קָטַלְכֶן}$ . This difference has still greater effect in the case of nouns (§ 91).

* The short a here belongs probably also to the form of the verb itself. See the preceding § 3, b, note.

2. In the 3 sing. masc. קָטְלוּ is also contracted into קָטְלוּ, according to § 23, 5, and so likewise in the 2 sing. masc. קָטַלְתָּהּ into קָטַלְתָּ.

3. The 3 sing. fem. קָטַלְתָּ (= קָטַלְתָּ) has the twofold peculiarity, a) that the ending ath constantly draws the tone to itself, except with כָּם and כֶּן (see Rem. 1), and then takes the suffixes that make a syllable of themselves (נִי, רַי, הִי, הָ, נוּ, כֶּם, כֶּן) without a union vowel, contrary to the general rule (§ 58, 3, a); b) with the other suffixes the union-vowel is indeed adopted, but the tone is drawn back to the penultima, so that they appear with shortened vowels (אֶתְּ, אֶתְּ e. g. אֶתְּהָרְבֵהּ she loves thee Ruth iv. 15, אֶתְּרַפְּתֵם it burneth them Is. xlvi. 14, אֶתְּנָחֶם she has stolen them Gen. xxxi. 32. For אֶתְּנֵהְךָ etc., we find in pause אֶתְּנֵהְךָ Ps. lxix. 10, אֶתְּנֵהְךָ Cant. viii. 5, and also without pause, for the sake of correspondence in sound, אֶתְּנָחֶם (she has born thee) in the same verse (Cant. viii. 5). The forms קָטַלְתָּהּ, קָטַלְתָּהּ are contr. from קָטַלְתָּהּ, קָטַלְתָּהּ after the analogy of אֶתְּנֵהְךָ (§ 57, 4).

4. In the 2 sing. masc. קָטַלְתָּ is always used, and the suffixes have no union-vowel, except in אֶתְּנֵהְךָ, from אֶתְּנֵהְךָ and אֶתְּנֵהְךָ, e. g. אֶתְּנֵהְךָ thou searchest me Ps. cxxxix. 1, but also אֶתְּנֵהְךָ thou hast forsaken me Ps. xxii. 2. In the 2 sing. fem. תִּי is written also defectively אֶתְּנֵהְךָ Jer. xv. 10; Cant. iv. 9; Ex. ii. 10; instead of it the masc. form is also used אֶתְּנֵהְךָ thou (fem.) adjurest us Cant. v. 9; Jos. ii. 17; and with Tsere הִנְךָ הִנְךָ הִנְךָ thou (fem) hast let us down Jos. ii. 18.

5. From a verb middle O we have אֶתְּנֵהְךָ I have subdued him Ps. xliii. 5, with a shortened o in a syllable that has lost the tone (§ 44, Rem. 3).

FUTURE WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

In the forms of the Future, which end with the last stem-letter, the vowel o of the final syllable is shortened generally to simple Sh'va vocal (ִ), at times to Chateph-qamets (ֶ) Jer. xxxi. 33; but to Qamets-chatuph (ֶ) before ך, כָּם, כֶּן. Instead of אֶתְּנֵהְךָ the form אֶתְּנֵהְךָ* is used as 2nd and as 3rd person, Cant. i. 6; Jer. ii. 19; Job xix. 15. The form with Nun demonstrative (§ 58, 4) is specially adopted at the end of the clause or period.

N.B. Rem. 1. Verbs with Fut. A (to which belong all that have a guttural for the 3rd radical, § 65) retain the full A in the Fut. and Imp., and the Pathach, when it comes to stand in an open syllable, is lengthened into Qamets, e. g. אֶתְּנֵהְךָ seul me Is. vi. 8, אֶתְּנֵהְךָ it put me on Job xxix. 14, אֶתְּנֵהְךָ let them demand it back Job iii. 5.

2. Occasionally, as exceptions, suffixes occur also in the Future, with the union-vowel a, as אֶתְּנֵהְךָ Ex. xxix. 30; comp. ii. 17; Gen. xix. 19; xxix. 32.

3. The suffixes are at times appended also to the plural forms in ׁן, e. g. אֶתְּנֵהְךָ ye crush me, Job xix. 2; elsewhere always without a union-vowel אֶתְּנֵהְךָ they will find me, Prov. i. 28; Is. lx. 7, 10; Jer. v. 22.

4. In Pîl, the Tsere of the final syllable, like the Cholem in Kal, becomes Sh'va; but before the suffixes ך, כָּם, כֶּן it is only shortened into Seghol, e. g. אֶתְּנֵהְךָ he will gather thee. Deut. xxx. 4; more rarely into Chireq, as אֶתְּנֵהְךָ I will strengthen you. Job xvi. 5; comp. Ex. xxxi. 13; Is. xxv. 1.

5. In Hiphil, the Chireq remains, as אֶתְּנֵהְךָ thou clothest me, Job x. 11; and only rarely are to be met with forms like אֶתְּנֵהְךָ thou enrichest it, Ps. lxxv. 10; 1 Sam. xvii. 25. Comp. § 53, Rem. 1.

* This form is also found as feminine without a suffix, Jer. xlix. 11; Eze. xxxvii. 7.

SECT. 61.

INFINITIVE, IMPERATIVE, AND PARTICIPLE WITH SUFFIXES.

1. The Infinitive of a verb active can be construed with an accusative, and then it takes the verbal suffix (i. e. the acc. of the personal pronoun), as  $\text{קָטַלְנִי}$  to kill me; but as a noun it can take also the nominal suffix (the genitive), as  $\text{קָטַלִּי}$  my killing (see § 133, 1, 2). In either case it assumes the form  $\text{קָטַל}$ , with the o drawn backward (comp. the segholate nouns of the form  $\text{קָטַל}$ , with which  $\text{קָטַל}$  is nearly related, § 84, No. 10, 11, and § 93, Parad. VI.).

Rem. 1. The Inf. of the form  $\text{שָׁבַב}$  becomes with suffixes  $\text{שָׁבַבְנִי}$  Gen. xix. 33, like nouns of the form  $\text{שָׁבַב}$ .

2. Before  $\text{ך}$ ,  $\text{כּ}$ ,  $\text{ן}$ , forms are found which depart from the analogy of segholate nouns, e. g.  $\text{עָצַרְתָּ}$  thy standing Obad. 11; but, as conformable to this analogy, are to be regarded  $\text{עָצַרְתָּ}$  your harvesting Lev. xix. 9, and  $\text{קָטַלְתָּ}$  (mö-ös-khēm) your contemning Is. xxx. 12.

2. What has been said of the Inf. is applicable also to the leading form  $\text{קָטַל}$  of the Imp. The forms  $\text{קָטַלִּי}$ ,  $\text{קָטַלְוּ}$ , which are not presented in the Paradigm, suffer no change. For the fem.  $\text{קָטַלְנָה}$  is substituted the masculine form  $\text{קָטַלוּ}$ , as in the Future. On  $\text{שָׁלַחְנִי}$ , see § 60, Rem. 1. In the Imp. of Hiphil, not the form  $\text{הִקָּטַל}$ , but  $\text{הִקָּטַלִּי}$  is used; e. g.  $\text{הִקָּרִיבֵהוּ}$  offer it, Mal. i. 8.

3. In the Participles, the shortening of the vowels is the same as in nouns of the like form, e. g.  $\text{קָטַל}$ ,  $\text{מְקַטֵּל}$ , according to § 93, Parad. VII.

On the difference between  $\text{קָטַלִּי}$  and  $\text{קָטַלְנִי}$ , see § 135, 2.

II. THE IRREGULAR VERB.*

A. VERBS WITH GUTTURALS.

SECT. 62.

Verbs which have a guttural for one of the three stem-letters are governed, in their deviations from the regular verb, by the general principles laid down in § 22. Of course  $\text{ס}$  and  $\text{ה}$  come under consideration here only when they retain their power as consonants, and are not mere substitutes for vowels;  $\text{ך}$  also partakes only in part of these anomalies (§ 22, 4). For convenient representation, we distinguish the cases in which the guttural is the first, second, or third stem-letter. The following three Paradigms, D, E, and F, where those conjugations, which are wholly regular, are omitted, exhibit their inflexions, and the following sections explain them more fully:—

SECT. 63.

VERBS PE GUTTURAL. E. g. עָמַד to stand. Parad. D, § 62.

The deviations from the regular verb may here be reduced to the following particulars:—

1. When the first stem-letter, at the beginning of the word, would regularly require a simple Sh<sup>va</sup> (קָטַל, קָטַלְתָּם), it takes here one of the composite Sh<sup>va</sup>s (§ 10, 2; § 22, 3); e. g. Inf. עָמַד, אָכַל to eat, Pret. עָמַדְתָּם, הִפְצַצְתָּם from הִפְיִן to be inclined.

2. When a preformative is prefixed to such forms, it takes the vowel which lies in the Chateph (§ 28, 2), as יַעֲמַד, יִהְלֵם he will dream, יִאֲסֹף he will gather; or the composite Sh<sup>va</sup> conforms to the vowel of the preformative, viz., when the latter is an essential characteristic of the form; e. g. Pret. Niph. נִעְמַד (for נִעְמַד, Hiph. הִעְמַד (for הִעְמַד), Inf. and Fut. הִעְמִיד, הִעְמִיד, Hoph. Pret. הִעְמַד, Fut. יִעְמִיד. (On the Methegh in these forms, see § 16, 2, a.)

In many verbs, however, the guttural, especially ה, when it stands after a preformative at the end of a syllable, retains the simple Sh<sup>va</sup>; but in this case the preformative always has the vowel corresponding to the composite Sh<sup>va</sup>, which the guttural would take according to the above rule; e. g. Fut. Kal יִהְוֵר he will desire, יִהְבִּט he will bind, Niph. נִהְפֵךְ to change one's self, נִאָּר girded, Hiph. הִהָסִיר to cause to fail.

The grammarians call this the hard, the former with the comp. Sh<sup>va</sup> the soft, combination. Both forms often occur in the same verb.

3. When in forms like יַעֲמַד, נִעְמַד, the vowel of the final syllable is changed into simple Sh<sup>va</sup> vocal, on account of the accession of one of the affirmatives (י, י־, ה־), then the composite Sh<sup>va</sup> of the guttural gives place to the corresponding short vowel, as יַעֲמַד, plur. יַעְמָדוּ (read yā'ām'ādhū); נִעְזְבָה she is forsaken. But here also there exists a harder form besides, as יִהְבְּלוּ they take a pledge, יִהְזַקְּוּ they are strong. Compare in general § 22, 4; § 28, 3.

4. In the Inf., Imp., and Fut. of Niph., where the first stem-letter would regularly be doubled (קָטַל, הִקָּטַל), the doubling is always omitted, and the vowel of the preformative is lengthened in Tseve, as יַעֲמַד for יִעְמַד.

REMARKS.

I. On Kal.

1. In verbs פָּא the Inf. constr. and Imp. take (־) under the first letter (according to § 22, 4, Rem. 2); as יָאָר gird Job xxxviii. 3, אָהַב love thou Hos. iii. 1, אָכַל to eat, with a prefix אָהֵן, אָכַלְתָּ. The (־) is found here only when the tone is forcibly thrown forward; e. g. אָכַלְתָּ Num. xxvi. 10. For the same reason we have אָמַרְתָּם, not אָמַרְתָּם.

In the other forms also of the Imp., the guttural often exerts its influence upon the vowel, which it changes to Seghol, as הִשְׁרִיף strip thyself Is. xlviii. 2, הִשְׁרִיף set thyself Job xxxiii. 5, especially when the second radical is also a guttural, as אָהַבֵּנִי Ps. xxxi. 24. Pathach occurs in הִקָּלְתִּי Prov. xx. 16.

2. The Fut. A, as the Parad. shows, has regularly under the first two letters  $\overline{\text{־}}$ ; and with the hard combination  $\text{ֿֿֿ}$ , as  $\text{יִחְדַּל}$  he ceases,  $\text{יִחְכֵּם}$  he is wise. This is true likewise of those verbs Pe guttural, which are besides also  $\text{לֵה}$ , as  $\text{יִחְזֶה}$  he sees,  $\text{יִחַדְּדָהּ}$  he divides. The pointing  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  is found even in verbs Fut. O, but less frequently, as  $\text{יִצְבֹּרַף}$ ,  $\text{יִחַיֵּץ}$ , he lays bare. The form  $\text{וַתַּעֲנֵב}$  and she loves, Eze. xxiii. 5, is the only instance of the hard combination  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  in a verb Fut. A. In these forms the pointing  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  is frequently shortened to  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  (according to § 27, Rem. 5), as  $\text{יִצְבֹּרַף}$  he binds, plur. with suffix  $\text{וַיִּצְבֹּרְוּהוּ}$ ,  $\text{יִחַסְרוּ}$ ,  $\text{יִחַסְרוּהוּ}$ .

II. On Hiphil and Hophal.

3. The rule given in Rem. 2 respecting  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  and  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  is applicable here also in the Pret. after Vav conversive; i. e. the throwing forward of the tone occasions a change of e and a, as  $\text{וַתִּזְרֹק}$  thou didst set,  $\text{וַתִּזְרֹקְתִי}$  and thou wilt set, Num. iii. 6; viii. 13; xxvii. 19;  $\text{וַתַּעֲבֹרְתִי}$ ,  $\text{וַתַּעֲבֹרְתִי}$ .

4. In the Pret. of Hiph.,  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  is sometimes changed into  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$ , and  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  into  $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$  in Hoph. Pret., by prolonging the short vowel, which was sustained by Metheg, e. g.  $\text{וַתַּעֲבֹרְתִי}$  thou leddest over, Jos. vii. 7;  $\text{וַתַּעֲלֶה}$ , he brings up, Hab. i. 15;  $\text{וַתַּעֲלֶה}$ , Nah. ii. 8.

III. In General.

5. In the verbs  $\text{וַיִּחַי}$  to live, and  $\text{וַיִּהְיֶה}$  to be, the guttural is treated as such only in very few forms; the Fut. is  $\text{וַיִּחַיֶּה}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּהְיֶה}$ . The rule given under No. 1 is indeed true of these verbs, hence  $\text{וַיִּהְיֶה}$ ; but so soon as a letter is prefixed, the first radical drops the peculiar pointing of the guttural, as  $\text{וַיִּהְיֶה}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּהְיֶה}$ , Eze. xxxvii. 5, 6.

6. For verbs  $\text{בָּא}$  in which א loses its consonant and is resolved into a vowel, see § 68.

SECT. 64.

VERBS AYIN GUTTURAL. E. g.  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַט}$  to slaughter. Parad. E. § 62.

The deviations from the regular verb are not so great in this class, and are mainly as follows:—*

1. Where a simple Sh'va is required, the guttural takes, without exception, the composite Sh'va ( $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$ ); e. g. Pret.  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ , Fut.  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ , Imp. Niph.  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ . In the Imp., the vowel supplied under the first radical conforms to the Chateph of the second; as  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ .

So in the Inf. Kal fem., as  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּהָ}$  to love,  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּהָ}$  to languish.

2. As the preference of the gutturals for the א sound has generally less influence on the following than on the preceding vowel (§ 22, 2), so not only is the Cholem in Inf. Kal  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$  retained, but also, for the most part, the Tsere in Fut. Niph. and Piel  $\text{וַיִּקְרַח}$  he fights,  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$  he comforts, and even the more feeble Seghol (after Vav conversive)  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$ . But in the Fut. and Imp. of Kal, the last syllable generally takes ( $\text{ֿֿֿֿֿ}$ ), through the influence of the guttural, even in transitive verbs, e. g.  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּשְׁחַטוּ}$ ;  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$ ;  $\text{וַיִּבְרַח}$ ,  $\text{וַיִּבְרַח}$  (seldom like  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$ ), and in the Pret. Piel also, Pathach occurs more frequently than in the regular verb, as  $\text{וַיִּנְחֵם}$ .

* Hophal, which is not exhibited in the Paradigm, is varied like Kal. Hiphil is regular.

3. In Piël, Pual, and Hithp., the Daghesh forte is inadmissible in the middle stem-letter; but, in the greater number of examples, particularly before ה, ח, and ע, the preceding vowel remains short, the guttural having Daghesh forte implicitum (§ 22, 1); e. g. Piël שָׁחַק, Inf. שָׁחַק to jest; Pual רָחַץ to be washed; Hithp. הִטְהַרְוּ cleanse yourselves. Before א, the vowel is commonly prolonged, and always before ר, as Piël נָאָץ to refuse, בָּרַךְ to bless, Fut. יִבְרַךְ, Pass. בִּרְךָ, seldom like אָאָץ to commit adultery.

Rem. 1. The peculiar feebleness of the א causes, in the Pret. Kal of the much-used verb שָׁאָל to ask, a weakening of the ä (־) under it to (־), and in a closed syllable to (־) and to (־), when the syllable loses the tone, and the א is not preceded by a full vowel (exactly as in some verbs שָׁ, § 69, Rem. 4), e. g. with suffix, שָׁאָלְךָ Gen. xxxii. 18, שָׁאָלוּנִי Ps. cxxxvii. 3, 2nd. pers. plur. שָׁאָלְתֶם 1 Sam. xii. 13; xxv. 5; 1 sing. with suffix שָׁאָלְתִּיהוּ Judges xiii. 6; 1 Sam. i. 20; also in Hiphil הִשְׁאָלְתִּיהוּ 1 Sam. i. 28. Comp. § 44, Rem. 2.

2. In Piël and Hithp., the tone is sometimes drawn back upon the penultima, and the Tsere of the final syllable shortened to Seghol; viz., a) Before a word of one syllable (according to § 29, b), as שָׁמַרְתָּ לְעִירָתָא in order to serve there, Deut. xvii. 12; comp. Gen. xxxix. 14; Job viii. 18. b) After Vav conversive, as וַיְבָרֶכֶת and he blessed Gen. i. 22, וַיִּדְרֹג and he drove out Ex. x. 11; comp. Gen. xxxix. 4.

3. The following are unfrequent anomalies in the Pret. Piël: אָחַרְוּ they delay Judges v. 28, for אָחַרְוּ; and the similar form יָחַבְתִּנִּי she conceived me Ps. li. 7, for יָחַבְתִּנִּי or יָחַבְתִּנִּי.

4. A few examples where the א, as a middle guttural, loses entirely its consonant sound and is resolved into a vowel, will be found in § 73, Rem. 4.

SECT. 65.

VERBS LAMEDH GUTTURAL. E. g. שָׁלַח to send. Parad. F, § 62.

1. According to § 22, 2, a and b, we here distinguish two cases, viz., either the regular vowel of the final syllable remains, and the guttural takes Pathach furtive, or the full vowel Pathach takes the place of the regular vowel. The more particular statement is as follows:—

a) The strong unchangeable vowels י, ו, ו ( § 25, 1), are always retained; hence Inf. absol. Kal שָׁלַחַ, Part. pass. שָׁלַחַ, Hiph. הִשְׁלַחַ, Fut. יִשְׁלַחַ, Part. מִשְׁלַחַ. O, though less firm, is also retained in the Inf. constr. שָׁלַחַ, in order to distinguish it from the Imp. (as in verbs ע guttural).

b) The merely tone-long O in the Fut. and Imp. of Kal becomes Pathach, as יִשְׁלַחַ, שָׁלַחַ. (With suff. יִשְׁלַחֲנִי, see § 60, Rem. 1.)

c) Where Tsere is the regular vowel of the last syllable, the forms with Tsere (attended by Pathach furtive) and Pathach are both employed. Usage, however, makes a distinction in these forms. Thus—

In the Part. Kal and Pi'ül, פִּינְעָהּ, מִנְעָהּ is the exclusive form, and the full Pathach first appears in the constr. state מִנְעָהּ, מִנְעָהּ.

In the Fut. and Inf. Niph., and in the Pret. Inf. and Fut. Pi'ül, the form with (־) is employed at the beginning and in the middle of a period, the one with (־־) at the end, and in pause; e. g. יִרְעֶה it is diminished Num. xxvii. 4, and יִרְעֶה xxxvi. 3; יִבְרַע he cures Hab. iii. 9, and יִבְרַע Eze. xiii. 11; יִבְלַע to swallow, Hab. i. 13; Num. iv. 20. It may further be observed, that the Inf. absol. retains Tsere, which is lost in the Inf. constr.; e. g. מִשְׁלַח Deut. xxii. 7, else מִשְׁלַח to send.

In Hiph. the shortened forms of the Imp. and Fut. admit only (־), e. g. הִצְלַח prosper, הִצְלַח and he caused to trust. The Inf. absol. takes (־־) as הִצְלַח to make high; but as Inf. constr. also הִצְלַח occurs, Job vi. 26.

2. The guttural here has simple Sh'va whenever the third radical regularly takes it (because it is Sh'va quiescent, which is generally retained even under gutturals, § 22, 4), as מִשְׁלַחְתִּי, מִשְׁלַחְתֶּךָ. But in the 2 fem. Pret. a helping-Pathach takes its place, as מִשְׁלַחְתִּי (§ 28, 4), yet more rarely also מִשְׁלַחְתִּי (without Dagh. in the ת) Gen. xxx. 15, and מִשְׁלַחְתִּי 1 Kings xiv. 3.

The softer combination with composite Sh'va occurs only a) In some examples of the 1 plur. Pret. when the tone is thrown forward, as יִרְעֵנֶיךָ we know thee, Hos. viii. 2; comp. Gen. xxvi. 29. b) Before the suffixes ה, קם, קו, as אֶשְׁלַחְךָ I will send thee 1 Sam. xvi. 1, אֶשְׁלַחְךָ Gen. xxxi. 27, אֶשְׁלַחְךָ Jer. xviii. 2.

On the feeble verbs לָלַח, see especially in § 74.

B. CONTRACTED VERBS.

SECT. 66.

VERBS. בָּ. E. g. מִנְעָהּ to approach. Parad. G.

The irregularities of these verbs, arising from the feebleness of the nasal letter Nun, are as follows:—

1. The Imp. and Inf. constr. often lose (by aphæresis, § 19, 3) their Nun, which would here take Sh'va, as מִנְעָהּ for מִנְעָהּ. The Inf. then, however, has regularly the feminine-ending מִנְעָהּ, or, with a guttural, מִנְעָהּ (§ 80, 2), as מִנְעָהּ, מִנְעָהּ to touch (from מִנְעָהּ). The Imp. has usually Pathach; but also Tsere, as מִנְעָהּ give (from מִנְעָהּ). Frequently it takes the lengthened form, as מִנְעָהּ give up.

2. Whenever Nun, after a preformative, stands at the end of a syllable, it assimilates itself to the following stem-letter (§ 19, 2, a); viz., a) in the Fut. Kal, e. g. יִפֹּל he will fall for יִפֹּל; יִנְעַם for יִנְעַם; יִתֵּן he will give for יִתֵּן (the Fut. O, as in the regular verb, most common, the Fut. E only in this example*); b) in the

* The verb מִנְעָהּ, employed as a Paradigm, has the Fut. A, which is not presented, however, as the most usual form of the Fut. in verbs of this class, but only as the actual form of this particular verb. The Tsere in יִתֵּן is owing to the double feebleness of the stem יִתֵּן (comp. Rem. 3)

Pret. Niph., e. g. נִגְזַשׁ for נִגְזַשׁ; e) in the whole of Hiphil and Hophal (which here has always Qibbutz, according to § 9, 9, 2), e. g. הִגְזַשׁ, הִגְזַשׁ, for הִגְזַשׁ, הִגְזַשׁ.

The other forms are all regular, e. g. Pret. Inf. absol. Part. Kal, Piél, Pual, etc. Only those conjugations which are irregular are included in the following Paradigm:—

The characteristic of these verbs in all forms which begin with a formative letter, is the Dagħesh forte following it in the second radical. Some forms, however, of one class of verbs יָבִי (§ 71) and even of verbs עָבַד (§ 67, 5), exhibit the same appearance. Verbs יָבִי likewise exhibit such forms of the Imp. as יָבִי, also יָבִי (Gen. xix. 9), and יָבִי.

Rem. 1. The instances are comparatively few in which the forms mentioned in Nos. 1 and 2 retain their Nun, e. g. Imp. יָבִי let alone, יָבִי full ye; Inf. יָבִי (as well as יָבִי) to touch; Fut. יָבִי he keeps, Jer. iii. 5 (elsewhere יָבִי). In Niph. this never occurs, and in Hiph. and Hoph. very seldom, as יָבִי to melt Eze. xxii. 20, יָבִי they are cut off Judges xx. 31. It regularly occurs, however, in all verbs which have a guttural for their second stem-letter, as יָבִי he will possess. In these verbs the Nun rarely falls away, as יָבִי he will descend, and יָבִי; Niph. יָבִי for יָבִי he has comforted himself.

N.B. 2. These anomalies are in part exhibited in the verb לָקַח to take, the ל of which is treated like the Nun of these verbs (§ 19, 2). Hence, Fut. יָלַח, Imp. קַח (seldom לָקַח), Inf. constr. לָקַח, Hoph. Fut. יָלַח. Niph., however, is always קַח.

N.B. 3. In the verb נָתַן to give, the final Nun is also assimilated, as נָתַתִּי for נָתַתִּי, נָתַתָּ for נָתַתָּ; Inf. constr. נָתַת for נָתַת (see § 19, 2), with suff. נָתַתִּי my giving.

1. The principal irregularity of these verbs consists in the contraction of the second and third radicals often into one double letter, as כָּבַב for כָּבַבְו, even when a full vowel would regularly stand between them, as כָּב for כָּבַב, כָּב for כָּבַב. Those forms are not contracted which contain unchangeable vowels, or a Daghesh forte, as כָּבוּב, כָּבוּב, כָּבַב.

2. The monosyllabic stem thus obtained takes, throughout, the vowel which the full form would have had in its second syllable, and which in the regular verb characterises the form (§ 43, Rem. 1), e. g. כָּב for כָּבַב; Inf. כָּב for כָּבַב; Hiph. הִכָּב for הִכָּבַב (comp. No. 6).

3. The Daghesh forte, which, after this contraction, properly belongs to the final stem-letter, is excluded from it (§ 20, 3 a), except when formative additions are made at the end, as כָּבוּ, כָּבוּ, Fut. יִכָּבוּ, but not כָּב, כָּב.

4. When the affirmative begins with a consonant (נ, ת), a vowel is inserted before it, in order to render audible the Daghesh of the final stem-letter (§ 20, 3, c, Rem.). This vowel in the Pret. is ו, in the Imp. and Fut. וּ, e. g. כָּבוּתוּ, כָּבוּתוּ, Fut. הִכָּבִינָה.

The Arabian writes indeed regularly כָּבַב, but pronounces in the popular language כָּבַב maddit instead, also maddāta, which last is exactly analogous to the Hebrew inflexion.*

5. The preformatives of Fut. Kal, Pret. Niph., and of Hiph. and Hoph., which in consequence of the contraction stand in a simple syllable (יָכַב instead of יָכַבְו), take, instead of the short vowel of the regular form, the corresponding long one (according to § 27, 2, a). Hence Fut. יָכַב for יָכַבְו=יָכַבְו; † Fut. A, יָכַר for יָכַרְו; Hiph. הִכָּב for הִכָּבְו, Inf. הִכָּב for הִכָּבְו; Hoph. הִכָּב for הִכָּבְו. This long vowel (except the ו in Hophal) may be shortened.

There is still another mode of constructing these forms (the common one in Chaldee), which supplies a Daghesh in the first radical in place of doubling the third (comp. § 19, 2 Rem.); e. g. Fut. Kal יָכַב for יָכַבְו, Fut. Hiph. יָכַבְו for יָכַבְו, Hoph. יָכַבְו for יָכַבְו. These forms do not usually take Daghesh in the final letter on receiving an accession, as יָכַרְוּ they bow themselves (from יָכַרְוּ), יָכַרְוּ and they smote (from יָכַרְוּ), because the doubling is already supplied in the first letter, and the tone also rests on the affirmative instead of the stem-letter; but see יָכַרְוּ Judges xviii. 23, יָכַרְוּ Job iv. 20. They therefore omit also the vowels ו and וּ, e. g. יָכַרְוּ they will tinkle (from יָכַרְוּ) Jer. xix. 3. The Paradigm exhibits this form by the side of the other in Fut. Kal.

* The explanation given here of this inserted vowel may certainly suffice, if an approximation be supposed between this class of verbs and that of לָה; compare כָּבוּתוּ and Arab. maddita with גָּלִיתָ or גָּלִיתָ, and הִכָּבִינָה with הִכָּבִינָה.

† It might seem far more easy, in explaining the origin of the Fut. יָכַב (as well as of the Fut. in verbs עָי, יָקום) to regard it as formed from the contracted stem-syllable כָּב by prefixing י, so also Hiph. and Hoph. But the mechanically easier way is not always the natural one.

6. Of many of these contractions, however, the originals are not found in the regular verb, but they may be considered as more ancient forms. Thus יָכַב stands for יִסְכַּב, with a under the preformative, as in the regular Arabic form;\* Hiph. הִסְכַּב for הִסְכַּב has in the contracted stem-syllable the shorter  $\bar{e}$  (like the Aram. אִסְכַּל comp. § 53, 1 and Rem. 1); Pret. Niph. נִכַּב for נִסְכַּב; Fut. Niph. יִסְכַּב for יִסְכַּב, comp. אִסְכַּל, § 51, Rem. 2.

7. The tone has this peculiarity, that it is not thrown forward upon the formative syllables beginning with a vowel (הָ, וּ, יָ, comp. § 44, Rem. 5), but remains before them on the stem-syllable, as סָבוּ.† Before the other affirmatives, it rests upon the inserted syllables וּ and יָ (with the exception of תָּם and תָּן which always take the tone), and in consequence the vowels of the word are shortened, as תִּסְבוּ, תִּסְכַּב; תִּסְכַּב, תִּסְכַּב, but תִּסְבוּת.

8. Instead of Piël, Pual, Hithp. and in the same signification, is found in numerous verbs of this kind, the unfrequent conjugation Poël (§ 55, 1), with its passive and reflexive, e. g. עוֹלֵל to treat one ill, pass. עוֹלֵל, reflex. הִתְעוֹלֵל (from עָלַל); in some is found Pilpel (§ 55, 4), as גָּרְגַּל to roll, הִתְגַּרְגַּל to roll one's self (from גָּלַל), pass. שִׁעֲשַׁע to be caressed (from שָׁעַע). They are inflected regularly like Piël.

REMARKS.

1. On Kal.

1. In the Pret. are found some examples with Cholem (comp. יָבַל, § 43, 1), as רָבִי from רָבִיב they are high Job xxiv. 24, רָבוּ from רָבַב Gen. xlix. 23.

2. The Cholem of the Inf., Imp., and Fut. (כַּב, יִכַּב) as a changeable vowel, is written defectively, with a few exceptions, which are found especially in the later orthography; e. g. לָבוּ for לָבוּ to plunder, Esth. iii. 13; viii. 11. It is consequently shortened into Qamets-chataph or Qibbuts, whenever it loses the tone, as Inf. רָדָה to rejoice Job xxxviii. 7, with suff. בָּרָדָה when he founded Prov. viii. 27, Imp. הַרְפֵּי pity me, Fut. with Var. convers. וְרָבַב Judges xi. 18, with suff. וְרָבַבָה he lays them waste Prov. xi. 3, Q'ri.

3. Of final Pathach in the Inf., Fut., and Imp. (יָקַט, יִקְטַל), the following are examples; Inf. שָׁנַע to stoop Jer. v. 26, Imp. גַּל roll Ps. cxix. 22, Fut. יָמַר he is bitter Is. xxiv. 9, יָבַל he is slighted Gen. xvi. 4, רָדָה he is soft Is. vii. 4. Examples of the Chalduising Fut. are: יִכַּב, though יָכַב is also in use; יִשְׁתַּע he is astonished, 1 Kings ix. 8; וְיִקְרָו and they bowed themselves, from יָקַר.

In the Participle occurs the Aramæan form שָׁעַס for שָׁעַס Jer. xxx. 16, K<sup>a</sup>thibh.

* Hebrew יִקְטַל from יָקַט, § 9, 5. The a appears also in verbs ב guttural, especially in verbs שָׁב, § 68; and verbs עָ, § 72.

† The terminations for gender and number in the Participles take the tone, as these are not a part of the verbal inflexion, as יִקְטַל, יִקְטַלָּה, יִקְטַלְּהוּ.

H. On Niphal.

5. Besides the most usual form with Pathach in the second syllable, as given in the Paradigm, there is still another with Tsere, and another with Cholem (analogous with קטל, נרא, זבל, § 43, 1), extending through the whole conjugation; e. g. Pret. נקל (also נקל) it is a light thing Is. xlix. 6, Part. נקם wasted away 1 Sam. xv. 9. With Cholem ננלו they are rolled together Is. xxxiv. 4, Fut. תרני thou shalt be laid waste Jer. xlviii. 2. In the Inf. and Imp. forms with Pathach do not even exist, but those with Tsere and Cholem, as Inf. המים to melt Ps. lxxviii. 3 Inf. Abs. הבוז to be plundered Is. xxiv. 3, Imp. הרמו take yourselves up Num. xvii. 10. Chaldaising forms of Niphal are נהל Eze. xxv. 3 (from חלל), נהר (from הרר) Ps. lxix. 4; cii. 4 (also נהר Jer. vi. 29), נחת fractus est (from חתת), Mal. ii. 5.

III. On Hiphil and Hophal.

6. Besides Tsere the final syllable has also Pathach, especially with gutturals, as המר he made bitter; Inf. הבר to cleanse, Jer. iv. 11. But also without a guttural, as הרק he pounded small, 2 Ki. xxiii. 15; plur. הרבוי 1 Sam. v. 10, Part. מצל shadowing, Eze. xxxi. 3.

7. The Future with the tone retracted is formed like יקר he protects Ps. xci. 4, ונקל and he rolled Gen. xxix. 10.

8. Chaldaising forms of Hiphil and Hophal: ויכב Ex. xiii. 18, וינחתי and they smote Deut. i. 44, אהל profanabo Eze. xxxix. 7, והיבוי they perish Job xxiv. 24, יבת Is. xxiv. 12, יחקי in pause (Job xix. 23) for יחקי.

IV. In General.

9. Verbs עע are very nearly related to verbs ו (§ 72), as is already apparent from the great similarity in their conjugations throughout. In form the verb עע is generally shorter than the other (comp. נכב and יקום, הרכב and הקים). In some cases they have precisely the same form as in the Fut. convers. of Kal and Hiphil, in Hophal, and in the unfrequent conjugations. On account of this relation, they have sometimes borrowed forms from each other, e. g. ירון for ירו he rejoices, Prov. xxix. 6.

N.B. 10. Along with the contracted forms there are found, especially in certain conjugations and tenses, others which are wholly regular; e. g. Pret. Kal. פזו to plunder, plur. פזווי (also פזווי Deut. iii. 7); Inf. פבב and סב. Fut. יתנן he is gracious, Amos v. 15, elsewhere ירון. Hiph. הרנין, Fut. ירנין he will rejoice (which is never contracted), Part. כינני astonished, Eze. iii. 15. The full form appears to be more poetic and intended for emphasis (Ps. cxviii. 11).

11. We have seen above (No. 5), that in the Fut. of the Chaldee form, the Daghesh of the third radical, together with the preceding vowel, is omitted before affirmatives, which however take the tone, as וקרי. Of the same omission in other forms there are unquestionable examples, as נבלה Gen. xi. 7 for נבלה we will confound (Cohortative from בלל), ויבוי for ויבוי verse 6 they will devise; Pret. Niph. נבבה for נבבה Eze. xli. 7; נמלהם for נמלהם Gen. xvii. 11 (from מול = מול to circumcise); comp. Is. xix. 3; Jer. viii. 14. Without Daghesh, but with the accented full vowel: הענה for הענה Prov. vii. 13, נבזה 1 Sam. xiv. 36, נהלים Is. lvii. 5, for נהלים.

12. Although the affirmatives here attract the tone less (see No. 7, p. 111), yet it is occasionally thrown on them, as רבי Jer. v. 6; Ps. iii. 2; civ. 24; and also when suffixes are appended, as סבוי Ps. xviii. 11. The vowels suffer before Daghesh the changes pointed out in § 27, 1, viz., Cholem in the Fut. becomes Qibbuts, less frequently Qamets-chatuph, Tsere in Hiph. becomes Chireq (after the analogy of תכנינה, תכבותה); the preformatives then, in place of the full vowel, take Sheva; e. g. יסני Ps. xlix. 6, יסבוהו Job xl. 22, יסני Ps. lxxvii. 2, Hiph. יסני Eze. xlvi. 2.

C. FEEBLE VERBS (VERBA QUIESCENTIA).

SECT. 68.

FEEBLE VERBS אָב. E. g. אָבַל to eat. Parad. I.

So far as אָ is treated as a consonant and a guttural, these verbs have all the properties of verbs Pe Guttural exhibited in § 63. But here we regard them only in so far as the אָ quiesces, i. e. loses its consonant sound, and is blended with the foregoing vowel, which happens only in certain verbs and forms, as follows:—

1. In the Fut. Kal of five verbs, viz., אָבַד to perish, אָרַב to be willing, אָכַל to eat, אָמַר to say, אָפַח to bake, the א always quiesces in a long ó (Cholem), as אָבַד. In some others, the form in which it retains its power as a consonant is also in use, as אָהוּ and אָהוּ he takes hold. The ó in this case is but a corruption of the vowel á (§ 9, 10, 2), which is itself derived by contraction from  $\frac{\text{---}}{\text{---}}$  or  $\frac{\text{---}}{\text{---}}$ . The febleness of these verbs (§ 41, c) affects also their last syllable, so that it receives, instead of the stronger vowel,  $\bar{o}$  an  $\bar{e}$  (Tsere), particularly with distinctive accents at the end of a period or clause; but with conjunctive accents, which mark the continuance of the discourse, it takes  $\bar{a}$  (Pathach), e. g. אָבַד לְעַד Ps. ix. 19, on the contrary, אָבַד Ps. i. 6 (comp. a similar exchange of  $\bar{e}$  and  $\bar{a}$ , § 65, 1, c). When the tone moves back, the last stem-syllable has sometimes Pathach, as אָבַד יוֹם perish the day Job iii. 3, אָכַל וַיֵּאָכַל and he ate, and sometimes Seghol, as אָמַר (Milil) with conjunctive accents, but אָמַר (Milra) with distinctives (only in Job a few times אָמַר in pause).

It is but very seldom that Tsere stands before א in the Fut. Kal, as אָתָה it shall come, Mic. iv. 8, contracted from אָתָה: always, however, in the form אָמַר dicendo (Inf. with אָ), for אָמַר.

2. In the 1st pers. sing. Fut. the radical א (to avoid the repetition of this letter) is regularly dropped (§ 23, 4), as אָמַר for אָאמַר I will say.

Except in this case, the radical א is seldom dropped, as אָרַב for אָאָרַב thou takest away Ps. civ. 29, אָרְבִּי for אָאָרְבִּי they speak of thee Ps. cxxxix. 20, אָזַל for אָאָזַל thou goest away (from אָזַל) Jer. ii. 36.

The Parad. I shows the forms in which א is treated as a quiescent (viz., Fut. Kal), and merely indicates those in which it retains its character as a guttural.

Rem. 1. In the derived conjugations, the א but very seldom quiesces, as in Niph. אָהוּ Jos. xxii. 9; Hiiph. אָאָצַל and he took away Num. xi. 25, אָרַב (for אָאָרַב) and he lay in wait 1 Sam. xv. 5, אָזַן I hearken Job xxxii. 11, אָבִידה I will destroy Jer. xlv. 8, אָזַן attending Prov. xvii. 4, Imp. אָבִיד bring ye (from אָתָה) Is. xxi. 14.

2. In Piel, א is sometimes dropped by contraction (like ה in אָתָה, אָתָה, e. g. אָתָה (so prevalent in Syr., Chald., and Samar.) for אָתָה teaching, Job xxxv. 11.

SECT. 69.

FEEBLE VERBS פִּי. FIRST CLASS, OR VERBS ORIGINALLY פִּי.

E. g. אָדַם to dwell. Parad. K.

Verbs פִּי are divided principally into two classes, which are different from each other in their origin and inflexion. The first embraces those verbs which have properly a פ for their first stem-letter. In Arabic they are written with פ (e. g. ألد, Arab. wáladá), but in Hebrew, by a difference of dialect, they take א instead of it, wherever the first stem-letter begins the form. The second embraces those which are properly פִּי, and which have Yodh also in Arabic (§ 70). A few of these verbs פִּי form, in some respects, a third class inflected like verbs פִּן (§ 71).

In יָצַר the forms are distinguished according to the signification; viz., a) יָצַר (1st class, for יוצר), Fut. יֵצַר, יִצְרַר to be in a strait; b) יָצַר (2nd class), Fut. יֵצֶר, יִצְרֶר to form.

pass.	יָצוּב				יָצוּב

The peculiarities in the inflexion of the first class, which is analogous with the Arabic فُو, are the following:—

1. In the Fut., Imp., and Inf. constr. of Kal there is a twofold inflexion. About the half of these verbs have here the feeblest forms, viz.—

Fut. יִישַׁב with a tone-lengthened  $\bar{e}$  in the second syllable, which may be shortened to Seyhol and vocal Sh'va; and with a somewhat firmer  $\bar{e}$  in the first syllable, which in a degree still embodies the first radical ' that has been dropped (but scarcely ever written יִישַׁב);

Imp. יִשַׁב from יִישַׁב by omission of the feeble ';

Inf. שָׁבַת shortened in like manner, and with the feminine-ending תָּ, which again gives to the form more length and body.

The other half of these verbs are inflected with stronger forms, have the Fut. A, and retain the Yodh at the beginning, viz., in—

Imp. יִרַשׁ and Inf. יִסֹר as a consonant, but in—

Fut. יִרַשׁ as a quiescent, or resolved into the vowel  $\bar{i}$  (§ 24, 2).

That the latter mode of inflexion belongs to verbs actually פּוֹ (which has often been overlooked and falsely denied), is shown, partly by the numerous verbs which take these forms in Kal, and at the same time have  $\gamma$  in Niphal, Hiphil, and Hophal, partly by the analogy of the Arabic, where the verbs فُو have precisely the same double inflexion.

Even in the same verb are found both forms, one with the Yodh, the other without it, as פָּקַע 2 Kings iv. 41, and יָצַק pour Eze. xxiv. 3, רָשׁ 1 Kings xxi. 15, רָשׁ Deut. ii. 24, and יִרַשׁ possess, with lengthening יִרְשֶׁה Deut. xxxiii. 23, Fut. יִקַּר Deut. xxxii. 22, and יִקַּר he will burn up, Is. x. 16.

To the first mode of inflexion belong, e. g. יָלַד to bear, יָצַא to go forth, יָיַב to sit, יָרַד to descend, יָדַע to know (Fut. יִדַע with Pathach in the last syllable on account of the guttural); to the second belong יָעַר to weary, יָעַז to counsel, יָבַשׁ to be dry, though the latter is in Arabic فِي.

2. The original Vav appears always in the Inf., Imp., and Fut. Niph., where it ought to be doubled, as a consonant, as הוֹשֵׁב, הוֹשֵׁב (just like הַקָּטָל, הַקָּטָל); and also in the Hithp. of some verbs, e. g. הִתְנַדַּע, from יָדַע, and in two nominal forms, viz., וְלָד offspring, from יָלַד to bear [and וְנָר guilty]. The  $\gamma$  at the end of the syllable becomes a vowel, as  $\bar{u}$  ( $\gamma$ ) in all Hophal, e. g. הוֹשֵׁב for הוֹשֵׁב; and in combination with a preceding  $\alpha$ , as a diphthongal  $\delta$  ( $\gamma$ ) in Pret. and Part. of Niphal, and in all Hiphil, e. g. נוֹשֵׁב for נוֹשֵׁב, הוֹשֵׁב for הוֹשֵׁב.

3. The other forms, with few exceptions (see Rem. 3, 4), are quite regular.

In those forms in which Yodh does not appear, these verbs may be distinguished, in the Fut. of Kal by the Tsere under the preformatives in Niph., Hiph., and Hoph., by the Vav ( $\gamma$ ,  $\gamma$ ,  $\gamma$ ) before the second radical. (The defective orthography, as in הַלִּיר, is not frequent.) Forms like שָׁבַת, שָׁבַת, they have in common with verbs פּוֹ. Hophal has the same form as in verbs עָע and עָע.

Rem. 1. The Inf. of Kal without the radical Yodh (see No. 1), has very seldom the masculine form like יָדַע to know Job xxxii. 6, 10, or the feminine ending הָרָה, like יָדָה Exod. ii. 4. With a guttural, the latter takes the form תִּשְׁרֹת instead of תִּשְׁרֹתָ. e. g. יָדָה to know. יָרַח to bear, in 1 Sam. iv. 19 is contracted to יָרַח (§19, 2). Examples of the regular strong form occur with suffixes, יָדָה Job xxxviii. 4, יָדָה Ezra iii. 12. The strong form has seldom the feminine-ending, as יָדָה to be able.

2. The Imp. Kal often has the lengthening הָרָה, as יָדָה sit, יָרַח descend. From יָדָה to give, the lengthened Imp. is יָדָה, fem. יָדָה, plur. יָדָה, with accented Qamets, owing to the influence of the guttural.

3. The Fut. of the form יָדָה takes Pathach in its final syllable when it has a guttural, as יָדָה, also יָדָה Jer. xiii. 17. When the tone is drawn back upon the penultima, the final syllable takes Seghol, viz., before a word of one syllable, and after Vav conversive; e. g. יָדָה Gen. xlv. 33; יָדָה, but in pause יָדָה and יָדָה. A very rare exception, in which a Fut. of this kind is written fully, is יָדָה Mic. i. 8. The Fut. יָדָה, when lengthened, can also lose its radical פִּי, as יָדָה Is. xl. 30, יָדָה lxxv. 23. Yet the cases are rare and doubtful where this occurs after other preformatives than פִּי (see Is. xlv. 8).

4. In some stems the feebleness affects also the Pret. Kal, so far, that the a under the second radical becomes e or i, as יָדָה, יָדָה, יָדָה, from יָדָה. Examples are found in Num. xi. 12; Deut. iv. 1; viii. 1; xix. 1; xxvi. 1; Ps. ii. 7; lxix. 36, etc. In Syriac e is here predominant: in Hebrew the feeble vowel is found only in such forms of the Pret. as have not a full vowel under the first radical. For a similar case, see § 73, Rem. 1.

5. As an exception, the Fut. Niph. sometimes has פִּי instead of the וי; e. g. יָדָה and he waited, Gen. viii. 12; comp. Ex. xix. 13. The first pers. sing. has always the form יָדָה not יָדָה; comp. § 51, Rem. 4.

6. In Pièl, the radical Yodh is sometimes dropped after פִּי preformative, which takes its punctuation (comp. § 68, Rem. 2); e. g. יָדָה for יָדָה and he dried it up, Nah. i. 4.

7. Fut. Hiph., like Fut. Kal, takes Seghol when the tone is drawn back, as יָדָה let him add Prov. i. 5, יָדָה and he added. On forms like יָדָה, see § 53, Rem. 7. In Hoph. are some cases of וי for וי, as יָדָה for יָדָה Lev. iv. 23, 28.

N.B. 8. The verb הָלַךְ to go, is connected with verbs פִּי of the first class, for it forms (as if from הָלַךְ) Fut. הָלַךְ, with Vav הָלַךְ, in pause הָלַךְ, Inf. constr. הָלַךְ, Imp. הָלַךְ, lengthened הָלַךְ, and also הָלַךְ, and so Hiph. הוֹלִיךְ. Rarely and almost exclusively in later books and in poetry, we find also the regular inflexions from הָלַךְ, as Fut. הָלַךְ, Inf. הָלַךְ (Num. xxii. 14, 16; Eccles. vi. 8, 9; Imp. pl. הָלַכְוּ (Jer. li. 50); on the contrary Pret. Kal is always הָלַךְ, Part. הָלַךְ, Inf. abs. הָלַךְ, Pièl הָלַךְ, Hithp. הִתְהַלַּךְ, so that a פִּי nowhere distinctly appears as first radical.* An obsolete stem הָלַךְ may however be assumed, although in a word so much used as הָלַךְ, the feeble letter ה may itself be treated like פִּי, and so the inflexion resemble פִּי. Comp. also the feeble פִּי, e. g. הָלַךְ from הָלַךְ (§ 68, 2), and הָלַךְ from הָלַךְ, Fut. Hiph. אָבִיךָ from אָבִיךָ and אָבִיךָ 2 Kings vi. 19, from הָלַךְ.

SECT. 70.

FEEBLE VERBS פִּי. SECOND CLASS, OR VERBS PROPERLY פִּי.

E. g. יָדָה to be good. Parad. I., § 69.

The most essential points of difference between verbs properly פִּי and verbs פִּי are the following:—

* But comp. יָדָה under Rem. 3.

1. Kal has only the stronger of the two forms described in § 69, 1, viz., that in which the radical ' remains, Inf. יָטַב, with the Fut. A, as יִטַּב, יִקְוֶן, the Pathach of which becomes Seghol when the tone shifts back, as יִקְוֶן and he awoke Gen. ix. 24, יִצַּר, וַיִּצְרֵר and he formed Gen. ii. 7.

2. In Hiphil the ' is regularly retained in writing, and is pronounced as a diphthongal ê (Tsere), e. g. הִיטִיב (for הִיטִיב), Fut. יִטִּיב; seldom with the diphthong ai, ay, as in יִשְׁרִרוּ they make straight, Prov. iv. 25; comp. Ps. v. 9, Q'ri.

The following are the only verbs of this kind: יָטַב to be good, יָסַק to suck, יָקַץ to awake, יָצַר to form, יָצַר Hiph. הִיטִיל to bewail, יִשַׁר to be straight.

Rem. Of the Fut. Hiph. there is an anomalous form with preformatives put before the 3rd pers. יִלֵּל, as יִלֵּל he wails, יִצְלֵל I wail, תִּלְלֵנִי ye wail, Is. xv. 2; lxv. 14; Jer. xlviii. 31; Hos. vii. 14; also יִטִּיב Job xxiv. 21; and once even in Fut. Kal יָרַע Ps. cxxxviii. 6, from יָרַע. This anomaly is explained by supposing that the ' of the simple form was superficially taken to belong to the stem.

SECT. 71.

VERBS פִּי. THIRD CLASS, OR CONTRACTED VERBS פִּי.

This class embraces those verbs פִּי, of the first and second class, whose ' does not quiesce in long  $\bar{i}$  or  $\bar{e}$ , but is assimilated like נ. Some verbs are exclusively of this class, e. g. יָצַע to spread under, Hiph. הִצִּיעַ, Hoph. הִצַּע; יָצַת to burn up, Fut. יִצַּת, Hiph. הִצִּית. Others have two forms; one sharp with the ' assimilated, the other weaker with the ' quiescent, as יָצַק to pour, Fut. יִצַּק and יִצְקוּ (1 Kings xxii. 35); יָצַר to form, Fut. וַיִּצְרֵר and יָצַר (Is. xlv. 12; Jer. i. 5); יִשַׁר to be straight, Fut. וַיִּשְׁרֵר and יִשַׁר (1 Sam. vi. 12).

Verbs of this class (which seldom occur) are inflected like verbs פִּי for which they may easily be mistaken by the learner. When, therefore, a form has not a root פִּי in the lexicon, he should look for one of this class.

The first two classes are exhibited in their distinctive forms in Paradigms K and L, § 69. The third exactly follows verbs פִּי, and is besides very rare.

1. In these verbs the middle stem-letter  $\aleph$  always gives up its consonant sound and quiesces; not merely in the usual cases (according to § 24, 1) when a Sh'va precedes or follows, as  $\text{בוֹשׁ}$  bôsh for  $\text{בֹּשֵׁשׁ}$  b'rôsh, but also when it is both preceded and followed by a full vowel, as  $\text{קוֹם}$  Part. pass. for  $\text{קָוֵם}$ ;  $\text{קוֹם}$  Inf. absol. for  $\text{קָוֵם}$ . Hence the stem appears always a monosyllable.

2. The vowel in which  $\aleph$  quiesces is essentially the vowel of the second syllable, which, in the verb, almost universally characterises the form (§ 67, 2). But this vowel, in consequence of the union of the Vav with it, is mostly made fuller and firmer, e. g. Inf. and Imp.  $\text{קוֹם}$  for  $\text{קָוֵם}$ , Pret.  $\text{קָם}$  for  $\text{קָוֵם}$ ; it is, therefore, not destructible though changeable, for we have  $\text{קָמַת}$  (with short a) from  $\text{קָם}$ , and Fut. Hiph.  $\text{יָקִים}$  (from  $\text{יָקוּים}$ ) is shortened in the jussive to  $\text{יָקֵם}$ .

The verb intransitive middle E takes in Pret. Kal the form of  $\text{יָת}$  (from  $\text{מָוֵת}$ ) he is dead: the verb middle O takes the form of  $\text{אָוַר}$  (from  $\text{אָוֵר}$ ) luvit,  $\text{בוֹשׁ}$  (from  $\text{בֹּשֵׁשׁ}$ ) he was ashamed. Comp. Rem. 1.

The preformatives in the Fut. Kal and Pret. Niph., and throughout Hiph. and Hoph., which before the monosyllabic stem form a simple syllable, take instead of the short vowel of the regular form the corresponding long one (§ 27, 2); e. g.  $\text{יָקוּם}^*$  for  $\text{יָקוֹם}$ ;  $\text{הִקְוִים}$  for  $\text{הִקְוִים}$ ;  $\text{הִקְוִים}$  for  $\text{הִקְוִים}$ .

This vowel is changeable, and becomes Sh'va when the tone is thrown forward, e. g. before suff.  $\text{יָמִיתֵנִי}$  he will kill him, and with the full plural form of the Fut.  $\text{יָמוּתוּן}$  they will die.

The  $\aleph$  in Hoph. forms an exception; for it has become a quite firm and unchangeable vowel, as if it had been transposed, so that  $\text{הִקְוִים}$  became  $\text{הִקְוִים}$ , hence  $\text{הִקְוִים}$ .

4. In some cases, forms of the regular verb not now in use lie at the foundation of the present inflexion; e. g. Fut. Kal  $\text{יָקוּם}$  for  $\text{יָקוֹם}$  (see § 67, 6), Part.  $\text{קָם}$ , either for  $\text{קָוֵם}$  (like  $\text{קָטַל}$ , the original form of  $\text{קָטַל}$ , Chal. and Arab. qâtel, § 9, 10, 2, and § 50, 2) or for  $\text{קָוֵם}$  (after the form of the verbal adjective  $\text{קָטַל}$ ; comp. § 84, No. 1). Those which conform to the regular Hebrew verb are generally the most unfrequent, as  $\text{יָבוֹשׁ}$  (after the form  $\text{יָבוֹשׁ}$ ). The  $\hat{o}$  in Niph. comes from va (= ua),  $\text{נָקוּם}$  from  $\text{נָקַם}$ , Fut.  $\text{יָקוּם}$  from  $\text{יָקַם}$ .

5. In the Pret. Niph. and Hiph., the harshness of pronunciation in such forms as  $\text{נָקוּמַת}$ ,  $\text{הִקְוִמַת}$ , is avoided by the insertion of  $\aleph$  before the affirmatives of the 1st and 2nd person. For the same purpose,  $\text{יָ}$  is inserted in the Fut. Kal before the termination  $\text{נָה}$  (comp. § 67, 4). These inserted syllables take the tone and shorten the preceding vowels, as  $\text{נָקוּמַת}$ ,  $\text{נָקוּמוֹת}$ ;  $\text{הִקְוִמַת}$ ,  $\text{הִקְוִמוֹת}$ , or  $\text{הִקְוִמוֹת}$ , also  $\text{הִקְוִמוֹת}$ ;  $\text{הִקְוִמוֹת}$ .

* On the a under the preformative, see No. 4.

Yet in some cases the harder forms, without the inserted syllable, are also in use. Thus, Fut. Kal תִּשְׁבֹּן Eze. xvi. 55 (also הִשְׁוֹבִינָה in the same verse), and rather oftener in Hiph., as הִלְצָתָה Ex. xx. 25, though also הִגִּיבְתִּי Job xxxi. 21, הִשְׁבַּבְתָּ Job xx. 10, once הִלְיִנָּה Jer. xlv. 25. Imp. only הִלְמַנָּה, קִלְמַנָּה.

6. The tone, as in verbs עָע, is not thrown forward upon the affirmatives הַ, וּ, יַ, אֲ, as קָמָה, קָמוּ, except with the full plural form יִקְוֹבוּן. For the tone on the הַ and אֲ, see No. 5. In those forms which do not take either of these, the accentuation is regular, as קָמַתָּ; so in Hophal הוֹקְמַתָּ.

7. The conjugations, Piël, Pual, and Hithpaël, are very seldom found in verbs properly עו. The only instance in which ו remains as a consonant is עוּר to surround, the Piël of עוּר (yet see Rem. 10). In some others י has taken the place of ו, as in קָיַם from קוּם, הִיב from הוּב, which forms belong to the later Hebrew, having been borrowed from the Aramaean. On the contrary, the unfrequent conjugation Piël (§ 55, 2), with its passive and reflexive, is the common form employed in the signification of Piël, and as a substitute for it; e. g. קוּיַם to raise up, from קוּם; רוּיַם to elevate, pass. רוּיַם, from רוּם; הִתְעוּרַר to rouse one's self, from עוּר. Less frequent is the conjugation Pilpel (§ 55, 4), e. g. בִּלְבַּל to sustain, to nourish, from בּוּל.

REMARKS.

I. On Kal.

N.B. 1. Of verbs middle E and O, which in the regular verb also have their Pret. and Part. the same (§ 50, 2), the following are examples; viz. Pret. נָתַה he is dead (for נָיַתַה, 1 sing. נָתַיְתִי, 1 pl. נָתַיְתוּ, 3 pl. נָתַחוּ; בּוֹיַשׁ he is ashamed (for בּוֹיַשְׁתִּי, בּוֹיַשְׁנִי, בּוֹיַשְׁנוּ; אִדָּר he has shined. Part. בּוֹיַשִּׁים; עִזָּה Eze. xxxii. 30. Of the Preterite and Participle, the usual form קָם is very seldom written with א (after the Arab. mode, § 9, 1), as in קָאם Hos. x. 14. נִצָּטַיִם Eze. xxviii. 24, 26; comp. xvi. 57. The Part. appears now and then also in the form of קָם for קָם 2 Kings xvi. 7, even with a transitive sense, as לוֹט occultans, Is. xxv. 7; Zech. x. 5.

2. In the Inf. and Imp. of some verbs, ו always quiesces in Cholem, as בּוֹא, טוֹב, אִדָּר. In most verbs, however, it quiesces only in Shureq; but even in these the Inf. absol. has ו in the final syllable (after the form קָטוֹל, as יִקְוֹבוּ קוּם surgendo surgent, Jer. xlv. 29. Those verbs which have ו in the Inf. retain it in the Fut., as יִבּוֹא. In one verb alone the preformatives of the Fut. have Tsere, viz., בּוֹיַשׁ, Fut. יִבּוֹשׁ (for יִבּוֹשׁ); see in No. 4, above.

3. In the Imp. with affirmatives (קָוִי, קָוִי) the tone is on the stem syllable, with a few exceptions, as in Judges v. 12. The lengthened form [with הַ] has, on the contrary, the tone usually on the last syllable (הִלְצָתָה, קוּיַבְתָּ), with a few exceptions where the word is Milel (Ps. vii. 8; Jer. iii. 12; xl. 5).

N.B. 4. The shortened Fut. as Jussive (§ 48, 4) has the form יָקָם (very seldom יָרוּם, יָקָם): e. g. יָשָׁב let him return, Deut. xx. 5—8; אַל יָשָׁב let him not return, Ps. lxxiv. 21; וְיָמַת and may he die, 1 Kings xxi. 10. Comp. § 27, Rem. 1. In poetic language as Indicative, as יָרָם, יָרָם, he, it, shall be high, Num. xxiv. 7; Mic. v. 8. After Vav conversive, and before words of one syllable the tone is also drawn back upon the penultima, and the last syllable takes Qomets-chatuph, as לָקַם לָךְ, וְלָקַם Job xxii. 28. In pause, however, the tone remains on the last syllable, as וַיִּקְרָא; compare Gen. xi. 28, 32, with v. 5, 8. With a guttural or a Resh, the final syllable may take Pathach, e. g. וַיִּסַּר and he turned aside, Ruth iv. 1 (from סוּר).

The full plural-ending וֹן has the tone (according to No. 6 of this section), hence הַמְתוֹנוֹן Gen. iii. 3, 4, יְנוּסוֹן 1's. civ. 7, וַיְרוּצוּן Joel ii. 4, 7, 9.

II. On Niphāl.

5. Anomalous forms are: Pret. נִפְצוּתָם ye have been scattered, Eze. xi. 17; xx. 34, 41, 43; Iuf. constr. הִרְוִישׁ Is. xxv. 10. Comp. also Rem. 9.

III. On Hiphil.

6. Examples of the Preterite without the inserted ו: הִנְלַפְתָּ thou liftest, Ex. xx. 25; הִכִּיתָהּ thou killest, and even הִפְיַחְם Num. xvii. 6, etc.

7. In the Imp., besides the shortened form הִקַּם, the lengthened form הִקְיִמָה also occurs; with suff. הִקְיִמְנִי.

N.B. The shortened Fut. has the form יִקַּם, as וַיִּסַּר that he may take away, Ex. x. 17. After Vav conversive, the tone is drawn back upon the penultima, as וַיִּרְם; וַיִּקְצֹן and he scattered. The final syllable, when it has a guttural or Resh, takes Pathach, as in כָּל, e. g. וַיִּסַּר and he removed, Gen. viii. 13.

IV. In General.

8. On account of the intimate relation between verbs עָו and עָו (§ 67), it is necessary, in analysing forms, to note particularly the points in which these classes differ. Several forms are exactly the same in both, e. g. Fut. Kal with Vav conversive; Pilel of עָו and Poël of עָו. Hence it is that they often borrow forms from one another, as in Pret. Kal בִּי he despised (from בּוּ, as if from בּוּ) Zech. iv. 10, בָּטָה he besmeared (for בָּטָה) Is. xlv. 18.

9. In common with verbs עָו (§ 67, 5), these verbs have also in Niphil and Hiphil the Chaldee and Rabbinic formation, which substitutes, for the long vowel under the preformatives, a short one followed by Daghesh forte. This form and the common one are often both in use; e. g. הִפְיַחְתָּ to incite, Fut. יִפְיַחְתָּ (also הִפְיַחְתָּ, הִפְיַחְתָּ, וַיִּפְיַחְתָּ and he shows the way, 2 Sam. xxii. 33 (also וַיִּפְיַחְתָּ Prov. xii. 26); הִפְיַחְתָּ to remove, Fut. יִפְיַחְתָּ (from פּוּחַ), also Hoph. הִפְיַחְתָּ Is. xlix. 14; sometimes with a difference of signification, as הִנְיַחְתָּ to cause to rest, to give rest, הִנְיַחְתָּ, Fut. יִנְיַחְתָּ to set down, to lay down; יִלְיַחְתָּ to spend the night, to abide; יִלְיַחְתָּ, יִלְיַחְתָּ to be headstrong, rebellious. Other examples: Niph. נִפְיַחְתָּ (from כּוּל, not נָכַל) to be circumcised Gen. xvii. 26, 27; xxxiv. 22, with a guttural גַּעוּר Zech. ii. 17; Hiph. הִפְיַחְתָּ to despise Lam. i. 8, וַיִּלְיוּ they depart Prov. iv. 21.

To this class are to be referred some forms of verbs Pe guttural with Daghesh forte implicitum, which others have derived from a false root, or uncritically altered; viz., וַתַּחֲרִישׁ for וַתַּחֲרִישׁ and she hastens (from רוּשׁ) Job xxxi. 5, וַיַּעֲטֵ I Sam. xv. 19; xxv. 14, from עוּט, עוּט to rush upon.

10. Verbs, in which the middle stem-letter Vav is sounded as a consonant, are, in respect to this letter, perfectly regular; e. g. הָוֵר to be white, Fut. וַהֲוֵר, נָוֵעַ to expire, Fut. וַיָּנֹעַ; especially in those which are besides also verbs לָהּ, as צָוָה, Piël צָוָה to command, קָוָה to wait, etc.

FEEBLE VERBS עָי. E. g. בִּין to discern. Parad. N, § 72.

1. These verbs have the same structure as verbs עָי, and their ' is treated in the same manner as the ו of that class; e. g. Pret. Kal שָׁת (for שָׁת) he has set, Inf. שָׁת, Inf. absol. שָׁת (for שָׁת), Imp. שָׁת, Fut. יִשָּׁת, Jussive יִשָּׁת, with Vav conv. וַיִּשָּׁת. But the Pret. Kal has, in several verbs, still a second set of forms, which resemble a Hiphil with the characteristic ה elided, e. g. בִּינֹתִי (similar to הַבִּינֹתִי) Dan. ix. 2, also בָּנֹתָ Ps. cxxxix. 2; רִיבֹתָ thou contendest Job xxxiii. 13, also רָבֹתָ Lam. iii. 58. Often also complete Hiphil forms occur, e. g. Pret. הִבִּינֹתָם, הִבִּינֹתָם, Inf. הִבִּין (also בִּין), Imp. הִבֵּן (also בִּין), Part. מִבִּין, so likewise מָרִיב (also רָב), מִשִּׂים (also שָׂם), מִצִּיין glittering, also in Pret. צִין. Moreover, as passive, we find a few times Hoph. Fut. יוֹשָׁר from יָשַׁר to sing, יוֹשָׁת from שָׁת to set.

2. These Hiphil forms may easily be traced to verbs עָי, and possibly they in part belong strictly to that class. The same may be said of Niph. נָבוּן, Pil. בּוּיָן, and Hithpald. הִתְבּוּנָן (as if from בּוּן). These verbs are in every respect closely related to verbs עָי. Hence it is that we find several verbs used promiscuously, as עָי and עָי, and with the same meaning in both forms, as לָיַן (denom. from לָיַל) to spend the night, Inf. also לָיַן; שָׂים to place, Inf. also שָׂום, Fut. יִשָּׂים, once יִשָּׂום. In other verbs one of the two is the predominant form, as גִּיל to exult (גִּיל is found only in Prov. xxiii. 24). But few are exclusively עָי, as רִיב to contend, שָׁת to set, שִׂישׁ to rejoice; so also כָּל to comprehend, to measure, Is. xl. 12; and the denom. קָץ (from קָיַץ) to pass the summer, Is. xviii. 6.

The older grammarians did not recognise this class of verbs, but referred all its forms to verbs עָי, which may indeed be right in some cases. In modern Arabic we find an exactly corresponding abbreviation of the Hiphil (Conj. IV.) of verbs עָי. Yet the Arabic, as also the Ethiopic, has actual verbs עָי, and the Hebrew has some with a Yodh as a consonant, like יָסַב to hate, and יָעַף to tire. A fluctuation and interchange between the closely-related stems must certainly be assumed.

The Paradigm N is placed in connexion with that of verbs עָי, in order to exhibit the parallel between the two classes. The conjugations which it omits have the same form as in Parad. M.

Rem. 1. Examples of the Inf. absol. are רָב litigando Judges xi. 25, שָׁת ponendo Is. xxii. 7, also רִיב Jer. i. 34.

2. The Fut. apoc. is יָבִין; with retracted tone it takes the form with Seghol, as לָרָב לָרָב Judges vi. 31. So with Vav conversive, וַיִּשָּׂם and he placed, וַיִּבִּין and he perceived.

3. As Part. act. Kal we find once לָיַן spending the night, Neh. xiii. 21; Part. pass. שָׂים or שָׂום (according to a various reading) 2 Sam. xiii. 32.

4. Verbs  $\text{נָסַח}$  scarcely ever suffer their  $\text{ס}$  to quiesce, and hence are irregular only as represented in § 61. A few examples where the  $\text{ס}$  has lost its force as a consonant are:  $\text{נָסוּי}$  they are fair,  $\text{נִסְאֵי}$  he blooms, Fut. Hiphil of  $\text{נָסַח}$ , for  $\text{נִסְאֵי}$  Eccl. xii. 5.

The א is here, as in verbs לָא, treated partly as a consonant with a soft guttural sound (scarcely audible at the end of a word), partly as a quite inaudible (quiescent) letter, according to the following rules:—

1. In those forms which end with the third radical, the final syllable has always the regular vowels, e. g. מִצָּא, מִצָּא, מִצָּוּא, מִצָּוּא; but Pathach before the feeble letter א is lengthened into Qamets (§ 23, 1), viz., in the Pret., Fut., and Imp. Kal, in the Pret. Niph., and in Pual and Hoph. This (◌◌) however is changeable (§ 25, 2, Rem.), hence in the plural מִצָּוּוּ.

The Fut. and Imp. Kal have A after the analogy of verbs Lamedh guttural.

2. Also before affirmatives beginning with a consonant (ת, נ) the א is not heard, but is quiescent in the Pret. Kal, in Qamets, מִצָּאָת; in the Pret. of all the other conjugations, in Tsere, נִמְצָאָת; in the Imp. and Fut. of all the conjugations, in Seghol, תִּמְצָאָנָה, מִצָּאָנָה.

The use of Tsere and Seghol in these forms arose doubtless from the great resemblance between verbs לָא and לָהּ (comp. § 75, 2), and an approximation of the former to the latter.

Before the suffixes ת, סָ, כָּ, the א retains its character as a guttural, and takes (◌◌); as מִצָּוּוּ Cant. viii. 1, מִצָּוּוּ Eze. xxviii. 13; comp. § 65, 2, Rem. The reason (as in verbs Lamedh guttural) is, that those suffixes require before them a half-vowel.

3. Before affirmatives beginning with a vowel, א is a consonant, and the form regular, as מִצָּוּוּ.

Parad. O gives a complete view of the inflexion.

REMARKS.

1. Verbs middle E, like מִלָּא to be full, retain Tsere in the other persons of the Pret., as מִלָּאָת. Instead of מִצָּוּוּ is sometimes found the Aramean form מִלָּאָת for מִלָּאָת she names, Is. vii. 14; comp. Gen. xxxiii. 11 (after the form מִלָּאָת, § 44, Rem. 4).

2. In the Inf. occurs the fem. form מִלָּאָת to fill, Lev. xii. 4, for מִלָּאָת.

3. The Part. fem. is commonly, by contraction, מִצָּאָת, seldom מִצָּאָת Cant. viii. 10, and defectively written מִצָּאָת (from מִצָּאָת) Deut. xxviii. 57. In the forms מִלָּאָת 1 Sam. xiv. 33, and מִלָּאָת Neh. vi. 8, the vowel is drawn back after the manner of the Syriac.

4. The א is sometimes lost, as in מִלָּאָת Num. xi. 11, מִלָּאָת Job xxxiii. 18. Niph. מִלָּאָת ye are defiled, Lev. xi. 43. Hiph. מִלָּאָת Jer. xxxii. 35.

SECT. 75.

FEEBLE VERBS לָהּ. E. g. מִלָּאָת to reveal. Parad. P.

These verbs, like those מִלָּא ( §§ 69, 70), embrace two different classes of the irregular verb, viz., מִלָּא and מִלָּא, which in Arabic, and especially in Æthiopic, are more clearly distinguished. But in Hebrew the original י and ו have passed over into a feeble ה, as a substitute for a final vowel (§ 23, 5), in all those forms which end with the third radical, and which hence are called verbs לה; e. g. גלה for גלי he has revealed; שטה for שטו he has rested. By far the greater number, however, of these verbs are originally לי; only a few forms occur of verbs לו. The two classes are therefore less prominently distinguished than verbs פו and פי.

A true verb לו is שטה to be at rest, whence שטתו, Part. שטו, and the derivative שטתו rest; yet in the Fut. it has שטתו (with Yodh). In ענה (Arab. عني) to answer, and ענה (Arab. عني) to suffer, to be oppressed, are two verbs originally distinct, but with the same form in Hebrew (see Gesenius's Lex. art. ענה). In Syriac the intermingling of these forms is carried still farther, verbs לו also being confounded with those לה, i. e. with the two classes לו and לי of the Arabic.

As an entirely different class are to be regarded those verbs whose third stem-letter is a consonantal ה (distinguished by Mappiq); e. g. גבה. They are inflected throughout like verbs Lamedh guttural. It is certain, however, that some verbs לה originated in verbs with final ה, this letter having lost its original strong and guttural sound, and become softened to a feeble ה, e. g. דקה, Arab. كاه to be blunt. Hence it is that verbs לה are often related to those לה, for which the verb לה may be assumed as an intermediate form; e. g. קשה and קשה to be hard; פתח properly = פתח to be open.

1. The original Yodh or Vav, in all forms which end with the third radical, gives place to ה as a vowel-letter, and representing the final vowel; which is the same in each form through all the conjugations, viz.—

ה־ in all the Preterites, גָּלָה, נִגְלָה, גִּלָּה, etc.

ה־ in all the Futures and Participles active, יִגְלֶה, גִּלֶּה, etc.

ה־ in all the Imperatives, גַּלְה, גִּלְה, etc.

ה־ in the Inf. absol. (except in Hiph. and Hoph.), גִּלְה, etc.

The Part. pass. Kal forms the only exception, in which, at the end, the original א appears, גִּלְיָה, as also in some derivatives (§ 85, V.).

The Inf. constr. has always the feminine form in ת; hence in Kal גִּלְוֹת, in Piël גִּלְוֹת, etc.

In explanation of these forms we observe—

That in the Pret. Kal, גָּלָה stands for גָּלִי, according to § 24, 2, c; so in Niph. and Hophal. Piël and Hithp. are based on the forms קָטַל, הִתְקַטַּל (§ 52, Rem. 1), Hiph. on the form הִקְטַל, after the manner of the Arabic aqatala (§ 53, 1).

In the Fut. Kal, יִגְלֶה is a Fut. A for יִגְלִי (according to § 24, 2, Rem. a), whence also are such plural forms as יִגְלִי (see Rem. 4). The same is true of the other conjugations, all of which, even in the regular verb, have, in connexion with the usual form, another with Pathach in the final syllable. See § 51, Rem. 2; § 54, Rem.

Tseré in the Imp. גַּלְה is, at all events, a shorter vowel than the accented Seghol with a broad sound in the Fut. יִגְלֶה. Comp. the constr. state of nouns in ה־, § 89, 2, c.

2. Before the affirmatives beginning with a consonant (ת, נ), the original א remains, but not as a consonant. Properly it would here form with the foregoing ā (Pathach) the diphthong ai; but this diphthong in the Pret. is contracted first into ê (אֵ), and then further attenuated into ī; but in the Fut. and Imp. it is changed into the broad and obtuse אַ. Thus, in Pret. Piël, from גִּלְיָת (after קִטְרָת) we get first גִּלְיָת, and then, by attenuating the ê into ī, גִּלְיָת; in the Fut. Piël הִגְלִינָה. In the passives the ê is always retained; in the actives of the derived conjugations and in the reflexives, both ê and ī are used alike (see Rem. 7, 9, and 13); on the contrary, in Kal (the conjugation more in use than the rest) we find only ī. Accordingly we have in the—

Preterite Kal ī, as גִּלְיָת;

Preterites of the other active conjugations and also the reflexive promiscuously ê and ī, as גִּלְיָת and גִּלְיָת;

Preterites of the passives only ê, as גִּלְיָת;

Futures and Imperatives always אַ, as גִּלְיָנָה, הִגְלִינָה.

The diphthongal forms are throughout retained in Arabic and Æthiopic, and the diphthong is contracted only by way of exception and in the popular idiom. In Chaldee and Syriac, the contracted forms predominate, yet these dialects have in Kal גִּלְיָת as well as גִּלְיָת.

3. Before the affirmatives beginning with a vowel (הָ, וְ, הֶ, הָ), the Yodh with the foregoing vowel is usually dropped, e. g. הָלָה (for הָלָהּ), הֶלָה (for הֶלָהּ), הָלָהּ; yet it is retained in ancient full forms, particularly in pause, as הָלָהּ (see Rem. 4 and 12). Before suffixes it is also dropped, as הָלָהּ (Rem. 19).

4. The Yodh disappears also in 3 Pret. sing. fem., where הָ is appended as a feminine-ending, as הָלָהּ. But this ancient form is become rare (see Rem. 1); and, as if this mark of the gender were not sufficiently distinct, a second feminine-ending הָ is appended, so as to form הָלָהּ. So in all conjugations, e. g. Hiph. הָלָהּ, common form הָלָהּ, in pause הָלָהּ.

See analogous cases, in § 70, Rem., § 91, 3.

5. The formation of the shortened Future, which occurs in this class of verbs in all the conjugations, is strongly marked, consisting in the rejection of the הָ, by which some other changes are occasioned in the form (see Rem. 3, 8, 10, 15). The shortened Imperative is also formed by apocope of the הָ (Rem. 11, 15).

REMARKS.

1. On Kal.

1. For the 3 Pret. fem., the older and simpler form הָלָהּ, from הָלָהּ (comp. the verb הָלָה, § 74, Rem. 1), is almost entirely banished from common use. One instance is הָלָהּ she did, Lev. xxv. 21. So in Hiph. and Hoph., e. g. הָלָהּ she pays Lev. xxvi. 34, הָלָהּ she is taken captive Jer. xiii. 19. But with suffixes it is always used; see Rem. 19.

2. The Inf. absol. has also the form הָלָהּ videndo, Gen. xxvi. 28. As the Inf. constr. occurs also, though seldom, הָלָהּ Gen. xlviii. 11, הָלָהּ 1. 20, or הָלָהּ xxxi. 28, as well as the feminine form הָלָהּ to see, Eze. xxviii. 17, like הָלָהּ, § 45, 2, letter b.

N.B. 3. The apocope of the Fut. (see above, in No. 5) occasions in Kal the following changes:—

- a) The first stem-letter most commonly receives the helping vowel Seghol, or, when the middle radical is a guttural, Pathach (§ 28, 4); e. g. הָלָהּ for הָלָהּ; and he built; הָלָהּ let him look, for הָלָהּ.
- b) The Chireq of the preformative is also sometimes lengthened into Tsere (because it now stands in an open syllable), as הָלָהּ let him see, from הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ from הָלָהּ to become feeble.
- c) The helping vowel is sometimes omitted, especially in the cases mentioned in § 28, 4: e. g. הָלָהּ and he took captive Num. xxi. 1, הָלָהּ and he drank, הָלָהּ and he wept. The verb הָלָהּ has the two forms הָלָהּ let him see, and הָלָהּ and he saw, the latter with Pathach on account of the Resh.
- d) Examples of verbs which are Pe guttural (§ 58) as well as Lamedth He: הָלָהּ and he made, from הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ and he answered, from הָלָהּ. Sometimes the pointing of the first syllable is not affected by the guttural; as in הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ (with Daghesh lene in the second radical) let him rejoice, Job iii. 6.
- e) The verbs הָלָהּ to be, and הָלָהּ to live, where analogy would require the Fut. apoc. to be הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ, change these forms to הָלָהּ and הָלָהּ, because the second Yodh draws to itself the vowel i, and makes with it a long i. (Comp. the derivatives הָלָהּ for הָלָהּ, הָלָהּ for הָלָהּ, etc., § 84, No. V.) From הָלָהּ to be, occurs once the form הָלָהּ for הָלָהּ he will be, Eccles. xi. 3.

The full forms without the apocope of ה־ occur sometimes even after Var. constr., especially in the 1st person and in the later books, e. g. הִשָּׁרַחְתִּי and I saw, twenty times, but never in the Pentateuch, וַיַּעֲשֶׂה and he made, four times.

4. The original ׳ is sometimes retained before the affirmatives beginning with a vowel (comp. No. 3, above), especially in and before the pause, and before the full plural-ending וֹן, or where for any reason an emphasis rests upon the word. Pret. הִתְקַדְּשִׁי she trusts Ps. lvii. 2, הִתְקַדְּשִׁי they trust Deut. xxxii. 37. Imp. שִׁבְּעֵי ask ye Is. xxi. 12. Fut. יִרְבִּיּוּ they increase Deut. viii. 13, more frequently like יִשְׁתְּבְּעוּ they drink Ps. lxxviii. 41 (comp. Rem. 12).

5. The Part. act. has also a fem. of the form צוֹפְיָה spying Prov. xxxi. 27. פְּרוּיָה fruitful Ps. cxxviii. 3, in the plur. like שׂוֹתֵיית Is. xli. 23. The Part. pass. is sometimes without ׳, as עָשִׂה made Job xli. 25, עָשָׂה xv. 22.

6. The second syllable is but seldom written defectively, as הִלֵּתָ 2 Sam. xv. 33, תַּעֲשֶׂנָּה Job v. 12, and (according to the Qeri) תִּרְצָאֵנָה Mic. vii. 10.

II. On Niphal.

7. Besides the form with ׳ in the 1 and 2 Pret., the form also with ׳ is found, as נִגְלִינוּ 1 Sam. xiv. 8, נִקְיִתָּ Gen. xxiv. 8.

8. The apocope of the Fut. occasions here no further changes than the rejection of ה־, נִגְלֵ from הִגְלִי; yet in one verb, Ayin guttural, we find a form with (־) shortened to (־), viz., יִפְחַח (for יִפְחַח) Ps. cix. 13. Similar also in Pi. תִּפְעַר (from תִּפְעֶרָה) Ps. cxli. 8, and in Hiithp. הִתְרַעַע (from הִתְרַעֶעָה) Prov. xxii. 24.

III. On Piël, Pual, and Hiithpäl.

N.B. 9. In the Pret. Piël, the second syllable has Chireq instead of the diphthongal ׳ in the greater number of examples, as נִלְתִּיתָ, נִלְתִּיתָ, which is therefore adopted in the Paradigm. Before suffixes, Chireq is always employed, e. g. הִרְבִּיתִּינִי Ps. cxlv. 20. In Hiithp. not only ׳, but also ׳ is sometimes found (Prov. xxiv. 10; 1 Ki. ii. 26; Jer. l. 24). Yet Pual has always Tsere (׳).

N.B. 10. The Fut. loses, after the apocope, the Daghesh forte of the second stem-letter (comp. § 20, 3, a); hence Piël וַיִּצַּי and he commanded; Hiithp. וַיִּהְיֶה and he uncovered himself, Gen. ix. 21. Less frequently is Pathach, in this case, lengthened into Qumets, as וַיִּתִּי and he marked 1 Sam. xxi. 14, וַיִּתְּצֵי he craves Ps. cxv. 12. Comp. Rem. 8.

11. In Piël and Hiithp. are found also apocopated forms of the Imp., as נִסַּח for נִסַּח prove, Dan. i. 12; הִתְחַלֵּה feign thyself sick, 2 Sam. xiii. 5.

12. Examples of Yodh being retained in cases where it is more commonly omitted: Fut. תִּרְפִּיּוּנִי will ye liken me Is. xl. 25, יִכְסִיּוּנִי they cover them Ex. xv. 5.

IV. On Hiiphil and Hophal.

13. In the Pret. Hiiph. the forms הִנְלִיֵּתָה and הִנְלִיֵּתָה are about equally common; before suffixes the latter is used as somewhat shorter than the other. The Paradigm exhibits the older with ה־. In Hoph. only ׳ occurs.

14. The Tsere of the Inf. absol. Hiiph. is the regular vowel (as in הִתְקַדְּשִׁי); to this the Inf. absol. Hoph. conforms, as in הִתְקַדְּשִׁי Lev. xix. 20. The verb רָבַח to be much, has three forms of the Inf., viz., הִרְבַּח (used adverbially) much, הִרְבַּח used when the Inf. is pleonastic, הִרְבַּח the Inf. constr. Comp. Gen. xli. 49; xxii. 17; Deut. xxviii. 63.

N.B. 15. The Fut. upoc. Hiiph. has either the form יִרְדֵּי Is. xli. 2, יִרְדֵּי Gen. ix. 27, וַיִּרְדֵּי, or (with a helping vowel) יִרְדֵּי, for which, however, is invariably substituted the form יִרְדֵּי (§ 27, Rem. 2, c), as יִרְדֵּי 2 Kings xviii. 11, וַיִּרְדֵּי Ps. cv. 24. Examples with gutturals: וַיִּרְדֵּי Num. xxiii. 2, וַיִּרְדֵּי, etc..

which can be distinguished from the Fut. Kal only by the sense. The Imp. apoc. Hiph. has invariably the helping vowel Seghol or Patach, as הִרְבָּה increase for הִרְבָּה, הִרְבָּה Ps. li. 4; הִרְבָּה let alone for הִרְבָּה, הִרְבָּה Deut. ix. 14; הִרְבָּה for הִרְבָּה Ex. xxxiii. 12.

16. The Fut. Hiph. with Yodh retained occurs only in הִרְבָּה Job xix. 2, from הִרְבָּה.

V. In General.

17 In the Aramæan, where as before remarked, the verbs לָהֵלֵךְ and לָהֵלֵךְ flow into one another, both classes terminate in the Fut. and Part. of all the conjugations, without distinction, in לָהֵלֵךְ or לָהֵלֵךְ. As imitations of this mode of formation, we are to regard those forms of the Inf., Imp., and Fut. in לָהֵלֵךְ, more seldom לָהֵלֵךְ and לָהֵלֵךְ, which are found in Hebrew also, especially in the later writers and the poets. Inf. הִיָּה to be, Eze. xxi. 15. Imp. הִוָּא be thou, Job xxxvii. 6. Fut. אֶל־תִּהְיֶה Jer. xvii. 17, אֶל־תִּבְאֵה follow not, Prov. i. 10; אֶל־תִּפְעִיָּה do not, 2 Sam. xiii. 12.* Inf. Piel הִבֵּי Hos. vi. 9.

The Yodh is found at the end of the word (which is also a Syriasm) for הִבֵּי in the Fut. Kal, וַתִּזְנֶה and she committed fornication, Jer. iii. 6; (according to others even instead of הִבֵּי in the Pret. Hiph. הִחֲלִי he made sick, Is. liii. 10), comp. the plur. הִחֲלִי they intimidated, Jos. xiv. 8.

18. In three verbs is found the unfrequent conjugation Piel, or its reflexive (§ 55, 2), where the third radical, which the conjugation requires to be doubled, appears under the form וָהֵ; viz. וָהֵה to be beautiful, from וָהֵה; וָהֵה the archers, Gen. xxi. 16; but especially וָהֵה to bow, Piel וָהֵה, hence the reflexive וָהֵה to bow one's self, to prostrate one's self, 2nd pers. וָהֵה and וָהֵה, Fut. וָהֵה, apoc. וָהֵה for וָהֵה (analogous with וָהֵה for וָהֵה).

N.B. 19. Before suffixes, the ה final, and the preceding vowel, are displaced by the union-vowel (§ 58, 3, b), as וָהֵה he answered me, וָהֵה, וָהֵה, Fut. וָהֵה, וָהֵה, Hiph. וָהֵה, וָהֵה. Very seldom וָהֵה takes the place of the final וָהֵה or וָהֵה, as in וָהֵה he will cover them Ps. cxl. 10, וָהֵה smite me 1 Kings xx. 35. The 3 Pret. fem. always takes before suff. the older form וָהֵה (see No. 4), yet with a short a, as in the regular verb, e. g. וָהֵה for וָהֵה Zeel. v. 4; in pause וָהֵה Job xxxiii. 4.

VI. Relation of Verbs לָהֵלֵךְ and לָהֵלֵךְ to each other.

20. The verbs of each of these classes, in consequence of their intimate relation, being quite identical in Aramæan, often borrow the forms of the other, especially in the usage of the later writers and of the poets.

21. Thus there are forms of verbs לָהֵלֵךְ—

- a) Which have adopted the vowel points of verbs לָהֵלֵךְ, e. g. Pret. וָהֵה I restrain, Ps. cxix. 101; Part. וָהֵה Eccles. ix. 18; viii. 12; Piel. Pret. וָהֵה Jer. li. 34; וָהֵה 2 Kings ii. 21; Fut. וָהֵה Job xxxix. 24; Niph. Pret. וָהֵה (after וָהֵה) 2 Sam. i. 26; Hiph. Pret. וָהֵה Jos. vi. 17. [Imp. Kal וָהֵה Jos. xxiv. 14.]
- b) Which retain their own pointing, but have adopted the ה. e. g. Imp. וָהֵה heal, Ps. lx. 4; Niph. וָהֵה to hide one's self, 1 Kings xxii. 25; Piel. Fut. וָהֵה he will fill, Job viii. 21.
- c) Which in all respects have the appearance of verbs לָהֵלֵךְ, e. g. וָהֵה thou thirstest, Ruth ii. 9; וָהֵה they are full, Eze. xxviii. 16; Inf. וָהֵה to sin, Gen. xx. 6; Fut. וָהֵה they heal, Job v. 18; Part. fem. וָהֵה Eccles. x. 5; Part. pass. וָהֵה Ps. xxxii. 1; Niph. וָהֵה Jer. li. 9. Hithp. וָהֵה thou prophesiest, 1 Sam. x. 6; Inf. וָהֵה 1 Sam. x. 13.

* The Jussive signification in these examples is the reason that they have Tsere like the Imp. But this will not apply to all other cases; and, besides, the reading in many instances is doubtful between (וָהֵה) and (וָהֵה). See Gen. xxvi. 29; Lev. xviii. 7; Jos. vii. 9; ix. 24; Dan. i. 13; Eze. v. 12.

22. On the contrary, there are forms of verbs לָהֵךְ which, in some respects, follow the analogy of verbs שָׁלַח; e. g. in their consonants, שָׁלַח it is changed, 1 Sam. iv. 1; וַיִּחַלֵּץ 2 Kings xxv. 29; and he was sick, 2 Chron. xvi. 12; in their vowels, תִּכְלֶה 1 Kings xvii. 14; in both, תִּלְאוּם 2 Sam. xxi. 12.

VERBS DOUBLY ANOMALOUS.

1. Such are verbs which have two stem-letters affected by the anomalies already described, not including, however, those occasioned by gutturals. These verbs exhibit no new changes; and even in cases where two anomalies might occur, usage must teach whether the verb is actually subject to both, or but one of them, or, as sometimes happens, to neither.

Thus, from קָרַר to flee are formed Fut. יָדַר Nah. iii. 7, and יָדַר Gen. xxxi. 40 (after the analogy of verbs פָּוַן), Hiph. יָדַר (as a verb עָעַ), but in Fut. Hoph. יָדַר (as פָּוַן).

2. The following are examples of doubly anomalous verbs, and of difficult forms derived from them:—

- a) Verbs פָּוַן and לָאָה (comp. §§ 66 and 74); e. g. נִשָּׂא to bear, Imp. נִשָּׂא, Inf. constr. נִשְׂאָה (for נִשְׂאָה), also נִשְׂאָה (comp. § 73, Rem. 3), Fut. תִּשְׂאָה for תִּשְׂאָה Ruth i. 14.
- b) Verbs פָּוַן and לָהֵךְ (comp. §§ 66 and 75), as נָטָה to bend, נָטָה to smite. Hence, Fut. Kal יִטָּה, apoc. וַיִּט, וַיִּט, and וַיִּט and he sprinkled (from נָטָה); Pret. Hiph. הִטָּה he smote, Fut. יִטָּה, apoc. יָט, יָט; so also וַיִּט; Imp. הִטָּה, apoc. הָט; Inf. הִטָּה; Part. מִטָּה.
- c) Verbs פָּוַן and לָהֵךְ (comp. §§ 68 and 75), as אָתָה to come, אָפָה to bake. Hence Fut. יֵאָה, plur. יֵאָה, Deut. xxxiii. 21, for וַיֵּאָה; Fut. apoc. וַיֵּאָה Is. xli. 25, for וַיֵּאָה; Imp. אָהִי for אָהִי, אָהִי (§ 23, 4, Rem. 2; § 75, Rem. 4); Hiph. Imp. אָהִי for אָהִי Is. xxi. 14; Fut. apoc. וַיֵּאָה 1 Sam. xiv. 24, from אָהִי to swear.
- d) Verbs פָּוַן and לָאָה (comp. §§ 69, 70, and 74), as יָצָה to go forth, Imp. יָצָה, Inf. יָצָה, Hiph. הוֹצִיא.
- e) Verbs פָּוַן and לָהֵךְ (comp. §§ 69, 70, and 75), e. g. יָרָה to throw, in Hiph. to confess, to praise, properly פָּוַן, and יָרָה to throw, יָפָה to be beautiful, which are properly פָּוַן. Inf. יָרָה, יָרוּת; Imp. יָרוּ; Fut. יָרוּ, with suff. יָרוּם we shot at them (from יָרָה) Num. xxi. 30; Piel וַיִּרֶי for וַיִּרֶי (§ 69, Rem. 6); Hiph. הוֹרָה, הוֹרָה, Inf. הוֹרָה; Fut. יוֹרָה, apoc. יוֹרָה.
- f) Verbs עָוַן and לָאָה, particularly the verb בּוֹא to come; Pret. בָּאָה, בָּאָה, once בָּאָה for בָּאָה 1 Sam. xxv. 8; Hiph. הִבְיֵאָה, הִבְיֵאָה, and הִבְיֵאָה; Fut. אָבִי for אָבִי Mic. i. 15; Imp. הָבִי Ruth iii. 15. So יָנִי he refuses, Hiph., from נִיא Ps. cxli. 5.

Moreover, g) the verb הָיָה to live, deserves to be noticed, being treated as a verb עָעַ, and hence has הָיָה in the 3 Pret. Kal, Gen. iii. 22. In Hebrew it occurs only in this form. But of more frequent occurrence is the synonymous הָיָה as a verb לָהֵךְ.

SECT. 77.

RELATION OF THE IRREGULAR VERBS TO ONE ANOTHER.

1. Several classes of irregular verbs, e. g. those פָּוַן and פָּוַן, לָאָה and לָהֵךְ, עָוַן and עָעַ, stand in a very intimate relationship, as appears from the similarity in their meaning and inflexion, from the forms which they have in common, and from their mutual interchange of forms. The affinity consists, as a rule, in the essential equality of two stem-consonants of firm sound, to which the common signification attaches (bilateral root, § 30, 2), so that the third feebler radical is not taken into account. Thus, ךָ, ךָ, ךָ, ךָ all mean to strike, to beat in pieces; נֹדַד, נָדַד, נָדַד to flee.

In this manner are related in form and signification—

1. Verbs עָע and עָע (in which the essential stem-letters are the first and last), e. g. כָּיַד and כָּיַד to become poor; מָוִיט and כָּוִישׁט to feel, to touch; נֹדַד and נָדַד to flee.

2. Verbs פִּי and פִּן (in which the two last are the essential stem-letters), both to each other and to the former class. They are related to each other in the verbs יָצַב and נָצַב to place, נָקַט and יָקַט (yaqosh) to fowl; to the former class, especially to verbs עָע, in נֹדַד and יָנַד to fear; טוֹב and יָטַב to be good; נָכַף and סוּף to anoint; נָפַח and פּוּחַ to blow; נָפַץ and פּוּץ to break in pieces. Verbs פִּא are less frequently found connected with these classes, as אָשַׁם and יָשַׁם to be destroyed; אָרִישׁ and דָּוִישׁ to thresh, etc.

3. Verbs לָא and לָה (in which the first two consonants properly form the stem), both to each other and to the former classes; to each other in רָכַץ and רָכַה to break in pieces, קָרָא and קָרָה to meet; to verbs of the former classes, in מָצָה and מָצַץ to suck, דָּחַף and דָּחַח to thrust, etc.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

It often happens, when two kindred irregular verbs are in use in the same signification, that both are defective, i. e. do not occur in all the forms. As these, however, are not generally the same in both, the two are combined to make out a complete verb, as in Greek ἔρχομαι, Aor. ἦλθον, Fut. ἐλεύσομαι, and in Latin, fero, tuli, latum, ferre; with this difference, that in Hebrew these verbs are almost universally related in form as well as signification, like the Greek βαίω, Aor. 2. ἔβην, from the original form βάω.

Of these verbs the following are the most common:—

בוֹשׁ to be ashamed, Hiph. הִבִּישׁ, but also הוֹבִישׁ (from בָּשַׁט), especially with the intransitive signification to feel ashamed.

טוֹב to be good. Pret. טוֹב. Fut. יִטַּב (from יָטַב). Inf. טוֹב. Hiph. הִיטִיב.

יָנַד to fear. Fut. יָנֹדַד (from נָדַד).

יָצַב and נָצַב to place, neither used in Kal. Niph. נָצַב to stand. Hiph. and Hoph. הִצִּיב and הִצִּיב. Hithp. הִתְיַצַּב.

נָפַץ to break in pieces. Fut. יָפֹץ (from פּוּץ). Imp. פּוּץ. Niph. נָפַץ. Piel נָפַץ (from נָפַץ). P'il. פּוּץ (from פּוּץ). Reflex. הִתְפּוּצָא. Hiph. הִפִּיץ. P'ip'el פִּפְצָא Job xvi. 12.

צָרַר and צָרַר to be strait. Hence Pret. צָר I am in a strait, lit. it is strait to me, from צָרַר. Fut.

יצר (from יצר) and יצור. Hiph. הוצר, הוצר, to bring into a strait, to distress. The related form צור is transitive, to press, hence to besiege.

שקה to drink, used in Kal; but in Hiph. הוסיקה to give to drink, from שקה.

On הלה to go, see above, § 69, Rem. 8.

Rem. 1. The case is similar when different conjugations of the same verb, having the same signification, borrow tenses from each other;—

יכל he is able, יוכל Fut. Hoph. he will be able, used for Fut. Kal, which is wanting.

הסף he has added, borrows its Inf. and Fut. from Hiph. הוסיף, הוסיף.

נצט to approach. Pret. Niph. נצט for the Pret. Kal, which is not in use; yet the Fut. יצט, Imp. יצט, and Inf. יצט of Kal are all in use.

נהה to lead. Pret. usually in Kal, also the Imp. נהה; but the Fut. always in Hiphil ינהה; rarely also the Pret. הנהה.

נהה to pour out. Pret. Niph. נהה, along with Fut. Kal ינהה, but Fut. Niph. and Pret. Kal are not in use.

Rem. 2. The early grammarians often speak of mixed forms (formis mixtis) in which, as they maintain, are united the character and significations of two tenses, genders, or conjugations. On correct grammatical principles most of the examples adduced are set aside (c. g. יתקנה, § 47, Rem. 3); in others, the form seems to have originated in misapprehension and inaccuracy, e. g. בִּבְנֵיהֶם in thy building, Eze. xvi. 31 (where the plural suffix is appended to the ending ום, as if a plural-ending). Others again are merely false readings.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE NOUN.

[SUBSTANTIVE AND ADJECTIVE].

SECT. 79.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. IN treating of the formation of the noun, it is very important to keep in view its relation to the verb, since most nouns may be derived from verbs (considering the 3 sing. Pret. as the stem-form, according to § 30, 1), and even those which are not, whether primitives or derived from other nouns, follow the form and analogy of the verbals. Besides, on this relation is based the explanation of the form of the feminine gender (§ 80, 2; comp. § 94).

The adjective agrees entirely with the substantive in form, though it is manifestly only by a figure of speech that forms with an abstract signification can be treated as adjectives (§ 83, Rem. 1).

2. A regular inflection of the noun by cases does not exist in Hebrew, although perhaps some ancient traces of case-endings remain (§ 90). The relation of case in a noun is either learned simply from its position in the clause, or indicated by prepositions. In the form of the noun there is no change; and hence the matter belongs not to this division of grammar, but to the Syntax (§ 117). On the contrary, the connexion of the noun with suffixes, with the feminine, dual, and plural terminations, and with a noun following in the genitive, produces numerous changes in its form, which is all that is meant by the inflection of nouns in Hebrew.* Even for the comparative and superlative, the Hebrew has no appropriate form, and these relations must be expressed by circumlocution, as taught in the Syntax (§ 119).

SECT. 80.

FORMS WHICH MARK THE GENDER OF NOUNS.

1. The Hebrew, like all the Shemitic languages, has but two genders, the masculine and the feminine. Inanimate objects properly of the neuter gender, and abstract ideas, for which other languages have a neuter form, are regarded in Hebrew as either masculine or feminine, particularly the latter (see the Syntax, § 107, 3).

2. The masculine, as being the most common and important form of the noun, has no peculiar mark of distinction.

The ending for the feminine was originally תַּיִם, as in the 3 sing. Pret. of verbs (§ 44, 1). But when the noun stands without a genitive following (i. e. when it is not in the construct state, § 87), the תַּיִם usually appears in the weakened form תַּיִם, or is shortened to תַּיִם unaccented. The original תַּיִם is very seldom found, except when the noun is in close connexion with a succeeding genitive, or has a pronominal suffix. Irrespective then of these two cases (for which see § 89, 2, b, § 91, 4), we have as feminine-ending—

a) Most commonly an accented תַּיִם as סוּסִים horse, סוּסָה mare;

b) An unaccented תַּיִם, after a guttural תַּיִם (which also remains unchanged before the genitive), as קָטַלְתְּ, fem. קָטַלְתְּ killing, מוֹרְעָה fem. מוֹרְעָה acquaintance. Here the termination of the noun follows the manner of segholate forms (§ 91, 2). When the masc. ends with a vowel, we have for תַּיִם simply תַּיִם, as מוֹאָבִי Moabite, מוֹאָבִית Moabitess; הַטָּאֵן sinner, הַטָּאֵת sinfulness, sin. The vowel-changes occasioned by these endings are exhibited in § 94.†

* This has been called, by Gesenius himself and others, the declension of the Hebrew noun.

† On the feminines not distinguished by the form, see § 107, 1, 3, 4.

Rem. 1. The feminine form in  $\text{תָּֿ}$  is, in general, less frequent than the other, and occurs almost exclusively when the other is also in use. It is only in the Participles and Infinitives that it is found more frequently than the other (e. g.  $\text{קָטְלָת}$  oftener than  $\text{קָטְלָה}$ ,  $\text{לָרַת}$  than  $\text{לָרָה}$ ); it is, moreover, in common with  $\text{תָּֿ}$ , a form for the construct state (§ 95, 1).

2. Unusual feminine terminations:

- a)  $\text{תָּֿ}$  accented, as  $\text{בְּרָקֶת}$  emerald Eze. xxviii. 13,  $\text{קָסָת}$  pelican Is. xxxiv. 11,  $\text{שָׁפַעַת}$  crowd 2 Kings ix. 17, and often in proper names among Phœnicians and other neighbouring tribes, as  $\text{סָרְפַת}$  Sarepta,  $\text{אֵילָת}$  Aelana in Idumea, on the Arabian Gulf.
- b)  $\text{תָּֿ}$ , almost exclusively poetical, e. g.  $\text{נַחֲלָת}$  heritage Ps. xvi. 6,  $\text{עֲזָרַת}$  help Ps. lx. 13, but in prose also is found  $\text{מָחָרֶת}$  morrow Gen. xix. 34.
- c)  $\text{סָֿ}$ , Aramaean orthography for  $\text{הָֿ}$ , found chiefly in the later writers, e. g.  $\text{שָׁנָא}$  sleep Ps. cxvii. 2,  $\text{קָרְחָא}$  balduess Eze. xxvii. 31,  $\text{מָרְאָא}$  mark Lam. iii. 12.
- d)  $\text{הָֿ}$  very rarely, a weakened form of  $\text{הָֿ}$  (§ 27, Rem. 4), as  $\text{זֹרְהָ}$  for  $\text{זֹרְהָה}$ , Is. lix. 5.
- e)  $\text{הָֿ}$ , without the accent, as  $\text{רִתְּמָה}$ , Deut. xiv. 17,  $\text{בְּעֹרָה}$  burning furnace, Hos. vii. 4; comp. Eze. xl. 19; 2 Kings xvi. 18. In all these examples there should be the usual accented  $\text{הָֿ}$ , but the punctators, not comprehending the feminine here, marked the  $\text{ה}$  (by depriving it of the tone) as not feminine, which is however no rule for us. Also  $\text{לַיְלָה}$  night appears by the tone to be a masc. form, particularly as it is always construed as masc., and we find  $\text{לַיִל}$ ,  $\text{לַיְלָה}$  also occurring. Like it are  $\text{הַחֶרֶסֶת}$  the sun Judges xiv. 18 (else  $\text{חֶרֶסֶת}$ ),  $\text{נַחֲלָה}$  brook Ps. cxxiv. 4,  $\text{הַמָּוֶתֶת}$  death Ps. cxvi. 15, and some other words. Much of this is doubtful.\*
- f)  $\text{תָּֿתָּֿ}$  in poetry, properly a double ending (as in  $\text{הַזֹּאתָה}$  this f. =  $\text{הַזֹּאת}$ , Jer. xxvi. 6 Kethibh, and in the verbal form  $\text{נָלַתָה}$ , § 75, 4), e. g.  $\text{עֲזָרָתָה}$  help (=  $\text{עֲזָרָה}$ ,  $\text{עֲזָרָה}$ ),  $\text{יְשׁוּעָתָה}$  salvation (=  $\text{יְשׁוּעָה}$ ),  $\text{עֲוֹנָתָה}$  wickedness (=  $\text{עֲוֹנָה}$ ), see Ps. iii. 3; xlv. 27; xcii. 16; Job v. 16; Ex. xv. 16, and other places.†

3. It is wholly incongruous to consider (as Gesenius and Nordheimer did) the vowel-ending  $\text{הָֿ}$  ‡ as the original termination of the feminine and the consonant-ending  $\text{תָּֿ}$  as derived from it. The Æthiopic still has the  $\text{ת}$  constantly, and in the Phœnician also the feminines end generally in  $\text{ת}$  (not  $\text{ה}$  or  $\text{ס}$ ), which is sounded ath in the words found in Greek and Roman authors (see Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, pp. 439, 440; Movers in Ersch. and Gruber's Encyclop., Sect. III., T. 24, p. 439). The ancient Arabic has the weakened vowel-ending scarcely anywhere but in the pause; the modern Arabic is, in this respect, much like the Hebrew.

DERIVATION OF NOUNS.

Nouns are either primitive (§ 82), as  $\text{אָב}$  father,  $\text{אִמָּה}$  mother, or derivative. The latter are derived either from the verb (Verbals, §§ 83—85) in the sense given \* The ending  $\text{הָֿ}$  in these words has been taken for the termination of the Aramaean emphatic state, so making  $\text{הַנְּחֵלָה}$  pass for  $\text{הַנְּחֵלָהֿ}$ . But there are these objections: a) That some examples have the Heb. article, which implies at least that the Aramaean form was not recognised; b) That the examples in part belong to the more ancient books; and c) That we find among them so old and familiar a word as  $\text{לַיְלָה}$ . Yet  $\text{לַיְלָהֿ}$  might be strictly an accusative with adverbial signification noctu, and then used simply for nox, no regard being had to the ending, something like  $\text{בְּגִנְיָה}$ , § 90, 2, c. See Gesenius's Lexicon under  $\text{לַיִל}$  in the Note.

† This ending  $\text{תָּֿתָּֿ}$ , too, has been compared with that of the Aram. emphatic state, or has been regarded as an accusative-ending.

above in § 79, 1, as צָדִיק just, צָדִק, צִדְקָה righteousness, from צָדַק to be just; רָם high, רָמָה high place, מְרוֹם height, from רוּם to be high; or from another noun (Denominatives), as רֶגֶל foot, מִרְגְּלוֹת place at the feet. The verbals are by far the most numerous class.

Rem. 1. Many of the early grammarians, who admitted none but verbs as stem-words, classed all nouns among the verbals, and divided them into, a) Formæ nuda, i. e. such as have only the three (or two) stem-letters, and b) Formæ auctæ, such as have received formative letters or syllables at the beginning or end, as מְמַלְכָה, מְמַלְכִית, מְמַלְכִית. These formative letters are:

ו, י, ת, נ, ט, א, ה, הַאֲמַנְתִּי*.

According to the view of roots and stems given in § 30, 1, the relation of the noun to the verb is, strictly speaking, somewhat different, since, according to it, many nouns are formed immediately from the (ideal) root. But we here retain the common view, as being easier for beginners. Comp. § 79, 1.

2. Of compound nouns, as appellatives, the number in Hebrew is very small, e. g. בְּלִעַל properly worthlessness, baseness. As proper names, they occur pretty frequently, e. g. מְבַרְיָאֵל man of God, יְהוֹקִים whom God raises up, הַיְקָהוּ strength of Jehovah, אָבִימֶלֶךְ father of the king.

SECT. 82.

PRIMITIVE NOUNS.

1. The number of primitives is, strictly speaking, very small, the nouns which are in most languages primitive being here usually derived from verbal ideas; e. g. most of the names of natural objects, as שְׂעִיר he-goat (prop. shaggy, from שָׁעַר), שְׂעִירָה barley (prop. bearded, also from שָׁעַר), הַסִּירָה stork (prop. piu, sc. avis), זָהָב gold (from זָהַב = צָהַב to be yellow). There are but few nouns, e. g. the names of members of the body, in men and beasts, for which no stem-verb can be found, as קֶרֶן horn, עֵין eye.

2. The form of the primitives is that of the simplest verbals, as קָטַל, קָטֵל, etc.; and it makes no difference, in the grammatical treatment, to which class the nouns are reckoned.

E. g. אָדָם man, follows the analogy of the verbals No. 1 (§ 81), whether it comes from אָדַם to be red or not; אָב father, אִמָּה mother, have the same form as if derived from אָבָה, אִמָּה, which is very improbable.

SECT. 83.

VERBAL NOUNS IN GENERAL.

1. In Hebrew, as in Greek and Latin, the verbal nouns are connected in form and signification with certain forms of the verb, viz., the Participles and Infinitives, which, even without any change, are often employed as nouns; e. g. יָדָעַת (to know) = knowledge, אֹיֵב (hating) = enemy. Still oftener, however, are predominantly employed for the verbal noun certain forms of the Infinitive and Participle, which are seldom or never found as such in the regular verb itself, though in use in the irregular verb and in other dialects; e. g. the participial form קָטַל, the Infinitives מִקְטָל, קְטִילָת (§ 45, 2), etc. Some, as the Arabic shows, are properly intensive forms of the Participle.

* From this vox memorialis (§ 5, p. 14, Note †) the nomina aucta are also called, by the old grammarians, nomina hecumentica.

2. As to signification, it follows from the nature of the case, that nouns which have the form of Infinitives regularly denote the action or state, with other closely-related ideas (such as the place of the action), and are therefore mostly abstract; that participial nouns, on the contrary, denote, for the most part, the subject of the action, or of the state, and hence are concrete. It often happens, however, that a certain signification is found in single examples of derivative nouns, which is not characteristic of the form.

Rem. 1. It need not, therefore, appear strange (for it is found in all languages) that a noun which in form is properly abstract, should be employed metaphorically as a concrete, and vice versa. So, in English, we say, his acquaintance, for those with whom he is acquainted; the Godhead, for God himself; in Heb. מִוֶּדַע acquaintance and an acquaintance; פְּתִי simplicity and a simple one; on the contrary, הַטְּאֵת that which sinneth for sin, which is a frequent use of the fem. concrete (§ 84, 5, 6, 11).

2. For facilitating the general view, we treat first of the derivatives from the regular verb (§ 84) and then of those from the irregular (§ 85).

NOUNS DERIVED FROM THE REGULAR VERB.*

We distinguish here—

I. Forms originally Participles, or participial Nouns, from Kal.

1. קָטַל fem. קְטִילָה, the most simple form of this class and analogous to the two following (Nos. 2 and 3), but not in use as a Participle. It is most frequently employed as an adjective expressing quality, as חָכֵם wise, הַדָּשׁ new, יָשָׁר upright. It occurs, however, also with an abstract sense (No. 12).

2. קָטַל, fem. קְטִילָה, Part. of verbs middle E (§ 50, 2), mostly serves for intransitive notions (§ 43) and for adjectives of quality; e. g. זָקֵן old, זָקֵן old man; יָבֵשׁ dry; רַחֵן fat.

3. קָטַל and קָטוּל (with firm ō), fem. קְטִילָה, next to Part. of verbs middle O, and properly with intransitive sense; e. g. יָרַי fearing, קָטַן small, יָקוּט fowler; then frequently as an adjective, even when no Pret. with Cholem is found, as גָּדוֹל great, רַחוּק far, קְדוּשׁ holy. As a substantive abstr. כְּבוֹד honour, שָׁלוֹם peace. From this is to be distinguished No. 21, with the doubling of the last radical.

* Under the regular verb we here include the verb with gutturals, §§ 63—65.

4. קָטַל, קָטֹל, קָטֹלָה, fem. קָטֹלָה, the usual active participial of transitive verbs, e. g. אֵיבֵב enemy, יִנְקֵם suckling; hence of the instrument by which the action is performed, as הַרְיֵשׁ a cutting instrument. A feminine with a collective signification is found in אַרְיָה caravan, properly the wandering, wandering host.

5. קָטֹל and קָטֹלָה, passive Participles of Kal, the latter (the usual Aramæan form) employed rather as a substantive, like the Greek verbals in τός; e. g. אֶסוּר imprisoned, מְיֻשָּׁם anointed, אֶסִּיר prisoner, מְיֻשָּׁם anointed one. Also in intransitive verbs with an active signification, as אֶעֱיֵר small, אֶעֱזֹם strong. Some words of the form קָטֹל express the time of the action, as קָצִיר time of cutting, harvest, הַרְיֵשׁ time of ploughing, like the Greek verbals in τός; e. g. ἀμῆτός, ἀποτός, properly the being harvested, or ploughed. The feminines are apt to take the abstract signification (Synt. § 107, 3 b), e. g. יְיֻשָּׁמָה deliverance (the being delivered).

6. קָטַל (Arabic (كَطَلَ), with unchangeable vowels. In Arab. it is the usual intensive form of the participle, and hence in Heb. expresses what is habitual, e. g. נָנֵה apt to butt, נָנֵה (also נָנֵה) zealous, חַטָּא sinner (diff. from חָטָא sinning), גָּנֵב thief; so of occupations and trades, e. g. טָבַח cook, הַרְיֵשׁ (for תַּרְיֵשׁ) faber. Here again the feminine (קָטֹלָה or קָטֹלָה) often takes the abstract signification, as חַטָּאָה female sinner and sinfulness, sin; בָּרָקָה burning fever, with a guttural טָבַחָה signet. Such intensive forms are also the three following:

7. קָטֹל and קָטֹל, of which forms are most adjectives in the Chaldee, as צַדִּיק righteous, אֶבֶר strong, חַנּוּן compassionate. In Heb. from intrans. verbs alone.

8. קָטֹל, as יְסוּר censurer, נִבּוֹר drunken one, גִּבּוֹר strong one, hero; seldom in a passive sense, as יָלוֹד born.

9. קָטַל indicates very great intensity, often excessive, so as to become a fault or a defect, e. g. גִּבּוֹל hunch-backed, גִּבּוֹר bald-headed, אֵלֵם dumb, עֵיִר blind, לָפֵם lame, הַרְיֵשׁ deaf. The abstr. signification is found in the fem., as אֵלֵמָה folly.

II. Nouns after the manner of Infinitives of Kal.*

10. קָטַל, קָטֹל, קָטֹלָה, (with changeable vowels), are with No. 11 the simplest forms of this class, of which the latter is the predominant, and the first the unfrequency form in the verb as Infinitive (§ 45, 2). As nominal forms they are rare, e. g. אֶבֶר man, אֶזְרָר ornament, צִחָק laughter. Instead of these, the three kindred segholate forms—

11. קָטֹל, קָטֹלָה, קָטֹלָה, are far more frequent; e. g. מֶלֶךְ, king (for מֶלֶךְ, מֶלֶךְ, § 27, Rem. 2 c), סֵפֶר (for סֵפֶר) book; קֹדֶשׁ (for קֹדֶשׁ) sanctuary; these have the characteristic vowel in the first syllable, and the helping vowel Seghol (§ 28, 4) in the second. Instead of the Seghol, a Pathach is used with gutturals in the second or third place, as זֶרַע seed, נֶצַח eternity, מַעַל work. Examples of feminines, מַלְכָה queen, יְרָאָה fear, עֲזָרָה help, חֵכְמָה wisdom.

In masculines as well as feminines the abstract is the proper and prevailing signification, yet not unfrequently the concrete occurs, especially in the form קָטֹלָה, e. g. מֶלֶךְ king, נֶעַר a youth, בְּרִיטִישׁ brutish, עֲבָד servant, לֹרְדָה lord, אֶבֶר man. In such forms the concrete sense is secondary and derived from the abstract, as in נֶעַר prop. brutishness, נֶעַר prop. season of youth (comp. Eng. youth and a youth), or the form of the word is shortened from another with a concrete sense, as מֶלֶךְ from מַלְכָה, or the form of the word is shortened from another with a concrete sense, as מֶלֶךְ from מַלְכָה, meaning ruling, serving.† But altogether the meaning of these forms is very

* All these forms are found, mutatis mutandis, in the Arabic as Infinitives, or so-called nomina actionis.

† Such an origin of מֶלֶךְ may be proved from the Arabic; and in some other nouns it is obvious. Comp. מֶלֶךְ as the name of a town, with מֶלֶךְ a wall; and מֶלֶךְ shortened (in the constr. state) from מֶלֶךְ shoulder.

various, e. g. even for the instrument, as חֶרֶב sword, הַרְטָה graving-tool, and passively לֶחֶם bread. In the passive sense the form קָטַל is more common, as אֲכָל food; this form קָטַל is also more used in the abstract sphere, hence נָעַר a youth, נָעַר youth.

12. קָטַל, like No. 1, fem. קָטְלָה, both very often with the abstr. sense: e. g. רָעַב hunger, אִשָּׁם guilt, שִׂבְעָה satiety (besides their concretes רָעַב hungry, אִשָּׁם, שִׂבְעָה); fem. צִדְקָה righteousness, נִקְמָה vengeance. Less frequent is the form קָטַל, as שָׂכַר strong drink, עֵנַב grape.

13. קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל, all with an unchangeable vowel (§ 25) between the second and third radicals, and a Sheva under the first, as כְּתָב, book, כְּאַב pain, שְׂבִיל way, חֵלֶם dream, דְּבוּל dwelling; sometimes with Aleph prosthetic, as זְרוּעָה = זְרוּעָה arm, אֶפְרָח brood. The corresponding feminines will readily suggest themselves; the forms קָטְלָה, קָטְלָה coincide with those of feminines in No. 5.

14. קָטַל, the Aramæan form of the infinitive, e. g. מִשְׁפָּט judgment. Related forms are: מִזְמוֹר song, מִחְמָד desire, מִלְקָח booty, מִמְלָכָה kingdom, מִשְׂכָּרְת wages. Under this form, besides the action itself, is specially also expressed the place of the action, as מִזְבֵּחַ altar, מִדְרֹבַר (from דָּרַב to drive) place of driving, i. e. to which cattle are driven, wilderness; and the instrument, as מִזְלָג knife, מִזְלָג fork, מִפְתָּח key.

15. קָטַל, קָטְלוּ, and other similar forms, with the terminations וֹן and וֹ, as פְּתָרוֹן interpretation, שִׁלְתָּן table, קָרְבָּן offering; but there are also forms like זִכְרוֹן remembrance, חִזְיוֹן prophetic vision.

For וֹן there is a truncated form וֹ, written also הֹ, which occurs especially in proper names, as מִנְדַּו and מִנְדַּוֹן שִׁלְמֹה for שִׁלְמוֹן (comp. Πλάτων, Plato). In patronymic and gentilic nouns (§ 86, 5), the Nun is restored, e. g. שִׁילָה from שִׁילָה the city Shilo (also still Shiloh).

16. With the feminine-ending וֹת, e. g. סְבָלוֹת folly, רְפָאוֹת healing. In the Aramæan, this is a usual termination of the Infinitive in the derived conjugations (comp. No. 28). Its frequent use appears only in the later books. As a synonymous ending we find at times וֹת in earlier use, as רֵמְנַנְת remnant. Comp. the denominative nouns, § 86, 6.

III. Participials of derived Conjugations.

17. From Niph. נִקְטַל, as נִפְלְאוֹת (plur.) wonders.

18. 19. From Piël and Hiiph., e. g. מְנַפְּרֵת snuffers, מְנַמְרֵה pruning-knife.

20. From Pöel, as עוֹלָל and עוֹלָל child.

21. From Piël קָטַל, fem. קָטְלָה, and 22. קָטַלְלָה, for the most part adjectives of colour, as אָדָם, fem. אֲדָמָה red, רֵאֶזֶן green, שָׁאֵן quiet.*

23. קָטַלְלָה, forms of adjectives with a diminutive signification (§ 55, 3), as אֲדָמָה reddish, שְׁהֵרָהֵר blackish; hence in a contemptuous sense (like miser, misellus, Germ. Gesinde, Gesindele), as אֲסָפְרָה (with the passive form for אֲסָפְרָה) collected rabble.

IV. Infinitives of the derived Conjugations.

24. From Niph. the form נִפְתָּלוּ struggles.

25. From Piël, like נִפְּזָה dispersion, more frequently in the fem., as בְּקִשָּׁה request, with Qamets unchangeable in the second syllable.

26. קָטַל, and 27. קָטַלְלָה, likewise Infinitives of Piël (the latter very common in Arabic), e. g. שִׁלְמוֹת requital; חֲבוּת folding of the hands; בְּנִיבֹל benefit; מְבָרֵךְ mantle.

* No. 21 may be regarded also as a mere modification of No. 3.

28. From IIiph. of the form זָמַרְהָ remembrance-offering, הִשְׁמָעִית announcing (with firm Qamets), Aramæan Infinitives.
 29. From IIithp. הִתְנַחֵחַ register.
 30. From Poël, like הוֹלֵלָה folly, and perhaps also 31. as קִיטוֹר smoke, צִינָק prison.
 32. From Pilel סָרַר rain, נִאֲפָיָה adultery.
 33. From פָּתַחְקוֹת opening, Inf. to No. 23.
 34. שָׂקָטַל, e. g. שָׂלָה־בַת flame (comp. § 55, 6).
 35. Quadrilaterals, like סָלָעַם locust.

SECT. 85.

NOUNS DERIVED FROM THE IRREGULAR VERB.

These are formed fully after the analogy of those which we have already treated of. Accordingly we shall refer these forms to the corresponding ones already described, mentioning only such as exhibit a remarkable effect of the feebleness of the stem.

I. From Stems פָּן.

Connected with the Inf. of Kal, 14. מִתּוֹן gift, מִגְבָּה overthrow; Inf. of IIiph. 28. הַצֵּלָה deliverance. The noun יָרַע knowledge, from יָרַע; see § 71.

II. From Stems עָע.

From the Part. Kal, 1. קָטַל upright (like קָטַל), commonly with Pathach (to indicate the sharpening of the syllable), אֶבֶל abject, רַב much, fem. רַבָּה, דְּלִיָּה, תְּמִינָה; * 2. פָּחַט fat. From the Inf. 10. 11. בִּז booty, חֵן favour, חָק law, fem. מִילָה word, חֻקָּה law; 14. מֵעֵז fastness, מִסָּב that which surrounds anything, fem. מִנְעֵלָה roll. The form מִסָּב sometimes, by retraction of the tone, becomes a segholate form, as מִיֻּכָר bitterness, מִיֻּרָה timidity (from רָבָה). 27. תְּהִלָּה praise, תְּפִלָּה prayer, with the segholate form also, as מִמְסָם a melting away (from מָסַם), מִרְנוֹן mast (from רָנַן to make a tremulous sound). From Pilpel (§ 55, 4), גִּלְגָּל wheel, from גָּלַל to roll, קִלְקַל contemned.

III. From Stems פָּו and פִּי.

The participial forms are regular. Forms originally Infinitives are: 10. דָּעָה, fem. דָּעָה, דָּעָה knowledge, עֲצָה counsel. 13. סוֹד, for יְסוֹד divan. 14. מִיֻּרָה fear, מִיֻּרָה snare, מִיֻּרָה birth, מִיֻּרָה punishment; from verbs prop. פִּי מִיֻּרָה the best. 27. תּוֹשָׁב inhabitant, תּוֹלְדוֹת generation, תּוֹשָׁב the south.

IV. From Stems עָע and עֵי.

Participles: 1. זָר foreign; 2. גָּר stranger, עֵדָה a female witness, testimony; 3. טוֹב good, טוֹבָה what is good. Infinitives: 11. Different segholate forms, as מָוֶת death, and בַּיִת house; קוֹל voice, רוּחַ spirit; feminines, עוֹלָה and עוֹלָה evil, בִּישָׁת shame; 14. מְנוּחָה, fem. מְנוּחָה rest, מְנוּחָה place, also מְנוּחָה oar (from נָשׂוּחַ); 27. תְּבוּנָה intelligence, תְּעוּדָה testimony; 28. הַנְּחָה rest.

* On the formation of feminines without the Dagghesh, see § 94, Rem. 2.

V. From Stems לָהּ.

Participles: 2. לָהּ fair, קָיִטָּה hard, fem. קָיִטָּה. Some lose the ה־, as הָיוּ sign, for תְּהִיָּה. 4. רָצָה seer, fem. עוֹלָה burnt-offering. 5. כָּסוּי covering, נָהִי pure, עָנִי poor. Infinitives: 11. The segholates in different forms; not often with the ה־ retained, as in בָּכָה a weeping, רָעָה friend, חָזָה, חָזָה vision, revelation (Is. xxviii. 7, 15), commonly without it, as רָע (for רָעָה). Sometimes the original ו or ו appears, which is then pronounced as a vowel, é or ú (comp. on יָהִי, § 75, Rem. 3), as in פְּרִי fruit, חֲלִי sickness. The ו also quiesces, as in בָּהִי waste. In masculines, the third radical rarely remains a consonant, as in רָנִי sickness, though in feminines it is always so, as in שָׁלָה rest, לָהּ garland. 13. חָרוּ winter, שָׁתִי fem. שָׁתִי a drinking; fem. מָנָת part, חֲצוּת the half, שְׁחוּת and חֲחִית pit. 14. מְקַנָּה possession, מְרָצָה appearance; fem. מְצַוָּה command. Apocopated form מְעַל height, for מְעַלָּה. 15. מְקַנָּן wealth, מְפָלִין destruction. 27. מְתַבְּלִית annihilation, מְתַבְּנִית structure, מְתַרְבֵּוּת brood. 28. מְשַׁבֵּץ testicle for מְשַׁבֵּץ, from שָׁבַץ.

VI. From doubly anomalous Stems.

We present only some cases of especial difficulty to the beginner:

1. From a verb לָבַן and לָאָה, מְעִילָה elevation for מְעִילָה, from מְעִילָה, Job xli. 17.
2. From a verb לָבַן and לָהּ, תּוֹרָה instruction, law, מוֹפֵת sign, prob. from מְעִילָה.
3. From a verb מְעִילָה and לָהּ, מְעִילָה tumult, Num. xxiv. 17, from מְעִילָה for מְעִילָה.
4. From a verb מְעִילָה and לָהּ, אִי island, from מְעִילָה to dwell for מְעִילָה; אֹת sign for אֹת, from מְעִילָה; קוֹד cord, from מְעִילָה; חֲבַת chamber for חֲבַת, from מְעִילָה to dwell; גּוֹי people, from מְעִילָה, Arab. to flow together; רִי irrigating for רִי, from מְעִילָה.

To the learner the stem is often obscured also by contraction, when it originally contains Nun, Daleth, or He; e. g. נַת wine-press for נְנֵת, נְנֵת (from נָנַן); אַף anger for אָפֵף, אָפֵף faithfulness for אָפֵף (from אָפֵף), עַת time for עָנַת (from עָנַה); וְ! for וְ! (from וְ! brightness).

SECT. 86.

DENOMINATIVE NOUNS.

1. Such are all nouns which are formed immediately from another noun, whether the latter be primitive, or derived from a verb, e. g. קְרִמּוֹן eastern, immediately from קְרִמְּ the east, which is itself derived from the verb קָרַם.

2. Most of the forms which nouns of this class assume have already been given,—the denominatives (which seem in general to be a later phenomenon of language than verbals) being formed in imitation of nouns derived from the verb. The verbal with מ prefixed, e. g. was employed to express the place of an action (§ 84, No. 14); accordingly this מ was prefixed to a noun in order to make it a designation of place (see No. 3). Also in Greek and German (and so in English and Welsh), the verbals and denominatives are exactly analogous.

The principal forms are the following:—

1. In imitation of the Part. Kal (No. 4 of the Verbals), as מְעִילָה porter, from מְעִילָה gute; מְעִילָה herdsman, from מְעִילָה cattle; מְעִילָה vine dresser, from מְעִילָה vineyard.

2. Like verbals of No. 6, קִשֶׁת archer, from קִשָּׁת bow; מִלָּח seaman, from מִלַּח salt, sea. Both these forms (Nos. 1 and 2) indicate one's employment, trade, etc., like Greek nouns in της, τεός, e. g. πολίτης, γραμματέως.

3. Nouns with מ prefixed, expressing the place of a thing (comp. No. 14 of the Verbals), e. g. מַעְיָן place of fountains, from עַיָּן fountain; מִרְגְּלוֹת, מִרְגְּלוֹת, place about the feet.—about the heel, from רֶגֶל; מִקְשָׁה for מִקְשָׁצָה field of cucumbers, from קָשָׂא cucumber. Comp. ἀμπελών, from ἄμπελος.

4. Concretes formed by the addition of ון, יָ, as רְחֵמִיּוֹן eastern, from רָחַם; אֲחֵרֶון hinder, from אָחַר; לִוְיָתָן wound, hence coiled animal, serpent, from לָוָה a winding.

וּן and וִי form also diminutives like the Syriac ון, as אֵינִיּוֹן little man (in the eye), apple of the eye, from אֵינִי; יְשׁוּרוּן (term of endearment, for יְשׁוּרָאֵל) darling, pious nation (from יָשָׁר = יָשָׁר upright, pious).

5. Peculiar to this class of nouns is the termination יָ, which converts a substantive into an adjective, and is added especially to numerals and names of persons and countries, in order to form ordinals, gentilies, and patronymies; e. g. נִכְרִי strange, from נִכְרָה anything foreign; יְשִׁישִׁי the sixth, from שֵׁשִׁי six; מוֹאָבִי Moabite, from מוֹאָב; יִשְׂרָאֵלִי Israelite, from יִשְׂרָאֵל. When the substantive is a compound, it is commonly resolved again into two words, e. g. בְּנֵי־בִנְיָמִן Benjaminite, from בְּנֵי־בִנְיָמִן (for the use of the article with such forms, see § 111, 1, Rem.). Rarely instead of יָ we have, a) the ending יָ (as in Aramæan), as כִּלְיָ deceitful, and in proper names, as בַּרְזַלְיָ (ferreus) Barzillai; and, b) the corresponding יָ, as לְבָנָה (prop. milky) white poplar.

6. Abstract nouns formed from concretes by the addition of ות and ית (comp. the Eng. terminations dom, hood, ness, etc.); e. g. מַלְכוּת kingdom, immediately from מֶלֶךְ; אֲלֻמְנוּת widowhood, from אֶלְמָן, widower, widow; אֲרִי־שֵׁת principium, from אֲרִישֶׁת = אֲרִישֶׁת princeps. (See the Verbals No. 16.)

THE PLURAL.

1. The plural termination for the masculine gender is יָם, e. g. סוּסִים horse, plur. סוּסִים horses, at times written defectively יָם, as in Gen. i. 21, תַּנִּינִים. Nouns ending in יָ take יָם in the plural, as עִבְרִיִּים Hebrews, from עִבְרִי (Ex. iii. 18), but usually a contraction takes place, as עִבְרִיִּים (§ 93, VIII.), crimson garments from עִבְרִי. Nouns in יָ lose this termination when they take the plural ending, e. g. הַנָּהָר seer, plur. הַנָּהָרִים.

This ending im is also prevalent in Phœnician, e. g. צִדְנִים Sidonians, in Aramæan it is im, in Arabic ān (nominative) and in (oblique cases) in Æthiopic ān. Compare also the ending ון in 3rd pers. pl. masc. of verbs.*

Unusual terminations of the plur. masc. are:

- a) ון, as in Chaldee and Syriac, almost exclusively in the later and poetical books, e. g. מְלָכִין kings, Prov. xxxi. 3; יָמִין days, Dan. xii. 13; defectively יָם islands, Eze. xxvi. 18. Comp. Judges v. 10; Job xv. 13; xxiv. 22; xxxi. 10; Lam. i. 4; and other places.

* On the connexion between all these endings, see Dietrich's Abhandlungen zur Heb. Grammatik, Leipzig, 1846, svo., p. 62.

b) יָי (with ם cast off, as in dual יָי for יָי, Eze. xiii. 18; comp. the constr. st. § 89, 2), e. g. כָּי chords, Ps. xlv. 9, for כָּי (if it is not to be written so); עָי peoples, 2 Sam. xxii. 44 (yet in the parallel passage, Ps. xxviii. 11, we have עָי, but the other form in Lam. iii. 14, and Ps. cxliv. 2). This ending is, however, doubted by some in these single passages (see also 2 Sam. xxiii. 8; comp. 1 Chron. xi. 11; 1 Sam. xx. 38 K<sup>t</sup>hibh) or in general, see Gesenius's Lehrgebäude der Heb. Sprache, S. 524 ff. More doubtful still is—

c) יָי like the constr. state in Syriac). Here are reckoned, e. g. הָי white cloths, Is. xix. 9; שָּי for יָי princes, Judges v. 15; חָי windows, Jer. xxii. 14. Yet this last is perhaps dual (§ 88, Rem. 1) two windows, שָּי may be my princes (with suff.), and יָי in הָי may be a formative syllable. Further חָי, in Is. xx. 4, is constr. st., but the יָי belongs to the stem in חָי locust-swarm, Nah. ii. 17 (from חָי : and in חָי (= חָי after the form חָי) the Almighty; finally, in חָי the Lord (prop. my lord, from חָי lord) it is originally a suffix; see § 121, Rem. 4.

d) ם, obsolete and rare, e. g. כָּי = כָּי flies, כָּי ladder (from כָּי) (prop. steps), comp. our stairs.*

2. The plural termination for the feminine gender is וֹת. This takes the place of the feminine termination וֹת, וֹת, וֹת, when the noun in the singular ends with one of these; otherwise (§ 80, 2) it is merely appended to the form of the singular, as תְּהִלָּה song of praise, plur. תְּהִלוֹת; אֵפֶת letter, plur. אֵפֶת; בְּאֵר a well, plur. בְּאֵרוֹת. Feminines in וֹת form their plural in וֹת, and those in וֹת, in וֹת, e. g. מִצְרַיִת an Egyptian woman, plur. מִצְרַיִת; מַלְכּוּת kingdom, plur. מַלְכּוּת. These plural terminations have, however, for their basis, the endings וֹת and וֹת in the singular with double Yodh.

It is only from a disregard of the origin of the terminations וֹת and וֹת that some words ending with the same, form their plural by the addition of וֹת, e. g. חָי spear, plur. חָי; וֹת whoredom, plur. וֹת; אֵפֶת widowhood, and many other instances. Strictly in the manner of the Syriac is the formation of the plural אֵפֶת (ēdhe-róth) laws, with Vav as a consonant, from the singular אֵפֶת.

This ending וֹת (-óth) stands for -áth (as it sounds in Arab., Æth., and Chaldee, see on the change of á to ó, in § 9, 10, 2), and -áth is properly only a longer and stronger form of the singular-ending áth (§ 80, 2). The strengthening is intended to denote the plural. But this ending is then by a further application appended also to such nouns as have not -áth in the singular.

For the changes of vowels occasioned by the addition of the plural endings, see §§ 92—95.

3. Words which are of two genders (§ 80, 2, b, and § 107, 3) have often, in the plural, both the masculine and feminine terminations, e. g. נַפְשׁ soul, plur. נַפְשׁ and נַפְשׁוֹת; both forms may be employed as masculine and feminine, but their gender must be determined by observing the usage of the language in respect to each word. This is also true of several other words of both genders and both (masc. and fem.) terminations, e. g. דּוֹר an age, masc., plur. דּוֹר and דּוֹרוֹת; שָׁנָה a year, fem., plur. שָׁנָה and שָׁנָה. The gender of the singular is here retained in both the plural forms, e. g. אַרְיִי masc., a lion, אַרְיִוֹת masc., Zeph. iii. 3, דַּוְרוֹת masc., Job xlii. 16.

Sometimes usage makes a distinction between the two plural forms of the same word. Thus, יָמִים days, and שָׁנִים years, are the usual, but יָמוֹת, יָנוֹת the unfrequent and poetical forms. This distinction appears especially in the use of several words which designate members of the human body. The dual of these words (see § 88) is employed as the name of the living members themselves, while the plural in וְת (which is here regarded as neuter) represents something similar, but inanimate; e. g. יָדַיַם hands, יָדָיו handles, manubria; קַרְנָיו horns, קַרְנוֹת cornua altaris; עֵינָיו eyes, עֵינֹת fountains.

4. A considerable number of masculines form their plural in וְת, while many feminines have a plural in יַם־. The gender of the singular, however, remains the same in such case; e. g. אָב father, plur. אָבוֹת; שֵׁם name, masc., plur. שְׂמוֹת; on the contrary, מְלָכָה word, fem., plur. מְלָכִים; פְּלִגְנִישׁ concubine, fem., plur. פְּלִגְנִישִׁים, etc.

5. It is chiefly only in adjectives and participles that we find the plural-endings regularly and constantly distinguished according to the gender, e. g. טוֹבִים boni, טוֹבוֹת bonæ; קְטָלִים masc., קְטָלוֹת fem. So also in substantives of the same stem, when the difference depends on sex, as בָּנִים jilii, בָּנוֹת jilivæ; מְלָכִים reges; מְלָכוֹת reginæ.

Rem. 1. In some few words, there is added to the plural form in וְת the other termination of the plural יַם־ (before the genitive יַם־, comp. § 89, 2), or that of the dual יָם־; e. g. קִיָּה height, plur. קִימוֹת, construct state קִימוֹתֵי; מִרְאֵשׁוֹתַי שָׂאוֹל from the head of Saul, 1 Sam. xxvi. 12; הוֹקֵה wall, plur. הוֹמוֹת (mania), הוֹמוֹתַי double wall. This double designation of the plural appears also in the manner of connecting suffixes with the plural forms in וְת (§ 91, 3).

2. Some nouns are used only in the plural, e. g. אֲנָשִׁים men (in the Æthiopic, sing. mēt, man); and some of these have a singular sense (§ 108, 2), as פְּנֵים face. Also when the actual plural of the latter is required, there is but the same way of expressing it; hence, פְּנֵים means also faces in Eze. i. 6.

THE DUAL.

1. As a modification of the plural, we have the dual, which however is used only in substantives (not in adjectives, verbs, and pronouns). It is indicated in both genders by the ending יָם־, appended to the singular, as יָדַי both hands, יָמֵי two days; but the feminine termination ה־ always becomes in this case ת־, as שֵׁפָה lip, שֵׁפָתַי both lips, and the ת of the termination ת־ remains, as נְהַשְׁתָּ dual נְהַשְׁתָּי double fetters.

The vowel-shortening in the noun upon the addition of the dual-ending is rather greater than in the plural, particularly in the segholate forms (§ 84, 11), as רגל foot, plur. רגלים, dual רגלִים; yet קרניים is used as well as קרנִים from קרן horn, קרניים from לחי cheek.

Rem. 1. Unusual forms of the dual, mostly occurring only in proper names, are: a) וְאֵל and contr. וְאֵל, as דִּתְּנִן Gen. xxxvii. 17, and דִּתְּנִן 2 Kings vi. 13 (pr. name signifying two wells); b) םֶ and יִם, as עֵינַם, עָנַם (pr. names); שְׁנַיִם two in the combination עֶשְׂרִים שְׁנַיִם twelve; c) יִ (with ם cast off), דִּי Eze. xiii. 18, perhaps also חלונִי (double window) Jer. xxii. 14.

2. Only seemingly dual are the words מַיִם water, שָׁמַיִם heaven, יְרוּשָׁלַיִם or יְרוּשָׁלָם Jerusalem. The former two are plurals from the lost singulars מַי, שָׁמַי; the latter is a lengthened form for the older יְרוּשָׁלַם,* comp. the shorter form יְרוּשָׁם Ps. lxxvi. 3, and the Chaldee יְרוּשָׁלַם.

2. The use of the dual in Hebrew is confined, except in the numerals 2, 12, 200, etc. (§ 97), chiefly to such objects as are by nature or art in pairs, as יָדַיִם both hands, אוָזְנַיִם both ears, שְׁנַיִם teeth (used of the two rows), נַעֲלָיִם pair of shoes, as כַּאֲזוּזַיִם pair of scales (Lat. bilances), or at least are thought of as forming a pair, as יוֹמַיִם two (successive) days, biduum, שְׁנַתַּיִם two years (in succession), biennium, אַמְתַּיִם two cubits. In the former case the dual is used also for an indefinite plural, or a plural defined by a number, as שֵׁשׁ כַּנְּפַיִם six wings, Is. vi. 2; Eze. i. 6; כָּל-בְּרָכְיָיִם all knees, Eze. vii. 17; מְצַלְתַּיִם cymbals, Ezr. iii. 10; שְׁפָתַיִם two hooks, Eze. xl. 43. For additional stress the dual takes also the numeral two, Amos iii. 12; Judges xvi. 28.

For more remarks on the use of the dual, see in § 87, Nos. 3, 5 (Rem.).

It cannot be doubted that the Hebrew, at an earlier period, made a more extensive and free use of the dual, and that the restrictions above specified belong to a later phase of its development. The ancient Arabic forms the dual in the noun, pronoun, and verb almost co-extensively with the Sanskrit or the Greek; but the modern Arabic omits it almost entirely in verbs, pronouns, and adjectives. The Syriac has it only in a couple of words, but yet without living force, somewhat like the Roman forms ambo, duo. In like manner, the dual is lost in the newer East-Indian tongues. On the German dual, see Grimm's Gramm. I. S. 814, 2 Ausg.

SECT. 89.

THE GENITIVE AND THE CONSTRUCT STATE.

1. The Hebrew has no longer the living use of case-endings,† but indicates the relations of case, either by no outward means, as that of the nominative and generally also of the accusative, or by prepositions (§ 117); but the genitive relation is indicated by a close connexion between two nouns. The noun, which serves as genitive to limit the other, remains unchanged, and is only uttered in more close connexion with the preceding nomen regens. In consequence of this connexion, the tone hastens on to the second (the genitive) of the two nouns,* and the first is therefore commonly shortened, by changes partly in the consonants, but chiefly in the vowels (when changeable), e. g. דָּבָר אֱלֹהִים word of God, literally word-God (where we reverse the order, as God's-word, like fruit-tree); יָד יַד הַמֶּלֶךְ hand of the king; דְּבָרִים הָעָם words of the people. Thus in Hebrew,† the noun which stands before a genitive suffers the change (when there is any) by which this relation is indicated, and in grammatical language it is said to be in the construct state, while a noun which is not thus followed by a genitive is said to be in the absolute state.

* See Gesenii Thesaurus Ling. Hebraea, p. 629.

† On some traces of obsolete case-endings, see § 90.

Such words are often connected by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1). The insertion or omission of it, however, does not affect their relation to each other, and depends merely upon the accentuation. On the further use of the construct state, see the Syntax, §§ 114, 116.

2. The vowel-changes which many nouns exhibit in the construct state are taught in the Paradigms, §§ 92—95. This form of the noun has, moreover, peculiar terminations better fitted for union with the following noun. Thus:

- a) In place of the plural and dual terminations אִים and אֵים, it has, by throwing off the m, simply יִ (comp. Rem.); e. g. סוּסִים horses, סוּסֵי פְרָעָה horses of Pharaoh; עֵינַיִם eyes, עֵינֵי הָאִישׁ eyes of the man.
- b) The feminine-ending תִּ is used, and it always takes the place of the usual termination הָ, as מַלְכָּה queen, מַלְכַּת שֶׁבַע queen of Sheba. When the same word has also the termination תִּ, this form of it is adopted in the constr. st. (§ 80, 1, Rem. 1).
- c) Nouns in הָ from verbs לָה (§ 85, V.) form their constr. st. in הִ;‡ but nouns in יִ change this termination to יִ. Exs. רֹאֶה, constr. רֹאֵה seer; חַי, constr. חַיִּי life, and so also גַּיְא, constr. גַּיְאֵי valley.

On the ending וֹ and יִ in the constr. st., see § 90.

Rem. Probably the ם at the end of a word was pronounced obscurely, like the Latin -m before a vowel, and hence might be wholly lost in pronunciation, just as the m, in the case alluded to, was slurred over in the language of common life and in poetry. (Quinct. Inst. Orat. IX. 4, § 10.) So also the corresponding n of the plural-ending in Arabic and Aramæan is slurred over, and that of the plural-ending ם in the verb (§ 44, 1, and § 47, Rem. 4). After the rejection of the m, the final vowel i of the plural-ending was strengthened by a foregoing a (Guna, in Sanskrit grammar), so that ai arose, which was then contracted to i (§ 7, 1, and § 9, 6). Instead of יִ, the Syriac still has יְ: in Hebrew, too, this form may be clearly traced in the suffixes to the plural noun (§ 91, 2). Of this the Old Testament, perhaps, furnishes an example in the form יְיָתְ הַיְיִפִּי Is. xx. 4 (according to some, also Judges v. 15). It is obvious that the יְ of the dual has come from יְ.

* In accordance with the universal tendency of the tone, in the Hebrew language, to hasten towards the end of words (§ 29, 1).

† What is here said of the Heb. mode of expressing the relation of the genitive, is applicable in almost every particular also to the Celtic. In Welsh, for instance, they express word of God by gair Duw, i. e. word-God, without any change in either noun. The close connexion in utterance is all that indicates the genitive case.—Tr.

‡ This הִ stands in the same relation to the broader vowel sound הָ, as that in the Imp. הִ does to הָ of the Fut. הִ, see § 75, Rem. 1.

SECT. 90.

TRACES OF ANCIENT CASE-ENDINGS (PARAGOGIC LETTERS).

הַ local, יְ and ׃ appended to the construct state.

1. As the Arabic distinguishes three cases by terminations, so we find also in the Hebrew noun three endings, which correspond in sound to those of the Arabic, but have mostly lost their signification. These endings remain only as obscure traces of a fuller and more vital organic development than the language exhibits in the Old Testament, where it no longer ordinarily distinguishes the cases by terminations.

The Arabic case-endings are: -u for the nominative, -i for the genitive, and -a for the accusative (corresponding to the three principal vowels). In modern Arabic, these endings have almost entirely disappeared; and when they are now and then used, as by the Beduins, it is done without regularity, so that one is used for the other (Wallin, in Zeitschr. d. morgenl. Gesellsch. Vol. V., 1851, p. 9). Already, in the inscriptions upon Sinai, the regular use is not adhered to (Beer, Studia Asiatica, III., 1840, p. xviii; Tuch, in Zeitschr. d. morgenl. Ges. Vol. III., p. 139); and even at present may be heard among the Arabs of the peninsula of Sinai, e. g. ammuk (thine uncle, nom.) used also for ammik (gen.) and ammak (acc.). The Æthiopic, likewise, has preserved only the a-, which is, however, still used for the whole range of the accusative, and, moreover (the distinction of case being dropped), as a termination of the constr. st. for connecting it with a following genitive.

2. The accusative relation is still very obvious in the toneless-ending הַ, which is appended to the substantive—

a) Most generally to denote direction towards an object or motion to a place,* (answering to our -ward), e. g. יָמָה towards the sea, westward, צָפוֹנָה towards the north, northward, אֲשׁוּרָה to Assyria, בָּבְלָה to Babylon, אֲרֶצָה to the earth, בְּיָתָה into the house; עֲזָתָה to Gaza (from עֶזָה) Jud. xvi. 1; with the article, הַהָרָה to the mountain, הַבְּיָתָה into the house; הַהֲאֹהֶלָה into the tent; after the plural, בְּשֵׁרִימָה to the Chaldeans, הַשָּׁמַיְמָה towards the heavens; even after the constr. state with a following genitive, בְּיָתָה יוֹסֵף into Joseph's house, מִדְּבָרָה דָּמְשֵׁק towards the wilderness of Damascus, מוֹרָה שָׁמֶשׁ (here with the tone, contrary to rule) towards the rising of the sun, eastward.

* See on this force of the accusative, § 118, 1.

- b) Sometimes in a weaker sense, as merely pointing to the place where,* as בְּבָבֶלָה in Babylon Jer. xxix. 15, וּבֵלָה in the dwelling Hab. iii. 11, also שָׁמָּה there Jer. xviii. 2 (usually thither).
- c) The proper sense of the ending הַ־ is still more suppressed when a preposition is prefixed to the word, as לְשֵׁאלָהּ to ladies Ps. ix. 18, לְמַעְלָהּ upwards, בְּנִגְבָּהּ in the south Jos. xv. 21, מִבְּבֶלְהָ from Babylon Jer. xxvii. 16, עַד אֶפְקָהּ unto Aphek Jos. xiii. 4.

This termination הַ־ has usually reference to place (hence called He local); yet it also, in rare cases, refers to time; so, עַתָּה (with the tone on the last syllable) now, at this time (from עַת), מִיָּמִים יָמִימָה from year to year. Its use is peculiar in הַלְיָלָהּ, prop. ad profanum! = absit! As accusative of the object (but bordering on the local sense) we may regard וּבְלוֹן אֶרְצָהּ and נִפְתָּלִי אֶרְצָהּ Is. viii. 23; comp. Job xxxiv. 13.

As this ending is properly unaccented, the vowels of the word, as the above examples show, undergo scarcely any change, except that the helping vowel of segholate forms becomes Sheva (§ 93, 6), and also the Chireq in מִיָּמִים. Moreover, the הַ־ itself is in some cases shortened to הַ־, as נֹבָה to Nob, 1 Sam. xxi. 2; comp. Eze. xxv. 13.

3. Much less frequent, and almost exclusively poetical, is the use of the two other endings, which along with the accusative in הַ־ are presumed to correspond to the Arabic terminations of case, יַ־ for the genitive, וַ־ (also וַ־ in proper names) for the nominative. Yet the reference to case in these forms is quite lost, and they are to be regarded only as archaisms, which occur in poetry or in stately speech, and are besides found in many compound names handed down from early times. As in these names, so also elsewhere, these terminations stand only with a noun closely connected with another, viz., in the constr. statu.†

- a) The ending יַ־ is not very unfrequent, and it usually has the tone, e. g. עֲזָבִי הַצֹּאן forsaking the flock Zech. xi. 17, שֹׁכֵנִי סֵנָה dweller of the bush Deut. xxxiii. 16; appended to the feminine, לִילָהּ גְּנֻבָתִי stolen at night Gen. xxxi. 39 (in prose), מְלֵצְדֵק מְלֵצְדֵק מְלֵצְדֵק full of justice Is. i. 21, עַל דְּבַרְתִּי מִלְכֵי־צָדֵק after the manner of Melchizedek, Ps. cx. 4; very often when a preposition follows (comp. § 116, 1), as אֶבְרִי רַבְתִּי בְּגוֹיִם mistress among the nations Lam. i. 1.

* So likewise at times the accusative, § 118, 1.

† In ancient combinations of words, endings are often retained which have disappeared elsewhere, or are but seldom employed; e. g. the feminine-ending תַ־ with the noun in the genitive connexion (§ 89, 2. b) and with the verb in connexion with suffixes (§ 59, 1). In like manner, many peculiarities of the language are retained in proper names, and also by the poets.

לִּבְנֵי binding to the vine Gen. xlix. 11; comp. Is. xxii. 16; Micah vii. 14; Ps. cxiii. 5—9, and other passages: in like manner it is found with many particles which are strictly nouns in the constr. st., as זולתי (= זולת) besides, מני (= מן) from, בלתי not, and in compound names, as מלכי־צדק (i. e. king of righteousness), גבריאל (man of God), הניאל (grace of God), and many others; comp. the Punic name Hannibal, i. e. הניבעל (favour of Baal).

- b) The ending ך is of much rarer occurrence, in prose only in the Pentateuch, and that in solemn style, Gen. i. 24, היתו ארץ the beasts of the earth for הית ארץ; the same is copied in Ps. l. 10; lxxix. 2; civ. 11, 20; Zeph. ii. 14; Is. lvi. 9; other cases are בנו בער son of Beor Num. xxiv. 3, 15, and מעינו מים fountain of water Ps. cxiv. 8, perhaps also נפש עצל soul of the sluggard Prov. xiii. 4.

The effect these endings have on the vowels may be seen from the examples given. The Pathach of the feminine ending ת becomes sometimes vocal Sh'va, sometimes Qamets.

Rem. As these two terminations ך and ך have wholly lost their significance, they can no longer pass for proper case-endings: yet it is probable that once they as well as ה (No. 2) were so used in the living language; for we find that the ancient Arabic had exactly corresponding endings, and like the Hebrew (see above) lost them at a later period. This is the case also in other tongues. In Latin, for instance, we find a trace of the local case with the same ending as in Sanskrit (in names of towns, ruri, domi, etc.); in modern Persian the plural-endings âv and hâ are ancient terminations of case, which are no longer so used,—not to mention the Germanic languages and the lingua Romana. Even in cases where the ancient Arabic attached, with stronger sound, case-endings to the stem, as in אבי, אב, אבא (constr. st. of אב father), the modern uses all three forms without distinction of case. Hence also probably in the Hebrew constr. state אבי, אבי, אבי, we have properly a genitive-ending, and in Chald. אבי, in Heb. אבי, אבי, אבי, a nominative-ending, so that אבי אבי could more readily occur along with אבי אבי, and אבי אבי.

SECT. 91.

THE NOUN WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

In connecting the noun with pronominal suffixes, which in this case denote the genitive of the pronoun (§ 33, 2, b), we have, as in the verb (§ 57, etc.), two things to notice, viz., the form of the suffixes themselves and the change in the noun that receives them. Here we take up chiefly the first, as the second will be treated of under the inflexion of nouns in § 92. A general view of the suffixes is given also in Paradigm A. We exhibit the suffixes, first, as appended to the singular, and then as appended to the plural and dual of the noun.

1. The suffixes appended to the singular are the following:—

Singular.		Plural.
1. com. יָ	my.	1. com. נוּ, נוֹ
2. { m. יָ, יָיָ, in pause יָיָיָ	} thy.	2. { m. כֶּם, כֶּמְ
} f. יָ, יָיָ		} your.
3. { m. הוּ, וּ, הוּיָ, וּיָ, הַ	his.	3. { m. הֶם, עַםְ, poet. עוֹ
} f. הָ, הָיָ, הָיָיָ	her.	} their.

Rem. 1. There is less variety of forms here than when they are attached to the verb, and their use is as follows:—

- a) The forms without a union-vowel are joined to nouns which end with a vowel, as אֲבִירָה, אֲבִירָהּ and אֲבִירָהּ, אֲבִירָהּ, אֲבִירָהּ, אֲבִירָהּ, אֲבִירָהּ, אֲבִירָהּ. Yet it must be distinctly understood, that nouns ending in הָ (see below, in No. 4) and הָ (see letter b) do not come under this rule.
- b) The forms with a union-vowel (§ 58, 3, b) are joined to nouns ending with a consonant, which include the great mass. The union-vowel is usually a in the 3rd sing. וּ, הַ (contracted from הוּיָ), fem. הָיָ, and 3rd plur. עַםְ, עוֹ, וְ and in these cases e is rarely used (e. g. אֶלֶּהּ his light Job xxv. 3,) and almost exclusively with nouns in הָ, where the termination either blends with the union-vowel, or is displaced by it, as הַשָּׂדֶה his field, הַשָּׂדֶהּ her field, הַצֵּלָה her look; but יָיָ, יָיָיָ, are the customary forms, while יָיָ, יָיָיָ are of rare occurrence; see Rem. 2.

2. Rare forms are—

Sing. 2nd pers. m. כַּףְּ in כַּףְּךָ thy hand, Ps. cxxxix. 5; fem. יָיָ Eze. v. 12, כַּףְּיָ Ps. ciii. 4, once כַּףְּ Nah. ii. 14 (several MSS. כַּףְּיָ, prob. הָיָ = יָיָ).—3rd pers. הַ, e. g. in the frequent אֶלֶּהּ Gen. ix. 21; xii. 8; xiii. 3; xxxv. 21; קֶצֶה 2 Kings xix. 23, for which we find קֶצֶהּ in Is. xxxvii. 24, סוּתָהּ Gen. xlix. 11 (Keri סוּתָהּ).

Plur. 1st pers. נוּ, as קָיָנוּ Job xxii. 20, and so in Ruth iii. 2, Is. xlvi. 10.—2nd pers. קָיָךְ Eze. xxiii. 48, 49.—3rd pers. m. עַםְ 2 Sam. xxiii. 6 for עַםְיָ (from which by contraction the usual form עַםְ). Fem. הָיָיָ 1 Kings vii. 37, הָיָיָ Gen. xli. 21, הָיָיָ Ruth i. 19, else mostly in pause; also יָיָ is unfrequent (Is. iii. 17), usually יָיָ.

2. In appending the suffixes to the plural masc. in עַםְ and the dual in עַםְיָ, these endings are changed for the construct-ending (§ 89, 2) in יָיָ, which becomes blended with the suffixes; and hence we have these

Suffixes of Plural (and Dual) Nouns:

Singular.		Plural.
1. com. יָ	my.	1. com. יָנוּ
2. { m. יָיָיָ	} thy.	2. { m. עַםְיָ
} f. יָיָיָ		} your.
3. { m. יָיָיָ, poet. הוּיָיָ	his.	3. { m. עַםְיָיָ, poet. עוֹיָיָ
} f. הָיָיָיָ	her.	} their.

In most of these forms the ending of the plural construct, יָיָ, remains unchanged, as סוּסֵי אָדָם, סוּסֵי אֶבְיָוֹן, סוּסֵי אֶבְיָוֹן; in some it takes Seghol in place of Tsere, as סוֹפְיָה, סוֹפְיָה; in three forms, with very short suffixes, it takes Pathach (the original ending יַ, § 89, Rem.), as סוֹפְיָה from סוֹפְיָה, סוֹפְיָה from סוֹפְיָה (comp. § 28, 4), סוֹפְיָה from sūsāi-i.

Rem. 1. The Yodh, which distinguishes these suffixes, is occasionally omitted in most of the persons: e. g. דְּרָכֶיךָ for דְּרָכֶיךָ thy ways Ex. xxxiii. 13, רֵעֵיהוּ for רֵעֵיהוּ his friends Job xlii. 10, לְמִינֵהֶם after their kinds Gen. i. 21. This happens most commonly with the suff. 3rd pers. m. sing., where we very often find יַ, which is, however, almost invariably changed in the Keri to יֶ; e. g. חֲצָיו his arrows Ps. lviii. 8, Keri חֲצָיו.

2. Unusual forms are: sing. 2nd pers. fem. יֶ—Eccles. x. 17, יֶ—Ps. ciii. 3—5; 3rd pers. masc. יֶ (quite a Chaldee form) Ps. cxvi. 12; 3rd fem. יֶ—Eze. xli. 15.—Plur. fem. יֶ—Eze. xiii. 20, 2nd pers. masc. יֶ—Eze. xl. 16, fem. יֶ—Eze. i. 11.

3. On יֶ, see further in § 103, 2, in the Note.

3. It is clear and beyond doubt that the Yodh in these suffixes, in reality, belongs to the ending of the constr. st. of the masculine plural. Yet this was so far lost sight of by those who spoke the language, that there arose the strange peculiarity (in a sense, inaccuracy) of appending these suffix-forms (already embracing the plural-ending יַ) to the feminine plural in וַת, as סוֹפְיָה, סוֹפְיָה, סוֹפְיָה, where in reality a double indication of the plural occurs.*

N.B. This is the rule; yet the bare suffix (as in No. 1) is sometimes appended to the ending וַת, as יֶ—Ps. cxxxii. 12, יֶ—Deut. xxviii. 59. This is even the more prevalent mode in the 3rd plur.; e. g. אֲבוֹתָם their fathers, oftener than אֲבוֹתָם; so also שְׂמוֹתָם their names, דוֹרוֹתָם their generations.

4. We now subjoin, in illustration of the preceding statements, a Paradigm of the masculine and feminine; and choose for the purpose a word whose stem-vowel is unchangeable. Instead of the feminine-ending הַ in the singular, the construct-ending תַ is employed, which retains its Pathach before כֶּ, כֵּ, but changes it to Qamets before the others, because it then comes to stand in an open syllable (§ 89, 2, b).

* See a case analogous in § 87, 5, Rem. 1. Comp. the double feminine-ending in § 80, Rem. 2, f.

SECT. 92.

VOWEL CHANGES IN THE NOUN.

1. The vowel changes of nouns (to which is commonly given the name declension), are caused, a) by a noun following in the genitive, b) by pronominal suffixes, c) by the plural and dual terminations; to which is added, again, the effect of a genitive following, or suffix.

2. The tone, in all these cases, is moved forward more or less, or even thrown upon the following word. We here distinguish three cases, viz.—

a) When the tone is moved forward only one place. This effect is produced by most of the suffixes for singular nouns (יָ; ךְּ, ךֿ; וּ, הוּ; הָ, הָ; נוּ; ם; ם, נוּ), and by the plural and dual terminations, as דְּבַר word, דְּבָרַי my word, plur. דְּבָרִים; כַּנָּף, dual כַּנְּפַיִם wings; אֹיֵב enemy, plur. אֹיֵבִים. The same applies to the light suffixes for plural nouns,* as יָ; ךְּ, ךֿ; וּ, הוּ; הָ, הָ; נוּ; ם; ם, נוּ, e. g. דְּבָרַי, דְּבָרֵינוּ.

b) When the tone is moved forward two places, as in the plural construct, and when the grave suffixes are appended to the plural (יְכֶם, יְהֶם). In this case both vowels, if mutable, are shortened to the utmost, e. g. דְּבָרֵי הָעָם words of the people; דְּבָרֵיכֶם your words; דְּבָרֵיהֶם their words.

In Segholates, as they have the tone on the penultima, there is here a difference. The suffix has not so great effect as the (heavier) plural-ending יְכֶם, יְהֶם: the former leaves the chief vowel still under the first letter, as מְלָכֵי; but in the latter vocal Sh<sup>va</sup> is substituted for it, but a Qamets is put under the second consonant, as מְלָכִים. Comp. § 93, 6.

c) When the suffix is preceded by a semi-syllable with vocal Sh<sup>va</sup>, which is the case with ךְּ, כֶם, כֶן, also הֶם, הֶן, הֵן (for which we have more commonly ם, ן). Of these the first is a light suffix, and regularly affects the vowels in just the same manner as יָ, וּ, e. g. דְּמָךְ, דְּבָרְךָ, זְקָנְךָ. The others are grave suffixes, and have more effect in shortening the vowels, as דְּבָרְכֶם, Eze. xiii. 17, etc., as is shown in the Paradigms. A similar effect is seen in the construct state of the singular number, as הַצֵּר הַיְבִית; דְּבַר אֱלֹהִים (from הַצֵּר).

3. The vowel changes in fem. nouns (§ 95) are not so considerable, the addition of the feminine-ending having already occasioned a shortening of the vowels (§ 94.)

Most of the vowel changes, which form this internal inflexion of the noun, are based on the principles laid down in §§ 23—29. There are others, however, which are occasioned by the peculiar structure of certain forms of nouns exhibited in §§ 84, 85, 86. They are nearly all confined to the last two syllables of the word, the third syllable from the end seldom having a mutable vowel (§ 27 at commencement).

There is a striking difference between the vowel changes in the verb and the noun. In the verb the second of two changeable vowels mostly disappears (קָטַל, קָטְלָה, קָטְלוּ), in the noun the first (דְּבַר, דְּבָרִים), comp. § 27, 3.

Changes of consonants are very few, and occur only in Paradigm IX.

SECT. 93.

PARADIGMS OF MASCULINE NOUNS.

Masculine nouns may be most conveniently arranged, with reference to their vowel changes, in nine classes, as in the Tables on the two following pages. See the necessary explanations in the pages which immediately follow these Tables. We here only remark in general,—

a) That all feminines without a distinctive termination (§ 107, 1. 3) are inflected like masculine nouns, except that in most cases they take the plural ending וֹת; e. g. הָרֶבֶד sword. Plur. absol. הַרְבּוֹת, construct state הַרְבּוֹת, which is also the form before all the suffixes; see § 95.

b) That, in the plural, light suffixes are without exception attached to the absolute, and grave suffixes to the construct state, as may be seen from the Paradigm.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. To Paradigm I. belong all nouns whose vowels are immutable. Of course there are no vowel changes in this Paradigm, and it is inserted only for comparison with the others.

pers. plural, whether joined to the singular, as הָיָה, הָיוּ, הָיוּ, הָיוּ, but not הָיוּ, הָיוּ, or to the plural, as הָיוּ, הָיוּ, הָיוּ, but not הָיוּ. The other suffixes are called light.

Exs. עֵיר, קוֹל, לְבוּשׁ, זְרוּעַ, (§ 25, 1); קָם for קָאם, יָר for יָר, (§ 25, 2); צַדִּיק, הַנּוֹן, מִיִּשְׁתֵּית, מְבוֹר, (§ 25, 3); פְּרִיִּט for פְּרִיאִט (§ 25, 4). Here belong the classes of verbal nouns given in § 84, Nos. 6, 7, 8, 13, 26, 27.

2. To Parad. II. belong nouns which have a changeable Qamets in their final syllable, and are either monosyllabic or have the preceding vowels immutable; e. g. יָד hand, כּוֹכַב star, מְדִבְרָה wilderness.

With the suffix קָם we have the regular shortening, as in עוֹלָמְקָם, but יָד becomes יֶדְקָם (for יֶדְקָם), and דָּם becomes דֶּמְקָם; see § 27, Rem. 2, 3.

There are some nouns which resemble, in form, the above examples, but which have an unchangeable Qamets in their final syllable; and hence they do not belong to this class, e. g. forms like כְּטָל, קָטַל, (§ 84, Nos. 6, 13), קָם as Part. of verbs עָל, etc. Derivatives from verbs לָא also commonly retain their Qamets, e. g. מִקְרָא, plur. constr. מִקְרָאִי.

3. Parad. III. embraces those nouns which have an immutable vowel in the final syllable, and a mutable Qamets or Tseré in the penultima as a pretonic vowel (§ 26, 3). Exs. גְּדוֹל great, אֲרוֹן lord, עֲצוּם strong, אֱמוּן (plur. אֱמוּנִים) faithfulness, רָעֲבוֹן hunger, זִכְרוֹן remembrance. The last two take in the constr. st. the forms רָעֲבוֹן and זִכְרוֹן.

Here also are to be distinguished nouns which resemble the above forms, but which have an immutable Qamets before the tone-syllable. Exs. עֲרִיין for עָרִיין, הֲרִיין for הָרִיין (see verbal nouns, § 84, No. 7); also נְשָׁאִישׁ, plur. נְשָׁאִישִׁים, Ex. xiv. 7. Many fluctuate, as נְשָׁבוּעַ week; see Lexicon.

4. Parad. IV. embraces nouns of two syllables with Qamets changeable in both. For the changes in these vowels, see § 92, 2. Nouns of this form are very numerous. The influence of a guttural, especially on the form of the plur. constr., is seen in the second of the two examples given in the Paradigm. Other examples are: זָהָב gold, זָנָב tail; with a guttural, אֲשָׁם guilt, רָעֵב hunger.

In like manner are declined nouns of the less frequent form, קָטַל, e. g. לֵבָב heart, שִׁכָּר strong drink; with a guttural, שִׁעָר hair, עֵנָב grape.

A few nouns of this class take a segholate form in the constr. st. singular; e. g. גִּבֹּר, constr. st. גִּבְרָה Deut. xxxi. 16; צָלַע, constr. st. צָלְעָה also צָלַע 2 Sam. xvi. 13; שִׁעָר, constr. st. שִׁיעָרָה and שִׁיעָר; once followed by Makkeph, לִבָּן (for לְבוֹן) from לָבָן white Gen. xlix. 12; הָדָר, constr. st. הִדְרָה and הִדְרָה Dan. xi. 20; עֵשָׂו, constr. st. עֵשָׂוָה and עֵשָׂוָה Ex. xix. 18 (comp. גִּבֹּר and גִּבְרָה § 84, Nos. 10 and 11). Qamets is immutable in both syllables of הָרִישׁ for הִרְאִישׁ, and פְּרִיִּט for פְּרִיאִט, § 84, No. 6.

5. Parad. V. is properly a mere variation of the preceding one. The final Tseré is treated like final Qamets in Parad. IV. except that in the constr. st. זִקְוֹן stands for זִקְוֹן. Some nouns, however, take the segholate form (No. VI.) in the constr. st.; e. g. כְּתָף shoulder, constr. st. כְּתָפָה for כְּתָפָה; גִּדֵּר wall, constr. st. גִּדְרָה for גִּדְרָה; יָרֵךְ thigh, constr. st. יָרֵךְ for יָרֵךְ. In a few cases both forms occur, as כְּבֵד heavy, constr. st. כְּבֵדָה Ex. iv. 10 and כְּבֵדָה Is. i. 4; עֵרְלָה uncircumcised, constr. st. עֵרְלָה and עֵרְלָה.

Rare exceptions are forms like  $\text{שָׁבַע}$  Ps. xxxv. 14, where Maqqeph follows. Examples of the first sort are:  $\text{יָדָר}$ ,  $\text{יָצָו}$ ,  $\text{קָצַר}$ ,  $\text{יָצַבַע}$ , constr. st.  $\text{יָצַבַע}$ .

Some nouns of this form retain their Tseré in constr. st. plural; e. g.  $\text{יָשָׁן}$  plur. constr.  $\text{יָשָׁנִי}$ ; so also  $\text{אֲבָלִי}$ ,  $\text{יָצַחִי}$ ,  $\text{יָצַחִי}$ ,  $\text{יָצַחִי}$ ,  $\text{יָצַחִי}$ .

6. To Parad. VI. belongs the large class of nouns denominated Segholate forms (§ 84, No. 11). Before suffixes, and in the constr. st. of the plural and dual, they resume their original monosyllabic form and primary vowel ( $\bar{a}$ ,  $\bar{i}$ ,  $\bar{o}$ ) under the first radical, as  $\text{מְלָכִי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . But the plur. absol. takes an  $\bar{a}$  (in an open syllable, hence Qamets) immediately before the accented termination, while only a vocal Sh'va remains in the proper place of the stem-vowel (i. e. after the first radical), as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , plur.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . Comp. § 92, 2.

These forms may be arranged in three classes, the first having A, the second I, the third O, in the first syllable. The Paradigm exhibits, under a, b, c, derivatives of the regular verb; under d, e, f, forms which have a guttural in the final syllable; under g, h, derivatives from verbs  $\text{עָו}$  and  $\text{עָו}$ ; and under i, a derivative from a verb  $\text{לָה}$ . Comp. § 85, IV. No. 11, V. No. 11.

REMARKS.

1. The form  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (for  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , § 27, Rem. 2, e) exhibits the original A, not only before suffixes, as in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , but also in pause (§ 29, 4), e. g.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , and before He local (§ 91, 1), as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . In the Septuagint, also, the proper names like  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  are uniformly written with A in the first syllable, 'Αβελ, 'Ιαφέθ. The word  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , with the article, is invariably written  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; derivatives from verbs  $\text{עָו}$  also take Qamets for their first vowel, as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . The original monosyllabic form is seen in the word  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  a valley. Many of these Segholates keep the Seghol also in pause, e. g.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; also  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; but generally A appears, as in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , especially in connexion with gutturals.

There are, however, nouns of this form which take i instead of a, either because the a is shortened (§ 27, Rem. 3), or because they pass over to the form  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; e. g.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (in pause,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ),  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , pl. constr.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ;  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ;  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ;  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ;  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (by way of exception without Dagesh lene in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , hence to be read big'di, differing from  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ );  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . At times both forms occur, as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  Hos. i. 2, and  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  Is. lvii. 4.

Nouns of the form  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , when their third stem-letter is a guttural, are pointed like  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; when the second stem-letter is a guttural, like  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (see Parad. d), seldom like  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , without the influence of the guttural. It is to be observed, moreover, that in the hard combination (viz., when the second radical has quiescent Sh'va, and when the third radical in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  would take Dagesh lene, as in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ) simple Sh'va may be retained here also, as in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ; on the contrary, the forms corresponding to  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  are always pointed as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ .

2. The form  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (b, e), when its first letter is a guttural, takes Seghol in the plur. constr. and before suffixes in the singular; e. g.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . The monosyllabic form appears in  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . With He local Tseré is retained, as  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , from  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ . Examples of this form are:  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ .

3. The form  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  (e) sometimes, though not often, takes Qibbuts in the cases mentioned in the preceding number; e. g.  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ ,  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$  Ps. cl. 2. From  $\text{מְלָכֵי}$ , though without a guttural, we have in

Hos. xiii. 14 קַמֶּטֶךָ similar to פְּעֻלְכֶם pööl'khem. From פֶּעַל (letter f) comes with suff. also פְּעֻלוֹ for פְּעֻלוֹ (not from פֶּעַל) Is. i. 31, and so also הַאֲרוֹר Is. lii. 14 for הַאֲרוֹר 1 Sam. xxviii. 14, where the Qamets-chatuph supported by Methegh is lengthened to a long vowel; comp. § 63, Rem. 4.

In the plural absolute, only few nouns have the form with Chateph-qamets under the first radical as it is given in the Paradigm; e. g. הַדְּרָשִׁים, עֲרֻחוֹת, עֲרָרִים; most take simple She'va, as בְּקָרִים from בְּקָרָה, רְמָחִים from רֵמַח, hence רְמִיחֵיהֶם with Qamets-chatuph, but also סְבָבִי from סָבַב; two have Qamets-chatuph, as קְרִישִׁי (kô-dhâ-shîm) hence also with light suff. קְרִישִׁי, קְרִישִׁי (but also אֶת־קְרִישִׁי and with the art. regularly הַקְּרִישִׁים with Chatuph-qamets), and שְׂרִישִׁים (shô-râ-shîm), with light suff. שְׂרִישִׁי, שְׂרִישִׁי, from שְׂרִישׁ (see § 9, Rem. 2). The word אֶהְלֵא has, by a Syriacism, אֶהְלֵים for אֶהְלֵים with light suff. אֶהְלֵי, אֶהְלֵי, אֶהְלֵי (see § 23, 4, Rem. 2); but with a prefix and the article it is pointed as אֶהְלֵים, in the constr. st., and with grave suffixes אֶהְלֵים, אֶהְלֵים. With He local the Cholem is retained, as הָאֶהְלֵה.

4. According to the same analogy, are inflected the kindred monosyllabic forms which have the r vowel between their last two stem-letters (§ 84, No. 10); as שְׂבָבִי, with suff. Inf. קָמַל, קָמַל; קָמַל; שְׂבָבִי, שְׂבָבִי (thus the Inf. usually without Dag. lene in third radical, not like מְלָכִי).

5. Only derivatives from verbs עָו and עֵי change their form (by contracting the diphthongal au and ay to ó and é, § 24, 2, b) in the constr. st., as מְוֹתָ prop. maurth, contracted מְוֹתָ. Before He local this contraction does not take place; e. g. מְוֹתָה, מְוֹתָה (except in constr. st., as בְּיַתְחָ יוֹבָה). On the contrary, the middle radical becomes sometimes a consonant in the plur. absol., as הַתְּשִׁים from תִּישׁ, עֲנִינֹת from עָוָן. This is the case even with such in which this radical has already become a vowel by contraction in the general form; e. g. שְׂוֹר, plur. שְׂוֹרִים, דְּוֹר, plur. דְּוֹרִים, שְׂוֹק, plur. שְׂוֹקִים.

6. Of Segholates from verbs לָה there are also properly three classes, distinguished by the A, E, and O sounds (§ 84, V. 11); e. g. אָרִי, לָהִי, לָהִי; in pause, אָרִי, אָרִי, אָרִי; with suffixes, אָרִי, אָרִי, אָרִי; in the plur. and dual, אָרִים, אָרִים, אָרִים. In the plur., some nouns take א instead of י on account of the preceding Qamets (§ 24, 2, c); as צָבִי, plur. צָבָאִים, צָהִי, plur. צָהָאִים.

7. To Parad. VII. (which approximates itself to Parad. II.) belong nouns which have mutable Tsere in their final syllable, and are either monosyllabic, and have their preceding vowels immutable. It accordingly embraces all participles in Kal (of the form קָמַל, not קָמַל), and those in Piel and Hithpa'el, the form קָמַל (§ 84, No. 9), and several others, e. g. מְקַלְּךָ staff, מוֹעֵד season, צְפַרְדֵּי frog, etc.

The following deviations from the Paradigm are to be noted: a) Several nouns take Patach in the constr. st. (as in Parad. V.); e. g. מְסַפֵּר, constr. st. מְסַפֵּר; especially with gutturals, as מְזַבְּחֵה, constr. st. מְזַבְּחֵה. b) Before the suffixes which begin with a consonant occur such forms as מְהַלְּכֶם, מְהַלְּכֶם from מוֹפֵחַ, or מְפַסְּדֶם from מְפַסְּדֶם, or as מְשַׁלְּחֶה. c) In words of one syllable. Tsere is retained in the plur. absol., as the Paradigm shows; it is also retained in several words which are not monosyllabic, as מְשַׁלְּחִים, מְשַׁלְּחִים.

8. Parad. VIII. embraces all nouns which double their final stem-letter when they receive any accession at the end. This doubling may be either the result of a contraction within the stem, or more of a euphonic character. The vowel preceding the doubling is then short; and the syllable sharpened (according to § 27, 1). If the word is of more than one syllable, the vowel of the penultima conforms to the principles which regulate the vowel changes; e. g. גְּמָלִי, גְּמָלִים; camel, plur. גְּמָלִים;

איִפּן wheel, plur. אִיפּוֹנִים; גַּלְגַּל wheel, plur. גַּלְגָּלִים. Nouns of almost every form are found among those which are inflected according to this Paradigm. Whether a noun belongs here cannot, therefore, be known from its form, though its etymology will generally decide.

Etymology refers to this Paradigm the following classes of nouns; viz., a) All derivatives of verbs עָ" (§ 85, II.), as דָּל, חָן, חָק, מָנוּ, etc., and primitives which follow the same analogy, as אָם, הָר, אָ"ט. b) Contracted forms, like אָף (for אָפֶף, § 19, 2), with suff. אָפוּ, בָּת (for בָּתָּת), with suff. בָּתִי, עָת (for עָתָת), plur. עָתִים or עָתוֹת. c) Denominatives, especially patronymic and gentilic forms in יָ, as אֲיִים, יְהוּדִים, though the forms יְהוּדִים, נְכָרִים are at least equally common. d) Derivatives of the regular verb (§ 84) under the following forms: 10. אָמַן; 14. מַחְשֵׁף, מַחְמֵד; 15. אֲתָנָן, גַּבְנָן, plur. גַּבְנִים; 21. אָדָם; 36. בְּרָמֵל, with suff. בְּרָמָלוּ, חָרָטָם, plur. חָרָטִים. But there are also words of all these five forms which do not take Dagghesh in the plural, and those which are here adduced are to be regarded rather as exceptions to the prevailing usage. They are pointed out in the Lexicon.

Before suffixes having vocal Sheva as union-vowel (like אָתָּם, אָתָּךְ), the Dagghesh may be omitted; the same vowel is generally retained, however, except that in words of the form חָק it is more commonly Qamets-chatuph.

Pathach before the doubled letter is either retained, as רַב, plur. רַבִּים; or is shortened into Chireq, as פָּתִי, פָּת.

9. Parad. IX. embraces derivatives from verbs לָהּ (§ 85, V.) which terminate in הָ; as יָפָה beautiful, רָאָה seer, מְרָאָה appearance. Only the changes which affect the final syllable הָ (which is treated as in verbs לָהּ) are peculiar to this Paradigm, the vowel of the first syllable being treated according to the general rules.

The original termination יָ for which הָ is substituted (§ 24, 2, and § 75, 1, Rem.) is often restored, and affects the inflexion of the word. Thus, with suff. מְכַסֵּיךָ (sing., thy covering, which might also be expressed by מְכַסְּךָ) Is. xiv. 11, מְכַסֵּיךָ thy cattle Is. xxx. 23, מְכַסֵּיךָ thy form Cant. ii. 14, מְכַסֵּיךָ, Dan. i. 15, Gen. xli. 21, מְכַסֵּיךָ his deed 1 Sam. xix. 4, מְכַסֵּיךָ my cattle Ex. xvii. 3, and so perhaps also עֹשֵׂי my maker Job xxxv. 10. But forms also occur in which (as the Parad. shows) the הָ falls away, as מְכַסֵּיךָ Gen. xxx. 29, מְכַסֵּיךָ Gen. xxxi. 18. In the plural מְכַסֵּיךָ (from מְכַסֵּיךָ for מְכַסֵּיךָ Part. Pual), Is. xxv. 6.

VOWEL CHANGES IN THE FORMATION OF FEMININE NOUNS.

1. The termination הָ (§ 80, 2) appended to a masculine noun, affects the tone of the word, and consequently its vowels, in the same manner as the light suffixes beginning with a vowel (see § 92, 2, a). The following are examples of the formation of feminines in the several Paradigms:—

Parad. I. סוּס horse, fem. סוּסָה. II. מוֹצֵא fem. מוֹצֵאָה outgoing. III. גְּדוֹל great, fem. גְּדוֹלָה. IV. נָקָם fem. נָקָמָה vengeance. V. זָקֵן old, fem. זָקֵנָה. VI. מְלֵךְ, fem. מַלְכָּה queen; סֹתֵר, fem. סֹתֵרָה covert; עֵדוֹן, fem. עֵדוֹנָה delight; אֲכָל, fem. אֲכָלָה food; נָעוּר, fem. נָעוּרָה young woman; צִיד, fem. צִידָה game; לוֹי (not in use), לוֹיָה garland. VII. קָטַל, fem. קָטַלָּה. VIII. רַב, fem. רַבָּה much; חָק, fem. חָקָה law; מִדָּ, fem. מִדָּה measure. IX. קָצָה, fem. קָצָה end.

2. The vowel in the penultima is affected in the same manner when the feminine-ending ת־ָ is employed,* e. g. עֵטְרָה and עֵטְרֶת crown; חֵבֵר companion, fem. חֵבֶרֶת. The final vowel is also affected in several ways, so that the termination of the word is formed after the analogy of the Segholates:

- a) Qamets and Pathach are both changed to Seghol, e. g. הוֹתֵם seal, fem. הוֹתֶמֶת.
- b) Tsere in some words is retained, in others is changed to Seghol, e. g. חֵמֵשׁ, fem. חֵמֶשֶׁת five; גָּרַר, fem. גָּרַרֶת wall.
- c) Vowels which are long and immutable (וֹ, וּ, וִ) pass over into the corresponding mutable, e. g. בּוֹשׁ, fem. בּוֹשֶׁת shame; אֲשֵׁמּוּר, fem. אֲשֵׁמּוּרֶת night-watch (also אֲשֵׁמּוּרָה); גְּבִירָה, fem. גְּבִירֶת (also גְּבִירָה), from גְּבִיר.

Hence there are three segholate forms for feminine nouns, ת־ָ (for ת־ָ or ת־ֶ), ת־ֶ, and ת־ֶ, corresponding exactly to the forms of masculine nouns in Parad. VI. The same correspondence appears also in their inflexion in the singular. The termination ת־ָ (when the word ends with a guttural) always changes the preceding vowel to Pathach, e. g. מוֹרַע, fem. מוֹרַעֶת acquaintance; רֵעַ, fem. רֵעֶת knowledge; נַח, (not in use), fem. נַחֶת rest.

Rem. 1. A rare form, ת־ֶ for ת־ָ, has already been noticed in § 74, Rem. 3. Another form, after the manner of the Arabic, viz., יִלְדָּת for יִלְדֶת, occurs in Gen. xvi. 11; Judges xiii. 5. 7 (like מִלְדָּ = מִלְדֶ). Since this form, in all the three places where it occurs, stands in connexion with the 2nd pers. sing. fem. Preterite, it may perhaps be owing to a wish to copy after that Preterite form; for, in connexion with the 3rd pers., we find the regular form יִלְדֶת, Gen. xvii. 19; Is. vii. 14.

2. When masculines of Parad. VIII. receive the termination ת־ָ, they necessarily omit the doubling of their final stem-letter; hence חֲמִישָׁה and חֲמִישָׁה; אֲדַמְדָּם, plur. אֲדַמְדָּמָה, fem. אֲדַמְדָּמָה. So דָּל and דָּלָה from דָּלָל, רָפָה and רָפָה.

PARADIGMS OF FEMININE NOUNS.

The inflexion [or declension] of these nouns is more simple than that of masculines (§ 92, 5), the addition of the feminine-ending having already occasioned as much shortening of the vowels as can be admitted; e. g. from Parad. III. גְּדֹלָה; VII. קַטְלָה; VIII. מְדָה, מְדָה, מְדָה. All these feminine forms belong to the single Parad. A. In the plural, no distinction is made between the light and the grave suffixes, the former, as well as the latter, being appended to the construct state.

* This is contrary to the general rule (§ 27, 3), since the tone is not thrown forward. But as ת־ָ is merely a secondary form (§ 80, 2) derived from the original accented termination ת־ָ, it is not strange that they should similarly affect the pointing of words to which they are appended.

These nouns have only three modes of inflexion, Parad. A (inserted merely for the sake of comparison) having no vowel changes. A general view of these inflexions is presented in the subjoined Table, which is followed by the necessary explanations.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. To Parad. B belong those feminines which have a changeable Qamets or Tsere before the feminine-ending ה־; e. g. קִצָּה end, עֲצָה counsel, צִדְקָה righteousness, תּוֹעֵבָה abomination. It accordingly embraces the feminine forms from the masculine nouns belonging to Parad. II., IV., V., and several belonging to Parad. IX.

For the formation of the new syllable in words having Sh'va (§ 26, 4) before their mutable Qamets or Tsere (which falls away by inflexion as in the Parad. צִדְקָה), see § 28, 1. Compare נִבְלָה corpse, נִבְלָתוֹ, נִבְלָתָה; עֵגְלָה a vain, עֵגְלָתִי.

Many nouns of this form, however, take in the construct state, and before suffixes, the co-existing form in ת־ֶּ or ת־ֶּ (§ 89, 2, b, § 94, 2); e. g. מַמְלָכָה kingdom, constr. st. מַמְלֻכַת, with suff. מַמְלֻכָתִי; תְּפָאֶרֶת ornament, תְּפָאֶרֶת; מִשְׁפָּחָה family, מִשְׁפָּחָתִי, מִשְׁפָּחַת.

Qamets is firm in all nouns like בְּקִיָּה, אֲזִכָּרָה (§ 84, Nos. 25, 28), constr. st. בְּקִיָּתִי, אֲזִכָּרָתִי. Tsere is also firm in most verbals of the form אֲזַכֵּרָה, אֲזַכֵּרָה (§ 84, No. 13); but in others it is shortened, as in שְׂאֵלָה (§ 84, No. 2). The character of the vowel, in each case, is given in the Lexicon.

2. To Parad. C belong feminines derived from the segholate forms (Parad. VI.). These two Paradigms are also analogous in their inflexion, the plural absolute in both taking Qamets under the second consonant of the original form; e. g. מְלָךְ, מְלָכִים; מְלָכָה, מְלָכוֹת; כְּבִשָּׂה, כְּבִשׂוֹת lambs.

Care must be taken not to confound with nouns of this class those feminines of the same form which are not derived from Segholates, particularly the derivatives from verbs ה־ of the form מְצִינָה, מְרָאָה, whose masculine form is מְצִינָה, מְרָאָה. The first syllable of these nouns is immutable.

3. To Parad. D belong segholate nouns formed by the addition of the feminine-ending ת־ֶּ (§ 94, 2). These correspond, in the inflexion of the singular, to masculine Segholates (§ 93, Parad. VI.). To the examples in the Paradigm may be added, מִסְפָּרֶת enclosure, אֲגָרֶת letter, מִשְׁפָּרֶת wages.

Of the form מְפָרֶת, which is not frequent in this class of nouns, אִשָּׁת woman, with suff. אִשָּׁתִי, is an example. The same inflexion, however, is exhibited by some words ending in ת־ֶּ, viz., those in which this termination takes the place of ת־ֶּ; e. g. לָרֶת (for לָרֶת), with suff. לָרֶתִי; in like manner, שְׂבָתִי (from the masc. שָׁבַת).—כִּינֹרֶת takes with suffixes the form כִּינֹרֶתִי.

Many nouns of this class borrow their plural from the co-existing form in ה־ֶּ, ה־ֶּ (Parad. B); as כּוֹתֶרֶת capital of a column, plur. כּוֹתָרוֹת; מַהְרָשֶׁת ploughshare, plur. מַהְרָשׁוֹת; תּוֹכַחַת correction, plur. תּוֹכָחוֹת; עֲשֶׂתֶרֶת Astarte, plur. עֲשֶׂתָרוֹת.

LIST OF THE IRREGULAR NOUNS.

1. There are several anomalous inflexions of the noun, chiefly in respect to some particular words only, or a few analogous among themselves, which may be best exhibited in an alphabetical list of the words in which they are found. They require the more attention, because, as in all languages, the words which they affect are those in most common use.

2. Most of these irregularities of inflexion consist in the derivation of the construct state, or of the plural, not from the absolute state of the singular, but from another wholly different form; precisely similar to what we have seen in the inflexion of the irregular verb (§ 78). Comp. γυνή, γυναικός; ὕδωρ, ὕδατος.

אָב (as if for אָבָה, from אָבָה*) father; constr. st. אָבִי, with suff. אָבִי (my father), אָבִיךָ, אָבִיו, אָבֵיכֶם, אָבֵינוּ, plur. אָבוֹת (§ 87, 4).

אָח brother, constr. st. אָחִי, with suff. אָחִיךָ, אָחֵיכֶם, אָחֵינוּ, plur. constr. אָחֵיכֶם, אָחֵינוּ. All these forms follow the analogy of verbs לָה, as if אָח stood for אָחָה from אָחָה. But the plur. absol. is אָחִים with Dag. f. implicitum (§ 22, 1), as if from אָחָה; hence אָחִיךָ, אָחֵיךָ, אָחֵינוּ, etc. On the form אָחִי (which is invariably used instead of אָחִי), see § 27, Rem. 2, b.

אָחָד one (for אָחָד, with Dag. f. implicitum, see § 22, 1, and comp. § 27, Rem. 2, b), constr. st. אָחָד, fem. אָחָת for אָחָת una (see § 19, 2), in pause אָחָת. In one instance, Eze. xxxiii. 30, it takes the form אָחָד (by aphæresis, § 19, 3), as in Aramæan. Plur. אָחָדִים some.

אָחָת sister (contr. for אָחָת, as if from a mase. אָחָת = אָחָת), plur. אָחָתִים, with suff. אָחָתֵיךָ (from a sing. אָחָת fem. from אָחָת), also אָחָתֵיךָ (as if from a sing. אָחָת).

אִישׁ a man, a softened form of אִישׁ, אִישׁ (§ 19, 5, Rem.); in the plur. it has very seldom אִישִׁים, the usual form being אִישִׁים (from אִישׁ), constr. st. אִישִׁי. Comp. אִישָׁה.

אָמָה maid-servant, plur. (with ה as a consonant) אָמָהוֹת, אָמָהוֹת. Comp. in Aram. אָבָהֵן fathers.

אִשָּׁה roman (for אִשָּׁה, fem. from אִשָּׁה, see אִישׁ), constr. st. אִשָּׁתִי (fem. from אִישׁ, for אִשָּׁתִי); with suff. אִשָּׁתֵךְ, אִשָּׁתֵנוּ, plur. נָשִׁים, abbreviated from אִשָּׁתִים, constr. st. נָשִׁי.

* As these nouns, though primitives, follow the analogy of verbals (§ 82, 2), it is necessary, in order to understand their inflexions, that we should know to which class of irregular verbs they respectively conform.

בַּיִת house (probably a softened form from בֵּית (בֵּיתָה), § 19, 5, Rem., from בָּנָה to build, like δῶμος from δέμω), constr. st. בֵּית, plur. בָּתִּים bōt-tīm, perhaps for בְּתָתִים from another sing. בַּת for בְּתָת (like בַּת for בְּתָת).

בֵּן son (for בְּנָה, from בָּנָה), constr. st. בֶּן, seldom בְּנֵי (§ 90, 3, a) Gen. xlix. 11, and בָּנוּ (§ 90, 3, b) Num. xxiv. 3, 15 With suff. בְּנֵי, בְּנָה; plur. בָּנִים (as if from בָּן, for בְּנָה), constr. st. בְּנֵי.

בַּת daughter (for בְּתָת, fem. from בֵּן, comp. § 19, 2), with suff. בָּתִּי (for בְּתָתִי); plur. בָּנוֹת (like בָּנִים sons, from the sing. בְּנָה), constr. st. בְּנוֹת.

חָם father-in-law, with suff. חָמִיד, and חָמוֹת mother-in-law, compare אָח brother, אָחוֹת sister.

יוֹם day, dual יוֹמִים, but plur. יָמִים, יָמֵי (as if from יָם for יָמָה).

כֵּל vessel, plur. כֵּלִים (as if from כֵּל, כֵּלָה).

מַיִם plur. water (comp. § 88, 1, Rem. 2), constr. st. מַי and also doubled מַיִמַי with suff. מַיִמֵּכֶם.

עִיר city, plur. עָרִים, עָרֵי (from עָר, which is still found in proper names).

פֶּה mouth (for פְּאָה, from פָּאָה to breathe), constr. st. פִּי (for פְּאִי), with suff. פִּי my mouth, פִּיךְ, פִּיו.

רֹאשׁ head (for רֹאשִׁ); plur. רֹאשִׁים (for רֹאשִׁים, § 23, 2).

NUMERALS. I. CARDINAL NUMBERS.

1. The cardinal numbers* from 2 to 10 are, in Hebrew, substantives with abstract meaning, like triad, decal, πεντάς, though they are also used adverbially

* That the Hebrew numerals, from 1 to 10, are words of very high antiquity may be inferred from their essential coincidence in all the Shemitic tongues. Moreover, a principal ground for maintaining the historical affinity between these languages and the Indo-Germanic, is the fact that in both families the numerals from 1 to 7 appear at first sight to be very similar. With שֵׁשֶׁת (prop. שֵׁשְׁתִּי as the Arab. and Æth. show) is compared the Sanscrit shash [Celtic se, also chwech], ancient Persian csuas, Gr. ἕξ, Lat. sex, ancient Slavic shestj; with שִׁבְעָה Sansk. saptan, ancient Per. haptan, modern Per. haft, Gr. ἑπτα, Lat. septem [Celtic seacht, also saith], our seven; with שְׁלֹשָׁה (Aram. תַּלְתָּה), Sansk. tri, fem. tisri, ancient Per. thri, fem. tisari [Celt. tri], Gr. τρεις, Lat. tres; with אַרְבָּעָה, Sansk. cha [perhaps also Welch ychydig, i. e. few]; with חָמִישׁ, Sansk. pantshau, Gr. πέντε [= Æolic πέμπε, Welsh pump], Lat. quinque [Gaelic cuig]; with אֶרְבַּעַת, Lat. quatu or [Celtic ceathar, also pedwer]; with שֵׁנַיִם (Aram. תַּרְבִּין), Sansk. dva, Lat. duo [Celt. dau, do], etc. But a close analysis makes these apparent coincidences again doubtful (but not in the judgment of Gesenius, Ewald, etc.), because there is a great probability, on the other side, that at least the numerals שֵׁנַיִם (prop. folds), חָמִישׁ (prop. the five fingers) and עֶשְׂרִים (prop. combination, multitude) are to be traced back to the pure Shemitic stems שָׁנָה to bend, to fold, to change, to repeat, חָמִישׁ to contract (comp. קָמַן, קָפַן) and עֶשְׂרִים to bind together (comp. אָסַר, קָשַׁר, etc.)

(§ 120). Only אֶחָד one (unus), fem. אַחַת (una, see § 96), is construed as an adjective. Of the remaining numbers, each has different forms for the two genders, but usage employs the feminine form in connexion with masculine nouns, and vice versa.

It is only in the dual form for two, שְׁנַיִם, fem. שְׁתַּיִם, that the gender of the numeral agrees with that of the object numbered.

The numerals from 1 to 10:—

	Masculine.		Feminine.
	Absol.	Constr.	Absol.	Constr.
1.	אֶחָד	אֶחָד	אַחַת	אַחַת
2.	שְׁנַיִם	שְׁנַיִם	שְׁתַּיִם*	שְׁתַּיִם
3.	שְׁלֹשָׁה	שְׁלֹשָׁה	שְׁלוֹשׁ	שְׁלוֹשׁ
4.	אַרְבָּעָה	אַרְבַּעַת	אַרְבַּע	אַרְבַּע
5.	חֲמִשָּׁה	חֲמִשָּׁה	חֲמִשׁ	חֲמִשׁ
6.	שֵׁשׁ	שֵׁשׁ	שֵׁשׁ	שֵׁשׁ
7.	שִׁבְעָה	שִׁבְעַת	שִׁבְעַ	שִׁבְעַ
8.	שְׁמֹנֶה	שְׁמֹנֶה	שְׁמֹנֶה	שְׁמֹנֶה
9.	תְּשַׁע	תְּשַׁעַת	תְּשַׁע	תְּשַׁע
10.	עֶשְׂרֵה	עֶשְׂרֵה	עֶשְׂרֵה	עֶשְׂרֵה

The other Shemitic languages exhibit the same peculiarity in respect to the genders. For the explanation of this phenomenon the following observations may perhaps suffice. These numerals, being originally abstract substantives, like decas, trias, had both the masculine and feminine form. The feminine was the chief form, and hence became connected with words of the predominant masculine gender; and the other form without the feminine-ending was used with words of the feminine gender.† Usage made this a settled law in all the Shemitic languages. The exceptions are very rare; e. g. שְׁלֹשֵׁת גְּזִיִּים, Gen. vii. 13 (where the use of the feminine termination is manifestly occasioned by the masculine form of the word גְּזִיִּים), Eze. vii. 2; Job i. 3; Jer. xxxvi. 23.

2. The numbers from 11 to 19 are expressed by adding to the units the numeral ten (in the form עֶשְׂרֵה masc., עֶשְׂרֵה fem.) written as separate words and without a conjunction. In such as are of the feminine gender (masculine in form), the units are in the construct state, which in this case indicates merely a close connexion, not the relation of the genitive (§ 116). These numerals have no construct state, and are always construed adverbially.

* Shortened from שְׁנַיִם (according to others, it is for אֶשְׁתַּיִם with Aleph prosthetic, § 19, 4), hence the Daghesh lene in the Tav.

† In the vulgar dialects of the Arabic, and in the Æthiopic, the feminine form of the numerals is used almost exclusively. This form appears in Hebrew also in the abstract use of the numerals (Gen. iv. 15). It may be added, that the feminine form is very frequently used for expressing the idea of plurality, as in collectives; see § 107, 3, d.

In the first two of these numerals there are some deviations from analogy: the third shows the manner in which the rest are formed.

	Masc.	Fem.
11.	{ אָחַד עֶשְׂרִי * עֶשְׂרִי עֶשְׂתִּי	אַחַת עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂתֵּי
12.	{ שְׁנַיִם עֶשְׂרִי עֶשְׂרִי עֶשְׂרִי	שְׁנַיִם עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה
13.	{ עֶשְׂרִי עֶשְׂרִי עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה	עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה

Unusual forms are עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה fifteen, Judges viii. 10; עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה eighteen, Judges xx. 25. Here the masculine too has the units in the constr. state.

3. The tens from 30 to 90 are expressed by the plural forms of the corresponding units (so that the plural here always denotes ten times the singular); as שְׁלֹשִׁים 30, אַרְבָּעִים 40, חֲמִשִּׁים 50, שֵׁשִׁים 60, שִׁבְעִים 70, שְׁמֹנִים 80, תִּשְׁעִים 90. Twenty is an exception, and is expressed by עֶשְׂרִים, plur. of עֶשְׂרֵה ten.† They are of common gender, and have no construct state. When units and tens are written together, the earlier writers commonly place the units first (e. g. two and twenty, as in Arabic); but in the later writers the order is almost invariably reversed (twenty and two, as in Syriac). Exs. Num. iii. 39; xxvi. 14; 1 Chron. xii. 28; xviii. 5. The conjunction is always used.

The remaining numerals are as follows:—

100	מֵאָה fem. constr. מֵאָת, plur. מֵאוֹת hundreds.
200	מֵאֹתַיִם dual (for מֵאֹתַיִם).
300	שְׁלֹשׁ מֵאוֹת, 400 אַרְבַּע מֵאוֹת, etc.
1000	אֶלֶף, constr. אֶלְפֵי, plur. אֶלְפִים thousands.
2000	אֶלְפַיִם dual.
3000	שְׁלֹשָׁת אֶלְפִים, 4000 אַרְבַּעַת אֶלְפִים, etc.

* The etymology of this word is obscure. R. Jona explains it by עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה to twelve, as if close to twelve, an expression like underiginti, but yet not so passable here. Besides, this explanation would properly apply only to the fem., whereas the masc. also has עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂתִּי, where we should expect עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה for עֶשְׂרֵה עֶשְׂרֵה, or else must assume an inaccuracy. Others explain thus: something thought of in addition to ten, from עֶשְׂרֵה to think.

† The plural forms עֶשְׂרִים, שִׁבְעִים, תִּשְׁעִים, from the Segholates עֶשְׂרֵה, שִׁבְעֵה, תִּשְׁעֵה, take in the absolute state the shortened form, which, in other words of this class, appears first in the construct state. Analogy requires עֶשְׂרִים, שִׁבְעִים, תִּשְׁעִים.

20000		רְבוּתַיִם dual .
30000		רַבָּאוֹת שְׁלֹשׁ, 400000 אַרְבַּע רַבָּאוֹת, etc.

Rem. 1. The dual form occurs in some of the units, with the effect of the English fold: as אַרְבַּעַתַּיִם fourfold, 2 Sam. xii. 6; שִׁבְעַתַּיִם sevenfold, Gen. iv. 15, 24; Ps. lxxix. 12. The plural אֶחָדִים [comp. Welsh yehydig] means some, some few, and also the same (iiden); עֶשְׂרֹת decads (not decem), Ex. xviii. 21, 25.

2. The suffixes to numerals are, as with nouns, prop. genitives, though we translate them as nominatives, as שְׁלֹשָׁתְּכֶם you three, prop. your triad.

SECT. 98.

NUMERALS. II. ORDINAL NUMBERS.

The ordinal numbers from 2 to 10 are expressed by the corresponding cardinals with the termination ׀ ( § 86, No. 5), besides which another ׀ is also sometimes inserted in the final syllable. They are as follows: שְׁנַיִ, שְׁלִישִׁי, רְבִיעִי, חֲמִישִׁי, and חֲמִישִׁי, שֵׁשִׁי, שְׁבִיעִי, שְׁמִינִי, חֲשִׁיעִי, עֲשָׂרִי, עֲשָׂרִי. The ordinal first is expressed by ראשון for ראשִׁי, from ראש head, beginning, with the termination ׀ ( § 86, No. 4). The feminine forms have the termination ׀, rarely ׀, and are employed also for the expression of numerical parts, as חֲמִישִׁית fifth part, עֲשָׂרִית and עֲשָׂרִיָּה tenth part. The same meaning is found also in forms like חֲמִישׁ fifth part, רְבַע and רְבַעָּה fourth part.

For the manner of expressing other relations of number, for which the Hebrew has no appropriate forms, see Syntax, § 120.

THE PARTICLES.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. THE particles, in general, serve to modify the thought expressed by another word or words, and to exhibit more nearly the relations of words, or of sentences, to each other. They are for the most part borrowed or derived ( § 30, 4) from nouns, a few from pronouns and verbs. The number of really primitive particles is very small.

2. The origin of those that are not primitive is twofold; 1) they are borrowed from other parts of speech; i. e. certain forms of the verb, noun, or pronoun, are employed as particles, retaining more or less of their original signification, like the Lat. verum, causa, and the Eng. except, away; 2) they are derived from other parts of speech, either a) by the addition of formative syllables, like  $\text{דַּי}$  by day, from  $\text{דַּי}$  (§ 100, 3), or most commonly b) by abbreviation occasioned by frequent use. This abbreviation is effected in various ways; and many of the forms resulting from it are so obscure in respect to their origin that they have generally been regarded as primitives; e. g.  $\text{כִּי}$  only (prop. certainly, certe) for  $\text{כִּי־כֵן}$ .

Compare in German, gen from gegen, Gegend; seit from Seite; weil (orig. a particle of time) from Weile=our while; in English, since (old Eng. sithence), till, contr. from to while.

Such words suffer still greater changes in the Greek and Latin languages, and in those derived from the Latin; e. g.  $\text{ἀπό}$ , ab, a;  $\text{ἐξ}$ , ex, e; ad, Fr. à; aut, Fr. ou, Ital. o; super, Ital. su.\*

In some instances the particle has been so much abbreviated, that it has lost its character as an independent word, and has been reduced to a single letter prefixed to the following word, as is the case with the preformatives of the Future (§ 47, 1, 2); e. g. the prefix  $\text{ל}$  from  $\text{לֵךְ}$  (§ 102).

That this reduction of a whole word to a single letter has actually taken place, and is to be regarded as a part of the process in the formation of the language, is evident from the fact, that in the subsequent stages of this process, as exhibited in the later Hebrew, the Aramaean, and all the Shemitic dialects, such abbreviations become more and more striking and frequent. Thus, for  $\text{לֵךְ}$ , so early as the period of the later Biblical Hebrew,  $\text{ל}$  and even  $\text{ל}$  had come into use, and in Rabbinic authors the full form  $\text{לֵךְ}$  very seldom occurs; the  $\text{ל}$  of the Biblical Chaldee at a later period became  $\text{ל}$ ; in modern Arabic we have hallaq (now) from hālwaqt, l'sh (why?) from li-ayyi-she'in, and many more. This view derives confirmation from the analogy of the Western languages. Yet the use of the simplest particles belongs to the earliest epochs of the Hebrew language, or at least to the earliest documents in our possession.

It is not strange that the derivation of these particles, which often differ widely from the original form, should sometimes be obscure. This is the case, however, with only few of them; and it is but just to infer, that even in these some change has been effected analogous to that which may be readily traced in others.

3. Particles are also formed, but less frequently, by composition; as  $\text{כִּי־כֵן}$

* Even short phrases are contracted into one word, e. g. German zwar from es ist wahr (il est vrai). Lat. forsitan from fors sit an, Fr. peut-être. In the Chinese, most of the particles are verbs or nouns; e. g. ü, to give, employed as a sign of the dative; i, to make use of, hence for; nëi, the interior, hence in.

wherefore? for מַה־דָּרוֹעַ how taught? i. e. qua ratione ductus? comp. τί μαθών; בְּלִעְרֵי besides, from בַּל and עָרִי; מִלְמַעְלָה from above, from מִן, ל, מַעְלָה.

More frequent is the combination of two words without contraction; as אִם כִּי, אַף כִּי, אֲחֵרֵי כֵן, כִּי עַל כֵּן.

SECT. 100.

A D V E R B S.

1. Primitive adverbs are those of negation לֹא not = οὐ, οὐκ, אַל = μή, אֵין there [is] not, and some few others of place and time, as שָׁם there, אָז then.

These adverbs may at least, for grammatical purposes, be regarded as primitive, even if it be possible to trace them to other roots, particularly pronominal roots.

2. Examples of other parts of speech, which, without any change of form, are used adverbially, are—

- a) Substantives with prepositions; e. g. בְּמֵאֹד (with might), very, greatly; לְבָד alone (prop. in separateness), with suff. לְבַדִּי I alone (prop. in my separateness); כִּבְיָת within; כְּאַחַד (as one), together.
- b) Substantives in the accusative (the casus adverbialis of the Shemites, § 118), comp. τὴν ἀρχήν, as מְאֹד (might), very, greatly; אֲנָפִים (cessation), no more; הַיּוֹם (this day), to-day; יְהוּד (union), together. Many of these substantives very seldom exhibit their original signification as nouns, e. g. סָבִיב (circuit), around; others have wholly lost it, as כְּבָר (length), long ago; עוֹר (repetition), again, farther, longer.
- c) Adjectives, especially in the feminine (which answers to the neuter), as כֵּן recte, ita (prop. rectum), רִאשׁוֹנָה (primum) at first, formerly, רַבָּה and רַבַּת much, enough, נִפְלְאוֹת wonderfully (prop. mirabilibus, sc. modis), שְׁנִית the second time, יְהוּדִית Jewish, i. e. in the Jewish language.
- d) Verbs in the Infinitive absolute, especially in Hiiphil, which are also to be regarded as accusatives (§ 130, 2); e. g. הַרְבֵּה (prop. doing much), much.
- e) Pronouns, as זֶה (prop. this = at this place), here.

See a list of the adverbs most in use, with their meanings, in § 149.

3. Other adverbs are formed by the addition of the formative syllable ׀ (more seldom ׀-) to substantives, as אֲמִנָּם and אֲמִנָּם truly, from אֱמִן truth; הַנָּם (for thanks), gratis, in vain, from הָן; יוֹמָם by day, from יוֹם; פְּתָאם for פְּתָעַם in a twinkling, from פְּתָע twinkling.

The termination ׀, ׀-, occurs also in the formation of substantives like הָן, הָן (§ 84, No. 15); e. g. פְּרִיִּים and פְּרִיִּין ransom, λύτρον, סֵלָם ladder (from סָלַל). Such forms might therefore be regarded as denominative nouns used adverbially. But the םֿ is more probably nothing else than the obsolete plural-ending of the noun (mentioned in § 87, 1, d), and these adverbs are properly nouns in the accusative plural, hence אֲזַנְּם like כִּי־יִשְׁרִים as adv. in Ps. lviii. 2, הֶזְּם, like Lat. gratis, i. e. gratius.

4. Adverbs formed by the abbreviation or mutilation of longer words; such, for example, as אֶךְ only (prop. an affirmative particle, certainly, from אֶכֶן, Chald. הַכִּין, הַכִּי), and especially the interrogative הֵ, e. g. הֲלֹא nonne? הֲגַם num etiam? which originated in the fuller form הֵל Deut. xxxii. 6.

This הֵ is pointed, 1) generally with Chateph-pathach, as הֲיִשְׁמַתְּ hast thou set? (see the examples in § 153, 2); 2) usually with Pathach and Daghesh forte (like the article) before a letter that has Sheva, as הֲלָבֵן Gen. xvii. 17, xviii. 21, xxxvii. 32, once without this condition, viz., הֲיִשָּׁב in Lev. x. 19; 3) with Pathach (and Daghesh f. implicitum) before gutturals, as הֲאֵלֶךְ shall I go? הֲאִתָּה (art) thou? 4) with Seghol before gutturals that have Qamets, as הֲאֵנֶכִי num ego? הֲהִיְתָה was there? The place of this interrogative particle is always at the beginning of the clause.

5. Some adverbs, involving a verbal idea, admit also of pronominal suffixes, which are here used generally in the same form as with verbs, viz., with Nun epenthetic (§ 57, 4); e. g. יִשְׁנֹו he (is) present; אֵינִנִּי I (am) not; אֵינֶנִּי he (is) not; עֹדְדֵנִי he (is) still; אֵיזֹו where (is) he? The same applies to הֵן and הִנֵּה behold! (prop. here, here is), with suffixes; as הֵנִנִּי, in pause הֵנִנִּי and הֵנִנִּי behold me; הֵנֶךְ, הֵנֹו; הֵנֵנִי, in pause הֵנֵנִי and הֵנֵנִי; הֵנָם.

PREPOSITIONS.

1. Most of the words, which by usage serve as prepositions, were originally—

a) Substantives in the accusative case and in the construct state, so that the noun governed by them is to be considered as being in the genitive, which is actually indicated in Arabic by the genitive-ending: compare in German statt dessen, in Latin hujus rei causa, gratia.* Exs. אַחֲרַי (hinder part*), behind, after; אֶצְלַי (side*), close by; בֵּינַי (intermediate space, midst*), between; בֵּעַדַי, בְּעַדַי (interval of space, distantia), behind, about; זוּלַתַי (remoteness, absence), besides; עֲלֵי (purpose), on account of; מִבּוֹלַי before, over against; מִן (part), from, out of; נֶגְדַי (that which is before), before, over against; עַד (progress, duration*), during, until; עַל (upper part), upon, over; עִם (connexion, also עִמָּת, עִמָּת), with; תַּחַתַי (under part*), under, in place of.

* In these examples, the signification of the noun is put in parentheses, and marked with an asterisk when it is still in use. On a similar feature in other languages, see W. Von Humboldt uber die Kawi Sprache, Bd. III., p. 621.

b) Substantives in the construct state with prefix prepositions (spec. the inseparable); as לְפָנַי (in face of), before; כְּפִי, לְפִי (*in accordance with the mouth, i. e. the command**), according to; בְּגִלְלָהּ (in consideration), on account of, לְמַעַן (for the purpose), on account of.

2. Substantives used adverbially very readily take, in this manner, the construction of prepositions; e. g. בְּרָצוֹן, בְּרָצוֹן, בְּרָצוֹן (in the want of), without; בְּעוֹר (in the continuing of), during; בְּרִי, בְּרִי (for the sufficiency of), for, according to proportion.

PREFIX PREPOSITIONS.

1. Of the prepositions given in the preceding section, מִן is frequently written as a prefix, yet without wholly losing its Nun, which is represented by a Daghesh forte in the following letter, as מִיַּעַר from a forest.

On the ways of using מִן, the following particulars should be noticed. Generally it stands entire and apart only before the article, as מִן הָאֲרָזִים, also, in particular before feeble letters, as מִן־אֵי Jer. xlv. 18, מִן־קֵץ 1 Chron. v. 18, and elsewhere in the later books (like the usage of the Aramaean): there is besides a poetical form מִנִּי (comp. § 90, 3, a). More generally it is prefixed (as in מִיָּדָם) by means of Daghesh forte, which can be omitted only in letters that have Sh'eva (according to § 20, 3, b); before gutturals it becomes מִי (according to § 22, 1) e. g. מִיָּעַם, מִיָּאָדָם; before ה also מִי, as מִי־חַיִּים, מִי־חַוֵּט Gen. xiv. 23.

2. There are also three other prepositions, the most common in the language, which have been reduced by abbreviation (§ 99, 2) to a single prefix consonant with the slightest vowel (Sh'eva); viz.—

בְּ in, at, on, with (from בֵּית, בִּי),
 לְ towards, to (from לָאֵל),
 כְּ like, as, according to (from כֵּן).*

On the pointing of these [inseparable] prefixes we observe—

- They have strictly Sh'eva, which is, however, changed according to the remarks in § 28, 1, 2, thus, לְפָרִי to fruit, כְּאַרִּי as a lion; and before feeble letters it follows the rules in § 23, 2, and § 24, 1, a, e. g. לְאֵמֹר for לְאֵמֹר, לְיִהְיֶה.
- Before the article they usually displace the ה and take its pointing, as בְּנֵן בְּהֵן in the garden. See § 35, Rem.
- Immediately before the tone-syllable, i. e. before monosyllables and words of two syllables that have the tone on the penultima, they have also Qamets (§ 26, 3), yet not always, but only in the following cases, a) before the Infinitives which have the fore-mentioned form, as לָתַתּ for to give, לָרִיז for to judge, לָלָרֵת for to bear, except another word (the subject or object belonging to it § 133) becomes subordinate to the Inf., בְּיָצֵאת Num. viii. 19, בְּיָצֵאת Judges xi. 26; β) before many pronominal forms בְּיָהּ, לְיָהּ, בְּיָהּ, לְיָהּ, בְּאֵלֵיהֶם like these; particularly בְּכֶם, לְכֶם, בְּכֶם, לְכֶם, בְּהֶם, לְהֶם, בְּהֶם (see § 103, 2); γ) when the word is closely connected with the foregoing and not the following, e. g. לְפִהּ לְפִהּ mouth to mouth 2 Kings x. 21, בֵּין מַיִם לְמַיִם between water and water Gen. i. 6, particularly at the end of a clause; see the instructive example in Deut. xvii. 8, likewise לְעֶצְמָה to eternity, but לְעֶצְמָה לְעֶצְמָה to all eternity Is. xxxiv. 10.

* Of the derivation of לְ from לָאֵל, there is no doubt; and כְּ itself may be derived from a root meaning to approach (Heb. and Aram. לָוָה, לָוָה alhasit, Arab. ولى accessit). On the derivation of כְּ from כֵּן, Aram. also כְּ, prop. in the house, hence, in (not from כֵּן between), see Gesenius's Heb. Lexicon: כְּ (from כֵּן) signifies prop. so, doubled כְּ—כְּ as—so.

d) With the interrogative מַה they are quite closely joined by means of Pathach and Daghesh forte, as בְּמַה by what? כַּמַּה how much? לְמַה? (Milāl) for what? why? Comp. the Vav conversive of the Future (§ 49, 2). Before gutturals לְמַה is used instead of לְמַה.

Rem. The word מַה, which has not its proper original vowels (probably מַה) but those of מַה (see the Lexicon under the word), takes the prefixes also after the manner of מַה, as מַה, מַה, מַה (because it is to be read מַה, מַה, מַה).

PREPOSITIONS WITH SUFFIXES AND IN THE PLURAL FORM.

1. As all prepositions were originally nouns (§ 101), they are also united with the pronoun after the manner of the nouns, i. e. the pronoun in construction with them takes the form of the nominal suffix (§ 91, 1, 2), as אִנְיָ (prop. my side) by me, אִנְיָ (my proximity) with me, מְהִי (my place) instead of me, like mea causa, on my account.

Rem. 1. The preposition אִתְּ near, with (from אִתְּ), is distinguished from אִתְּ, the sign of the definite accusative (§ 117, 2), when suffixes are added, by the difference of pointing, the former making אִתְּ, אִתְּ, אִתְּ, אִתְּ, אִתְּ, while the latter retains its original o before most of the pronouns, as אִתְּ me, אִתְּ, אִתְּ, אִתְּ, אִתְּ him, אִתְּ her; אִתְּנוּ us, אִתְּכֶם, אִתְּכֶם, אִתְּכֶם, אִתְּכֶם you, אִתְּם, אִתְּם and אִתְּם them. Yet in later books, particularly in the books of Kings and in Jeremiah and Ezekiel, אִתְּ with is incorrectly inflected אִתְּ, אִתְּ.

2. The preposition עִם with takes Qamets (pretonic) before כֶּם and הֶם, in order that the doubling of the Mem may be distinctly heard, as עִמְכֶם, עִמְהֶם. In the first person besides עִמְנוּ we find עִמְדִּי.

3. It is but seldom that prepositions take the verbal suffixes, as מְהִי 2 Sam. xxii. 37, 40, 48 (for which we find מְהִי in Ps. xviii. 37, 40, 48), מְהִי Gen. ii. 21, and מְהִי Ps. cxxxix. 11 (here for the sake of rhyming with מְהִי). But in these cases the form of the suffix may be certainly accounted for in this way, that the idea of direction whither is implied, so מְהִי under-me-ward 2 Sam. (as above), which is somewhat different from מְהִי under me, מְהִי in its place ("he put flesh in-to its place"), מְהִי around me hither.

2. There is a tendency to obviate the extreme brevity and lightness of the forms resulting from the union of the prefix prepositions (§ 102) with the suffixes, especially with the shorter ones, by lengthening the preposition. Hence to בְּ is appended the syllable מַ, and מִן is lengthened into מִיָּן (prop. a parte, from the side of —), and for בְּ and לְ we have at least בְּ and לְ with full vowel (§ 102, 1, c).

a) לְ with pronominal suffixes:

	Sing.		Plur.
1.	לִי to me.		לָנוּ to us.
2.	{ m. לְךָ, לָכֶּה, in pause לְךָ } to thee.		{ לָכֶם, לָכֶנָּה } to you.
	{ f. לְךָ		{ לָכֶן, לָהֶם, לָהֶמָּה, poet. לָכֶמוּ* } to them.
3.	{ m. לוֹ to him.		{ לָהֶן
	{ f. לָהּ to her.

לְ takes suffixes in the same manner, except that for the 3rd pers. plur. we have both בָּהֶם and בָּם, fem. בָּהֶן, but not בָּמוּ.

b) כֹּ with pronominal suffixes:

	Sing.		Plur.
1.	כִּי־אֲנִי as I.		כִּי־אֲנוּ as we.
2.	{ m. כִּי־אַתָּה } as thou.		{ כִּי־אַתֶּם, seldom כִּי־אַתְּכֶם } as ye.
	{ f. —		{ — — —
3.	{ m. כִּי־הוּא as he.		{ כִּי־הֵם, כִּי־הֵמָּה, כִּי־הֵמָּה } as they.
	{ f. כִּי־הִיא as she.		{ — — —

c) מִן with pronominal suffixes:

	Sing.		Plur.
1.	מִמֶּנִּי, poet. מִנִּי, מִנִּי from me.		מִמֶּנּוּ from us.
2.	{ m. מִמֶּךָ, in pause מִמֶּךָ } from thee.		{ מִמֶּכֶם } from you.
	{ f. מִמֶּךָ		{ מִמֶּנָּה } from them.
3.	{ m. מִמֶּנּוּ, poet. מִנֶּהוּ, מִנֶּהוּ from him.		{ מִמֶּהֶם, poet. מִנֶּהֶם } from them.
	{ f. מִמֶּנָּה from her.		{ מִמֶּהֶן

* It has frequently been maintained, that the form לָמוּ stands also for the sing. לוֹ, for which various explanations have been given. An analogy might certainly be found in the תִּקְטָל used for תִּקְטָלָהּ (§ 47, Rem. 3). But it is, in fact, so used only with reference to collectives; see Gen. ix. 26 (in reference to Shem = the Shemites), Ps. xxviii. 8, lxxiii. 10 (in reference to the people), Is. xliv. 15 (in reference to אֵל, אֱלֹהִים, which the LXX have rendered θεός), liii. 8 (in reference to the foregoing דֹּרוֹ his generation, i. e. He and his like).

The same is true of עָלֵינוּ for עָלֵיהֶם; see Job xx. 23 (in reference to the ungodly man who, in the whole representation, vs. 5—20, is a collective, which obviously begins v. 5 with the plural (רִשְׁעִים) and xxvii. 23 (comp. at the beginning of the representation, v. 13, עֲרִיצִים). More striking is עָלֵינוּ Job xxii. 2, in reference to נֶבֶר human being). Yet this, too, is doubtless collective.

[It is proper to remark, that the use of לָמוּ for the sing. לוֹ is still maintained by Ewald in his latest work, Ausführliches Lehrbuch der Heb. Sprache, 5te., Ausgabe, 1844. The same is maintained by other eminent scholars.—Tr.]

† Not לָהֶן, which signifies therefore.

‡ The use of נִי for נִי here is simply for the sake of euphony.

The syllable מו in כְּמוֹנֵי (in Arabic כִּי = מה what, prop. according to what I, for as I) is in poetry appended to the pure prefixes כּ, כְּ, כִּ, even without suffixes, so that כְּמוֹ, כְּמוֹנֵי, כְּמוֹנֵי appear again as independent words. In this case, poetry distinguishes itself from prose by the longer forms: in the case of כִּן it has adopted the shorter ones, resembling those of the Syriac.

The preposition מִן with suff. makes מִן כִּי־מִנֵּי from him, which comes from מִן כִּי־מִנֵּיהוּ (according to § 19, 2, Rem.), and is identical in form with מִן כִּי־מִנֵּנוּ from us, which comes from מִן כִּי־מִנֵּנֵנוּ. The Palestinian grammarians wanted to distinguish the last by writing it כִּי־מִנֵּי, but Aben Esra, with justice, objected. The form מִן כִּי־מִנֵּה always stands without Mappiq, and comes from מִן כִּי־מִנֵּה.

3. Several of these prepositions, especially those which express relations of space and time, are properly plural nouns, like the Germ. wegen (for the ground of this, see § 108, 2, a).* They occur (some of them exclusively, while others have also the singular) in the plural construct state, or in connexion with those forms of the suffixes which belong to plural nouns (§ 91, 2). These are—

אַחֲרַי, more frequently אַחֲרֵי (prop. hinder parts), behind, with suff. always אַחֲרֵי behind me, אַחֲרֶיךָ behind thee, אַחֲרָיו, אַחֲרֵיכֶם, etc.

אַל, poet. also אַלֵּי (regions, directions), towards, to, with suff. always אַלֵּי to me, אַלֵּיכֶם, אַלֵּיו.

בֵּין (interval of space), between, with suff. בֵּינֵי, בֵּינֶיךָ, but also בֵּינֶיכֶם, בֵּינֶינֵנוּ, בֵּינֹתָם, בֵּינֹתָם (from בֵּינִים, בֵּינֹת, intervals).

מִן from, out of, seldom מִנֵּי (plur. constr. st.), Is. xxx. 11.

עַד (progress, duration, from עָדָה) as far as, unto, plur. עָדֵי (only poet.), but with suff. also in prose always עָדֵי, עָדֶיךָ, עָדָיו, עָדֵיכֶם (even the last with Qamets).

עַל upon, over, constr. st. of עָלָה that which is above (from עָלָה to go up). plur. עָלֵי (only poet.) but with suff. also in prose always עָלֵי, עָלֶיךָ, עָלָיו, עָלֵיכֶם, for which עָלֵימוֹ is also used in poetry.

תַּחַת under (prop. that which is beneath), with suff. in plural תַּחַתָּי, תַּחַתֶּיךָ, but also in the singular תַּחַתְּךָ.

SECT. 104.

CONJUNCTIONS.

1. Conjunctions serve to connect words and sentences, and to express their relation to each other. Most of them come originally from other parts of speech, viz.—

* Some of these words, which come from stems לָהּ, viz., אַלֵּי, עָלֵי, עָדֵי, may certainly be traced back to singular forms like אַלֵּי, עָלֵי, עָדֵי; but the analogy of the others makes it more probable that these also should be regarded as plurals. Comp. the plural forms בֵּנֵי from בָּן; רַעִי, רַעִיךָ, etc., from רָע.

- a) Pronouns, as אֲשֶׁר and כִּי that, because, for, the first being the common relative pronoun, and the last also having come from a pronominal stem (§ 36).
- b) Adverbs, as אַל (not), that not, אַם (num?), if. Also adverbs with prepositions; e. g. בְּטוֹרָם (in the not yet), before that; or with a conjunction added, as אִךְ כִּי there is added that = much more or much less.
- c) Prepositions which are fitted by the addition of the conjunctions אֲשֶׁר and כִּי to show the connexion between prepositions; e. g. עַל אֲשֶׁר because (from עַל on account of), prop. on this account, that, אַחֲרֵי אֲשֶׁר after that, כְּאֲשֶׁר according as, כִּי וְעַקְבֵּי אֲשֶׁר in consequence that, because. The preposition may still be employed in this manner, even when the conjunction is omitted; e. g. עַל (for אֲשֶׁר) because, עַל-כֵּן (for אֲשֶׁר-כֵּן) on this account that, because.

In like manner, all prepositions before the Infinitive may be rendered as conjunctions (§ 132, 2).

2. Even those words which are no longer in use except as conjunctions, seem to have belonged originally to other parts of speech, particularly nouns, and they generally betray their affinity with verbal roots, as אֶזְוָה (prop. desire, choice, from אָוָה to desire, comp. Prov. xxxi. 4) or, like vel, ve, kindred with velle; כִּן (a turning away) that not. Even the only prefix conjunction וְ and must perhaps acknowledge relationship with וַיְ a fastening, a nail.

The pointing of the conjunction וְ is in many respects analogous to that of the prefixes וָ, וֶ, וֹ (§ 102, 2), but as a feeble letter it has some peculiarities.

- a) Usually it has simple Sheva (וְ).
- b) Before words whose first consonant has simple Sh'eva (excepting the cases under c), Vav becomes the vowel ú, as וּלְבַל (see § 26, 1, Rem). It is also sounded thus (yet with the exception of the case under d) before its cognate letters, the labials ב, מ, פ; as וּיְקַבֵּל and even before a Chateph (under letters not guttural), as וְיִהְיֶה Gen. ii. 12.
- c) Before וְ the Vav takes Chireq, as in וְיִהְיֶה (for וְיִהְיֶה, according to § 24, 1, a); and before הֶ and הָ it is sometimes pointed with Chireq or Seghol, as וְהִיָּתָם Jos. viii. 4, and וְהִיָּה Gen. xx. 7 (comp. § 63, Rem. 5).
- d) Immediately before the tone-syllable, it often takes Qamets, like וְ, וֶ, וֹ, e. g. וְרַע Ps. x. 15, and with the same limitation (§ 102, 2, c), especially when words are connected in pairs, as תְּהוֹ וְבָהוֹ Gen. i. 2, וְיִלְאָה יוֹם וְיִלְאָה viii. 22, yet chiefly only at the end of a small clause, hence וְנָתַתְּ לָהֶם וְנָתַתְּ Gen. vii. 13, וְנָתַתְּ לָהֶם וְנָתַתְּ 1 Kings xxi. 10. It is otherwise when the word stands in close connection with the following, e. g. וְאֵשׁ וְאֵשׁ יִלְדֶּה קָה Ps. lxxxvii. 5; and hence especially with monosyllabic words, the nature of which is to lean upon the following, as constantly וְנָתַתְּ, וְנָתַתְּ, וְנָתַתְּ and others.

INTERJECTIONS.

1. Among the interjections are several primitive words which are merely natural sounds expressed in writing, as אָהוּהוּ, אָהוּ ah!, הוּוּי, הוּוּ wo!, הוּוּהוּ ho! aha!

2. Most of them, however, were borrowed from other parts of speech, which, by use in animated discourse, gradually acquired the character of interjections, as הִנֵּה or הִנֵּה behold! (prop. here); הִבֵּה, plur. הִבֵּי (prop. give, Imp. from יָבַב) for age, agite; לָכֵה, לָכוּ (prop. go), the same; * הִלֵּי־לָהּ far be it! prop. ad profana! בִּי (perhaps for בְּעִי entreaty) I beseech, hear me; אָנֹכִי now, I pray (in Ethiop. an Imp. well now! come), a particle of incitement and entreaty (which is put after the expression it belongs to).†

* הִבֵּה and לָכֵה stand connected, in this form, also with the feminine and with the plural, which shows that they have quite assumed the nature of interjections.

† The particle אָנֹכִי serves to express the most various turns of discourse, which are exhibited in different parts of the Syntax. A short statement must here suffice. אָנֹכִי stands, a) after the Imp. in commanding as well as in entreating (§ 130, 1, Rem.); b) after the Fut. in the first as well as in the third person (§ 127, 3, b. and § 128, 1); c) once after the Pret. (§ 126, 4, in Note); d) after various particles, as אָנֹכִי הִנֵּה behold now, particularly with conjunctions, אָנֹכִי לֵאמֹר ne (quæso) and אָנֹכִי אִם if now, εἴπωτε, if with a courteous or modest restriction. In courteous discourse these particles are very freely employed, Gen. xviii. 3; xix. 7, 8, 19; l. 17.

SYNTAX.

CHAPTER I.

SYNTAX OF THE NOUN.

SECT. 106.

RELATION OF THE SUBSTANTIVE TO THE ADJECTIVE,—OF THE ABSTRACT TO THE CONCRETE.

IN the Hebrew language, there is a want of adjectives in proportion to the substantives, and some classes of adjectives (e. g. those of material) are almost entirely wanting.* This deficiency is supplied by substantives, and especially in the following ways:—

1. The substantive employed to express some quality in another is placed after it in the genitive. This is constantly the case in designating the material, e. g. כְּלֵי כֶסֶף vessels of silver = silver vessels; אֲרוֹן עֵץ ark of wood = wooden ark, like des vases d'or; in like manner אֲרוֹת עוֹלָם an eternal possession Gen. xvii. 8, מְתֵי מִסְפָּר men of number = few men Gen. xxxiv. 30, אֶבֶן הַזֶּן a precious stone Prov. xvii. 8. This construction was employed even in cases where the language supplied an adjective, e. g. בְּגָדֵי הַקֹּדֶשׁ the holy garments, Ex. xxix. 29. Comp. un homme de bien.

Rem. 1. Less frequently the substantive which expresses a quality in another is followed by it in the genitive, as עֵצְהֶנּוּ מִבְּחַר the choice of thy valleys, i. e. thy choice valleys, Is. xxii. 7, comp. xvii. 4; xxxvii. 24; Gen. xxiii. 6; Ex. xv. 4. With the substantive כָּל totality for all; this is the usual construction (see § 111, 1, Rem.).

2. Instead of an adjective which is to stand as the predicate of a sentence, the substantive is sometimes employed; e. g. Gen. i. 2, the earth was desolation and emptiness; Job iii. 4, let this day be darkness, Ps. xxxv. 6, lxxxviii. 19, ex. 3, Is. v. 12, Job xxiii. 2, xxvi. 13. More seldom the substantive takes a preposition; as in Ps. xxix. 4, the voice of Jehovah is בְּבַחַת in power for powerful.

* A few adjectives of this kind, in the form of passive participles, are אֲרָז of cedar, נְחוּשֵׁת of brass, comp. cuneatus (wedge-like).

2. In Hebrew, many of our adjectives denoting a property, attribute, or habit, are expressed by circumlocution, viz., by an abstract noun or name of a thing, which designates the attribute, preceded by some general name of a person as the subject of the attribute. The subject is expressed by several words, viz.—

a) by אִישׁ man, e. g. אִישׁ דְּבָרִים an eloquent man, Ex. iv. 10; אִישׁ דָּעָה an intelligent man, Prov. xxiv. 5. b) by בַּעַל master, e. g. בַּעַל יִשְׁעַר hairy, 2 Kings i. 8; בַּעַל בְּתֻלָּיִת the dreamer, Gen. xxxvii. 19. c) by בֵּן son and בַּת daughter, e. g. בֶּן־טַל a valiant man, 1 Kings i. 52; בַּת־קַרְנָה an oriental, Gen. xxix. 1; בַּת־שָׁנָה one year old, Ex. xii. 5; בַּת־קָדְוָה doomed to death, 1 Sam. xx. 31; בַּת־בַּלְעֵל a worthless woman, 1 Sam. i. 16.

A bolder construction, and merely poetic, is the use of the abstract in place of the concrete, as בַּלְעֵל worthlessness for worthless, like seclus for seclerissimus; and at the same time for the plural, as קִצְיָה bow for bowmen, Is. xxi. 17. So far as this is a common characteristic of language, see § 83, Rem. 1.

Rem. That, on the contrary, forms of adjectives and concretes often take the abstract signification, especially in the feminine, has been shown in § 81; comp. § 107, 3, b.

We may here remark, also, that the poets employ certain epitheta ornantia (which are at the same time perpetua) alone without the substantive; e. g. אֱלֹהִים the Strong, i. e. God; אֲבוֹת the strong, i. e. the bullock, in Jeremiah the horse; רַחוּם the majestic, august, for the prince; לָבָן the pale, i. e. the moon. In Arabic this is even far more common. Comp. merum for vinum, ἔγρη i. e. the sea, Odys. i. 97.

USE OF THE GENDERS.

Whether the Hebrew regarded a substantive as feminine is known partly from the feminine termination appended to it (§ 80, 1, 2), partly from its construction with a feminine predicate, and in most cases, though there are many exceptions (§ 87, 4), from the use of the feminine plural form. We have now to show for what purposes the designation of gender was employed.

1. The most natural use of it was with reference to the physical distinction of sex in men and beasts, but with several gradations, according as this natural distinction is more or less strongly indicated. The principal cases are the following, viz., a) when the female is designated by an entirely different word, which, of course, requires no feminine-ending, as father, mother, in Heb. אָב, אִמָּה; אֵיל ram, אֵילָה ewe, הַמֹּר he-ass, אֲתוֹן she-ass; b) when the female is indicated by the addition of the feminine-ending, as אחָ brother, אחוֹת sister; יָלָם young man, יָלָמָה young woman; פֶּר juvencus, פָּרָה juvencua; עֵגֶל vitulus, עֵגֶלָה vitula; c) when the feminine gender is shown only by the construction (communia), like ὁ, ἡ βοῦς; ὁ, ἡ παῖς, as גַּמֶּל camel, muse, Gen. xxiv. 63, but fem. xxxii. 16; בָּקָר muse, male cattle Ex. xxi. 37, but fem. for female cattle Job i. 14; d) when, without regard to the natural distinction of the sexes, only one form is employed in the same gender to designate both, as in  $\delta \lambda\acute{\upsilon}\kappa\omicron\varsigma, \eta \chi\alpha\lambda\iota\delta\omicron\nu$  (epicœna); e. g. דֵּב שֶׁבֹּל masc. a bear robbed of her young, Hos. xiii. 8 (yet it is construed as feminine in 2 Kings ii. 24); אֵלֶּהָ masc. or, Ps. cxliv. 14, where the cow is intended.

Writers often neglect to avail themselves of the definite indications of gender given under a, b, c, where they exist in the language, and use less distinctive terms, e. g. הַמִּוֹר fem. and אֵלֶּהָ as fem. for תַּנִּי and אֵלֶּהָ, 2 Sam. xix. 27, and Ps. xlii. 2; also נַעַר a youth for נַעֲרָה, in the Pent. and in Ruth ii. 21, comp. Job i. 19. Compare in German Gemahl for Gemahlin; in Arabic, also, the more ancient language avoids the feminine forms (e. g. בעֵלְהָ mistress, עֲרוּסָה bride), which are common in later usage.

The same sparing use of the designation of sex appears also in other examples; viz., אֲדָמוֹן masc. architect, Prov. viii. 30, where wisdom חֵכְמָה fem. is meant (comp. artifex omnium natura, Plin. 2, 1); נֶפֶשׁ a dead body (masc.), spoken of the corpse of a woman, Gen. xxiii. 4, 6; אֵלֶּהָ for a goddess, 1 Kings xi. 5, like Eng. friend, teacher, and Lat. auctor, martyr.

Among epicœne nouns are found names of whole species of animals, which the mind contemplated as masculine or feminine according as they appeared strong and powerful, or weak and timid; e. g. masc. כָּלֵב dog, זֶבֶד wolf; fem. יוֹנָה dove, חֲסִידָה stork, יַעֲנָה ostrich, אֲרֵנֶבֶת hare.

2. The most regular use is made of the feminine-ending for denoting the feminine gender, in the adjectives and participles. See § 87, 5.

3. Besides objects properly feminine, there are others (nearly the same which in Greek and Latin are neuter) for which the feminine form is preferred, viz.—

a) Things without life, for which the feminine, as the weaker, seemed to be the most suitable designation, as יָדָה side (of the human body), thigh, יָרְכָה side (of the country), region; מַצְחָה brow, הַמַּצְחָה greave (from the resemblance).

b) Hence abstract ideas, which at least decidedly prefer the feminine form, even when the masculine is also in use; as נִקְמָה vengeance, עֲזָרָה help (§ 84, 11, 12). Adjectives when used abstractly or in a neuter sense (like τὸ καλόν), commonly take the fem. form, as נְכוֹנָה the right, Ps. v. 10; so also in the plur. גְּדֹלוֹת great things, Ps. xii. 4.

c) At times the feminine form is applied, when a dignity or office is designated, which borders on the abstract sense, as פְּרָעוֹת princes (like highnesses), קִהְלָה concionator, comp. סַפְרָת as a man's name in Neh. vii. 57, Ezra ii. 55. Even the feminine plural, אֲבוֹת fathers, appears to have some reference to dignity. These words are, however, agreeably to their signification construed with the masc. This use of words prevails more extensively in Arabic, Ethiopic, and Aramæan. e. g. in Caliph הַלִּיפָה. A remote likeness is found in Lat. magistratus, Ger. Herrschaft (=Eng. lordship) for Herr (=Eng. lord), Obrigkeit for Oberer, Ital. podesta, etc.

d) Collectives, as אֲרָה wanderer, traveller, אֲרָהָה caravan, prop. that which wandereth for the wanderers; נֹלָה (from masc. נֹלָה) a company of exiles; יִשְׁעֵבֶת Is. xii. 6; Mic. i. 11, 12, prop. that which inhabiteth, for the inhabitants; אֲיֵבֶת, Mic. vii. 8, 10, for the enemies. So in Arabic often. Comp. the poetic בַּת צַר for בְּנֵי צַר sons=inhabitants of Tyre, Ps. xlv. 13 בְּנֵי עַמִּי = בַּת עַמִּי my countrymen. Examples of its application to things without life. עֲצָה timber, עֲנָנִים clouds, אֲרָהָה cedar wainscot. Comp. τὸ ἵπτικόν and ἡ ἵππος for the cavalry, ἡ κάμηλος (Herodotus I., 80).

e) But on the contrary the feminine appears, as in Arabic, now and then to denote an individual of a class, when the masculine is used of the whole class, e. g. אֲנִי ships, fleet (1 Kings ix. 26, comp. 2 Chron. viii. 18), אֲנִיָּה a single ship; יַעֲנָה hair (collectively), יַעֲנָה a single hair (see Judges xx. 16); so also תְּאֵנָה a fig, נֵצְרָה a blossom (besides the collective נֵצְרֵי Gen. xl. 10), and other instances. But the difference is partly overlooked in the Hebrew usage.

4. Many words (besides certain names of objects properly feminine, No. 1, a) are distinguished by the feminine construction, without the characteristic ending. They are chiefly embraced in the following classes:—

a) Names of countries and towns, contemplated as mothers,* or nurses, of the inhabitants, e. g. אֲשׁוּר fem. Assyria, אֲדָרָם fem. Idumæa, צֵר Tyre; so also the appellative nouns which denote locality, as אֲרֶץ earth, תְּכָל the world, עִיר town, דֶּרֶךְ and אֲרָחַי way, הַעֵצָר court, מַחֲנֵה camp, שְׁאֵל under-world, גֶּרֶן threshing-floor, בְּאֵר well, etc.; at times even מְקוֹם place.†

As names of people are commonly masculine, it often happens that the same word is used as masc. for the name of a people, and as fem. for the name of a country; e. g. יְהוּדָה masc. Jews Is. iii. 8, fem. Judæa Lam. i. 3; אֲדָרָם masc. Idumæans Num. xx. 20, fem. Idumæa Jer. xlix. 17.

But such a name is also even then construed as fem., when it is intended for the people, and this from a metaphorical use (like the German Pohlen ist im Aufstande, Job i. 15; 1 Sam. xvii. 21; Is. vii. 2; xxi. 2.‡

b) Members and parts of the body in man or beast, יָד and כַּף hand, רֶגֶל foot, עֵינַי eye, אָזְנוֹ ear, זְרוֹעַ arm, לְשׁוֹן tongue, כַּנָּף wing, קַרְנֵי horn, שֵׁן tooth, בֶּטֶן womb, probably with reference to their subserviency as mere instruments,§ and hence also words for inanimate instruments and utensils, as חֶרֶב sword, יָתֵד peg, מַטֵּה and שֵׁבֶט staff, אֲרוֹן chest, כַּד pail, עֲרִישׁ bed, כּוֹס cup, also אֶבֶן stone, and many others. Most of these words and ideas have the same gender in the kindred dialects.

c) The words for light, fire, and other powers of nature, as שֶׁשׁ sun, אֵשׁ fire (Aeth. ēsāt), אֹר light (Job xxxvi. 32), and so אֶחָד and תַּנּוּר oven, נֶגֶד brightness, צִהָר window, Gen. vi. 16, also רוּחַ wind and שְׁפָט spirit, נְפֹשׁ breath and soul, etc.¶

THE PLURAL AND COLLECTIVE NOUNS.

1. Besides the proper plural-endings (§ 87, 1, 2), the language employs some other means for the expression of plurality, viz., a) certain words, whose appropriate signification is collective, designating an indefinite number of a class of objects, and having their corresponding nomina unitatis, or nouns which designate * Thus מִצָּה, 2 Sam. xx. 19, and on Phœnician coins, stands for mother-city, μητρόπολις (comp. μητήρ, mater), and by the same figure the inhabitants were called sons of the country, as sons of Zion, Ps. cxlix. 2; sons of Babylon, Eze. xxiii. 15 (comp. son of the house, son of the womb).

† As this word מְקוֹם is usually masc., we find also in the others more or less fluctuation in the gender.

‡ Here belongs the poetical personification of a people as a female, e. g. Is. xlvii. 1; liv. 1 seq.; Eze. xvi.; Lam. i.

§ Of the masc. gender in these nouns the few examples are זְרוֹעַי Is. xvii. 5, יְשׁוּבָה Eze. xxix. 27, זֶעַן Zech. iv. 10, לְשׁוֹן Ps. xxii. 16.

¶ The particulars are found in the Lexicon. Some of these words, moreover, have the feminine-ending, as נְחֹשֶׁת brass, קַוֵּי bow (from the stem-word קָוָה), עֵת time (for עֲתָה). These are only now and then construed as masculine, from a misapprehension of their origin.

an individual of the class, as טֹר an ox (an individual of the ox kind), בָּקָר oxen, e. g. הַכִּיטָה בָּקָר five oxen Ex. xxi. 37, צֹאן small cattle, viz., sheep or goats, שֶׁה an individual of the same, a sheep or a goat (comp. in Eng. twenty people); b) the feminine ending (§ 107, 3, d); c) nouns which have the proper signification of the singular, but which are also used as collectives; e. g. אָדָם man, the human race Gen. i. 26, אִיִּם collect. for men, דְּבָר words, אֹיִב the enemy for enemies. These words take the article, when all the individuals of the class are included (§ 109, 1). Comp. also § 107, 3, e.

2. On the other hand, the terminations which properly express plurality are employed in the expression of other kindred ideas, so that the Hebrew often uses plural forms where other languages employ the singular. The plural is used to denote—

a) *Extension* of space and time*; hence the frequent use of it to express portions of space, regions, or places, שָׁמַיִם heaven (§ 88, Rem. 2), קִירוֹמִים height Job xvi. 19, כַּרְגָלוֹת the place at the feet, כַּרְבָּאֵיטוֹת the place at the head; certain portions of the body, which are parts of its extension, † as פְּנֵי face, צַוְאָרִים neck; spaces of time, as חַיִּים life, נְעוּרִים youth, זָקֵנִים old age; and finally states, qualities, which are permanent, or of long continuance, as עֲוֵעִים perverseness, רַחֲמִים compassion, טִעְבוּלִים childlessness.

b) Might and power, so far as these were originally conceived of as something distributed and complex (pluralis excellentie). So particularly we find אֱלֹהִים God (whether the use of this word originated in a polytheistic view, and then passed over to the “God of gods,” or in a monotheistic view, and as such was intended to denote God’s might in its manifestations), then a few times קְדוֹשִׁים the Holy (God) Hos. xii. 1; Prov. ix. 10; xxx. 3 (comp. Jos. xxiv. 19, and Chald. עֲלִיזִין the Highest Dan. vii. 18), and תְּרַפִּים penates always in the plural, even when only one image is meant, 1 Sam. xix. 13, 16. Further אֲדֹנָיִם = אֲדֹנָי lord, e. g. אֲדֹנָיִם קָיָה a hard lord Is. xix. 4, אֲדֹנָי הָאָרֶץ the lord of the land Gen. xlii. 30; so also בַּעַל master with suff. often בַּעְלָיו his master, בַּעְלֶיהָ her master. ‡

Rem. 1. The use of the plural, according to letter b, is very limited, and does not extend beyond the above words, which are used also in the singular as well. On the construction of these plurals with adjectives, see § 112, 1, Rem. 3; with verbs, in § 146, 2. On אֲדֹנָי used of God, see § 121 Rem. 4.

2. The plurals under a are also limited in common prose to few words, but in poetry there is a more extensive use of them, e. g. חַיְתֻבִּים tenebræ (of dark places), תַּעֲנֵגִים deliciae, אֱמוּנָה faithfulness, and many others.

* By transferring an expression for numerical quantity to geometrical (comp. No. 4, Rem. 1). The language has other examples of the designation of great and many by the same word (see רַב, עָצוּם).

† Comp. the same use of the plur. in τὰ στέφανα, τὰ ῥάτια, praecordia, cervices, fauces.

‡ Somewhat like is the use of we by kings when speaking of themselves (Ezra iv. 18; vii. 24; comp. 1 Mac. x. 19; xi. 31), a mode of speaking which is then applied to God (Gen. i. 26; xi. 7; Is. vi. 8). The Jewish grammarians call such a plural רַבּוּי הַכְּבוֹדוֹת (pluralis rituum or virtutum); the moderns call it pluralis excellentiae or plur. majestaticus. The use of the plural as a form of respectful address, as modern languages have it, is somewhat different from the Hebrew usage.

3. When a substantive is followed by a genitive, and this compound idea is to be expressed in the plural, it is done, a) most naturally by the plural form in the governing noun, as גִּבְרֵי הַיָּל גִּבְרֵי הַיָּל strong heroes; so also in compounds, as בְּנֵי־יְמִינֵי Benjaminite, plur. בְּנֵי יְמִינֵי 1 Sam. xxii. 7; b) in both, as גִּבְרֵי הַיָּלִים 1 Chron. vii. 5, בָּתֵי בָתֵי קְלָאִים prison-houses, Is. xlii. 22, and hence בְּנֵי אֱלֹהִים Ps. xxix. 1, sons of Gods for sons of God; c) even only in the noun governed, as בֵּית אָבִית family, בֵּית אָבִית families Num. i. 2 foll., פְּרִי מְנָרִים precious fruits Cant. iv. 16. On this remark, which has hitherto been overlooked by grammarians, compare also Judges vii. 25 (the head of Oreb and Zeeb for the heads), 2 Kings xvii. 29, Dan. xi. 15. Here the two words, by which the compound idea is expressed, are treated as a uomen compositum.*

The connexion with suffixes is also effected according to letter e, as פִּימוֹ os eorum for ora eorum Ps. xvii. 10, יְמִינָם Ps. cxliv. 8, where we also can say their mouth, their right hand.

4. To the modes of expressing plurality belongs also the repetition of a noun, with or without the conjunction. By this is indicated the whole, all, every, as יוֹם יוֹם day by day, every day, אִישׁ אִישׁ every man, also וְאִישׁ וְאִישׁ Ps. lxxxvii. 5, יוֹם וְיוֹם Esth. iii. 4, דּוֹר וְדוֹר every generation Deut. xxxii. 7; hence distributively, as עֶדְרָה עֶדְרָה each flock by itself Gen. xxxii. 17; also a great multitude, even with the plural form, Gen. xiv. 10; בְּאֲרוֹת הַחֶמֶר בְּאֲרוֹת הַחֶמֶר asphalt-pits in abundance, nothing but asphalt-pits, 2 Kings iii. 16; Joel iv. 14; finally, diversity, more than one kind, as כָּל signifies all and every kind, e. g. וְאֶבֶן וְאֶבֶן two kinds of weights Deut. xxv. 13, לֵב וְלֵב a double heart Ps. xii. 3; 1 Chron. xii. 33.

Not here but to rhetoric belongs impassioned repetition in exclamations (e. g. Jer. xxii. 29; Is. vi. 3). With many writers this appears to have but little emphasis, and to have become a habit (e. g. Is. xl. foll).

Rem. 1. Names of substances viewed as wholes (e. g. the metals, liquids, etc.) very seldom occur except in the singular, as זָהָב gold, כֶּסֶף silver, עֵץ wood, יַיִן wine (yet מַיִם water is expressed by the plural, but in Arabic it is singular). But when the word is used to express portions of a substance, then of course the plur. is used, as כֶּסֶף כֶּסֶפִּים pieces of silver Gen. xlii. 25, comp. Is. i. 25; עֵצִים liqua, timber (for building or burning). So of grain, as הַטָּהָה wheat (growing in the field), הַטָּהָה wheat in the grain.

2. Even in cases where the plural is regarded as merely poetic, we are to connect with it the idea of real plurality, e. g. Job xvii. 1, the graves are my portion, equivalent to grave-yard, many graves being usually found together, xxi. 32; יַמִּים seas for sea Job vi. 3; comp. Gen. xli. 49.

* All the three methods occur also in Syriac and Ethiopic. See Hoffmanni Gram. Syriaca, p. 251; Ludolfi Gram. Æthiopicæ, p. 139.

SECT. 109.

USE OF THE ARTICLE.

The article (הַ, הָ, § 35) was originally a demonstrative pronoun (as in other, e. g. the Romance, languages, comp. ὁ, ἡ, τό in Homer); yet its force was so slight that it was used almost exclusively as a prefix to the noun.

The stronger demonstrative force of הַ (this) is still found in some connexions, as הַיּוֹם this day, to-day; הַלַּיְלָה this night, to-night; הַפֶּעַם this time. To this demonstrative sense is to be referred in particular, a) the fact, that sometimes it stands for the relative before the verb, e. g. הַמְּצֹאִים that are found, 1 Chron. xxix. 17; xxvi. 28; Jos. x. 24; Ezra viii. 25; comp. Gen. xviii. 21; xlv. 27; Job ii. 11; and so הַהַעֲלִיָּה i. q. אֲשֶׁר עָלְיָהּ 1 Sam. ix. 24; b) the case where it is employed, mostly before a participle, to connect and to point back to a subject noun, in order to make it again prominent, Ps. xix. 10, the laws of Jehorah are truth . . . . ver. 11, הַמְּהִרִים they that are precious: here the article has nearly the force of הַמִּהָרֵה abroû. So also in Ps. civ. 3 (three times); Is. xl. 22, 23; xlv. 6; Gen. xlix. 21; Job xli. 25; and still more forcibly in Ps. xviii. 33, הַאֵל הַיֵּלֵךְ הַמְּצַוֵּנִי the God that girds me with strength; ver. 48; Jer. xix. 13; Neh. x. 38.

The article is employed with a noun to limit its application in nearly the same cases as in Greek and German (or English); viz., only when a definite object, one previously mentioned, or already known, or the only one of its kind, is the subject of discourse; e. g. Gen. i. 3, God said, Let there be light (אוֹר), ver. 4, and God saw the light (אֶת־הָאוֹר); 1 Kings iii. 24, Bring me a sword, and they brought the sword; comp. Ecces. ix. 15; הַמֶּלֶךְ הַשְּׁלֵמָה the king Solomon, הַשֶּׁמֶשׁ the sun, הָאָרֶץ the earth. Besides these examples, see Ecces. i. 12, I am king (מֶלֶךְ) over Jerusalem.

In such definite cases the article can be omitted only in poetry, where it is used, in general, less frequently than in prose; e. g. מֶלֶךְ for הַמֶּלֶךְ Ps. xxi. 2, אָרֶץ for הָאָרֶץ Ps. ii. 2.

Special cases in which the article is commonly employed, are—

1. When a general word is used collectively to denote all the individuals belonging to it, as the righteous, the unrighteous, Ecces. iii. 17; the woman for the female sex, Ecces. vii. 26; the Canaanite, Gen. xiii. 7; xv. 19, 20, like the Russian, the Turk.*

2. When a common term is applied by way of eminence to a particular person, and thus becomes a kind of proper name, like ὁ ποιητής (Homer), as הַשָּׂטָן adversary, the adversary, Satan; הַבַּעַל lord, the בעַל (prop. name of the idol) Baal; הָאָדָם the first man, Adam; הָאֵל, הָאֱלֹהִים ὁ Θεός, the only, true God = יהוה; (yet this word אֱלֹהִים is often so used without the article, because it approaches the nature of a proper name, § 110, 1); הַנָּהָר the river, i. e. the Euphrates; הַפְּרָר the region around, viz., that around the Jordan.

3. Hence it is used also with actual proper names of rivers, mountains, and of many towns, with reference to their original appellative signification (comp. the Hague, le Harre), as הַיַּאֲר the Nile (prop. the river), הַלְבָּנוֹן Lebanon (prop. the white mountain), הָעִי the town Ai (prop. the stone-heap). But its use in connexion with names of towns is unfrequent, and in poetry is generally omitted. (Comp. § 110, 1).

Rem. 1. The Hebrew article certainly never stands for the indefinite article; but the Hebrew conceives and expresses many ideas definitely, which we are accustomed to conceive and express indefinitely. This is most commonly seen—

a) In comparisons, where fancy paints the image of an object, and causes a more distinct perception, e. g. white as the wool, as the snow, red as the scarlet Is. i. 18, as the cattle Ps. xlix. 15, he hurls thee like the ball Is. xxii. 18, the heavens are rolled up like the scroll xxxiv. 4; comp. x. 14; xxiv. 20; xxvii. 10; liii. 6; Ps. xxxiii. 7. Instructive examples in Judges xiv. 6; xvi. 9; Is. xxix. 8. Yet where the noun compared is already made definite by an adjective, the article does not stand any more than when a genitive follows, e. g. בָּרֶךְ Is. x. 14, but פָּהוּ פִּיטְסָה xvi. 2, comp. Ps. i. 4 with Is. xxix. 5. Exceptions are rare, as בְּגֵזֶר Job xvi. 11, בְּאֵב xxxi. 18.

b) In the names of classes of objects which are generally known, e. g. the gold, the silver, the cattle, the water. Hence Gen. xiii. 2, Abraham was very rich in the cattle, the silver, and the gold, where most languages would omit the article. He had much, is the Hebrew's conception, of these well-known treasures. Comp. Gen. xli. 42; Ex. xxxi. 4; xxxv. 32; Is. i. 22.

c) Often also in the expression of abstract ideas (like τὸ ἱπικόν, the modestie, hence of physical and moral evils, as the blindness Gen. xix. 11, the darkness Is. lx. 2, the falsehood Is. xxix. 21).

On these principles, it is easy to explain the use of the article in special cases, as in 1 Sam. xvii. 34, הַלְיָרִי the lion, as the well-known enemy of the flocks (comp. τὸν λύκον, John x. 12; 1 Kings xx. 36; Gen. viii. 7, 8; xiv. 13. The frequent expression וַיְהִי הַיּוֹם should not be translated it happened on a day, but the day, (at) the time, viz., as referring to what precedes.

2. The vocative also takes the article, and for the most part in those cases where it is usually required; e. g. יְהוֹשֻׁעַ הַכֹּהֵן הַגָּדוֹל, O Joshua, high priest, Zech. iii. 8; 1 Sam. xxiv. 9.

SECT. 110.

The article is regularly omitted*—

1. Before the proper name of a person or a country (בְּרָרִים, בְּרָרִים), and also of a people, when it coincides with the name of the founder of the race or the name of their country (יִשְׂרָאֵל, אֲרָם). On the contrary, gentile nouns admit it both in the sing. and plur., as הָעִבְרִים, the Hebrews 1 Sam. xiii. 3, הַכְּנַעֲנִי the Canaanite (collect. § 109, 1).

* In these particulars (relating to the omission of the definite article, viz., before proper names, before nouns in construction with a genitive or with a possessive pronoun, and before predicates), the usage of our language corresponds to that of the Hebrew. The same is true of the Celtic tongues. In Greek, it is quite otherwise, the article being freely used in all these cases except the last.—Tr.

2. Before substantives, rendered definite by a following genitive or a suffix, which renders the use of the article unnecessary; e. g. דְּבַר אֱלֹהִים God's word, אָבִי my father.

When the article is by way of exception used in these two cases, some special reason can generally be assigned for it; e. g.

- a) In some cases the demonstrative power of the article is required; as Jer. xxxii. 12, I gave this bill of sale (אֶת־הַפָּקֶד הַמִּקְנָה) with reference to verse 11; Jos. viii. 33, הַצֵּי a half thereof; in the next clause הַהַצֵּי the (other) half thereof, Is. ix. 12.
- b) When the genitive is a proper name which does not admit the article (according to No. 1), as הַמִּזְבֵּחַ בֵּית־אֵל the altar of Bethel 2 Kings xxiii. 17, הָאֵל בֵּית־אֵל the God of Bethel Gen. xxxi. 13, הַמֶּלֶךְ אֲשֹׁר the king of Assyria Is. xxxvi. 16; comp. Gen. xxiv. 67; Jer. xlvi. 32; Eze. xlvii. 15 (comp. xlviii. 1).
- c) In others the connexion between the noun and the following genitive is somewhat loose, so that the first forms a perfect idea by itself, while the second conveys only a supplemental idea relating to the material or purpose, as הַמִּזְבֵּחַ הַבְּרִזִּית the weight, the leaden one Zech. iv. 10, הַמִּזְבֵּחַ הַנְּחֹשֶׁת the altar of brass 2 Kings xvi. 14, נִשְׂאֵי הָאָרוֹן הַבְּרִית Jos. iii. 14, Ex. xxviii. 39, כְּלֵי־הַמִּמְלָכּוֹת הָאֲרָצִין Jer. xxv. 26.

3. Before the predicate, which from its nature is indeterminate, as Gen. xxix. 7, עוֹד הַיּוֹם גָּדוֹל yet is the day great, it is yet high day; xxxiii. 13; xl. 18; xli. 26; Is. v. 20, הָאֲמָרִים לְטוֹב רַע who call the good evil; lxvi. 3.

Yet there are cases where the nature of the predicate requires the article, Gen. ii. 11 הוּא הַכֹּבֵב it is the encompassing, i. e. that which encompasses; xlv. 12, פִּי פִי הַמְדַבֵּר that my mouth (is) the speaking = it is my mouth that speaketh; Gen. xlii. 6; Ex. ix. 27; Num. iii. 24. See another case where the article stands before the predicate in § 109, beginning.

SECT. 111.

1. When a compound idea, expressed by a noun in the constr. st. followed by its genitive, is to be made definite, it is done by prefixing the article to the noun in the genitive; as אִישׁ מִלְחָמָה a man of war Jos. xvii. 1, הַמְלָחָמָה the men of war Num. xxxi. 49; דְּבַר שֶׁקֶר a word of falsehood Prov. xxix. 12, הַדְּבַר הַנְּבִיא the word of the prophet Jer. xxviii. 9.

The article is put in the same way when only the genitive, and not the nomen regens, is definite, as הַלְקֵת הַשָּׂדֶה a part of the field 2 Sam. xxiii. 11 (see on the contrary Jos. xxiv. 32, Gen. xxxiii. 10), אִישׁ הָאֲדָמָה a husbandman Gen. ix. 20 (on the contrary אִישׁ שָׂדֶה Gen. xxv. 27). Yet in this case we usually find another construction, in order to avoid the ambiguity, see § 115.

N.B. This explains the use of the article after לֵל prop. totality, the whole. The article is inserted after it to express definitely all, whole (like tous les hommes, toute la ville), and is omitted when it is used indefinitely for of all kinds, any thing, or distributively for every (tout homme, à tout prix);* e. g. כָּל־הָאָדָם כָּל־הָאָרֶץ, all men, the whole earth, prop. the whole of men, the whole of earth; but כָּל־אֲבָנִים stones of all kinds 1 Chron. xxix. 2, כָּל־דָּבָר any thing Judges xix. 19, כָּל־יְמֵי every day Ps. vii. 12. Yet also כֹּל חַי every living thing = all living.

Even compound proper names may be resolved again into two words, and then the second takes the article; e. g. בְּנֵי־בִנְיָמִן Benjaminite (§ 86, 5), בְּנֵי־בִתְלֵמִי Bethlemite 1 Sam. xvii. 58.

Exceptions where the article stands before the governing noun and not before the genitive, see in § 110, 2, b. So in the later style, Dan. xi. 31; comp. xii. 11.

2. When the substantive has the article, or (which is equivalent) is made definite by a following genitive or a suffix, then the adjective, as well as the pronoun הַזֶּה, הַהוּא (§ 122, 1), belonging to the substantive, takes also the article. Gen. x. 12, הַגְּדֹלָה הַגְּדוֹלָה the great city; xxviii. 19, הַמְּקוֹם הַהוּא that place; Deut. iii. 24, יָדְךָ הַחֲזָקָה thy strong hand; הַמְּעִשָׂה הַגְּדוֹלָה the great work of Jehovah.

Not quite unfrequent is the use of the article—

- a) With the adjective alone, which then serves to make the noun definite, e. g. יוֹם הַשִּׁשִּׁי day the sixth = the sixth day (on the contrary יוֹם שֵׁנִי a second day, i. 8): xli. 26; 1 Sam. xix. 22; Ps. lxii. 4; civ. 18; Neh. iii. 6; ix. 35; Zech. xiv. 10. So also הַיָּמִים הַהֵלֵךְ Gen. i. 21; ix. 10. This is the usual construction, when the adjective is properly a participle, as Jer. xlvi. 16, הַרֶבֶץ הַיּוֹדֵה the sword that doeth violence.
- b) With the substantive only, as in Eze. xxxix. 27; 2 Sam. vi. 3 (perhaps to be amended); yet rather frequently in connexion with the pronouns הַזֶּה and הַהוּא, which are sufficiently definite of themselves, as כָּל־הַיָּמִים הַהֵלֵךְ Gen. xxxii. 23, הַיָּד הַזֹּאת Ps. xii. 8; particularly when the noun is made definite only by a suffix, אֶלֶף אֶלֶף 1 Kings x. 8; comp. Ex. x. 1; Jos. ii. 20; Judges xvi. 5, 6, 15. Designedly indefinite is רְעָה רַבָּתִים Gen. xxxvii. 2, an evil report respecting them רַבָּתִים רַבָּתִים would be the evil report; compare Num. xiv. 37; Gen. xlii. 19, אֶחָד מֵאֶחָיִם in the sense of one of your brethren.

SECT. 112.

CONNEXION OF THE SUBSTANTIVE WITH THE ADJECTIVE.

1. The adjective, which serves to qualify the substantive, stands after it, and agrees with it in gender and number (as אִישׁ גְּדוֹל, אִשָּׁה גְּדוֹלָה); and also in being made definite (according to § 111, 2). Comp. § 117, 2.

Rem. 1. It very seldom occurs that the qualifying adjective stands before its substantive; when this is the case, some emphasis rests on it, as Is. xxviii. 21; liii. 11; Ps. lxxxix. 51; cxlv. 7; compare also Ps. xviii. 4. Merely poetic is the form of expression אֲרִיִּים קִנְיָנִים, Job xli. 7, the strong of shields for strong shields (comp. ver. 22; Is. xxxv. 9); or with a collective noun instead of the plural, אֲדָמָה אֲדָמָה the poor of men = the poor, Is. xxix. 19; Hos. xiii. 2. Similar is the Lat. canum de juvenes.

2. When substantives of the feminine gender or those which incline to it (§ 107, 4) take two adjectives, the feminine form sometimes appears only in the one which stands nearest the substantive; as מְלֹאָקָה נְמִיבָה וְנָמִים 1 Sam. xv. 9; רוּחַ נְדָלָה וְהוֹק 1 Kings xix. 11, Ps. lxxiii. 2. Comp. § 147, Rem. 1.

* What is here said of כֹּל applies also to its Greek equivalent, πᾶς; e. g. πᾶσα ἡ πόλις the whole city (Matt. viii. 34), but πᾶσα πόλις every city (Matt. xii. 25).—Tu.

N.B. 3. In regard to number, the nouns in the dual take adjectives in the plural, as עֵינַיִם רְמוֹת lofty eyes Prov. vi. 17; Ps. xviii. 28; Job iv. 3, 4; Is. xxxv. 3. Moreover, the constructio ad sensum is frequent. Collectives are construed with the plural in 1 Sam. xiii. 15; Jer. xxviii. 4; but the pluralis majestatis (108, 2. b) on the contrary with the singular, as אֱלֹהִים צְדִיק Ps. vii. 10; Is. xix. 4 (but with the plur. 1 Sam. xvii. 26).

2. An adjective, when its meaning is more fully determined by a substantive, is followed by it in the genitive case,* as יְפֵה-תֹאֵר beautiful in form Gen. xxxix. 6, נְקֵי כַפַּיִם pure in hands Ps. xxiv. 4, אֲנָמִי נָפֵשׁ sorrowful in spirit Is. xix. 10. (Comp. the construction of the Participle, § 132.) In the same manner are often construed the participles and verbal adjectives, only that they govern also the cases of their verbs; see § 135.

3. On the adjective as predicate of the sentence, see § 144 foll.

APPOSITION.

1. By this is meant the placing together of two substantives, so that one of them (commonly the second†) serves to limit or qualify the other, as אִשָּׁה אֶלְמָנָה a woman (who is) a widow, 1 Kings vii. 14; נַעֲרָה בְתוּלָה a damsel (who is) a virgin, Deut. xxii. 28; אֲמָתִים אֲמָתִים words (which are) truth, Prov. xxii. 21. Sometimes the first of the two substantives has the form of the constr. st., see § 116, 5.

Also two adjectives may stand in apposition, in which case the first modifies the sense of the second, as בְּהֹת לְבָנֹת בְּהֹת לְבָנֹת pale white spots, Lev. xiii. 39; in verse 19, בְּהֹת לְבָנָה אֲדַמְדָּמָת a white red (bright red) spot.

SECT. 114.

THE GENITIVE.

1. It has been shown above (§ 89) that the Hebrew regularly expresses the genitive relation by making the noun in the genitive dependent upon, and closely connected with, the nomen regens in the constr. st. A genitive is always dependent only upon one governing noun. The language avoids, also, letting a noun in the constr. st. be followed by several connected genitives, but, instead of it, rather repeats the nomen regens; e. g. Gen. xxiv. 3, אֱלֹהֵי הַשָּׁמַיִם וְאֱלֹהֵי הָאָרֶץ the God of the heavens and the God of the earth. But several genitives may follow in succession when they depend on each other. Even then the repetition of the constr. st. has indeed often been avoided (see § 115), though this was not always attended to; e.g. יְמֵי שָׁנֵי חַיֵּי אֲבוֹתַי the days of the years of the life of my fathers, Gen. xlvii. 9; שְׂאֵר מִסִּפְר־קִשְׁתַּת גְּבוּרֵי בְנֵי־קֶדָר the residue of the number of the bows of the mighty ones of the children of Kedar, Is. xxi. 17.*

* In Greek and Latin, the genitive is employed in the same manner, as tristis animi; see Ruhnken. ad Vell. Paterculum, 2, 93.

† The first only in certain formulas, as הַמֶּלֶךְ הַיְיָלֵמָה, הַמֶּלֶךְ הַדָּוִד, like our the king David, the king Solomon; where the arrangement הַמֶּלֶךְ הַדָּוִד, 2 Sam. xiii. 39, like Cicero consul, is of rare occurrence.

In these examples (comp. also Is. x. 12, Job xii. 24 and others) all the nouns but the last are in the construct state. Yet we find also examples where the genitives, being subordinate to the main thought and serving merely as a periphrasis for the adjective, stand in the absolute state, while only the following genitive is dependent on the main thought. Thus, in Is. xxviii. 1, גֵּיא שְׁקִינִים קָחוּזֵי יַיִן the fat valley (prop. valley of fatness) of the smitten of wine, 1 Chron. ix. 13; Ps. lxxviii. 22.

Similar but rare is the case when a noun has first an adjective and then a genitive after it, as אֲבָנֵי מִפְּעַ עֲטָרֶת זָהָב גְּדֹלָה unhewn stones of the quarry, a large crown of gold, 1 Ki. vi. 7. The usual construction is like עֲטָרֶת זָהָב גְּדֹלָה a large crown of gold, Esth. viii. 15.

2. The noun in the genitive expresses not only the subject, but at times also the object; e. g. Eze. xii. 19, הַמָּס הַיִּשְׁבִּים the wrong which the inhabitants did, on the contrary Obad. verse 10, הַמָּס אֶחָיִךְ the wrong against thy brother; † Prov. xx. 2, אֵימַת מֶלֶךְ the fear of a king, וְעֵקֶת סֹדֶם the cry concerning Sodom Gen. xviii. 20, שְׂמֵעַ צֹר the report about Tyre; comp. also § 121, 5. Other applications of the genitive are, דֶּרֶךְ הַיָּדָב עֵץ way to the tree Gen. iii. 24, קִצְיֵי סֹדֶם judges like those in Sodom Is. i. 10, זְבָחֵי אֱלֹהִים sacrifices pleasing to God Ps. li. 19, שְׁבַעַת יְהוָה an oath sworn by Jehovah 1 Ki. ii. 43.

3. Not unfrequently the genitive construction stands also in the place of apposition, as נְהַר פָּרַת river of Euphrates; see more in § 116, 5.

Rem. 1. Between the noun in the constr. st. and the following genitive is found, in some rare cases, a word intervening, as in Hos. xiv. 3; 2 Sam. i. 9; Job xxvii. 3 (in all these passages the word intervenes after בָּל, comp. also Is. xxxviii. 16).

2. Proper names, as being in general of themselves sufficiently definite, seldom take a genitive for further specification; yet this is the case with geographical names, אֹר כַּשְׂדִּים Ur of the Chaldees Gen. xi. 28, אֲרַם נְהָרִים Aram of the two rivers = Mesopotamia; so also יְהוָה צְבָאוֹת Jehovah of hosts for Jehorah the Lord of hosts.

* It would be contrary to the Hebrew idiom to say בְּנֵי וּבָנוֹת דָּוִד the sons and daughters of David, but this must be expressed by בְּנֵי דָוִד וּבָנוֹתָיו the sons of David and his daughters. [See note on verse 12, p. 275.—Tr.]

† In Latin, the genitive is similarly used after injuria (Cæs. B. Gall. 1, 30), metus (like metus hostium, metus Pompeii), spes, and other words. Comp. Aul. Gell. 9, 12. In Greek compare πῶτος τοῦ Θεοῦ, λόγος τοῦ σταυροῦ, 1 Cor. I. 18.

SECT. 115.

EXPRESSION OF THE GENITIVE BY CIRCUMLOCUTION.

Besides the indication of the genitive relation by the construct state (see in § 89, and § 114), there are certain periphrastic indications, chiefly by means of the preposition לְ, denoting the relation of belonging, which is not unlike that of the genitive. Accordingly, we find—

1. לְ, used principally for the genitive of possession, as הַצֹּאֵן אֲשֶׁר לְאָבִיהָ Gen. xxix. 9, xlvi. 4, the flock of her father (prop. the flock which to her father belonged); and also where there would be several successive genitives (to avoid the repetition of the constr. st., but see § 114. 1), as הַשִּׁיר הַיְשִׁירִים אֲשֶׁר לְשֹׁלֹמֹה לְאָבִיר הָרְעִים אֲשֶׁר לְשָׁאוּל the song of songs of Solomon Cant. i. 1: Gen. xl. 5; 2 Sam. ii. 8; 1 Chron. xi. 10. (Hence the Rabbinic designation of the genitive נִשְׁלָה; in Syriac and Chaldee, the relative דִּי, also דְּ alone is the usual sign of the genitive.)

2. לְ (without אֲשֶׁר), which also denotes the idea of belonging, and hence the genitive of possession,* as הַצִּבּוּרִים הַנְּצִפִים לְשָׁאוּל the watchmen of Saul, 1 Sam. xiv. 16. This is used particularly. a) when the governing (or first) noun is expressly regarded as indefinite, e. g. בֶּן לְיֵשׁוּעַ a son of Jesse 1 Sam. xvi. 18 (whereas בֶּן יֵשׁוּעַ signifies as well the son of Jesse), כֹּהֵן לְאֵל עֲלִיּוֹן a priest of the most high God Gen. xiv. 18, xli. 12, שְׁנֵי עֲבָדִים לְשִׁמְעִי two servants of Shimei 1 Kings ii. 39, אֶהָב לְדָוִד a friend of David (was Hiram) 1 Kings v. 15, לְדָוִד קִנּוּמֵר also לְדָוִד קִנּוּמֵר a psalm of David (i. e. belonging to him as the author), and elliptically לְדָוִד of David Ps. xi. 1, xiv. 1; b) when several genitives depend on one substantive, e. g. חֶלְקֵת תִּשְׁבֶּה לְבִעַז a portion of the field of Boaz Ruth ii. 3, 2 Kings v. 9, רְאוּשֵׁי הָאֲבוֹת לְמִשְׁחֵי בְנֵי the chronicles of the kings of Israel 1 Kings xv. 31, וַיִּשְׁרָאֵל Josh. xix. 51, where the pairs of more closely-connected nouns which form one conception are joined by means of the constr. state, while there is between them the לְ indicating a looser connexion (yet comp. § 114. 1); c) after specifications of number, e. g. יוֹם לְחֵדְשׁ on the seven and twentieth day of the month, Gen. viii. 14.

SECT. 116.

FURTHER USE OF THE CONSTRUCT STATE.

The construct state, as it serves in general to put two nouns in close connexion, is, in the flow of speech, used not only for the genitive relation, but also—

1) Before prepositions, particularly in poetry, and mostly when the governing word is a participle, e. g. before בְּ, as שִׂמְחַת בְּקַצִּיר the joy in the harvest, Is. ix. 2, * Philologically considered, the Gascon says no less correctly la fille à Mr. N., than the written language la fille de —; the former expresses the idea of belonging, the latter that of descent. The Arabians distinguish a twofold genitive; viz., one which has the force of לְ, and one which has that of בְּנֵן. We have the latter conception of this relation in the de of modern languages that are derived from the Latin (the Romance languages). In Greek, we may compare the so-called σχημα Κολοφώνιον, e. g. ἡ κεφαλὴ τῶ ἀνθρώπῳ for τοῦ ἀνθρώπου (see Bernhardy's Syntax, p. 88).

v. 11; before לָ, as אֶהְיֶי לָנוּם Is. lvi. 10, xxx. 18, Ps. lviii. 5, Job xviii. 2; before אֵל Is. xiv. 19; before מִן, as גָּמְלִי מִהָלֶב weaned from milk; Is. xxviii. 9; before עַל in Judges v. 10.*

2) Before the relative pronoun, e. g. מְקוֹם אֲשֶׁר the place where —, Gen. xl. 3.

3) Before relative clauses without אֲשֶׁר, e. g. קְרִית הַנָּה דָּוִד the city where David dwelt Is. xxix. 1, לֹא יָדַע אֵל the place of him who knows not God Job xviii. 21, 1 Sam. xxv. 15, Ps. xc. 15. Comp. § 123, 3, Rem. 1.

4) Rarely even before Vav copulative, as הַקָּמַת וְרַעַת Is. xxxiii. 6, xxxv. 2, li. 21.

5) In appositions (viz., where an actual genitive relation cannot be supposed, as in § 114, 3), e. g. 1 Sam. xxviii. 7, אִשָּׁת בַּעֲלַת אוֹב a woman, mistress of a south-saying spirit (comp. παιδίσκη ἔχουσα πνεῦμα πύθωνος, Acts xvi. 16), as also in בְּתוּלַת בַּת צִיּוֹן virgin daughter of Zion, Is. xxxvii. 22; Jer. xiv. 17.

6) Also in other cases where close connexion is to be expressed: thus, at times we have אֶחָד one for אֶחָד 2 Sam. xvii. 22, Zech. xi. 7, Is. xxvii. 12; and moreover Is. xxviii. 4, 16. Compare besides the constr. st. in the numerals as in thirteen, fourteen (§ 97, 2), and in the adverb (§ 100, 2, c).

Rem. While in the above cases the absolute st. could in general stand quite as well as the constr., there are yet also constructions where the constr. st. might be expected rather than the absolute. Thus, for example—

a) In geographical names like אָבֶל בֵּית מַעֲכָה Abel Beth-Maachah† (i. e. Abel of Beth-Maachah, to distinguish it from other places called Abel). Comp. on the contrary, § 114, Rem. 2.

b) In some other instances where the connexion is not close enough for the genitive relation, so that it must rather be considered as apposition, or the second noun as an adverbial accusative (§ 118). Here belongs Eze. xlvi. 4, מַיִם בְּרַגְלָיִם not water of the knees, so much as water up to the knees; Is. xxx. 20, מַיִם לְחֵץ water of affliction, or rather water in affliction.

c) In the expression אֱלֹהִים יְצַבְאוֹת God hosts elliptical for אֱלֹהֵי יְצַבְאוֹת God (the God of hosts).

INDICATION OF THE OTHER CASES.

1. As the Hebrew language has lost the living use of case-endings (§ 90), we must consider what substitutes it adopted for expressing the different relations of case. The nominative is always to be known only from the syntactical construction.

* The constr. state appears also before אֵל, the sign of the accusative, in Jer. xxxiii. 22, מִיִּצְרַיִם אֵלֵי.

† So in English, York-street, Covent-garden, for near Covent-garden. But in Latin the genitive is used in such cases, as Augusta Virulicorum.

On the modes of expressing the genitive, see §§ 114–116. Other cases are periphrastically expressed by means of prepositions, the dative by ׀, the ablative by מן (from, out of), and the locative and instrumental by ב (in, at); but the Shemite regards the nouns dependent on these prepositions as genitives, because these particles were themselves originally nouns. In Arabic they have also the genitive termination. Comp. § 101, 1.

On the use of the dative particle ׀, in so far as it serves to express also our genitive, see § 115, 1, 2.

2. The accusative, when expressing direction or motion to a place, has still frequently its ending הַ ( § 90, 2). Else it is, like the nominative, to be known only from the structure of the sentence. Yet we may often know it by the preceding תָּ or תָּ (before suffixes also תָּ), which, however, is not used before a noun except when that noun is made definite by the article, the construct state, a suffix, or otherwise (Gen. vi. 2; 2 Sam. xiii. 17, xviii. 18), or is a proper name. Such is the usage in prose, but not so much in poetry; e. g. Gen. i. 1, אֶת הַשָּׁמַיִם וְאֶת הָאָרֶץ (on the contrary, אֶת הָאָרֶץ וְאֶת הַשָּׁמַיִם Gen. ii. 4, vi. 10, Ex. i. 11).*

The cases are rare in which תָּ stands before an indeterminate noun, but somewhat oftener in the loftier style, where the article also may be omitted before a noun that is definite according to the sense ( § 109), as Prov. xiii. 21, אֶת צְדִיקִים, Is. l. 4, Job xiii. 25, Eze. xliii. 10. Very seldom in prose, like 1 Sam. xxiv. 6, Ex. ii. 1 (where, however, the noun is made definite by the context). (See also Ex. xxi. 28, Num. xxi. 9).

USE OF THE ACCUSATIVE.

The accusative is employed, 1) to express the object of the transitive verbs ( § 138); but also, 2) in certain adverbial designations, where it is no longer governed immediately by the verb. We shall here treat only of the latter.

* תָּ, which, in close connexion with a following word and without the tone, becomes תָּ and then again with the tone תָּ, is properly a substantive derived from a pronominal stem. It signifies essence, substance (comp. תָּ a sign), but in construction with a following noun or suffix it stands for the pronoun ipse, αὐτός (comp. a similar usage in § 124, Rem. 3). But in common use it has so little stress, that it only points out a definite object. Its force is here as feeble as that of the oblique cases αὐτοῦ, αὐτῷ, αὐτόν; ipsi, ipsum; Germ. desselben, demselben, denselben; and the Hebrew אֶת הַשָּׁמַיִם תָּ prop. αὐτὸν τὸν οὐρανόν (comp. αὐτὸν Χριστοῦ II. i. 144) it, the heaven, is not stronger than τὸν οὐρανόν. That תָּ may denote also the nominative, is not of itself inconceivable, and appears to be actually the case in some instances, like Hag. ii. 17, 2 Kings xviii. 30 (yet it is wanting in the parallel passage Is. xxxvi. 15), perhaps also Jos. xxii. 17, Dan. ix. 13. Yet in other places, which some rather reckon with the foregoing (e. g. 2 Sam. xi. 25, Neh. ix. 32, and even 1 Sam. xvii. 34), it may be considered as a loosely-governed accusative, which it certainly designates when connected with the passive (see § 143, 1, a). In Eze. xlvii. 17, 18, 19, תָּ stands for תָּ, and perhaps ought to be so emended in the text; comp. verse 20.

The second of the above usages is undoubtedly derived from the first, and to this still belong several constructions in which the accusative is commonly supposed to be used adverbially (§ 138, 1, Rem. 3). But we are not therefore authorised to reject altogether the adverbial use of the accusative.

Accordingly, the accusative is employed—

1. In designations of place; a) in answer to the question whither? after verbs of motion, as נִצְאָה הַשָּׂדֶה let us go out into the field 1 Sam. xx. 11, לָלֶכֶת תַּרְשִׁישׁ to go to Tarshish 2 Chron. xx. 36, Ps. cxxxiv. 2;* b) in answer to the question where? after verbs of rest, as בֵּית אֲבִיךָ in the house of thy father Gen. xxxviii. 11, פֶּתַח הָאֹהֶל in the door of the tent xviii. 1. It is then employed also with reference to space and measure, in answer to the question how far? Gen. vii. 20, the water rose fifteen cubits.

In both cases, of a and b, especially the first, the accusative-ending הַ is often appended, on which see § 90, 2. The first relation may also be expressed by אֶל (as it commonly is with reference to persons), and the second by אֶ; but we are by no means to suppose that, where these particles are omitted, the construction is incomplete.

2. In designations of time; a) in answer to the question when? as הַיּוֹם the day, i. e. on the day, then, or on this day, to-day; עָרֵב at evening, הַלַּיְלָה by night; צָהֳרָיִם at noon Ps. xci. 6; שְׁלֹשׁ עֶשְׂרֵה שָׁנָה מָרְדּוֹ the thirteenth year (in the 13th year) they revolted Gen. xiv. 4; תְּחִלַּת קִצְוֵי שְׂעִירִים at the beginning of barley harvest 2 Sam. xxi. 9 (K<sup>ethibh</sup>); b) in answer to the question how long? שֵׁשֶׁת יָמִים six days (long) Ex. xx. 9. [With אֵת in Ex. xiii. 7; Deut. ix. 25.]

3. In other adverbial designations: Gen. xli. 40, רַק הַנֶּפֶס אֲנִדָּל only in respect to the throne will I be greater; 2 Sam. xxi. 20, מִסְפָּר אַרְבָּעִים וְשָׁנָה four and twenty (comp. τρεῖς ἀριθμόν three in number); 1 Kings xxii. 13, בֶּה אֶהָדָר with one mouth i. e. with one voice; Zeph. iii. 9, אֶהָדָר אֱלֹהִים with one shoulder i. e. with one mind. With a following genitive, מִשְׁמֵי יָרֵאתָ שְׁמִיר for fear of thorns, Is. vii. 25; Job i. 5, כְּמִסְפַּר כָּלֵם according to the number of them all. Here belong also cases like כִּשְׁנֵי כֶסֶף the double in money Gen. xliiii. 15, אַיִפָּה שְׂעִירִים an ephah of barley Ruth ii. 17, שְׁנַתִּים יָמִים two years' time Gen. xli. 1. Comp. also § 116, Rem. b.

Similar cases in connexion with verbs are explained, § 138 and § 139. By the same process, carried still farther, many substantives have come to be distinctly recognised as adverbs (§ 100, 2, b).

Rem. Similar reference to place, time, etc., may be denoted by a noun when it is connected with אֶ (as, according to, after the manner of), but in that case the prefix אֶ alone is in the accusative relation, while the noun is to be considered in the genitive. Thus, a) of place; קָרְבָּרָם as in their pasture, Is. v. 17, comp. xxviii. 21; קָצָקוֹ after the manner of the stone i. e. as in stone (the water is collected when frozen) Job xxxviii. 30, xxx. 14; לְבוֹשֵׁת as in gorgeous apparel, Job xxxviii. 14; קְתָלוֹם as in a dream, Is. xxix. 7, comp. xxiii. 15; b) of time, especially in the forms כִּיּוֹם as the day = as in the day, Is. ix. 3; Hos. ii. 5; כִּיּוֹמֵי as in the days of —, Hos. ii. 17; ix. 9; xii. 10; Amos ix. 11; Is. li. 9; c) with another reference, as in Is. i. 25, I will purge away thy dross כְּבָר as with lye; Job xxviii. 5, קְבוֹ אֵשׁ after the manner of fire = as by fire.

Rarely another preposition is used after such a ק, e. g. כְּכִרְאֵשֶׁתָּהּ Is. i. 26, 1 Sam. xiv. 14.

It is, moreover, obvious that a substantive with כְּ may stand either for the accusative of the object or for the nominative relation.

SECT. 119.

MODES OF EXPRESSING THE COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE.*

1. When the comparative is to be expressed, the particle מִן (מִי) is prefixed to the word with which comparison is made, e. g. 1 Sam. ix. 2, גְּבֵהָ מִכָּל-הָעָם taller than any of the people; Judges xiv. 18, מְתוֹק מִדְּבַשׁ sweeter than honey; so also after verbs, especially those denoting an attribute, as וַיִּגְבֶּה מִכָּל-הָעָם and he was taller than any of the people, 1 Sam. x. 23; אָהַב אֶת-יוֹסֵף מִכָּל-בָּנָיו he loved Joseph more than all his (other) sons, Gen. xxxvii. 3.

In other cases also the particle מִן is employed in expressing pre-eminence (e. g. יִתְרוֹן מִן pre-eminence over, Eccles. ii. 13; comp. Deut. xiv. 2), which the Hebrew conceives as a taking from, marking out. Compare the Latin ablative with the comparative, also the etymology of the Latin words eximius, egregius, and in Homer ἐκ πάντων μάλιστα, Il. iv. 96, and merely ἐκ πασέων, xviii. 431). Hence the signification more than connects itself with the fundamental signification out from. (Compare the use of על in comparisons, Job xxiii. 2; Ps. cxxxvii. 6.)

The predicate is sometimes wholly omitted, and must be supplied from the connexion, e. g. Is. x. 10, פְּסִילֵיהֶם מִירוּשָׁלַם their idols are more numerous (mightier) than those in Jerusalem; Job xi. 17, מְצַהֲרִים clearer than noon.

The correlative comparatives, such as greater, less, are expressed only by great, little, Gen. i. 16.

2. The several modes of expressing the superlative are in principle the same; thus, in all of them the positive form, by means of the article, or a suffix, or a following genitive, is made to designate an individual as pre-eminently the pos-

* There exists in Arabic a strengthened form for the superlative and comparative, which would be like אֶקְטֵל. Perhaps of this origin are אֶרְבֵּי אֶרְבֵּי cruel, אֶרְבֵּי אֶרְבֵּי deceptive (of a drying brook), and its opposite אֶיֶּתֶן (contr. from aitam) constant, perennial, although these forms have lost their force and remain as solitary traces, in the same way as the Lat. comparative disappears in the Italian, and still more in French, and its place supplied by circumlocution (with più, plus).

essor of the quality expressed (comp. le plus grand); e. g. 1 Sam. xvii. 14, and David was הקטן the small (one), i. e. the smallest, and the three great (ones), i. e. greater, etc., Gen. xlii. 13; Jon. iii. 5, מִגְדֹּלָם וְעַד קִטְנָם from the greatest among them (lit. their great one), even unto the least among them (lit. their little one); 2 Chron. xxi. 17, קָטוֹן בְּנָיו the youngest of his sons.

A kind of superlative in substantives of quality is made by the construction קִנְיִט קְרִיִּים the holiest of all, prop. the holy (holiest) of holy things; נִיֵּר הַשְּׂרִים the choicest song, Canticles.

SECT. 120.

SYNTAX OF THE NUMERALS.

1. The numerals from 2 to 10 (which are properly substantives, but may also be used adverbially, § 97, 1), are connected with substantives in three different ways. They stand either, a) in the constr. st. before the substantive (the object numbered being accordingly in the genitive), שְׁלֹשֶׁת יָמִים three days, prop. trind of days; or, b) in the absol. st. before it (the thing numbered being then considered as in the accusative or in apposition), שְׁלֹשָׁה בָּנִים three sons; or, c) in the absol. st. after it, as in apposition with the object numbered (a usage of the later books, where the adverbs also are so construed), בָּנוֹת שְׁלוֹשׁ three daughters, 1 Chron. xxv. 5.

In like manner, the constructions מֵאָה תְּשֶׁה Gen. xvii. 17, and קִמָּה תְּשֶׁה xxv. 7, 17, a hundred years, are equally common.

2. The numerals from 2 to 10 are joined, with very few exceptions (e. g. 2 Kings xxii. 1), with the plural. But the tens (from 20 to 90), when they precede the substantive, are regularly joined with the singular (in the accusative), and when they follow it in apposition, they take the plural. The first is the more frequent construction; e. g. Judges xi. 33, עֶשְׂרִים עִיר twenty cities; on the contrary, אַמּוֹת עֶשְׂרִים twenty cubits, 2 Chron. iii. 3, seq. The plural may be used in the first case (Ex. xxxvi. 24, 25), but the singular never occurs in the second.

The numerals from 11 to 19 are joined to the singular form (in the accusative) only with certain substantives, which there is frequent occasion to number, as יום day, שָׁנָה year, אִישׁ man, etc. (comp. our four year old, a thousand man strong): e. g. עֶשְׂרֵי יוֹם עֶרְבֶּהָ fourteen day, Ex. xii. 6. With this exception, they are joined to the plural; and in the later books they then stand after the substantive (1 Chron. iv. 27; xxv. 5).

3. Numerals compounded of tens and units (like 21, 62) take the object numbered either after them in the singular (in the accusative), as שְׁתֵּים וְשִׁשִּׁים שָׁנָה sixty-two years, Gen. v. 20; or before them in the plural, as in the later books

(Dan. ix. 26); or the object is repeated, with the smaller number in the plural, with the larger in the singular, as Gen. xii. 4, הַמִּטְ שְׁנַיִם וְשֶׁבַע שָׁנָה seventy-five years; Gen. xxiii. 1, כִּמְאֵה שָׁנָה וְעֶשְׂרִים שָׁנָה וְשֶׁבַע שָׁנִים one hundred and twenty-seven years.

4. Beyond 10, the ordinals have no peculiar forms, but are expressed by those of the cardinals, which then stand either before the object numbered, or after it, as בְּשֶׁבַע עָשָׂר יוֹם on the seventeenth day Gen. vii. 11, בְּשָׁנַת עֶשְׂרִים וְשֶׁבַע in the year twenty-seven 1 Kings xvi. 10. In the latter case, the word שָׁנָה is sometimes repeated, as in Gen. vii. 11; 2 Kings xiii. 10. In numbering days of the month and years, the forms of the cardinals are used, even for the numbers from 1 to 10, e. g. בְּשָׁנַת שְׁתַּיִם in the second year, בְּשָׁנַת שְׁלוֹשׁ in the third year, 1 Kings xv. 25; 2 Kings xviii. 1, בְּתִשְׁעָה לַחֹדֶשׁ on the ninth of the month, בַּאֲחָד לַחֹדֶשׁ on the first of the month, Gen. viii. 13; Lev. xxiii. 32.

Rem. 1. The numerals take the article when they stand without a substantive, and refer to subjects mentioned before, as הַשְּׁנַיִם the two, Eccles. iv. 9, 12. The case like שֶׁבַע הַיָּמִים the seven days, Judges xiv. 17, is to be explained on the principle stated, § 111, 1.

2. Certain substantives employed in designations of weight, measure, or of time, are commonly omitted after numerals; e. g. Gen. xx. 16, אַלְף כֶּכֶף a thousand (shekels) of silver; so also before זָהָב gold, 1 Kings x. 16; Ruth iii. 15, שֵׁשׁ עָפָהִים six (ephahs) of barley; 1 Sam. xvii. 17, עֶשְׂרֵה לָחֶם ten (loaves) of bread. Thus יוֹם is omitted Gen. viii. 5, and הַרְגֵשׁ viii. 13. The number of cubits is often stated thus, מֵאָה בְּאַמָּה a hundred cubits, prop. a hundred by the cubit, Ex. xxvii. 18.

5. Numbers are expressed distributively by repetition of the cardinals, as שְׁנַיִם שְׁנַיִם two by two, Gen. vii. 9, 15. One time, once, is expressed by פַּעַם (prop. a tread), פַּעַמַיִם two times, twice, פַּעַמַיִם שְׁלוֹשׁ thrice. The same may be denoted also by the fem. forms of the cardinals, as אַחַת once, שְׁתַּיִם twice, שְׁלוֹשׁ thrice; also בְּאַחַת once, Num. x. 4. The ordinals are employed in the same way, as שְׁנִית a second time, Gen. xxii. 15; Jer. xiii. 3; Eze. xxi. 19.

CHAPTER II.

SYNTAX OF THE PRONOUN.

SECT. 121.

USE OF THE PERSONAL PRONOUN.

1. WHEN a personal pronoun is the subject of a sentence, like a noun in the same position, it does not require for its union with the predicate a distinct word for the copula, when this consists simply in the verb to be (§ 144), e. g. אָנֹכִי הָרֵאָה I (am) the seer 1 Sam. ix. 19, אֲנִי הֵנָּה אֲנִי הֵנָּה honest (are) we Gen. xlii. 11, תָּמִים אָתָּה upright (wast) thou Eze. xxviii. 15, בִּי עִרְמוֹת הֵם that naked they (were) Gen. iii. 7, הוּא הִלּוּם אָתָּה one dream it (is) Gen. xli. 26.

2. The pronoun of the third person frequently serves to connect the subject and predicate, and is then a sort of substitute for the copula or the verb to be: e. g. Gen. xli. 26, the seven good cows הֵנָּה שֶׁבַע שָׁנִים הֵנָּה seven years (are) they; Eccles. v. 18, הִיא זֶה מַתַּת אֱלֹהִים הִיא this is God's gift. Sometimes such a pronoun in the third person refers to a subject that is of the first or second person, e. g. אָתָּה הִיא מְלֹכִי thou art my king Ps. xliv. 5, where הוּא at the same time points to the predicate and makes it prominent (prop. thou (art) he, my king); Is. xxxvii. 16; Neh. ix. 6, 7; Deut. xxxii. 39. (Comp. in Chaldee Ezra v. 11.)

3. To the general rule (§ 33, 1), that the separate pronouns are in the nominative and the suffixes in the oblique cases, there is but one exception, viz., when the personal pronoun in an oblique case is to be repeated for the sake of emphasis (me, me; thy, thy), it is expressed the second time by the separate form, which is then in the same case with the preceding suffix, to which it stands in apposition; e. g. in the accusative, Gen. xxvii. 34, אֲנִי גַם אֲנִי בְרַכְנִי bless me, me also, comp. Prov. xxii. 19; oftener in the genitive, with a nominal suffix הֵמָּךְ גַּם אָתָּה thy blood, yea thine (prop. sanguis tui, utique tui), Prov. xxiii. 15; Ps. ix. 7. So also in apposition under the influence of a preposition (i. e. in the genitive, according to § 101, 1, comp. § 154, 4), as Hag. i. 4, אֲתָם לָכֶם אֲתָם for you, you; 1 Sam. xxv. 24, אֲנִי בִי אֲנִי in me, me; 1 Sam. xix. 23, עָלָיו גַּם הוּא also on him; 2 Chron. xxxv. 21, אָתָּה לֹא עָלֶיךָ אָתָּה not against thee. On the same principle is to be explained Gen. iv. 26, הוּא גַם לְשֵׁת to Seth, even to him; x. 21.

4. The suffix to the verb is properly always in the accusative (§ 33, 2, a, § 58), and is the most common form of expressing the accusative of the pronoun (see Rem.). In certain cases, however, it is used through an almost inaccurate brevity of expression for the dative, as Zech. vii. 5, הַצַּמְתָּנִי did ye fast for me? i. e. to my advantage, for לִי הַצַּמְתָּם; Job xxxi. 18, גִּדְלָנִי כְאָב he (the fatherless) grew up to me as to a father, Eze. xxix. 3 comp. verse 9.

Rem. The accusative of the pronoun must be expressed by אַת (§ 117), the sign of the accusative, a) when the pronoun, for the sake of emphasis, precedes the verb, as אַתָּה הִרְבֵּיתָ Num. xxii. 33; b) when the verb has two pronouns in the accusative, only one of which can be a suffix, as אֲתוֹ הִרְצֵנִי 2 Sam. xv. 25. The use of this sign with the pronoun is found, however, in other cases; see Gen. iv. 14; xv. 13.

5. The suffixes to nouns, which are properly genitives (§ 33, 2, b), and supply the place of possessive pronouns,* express, like nouns in the genitive (§ 114, 2), not only the subject but also the object; e. g. הַמְכִי the wrong done to me, Jer. li. 35; יְרָאָתוֹ the fear of him, Ex. xx. 20.

6. When one noun is followed by another in the genitive, so that they together express but one complex idea, a suffix which refers to this whole idea is appended to the second of the two nouns (compare the analogous position of the article, § 111, 1). This occurs most frequently in the case (mentioned, § 106, 1), where the second noun is used to express a quality of the first, and serves for an adjective to it; e. g. Ps. ii. 6, הַר קְדְשִׁי my holy mount; כְּסָפּוֹ אֱלִילֵי his silver idols, Is. ii. 20, xxxi. 7; צַעְדֵי אֹנּוֹ his strong steps, Job xviii. 7.

We seldom have constructions like וְיָקֵף לְרַגְלֶךָ thy lewd conduct, Eze. xvi. 27; comp. xviii. 7. So also Lev. vi. 3; Ps. xxx. 8.

Rem. 1. Through a certain inaccuracy, which probably passed from the colloquial language to that of books, masculine pronouns are sometimes used in reference to feminine substantives (Gen. xli. 23; Ex. i. 21). The reverse also occurs, but more rarely, Deut. v. 24; 2 Sam. iv. 6.

2. The accusative of the pronoun, as object of the verb, is often omitted, where it can be easily supplied from what has preceded, e. g. the accusative it, after verbs of saying, as וַיֹּאמֶר he said it, Ex. xix. 25; וַיֹּגֵד and he told it, Gen. ix. 22; but also after other verbs, e. g. Gen. xxxviii. 17. till thou send (it); xxiv. 12, let (it) meet me.

3. There is, on the contrary, a redundancy of expression, when the noun, for which the pronoun stands, is itself employed in apposition after it, e. g. Ex. ii. 6, she saw him, the child; Prov. v. 22, Eze. x. 3, כָּבֹאוֹ הָאִישׁ when he went in, the man; 1 Sam. xxi. 14. So also Gen. ii. 19, לֹא נִפְשֵׁת חַיָּה . . . לוֹ to it, the living creature; and with repetition of the preposition Josh. i. 2.

* The possessive pronoun may be expressed by circumlocution, after the manner of the Aramaean; Ruth ii. 21, לִי הַנְּעָרִים אֲשֶׁר לִי the servants which (are) to me, for my servants; especially after a substantive, which is followed by another in the genitive, as in 1 Sam. xvii. 40. (Comp. the analogous circumlocution for the genitive, § 115.)—In this case there is sometimes a pleonastic use of the suffix, as וְיִלְלֵיכְמָהּ קִטְתּוֹ prop. his litter of Solomon, Cant. iii. 7; comp. i. 6.

4. In some instances the force of the nominal suffix or possessive pronoun has become so weak, that it has almost ceased to exist; e. g. אֲדֹנָי my Lord (prop. my lords, see § 108, 2, b), viz., in addressing God (Gen. xv. 2, xviii. 3; Ps. xxxv. 23), but then without regard to the pronominal suffix, the Lord, meaning God;* יְהִי עִמָּנוּ (prop. in his or its conuerious = he, it together), e. g. כָּל־הָעַם יַהֲדוּ Ex. xix. 8, then even after the first person, without regard to the suffix, as יְהִי עִמָּנוּ 1 Kings iii. 18; comp. Is. xli. 1, after the second person in Is. xlv. 20. Similar is—hear, ye nations כָּל־גּוֹיִם Micah i. 2.

SECT. 122.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE AND INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The pronoun of the third person הוּא, fem. הִיא, plur. הֵמָּה, fem. הֵנָּה, (is, ea, id; ii, ew, ea) is also used as a demonstrative pronoun, and then it takes regularly (see exceptions in § 111, 2, b) the article, but almost everywhere in connection with a substantive equally definite; e. g. הוּא הָאִישׁ הַזֶּה is vir, בַּיּוֹם הַהוּא eo die [comp. in vulgar English, in them days for in those days].

When employed in this way, הוּא is to be distinguished from the demonstrative הַזֶּה; for הַזֶּה = οὗτος, hic, always points to an object present or near, but הוּא = αὐτός, is, indicates like the article, § 109) an object already mentioned or known [the former answering to this, and the latter nearly to that]. The distinction is clearly seen in Judges vii. 4, of whom I say to thee, "this הַזֶּה shall go with thee," that one (הוּא) shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say to thee, "this הַזֶּה shall not go with thee," that one (הוּא) shall not go. So also in Ps. xx. 8, הַזֶּה οὗτοι, and הַזֶּה αὐτοι in verse 9. Hence הַזֶּה הַיּוֹם this day, means the day in which any one speaks or writes (Gen. xxvi. 33), but הַיּוֹם הַהוּא (that day) means the day or time, of which the historian has just made mention (Gen. xv. 18; xxvi. 32), or the prophet just predicted (Is. v. 30; vii. 18, 20, . and goes on to relate or to predict.

2. The demonstrative הַזֶּה (also הֵן, הֵן) has also, especially in poetry, the force of the relative אֲשֶׁר, comp. in English that for which; e. g. Ps. civ. 8, to the place הַזֶּה יָסַדְתָּ לָּהֶם which thou hast destined for them. It is even employed (like אֲשֶׁר, § 123, 1) to give a relative sense to another word; e. g. Ps. lxxiv. 2, Mount Zion הַזֶּה on which thou dwellest.

הַזֶּה is used adverbially, a) for there, הַזֶּה הֲגַה see there! and then merely as an intensive particle, especially in questions, as הַזֶּה לָּמָּה wherefore then? (prop. wherefore there?); b) in reference to time, for now, as הַזֶּה פַּעַיִם now (already) twice, Gen. xxvii. 36.

3. The interrogative מִי can be used in reference to a plural, as מִי אֵלֶּה Gen. xxxiii. 5 (for which, however, מִי וְמִי is more accurately used, Ex. x. 8), also in reference to things, yet only when the idea of persons is implied, e. g. מִי שֶׁעָמָּם who are the Shechemites? Judges ix. 28; comp. Gen. xxxiii. 8.—מִי may also stand in the genitive, as בַּת מִי whose daughter? Gen. xxiv. 23. It is also used indefinitely for any one whoever, and כֹּה for any thing whatever (Job xiii. 13). For כֹּה in this sense, we have also the specific term מְאוּמָה (from כֹּה וְכֹה quidquid).

On the use of כֹּה in the sense of negation, see § 153, 2, p. 239, Note.*

RELATIVE PRONOUN AND RELATIVE CLAUSES.

1. The pronoun אֲשֶׁר often serves merely as a sign of relation, i. e. to give a relative signification to adverbs or pronouns; e. g. שָׁם there, שָׁם — אֲשֶׁר where; טְּפִלָּה thither, טְּפִלָּה — אֲשֶׁר whither; מִשָּׁם thence, אֲשֶׁר — מִשָּׁם whence. In the same manner, the Hebrew forms the oblique cases of the relative pronoun, who, which, viz.—

Dative, לוֹ to him, לְאִשֶּׁר לוֹ to whom; לָהֶם, לָהֶן to them, לְאִשֶּׁר לָהֶם, לְאִשֶּׁר לָהֶן to whom.

Accusative, אֹתוֹ, אֹתָהּ him, her; אֲשֶׁר אֹתוֹ, אֲשֶׁר אֹתָהּ whom (quem, quam).

With prepositions, בּוֹ therein, בְּאִשֶּׁר בּוֹ wherein, מִמֶּנּוּ, מִמֶּנּוּ therefrom, מֵאֲשֶׁר מִמֶּנּוּ wherefrom.

Genitive, לְשׂוֹנוֹ אֲשֶׁר whose language, Dent. xxviii. 49.

The accusative whom may, however, be expressed by אֲשֶׁר alone, as in Gen. ii. 2.

Rem. 1. The Hebrew is able in this way, to give a relative sense to the pronoun of the first and second persons in the oblique cases, for which in German (and English) the third must be used; e. g. Gen. xlv. 4, אֲשֶׁר אֹתִי; Num. xxii. 30, אֲשֶׁר עָלַי; Is. xli. 8, אֲשֶׁר בְּחַרְתִּיךָ whom I have chosen; Hos. xiv. 4. But in the nom. of the 1st and 2nd persons, this is admissible also in German, e. g. der ich, der du, die wir, where der stands for welcher, and serves (like the Heb. אֲשֶׁר) merely as a sign of relation.

2. The word אֲשֶׁר is commonly separated from the one which it thus affects by one or more words, as אֲשֶׁר הָיָה שָׁם where was, Gen. xiii. 3. Only seldom are they written together, as in 2 Chron. vi. 11.

2. The relative pronoun אֲשֶׁר frequently includes the personal or demonstrative pronoun he, she, that, for which the Heb. has no appropriate word (see § 124, 2), as in Latin, qui is stands for qui; e. g. Num. xxii. 6, וְאֲשֶׁר תָּאָר and (he) whom thou cursest; Is. lii. 15, אֲשֶׁר לֹא שָׁמְעוּ (that) which they have not heard. The pronoun is almost always to be supplied where a preposition stands before אֲשֶׁר; the preposition is then construed with the supplied pronoun, and the relative takes the case which is required by its connexion with the following part of the sentence; e. g. לְאִשֶּׁר to him who, and לָהֶם to them who; מֵאֲשֶׁר from him who, from those who or which; כַּאֲשֶׁר prop. according to that which, hence, as; אֶת־אֲשֶׁר him who, that which, or those who.*

Sometimes the idea of place or time is also to be supplied; as בְּאֲשֶׁר in (that place) where; מֵאֲשֶׁר from (that time) when.

3. The pronoun אֲשֶׁר may be omitted in all the cases which have been specified: there is then no expression of the relative, as in the English construction the friend I met; the book I told you of; where the only indication of relation is, that the relative clause is added to a preceding word, in the way of apposition. This omission of אֲשֶׁר (most frequent in poetry) takes place—

- a) Where it would stand as a pronoun in the nominative or accusative; e. g. Gen. xv. 13, לֹא בְּאֶרֶץ לָאֵלֶּם in a land (which belongs) not to them; Ps. vii. 16, וַיִּפֹּל בְּשֶׁחַת יַפְעֵל and he falls into the pit (which) he made; Gen. xxxix. 4, כָּל־יֵשְׁלוֹ all (which) was, i. e. belonged, to him, comp. vs. 5, where אֲשֶׁר is inserted; Eccles. x. 5 (comp. vi. 1, where with the same words אֲשֶׁר is employed).†
- b) When it would be merely a sign of relation, e. g. Ps. xxxii. 2, happy the man, לֹא יִחַשֵׁב יְהוָה לוֹ עוֹן to whom Jehovah imputeth not sin; Job iii. 3; Ex. xviii. 20. Frequently in specifications of time, when it would have the signification when; Ps. iv. 8, עֵת דְּגַנָּם וְתִירוֹשָׁם רַבּוּ in the time (when) their corn and new wine are abundant; Jer. xxxvi. 2.
- c) When there is also an omission of the personal or demonstrative pronoun (No. 2); e. g. Is. xli. 24, הוֹעִיבָהּ יִבְחַר בָּכֶם an abomination he who chooses you; Job xxiv. 19, שְׁחַל הַטָּמֵא (those who) sin; comp. vs. 9. The pronoun thus omitted may include the idea of place or time, as 1 Chr. xv. 12, לֹא־הֵכִינוֹתִי לוֹ to (the place which) I have prepared for it; comp. Ex. xxiii. 20.

Rem. 1. When the pronoun to be supplied would be in the genitive, the preceding noun takes the constr. st.; e. g. Ex. iv. 13, בְּיַד תִּשְׁלַח by the hand (of him whom) thou wilt send; Hos. i. 2, תְּחִלַּת דְּבַר־יְהוָה the beginning (of that which) Jehovah spake; Ps. lxxxii. 6, לֹא יָדַעְתִּי the speech (of one whom) I knew not; Is. lxi. 5; Lam. i. 14; Jer. xlvi. 36. Comp. § 116, 3.

2. Relative clauses are joined on also by means of the copula (וְ), e. g. Job xxix. 12, the orphan, וְלֹא עֲזָר לוֹ and that hath no helper.

* Very rare are the examples in which the preposition before אֲשֶׁר refers, as with us, to the relative itself, viz. אֲשֶׁר עִם Gen. xxxi. 32, for אֲשֶׁר עִם with whom (xliv. 9, 10); perhaps בְּאֲשֶׁר Is. xlvii. 12, for אֲשֶׁר בְּקִים in which. Comp. also אֲשֶׁר־דִּקְרוּ Zech. xii. 10, for אֲשֶׁר דִּקְרוּ אֹהֵי.

† The Arabic omits the relative when the substantive to which it refers is indeterminate, as above; but inserts it when the substantive is determinate. In the latter case, the Hebrew commonly inserts it in prose (see Jer. xxiii. 39; Ex. xiv. 13); though it is sometimes omitted, Ex. xviii. 20; 2 Sam. xviii. 14; especially in poetry, Ps. xviii. 3; xlix. 13, 21; Deut. xxxii. 17; Job iii. 3.

SECT. 124.

MODE OF EXPRESSING THOSE PRONOUNS FOR WHICH THE HEBREW HAS NO PROPER FORMS.

1. The reflexive pronoun in the oblique case, myself, thymself, himself, is expressed, a) by the conjugations Niphal and Hithpael, see § 51, 2, § 54, 3; b) by the pronominal suffix of the 3rd pers.,* e. g. וַיַּעַשׂ לוֹ אֶהָרֹב הַרְבַּ and Elrud made himself (sibi) a sword; Gen. xxii. 3, Abraham took two of his servants אִתּוֹ with him, for with himself; viii. 9; 1 Sam. i. 24, she carried him up עִמָּהּ with her, for with herself; Jer. vii. 19; Eze. xxxiv. 2, 8, 10. In like manner is the pronoun suus, sua, suum expressed by the pronominal suffix of the 3rd pers. with the noun, since כּוֹסוֹ signifies as much equus suus (prop. sui, genit.) as equus ejus; c) by circumlocution with substantives, especially נִפְשִׁי, e. g. לֹא יָדַע נִפְשִׁי I know not myself, Job ix. 21; Jer. xxxvii. 9; בְּקִרְבָּהּ בְּקִרְבָּהּ within herself (prop. in her inner part), Gen. xviii. 12. Comp. Rem. 3.

The Arabic, in a similar manner, expresses the idea self by soul, spirit, and so the Sanskrit (âtman); the Arabic also by eye; the Rabbinic by עֵצֶם, עֵצֶם בֶּרֶךְ, bone, גּוּף, body; the Amharic by ראש head; the Egyptian by mouth.† Comp. in middle High German mîn lip, dîn lip.

2. The personal or demonstrative pronoun is generally omitted (comp. 123, 2) before אֵשֶׁר in all the cases, both singular and plural: very seldom it is expressed by the interrogative pronoun, as מַה־שֵּׁי that which, Eccles. i. 9; iii. 15.

Rem. 1. Each, every one, with reference to a person, is expressed by אִישׁ a man, sometimes repeated אִישׁ אִישׁ Ex. xxxvi. 4, אִישׁ וְאִישׁ Ps. lxxxvii. 5; with reference either to persons or things, by כֹּל, commonly without the article (§ 111, 1); by repetition בְּבֹקֶר בְּבֹקֶר every morning; also by the plural לְבֹקְרִים every morning, Ps. lxxiii. 14.

2. Any one, some one, is expressed by אִישׁ Ex. xvi. 29; Cant. viii. 7; and by אֲנִי Lev. i. 2; anything, something (especially in connexion with a negation), by דָּבָר, כָּל־דָּבָר without the article. Comp. besides, § 122, 3.

3. Self is expressed, independent of No. 1, c, in reference to persons or things, by הוּא, הִיא, as אֲרָנִי הוּא the Lord he, i. e. the Lord himself, Is. vii. 14; הַיְהוּדִים הֵמָּה the Jews themselves, Est. ix. 1. The same is הוּא, הִיא with the article; e. g. הָאִישׁ הַהוּא Job i. 1, the same man, אֵת הַיּוֹם בְּעֵת הַיּוֹם at the same time (but this signifies also that man, at that time, comp. § 122, 1). In reference to things, the noun עֵצֶם prop. bone, body (in this case fig. for essence, substance), is also employed as a periphrasis for the pronoun; e. g. הַיּוֹם הַזֶּה בְּעֵצֶם הַיּוֹם on the self-same day, Gen. vii. 13; comp. בְּעֵצֶם הַמְּבוֹ in his very prosperity, i. e. in the midst of his prosperity, Job xxi. 23.

4. The one—the other (alter—alter) is expressed by אֶהָרֹב repeated, or by אִישׁ with אָח brother or רֵעַ friend; and where the feminine is required, by אִשָּׁה woman, with אָחֹת sister or רֵעוּת friend; both the masc. and fem. forms are used also with reference to inanimate objects of the same

* So also in the German of Luther's time, as er machte ihm einen Rock (where ihm stands for sich), which may be literally rendered into old-fashioned English thus, he made him (i. e. for himself) a coat.—TR.

† M. G. Schwartz, Kopt. Gram. Berlin, 1850, p. 346, 351.

gender. See the Lex. under these words. The same form is used to express one another, as Gen. xiii. 11, and they separated, וַיִּפְּרֹדוּ אֶחָד מֵעַל קַעֲלָיִם הַשָּׁנִי the one from the other, i. e. from one another; Ex. xxvi. 3, five curtains shall be joined וַיִּשְׁחַדְתָּהֶן אֶל־אֶחָדָן הַשָּׁנִי to one another. (But comp. Ex. xxxii. 27, for the usual sense of these words.)

5. Some is often expressed by the plural form alone, as יָמֵי some days Dan. viii. 27, יָמֵי some years Dan. xi. 6, 8; and sometimes by שָׁנֵי שָׁנִים sant qui Neh. v. 2—4.

CHAPTER III.

SYNTAX OF THE VERB.

SECT. 125.

USE OF THE TENSES IN GENERAL.

FROM the poverty of the Hebrew language in the means of expressing the absolute and relative divisions of time (§§ 40 and 48), we might naturally expect some variety in the uses of the same tense.

We are not to infer from this, however, that there was scarcely any well-defined and regular use of the two existing tenses; on the contrary, each of them has its distinct sphere, as already intimated in the first Note in § 47. The Preterite serves to express what is finished and past, whether it actually belongs to the past, or properly lies in the present or even in the future, and is only represented as past, that it may thus appear as certain as if it had already happened, or that it may stand, as relatively earlier, in comparison with a subsequent event. The Future [called also Imperfect and Tempus Infectum], on the contrary, expresses what is unfinished, hence what is continued and in progress (even in the past), what is coming to pass and about to be. The Future is, besides, especially used in a modified form (§ 48) for expressing the relations of the Optative, the Jussive, and the Subjunctive. We must further add the peculiarity of the Hebrew diction already mentioned in § 49, viz., that of joining, by means of Var conversive, Futures to a Preterite and Preterites to a Future. Fuller information on these points will be found in the following sections.

It is a false view, which regards the so-called Preterite and Future not as tenses, but as designed originally to express distinction of mood* rather than relations of time.

* Much nearer the mark would be the distinction of them into Actio perfecta and Actio infecta, according to the designation introduced into Latin grammar after Varro.

As examples of the Preterite and Future used expressly to denote opposite relations of time, we refer to Is. xlvi. 4, אָשָׂא וְנֹאֲמִי עֲשִׂיתִי וְנֹאֲמִי I have done it, and I will (still) bear (you); and vs. 11, דִּבְרַתִּי בְּפִי אֶעֱמָנָה אֶעֱמָנָה אֶעֱמָנָה I have spoken it, and will bring it to pass; I have purposed, and will accomplish it; Deut. xxxii. 21; Nah. i. 12; 1 Kings ii. 38.

SECT. 126.

THE USE OF THE PRETERITE.

The Preterite stands—

1. In itself and properly, for absolutely and fully past time (Præteritum perfectum), e. g. Gen. iii. 10, 11, לָךְ הִגִּיד מִי הַגִּיד לְךָ who has declared to thee? vs. 13, why hast thou done this? Comp. verses 14, 17, 22. Hence it is used [for the historic tense] in the narration of past events, Gen. i. 1, in the beginning God created (Pret.) the heaven and the earth (comp. iv. 1; xxix. 17). Job i. 1, there was (Pret.) a man in the land of Uz; ii. 10.

For this latter purpose, the Future with Tav conversive is commonly used in continued narrative (see § 129, 1).

2. For the Pluperfect. Gen. ii. 2, מְלֹאכְתּוֹ אֲשֶׁר עָשָׂה his work which he had done; vs. 5, Jehorah had not yet caused it to rain; vii. 9; xix. 27; xx. 18; xxvii. 30; xxxi. 20; Jonah i. 5.

3. For our Present, where this denotes, a) a condition or attribute already long continued and still existing, as יָדַעְתִּי [comp. oïda] I know, Job ix. 2, x. 13; לֹא יָדַעְתִּי I know not, Gen. iv. 9; שָׂנְאתִי I hate,* Ps. xxxi. 7; צְדִיקָתִי I am righteous, Job xxxiv. 5; גְּדֹלָתְךָ thou art great, Ps. civ. 1; קְטַנּוּתִי I am little, Gen. xxxii. 11; or, b) a permanent or habitual action (often in statements of general experience), e. g. אָמַרְתִּי I say, I mean, Ps. xxxi. 15, Job vii. 13.—Ps. i. 1, happy the man who walks (הִלְכָה) not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands (עָמַד) in the way of sinners, nor sits (יָשָׁב) in the seat of scorers; x. 3, cxix. 30, 40.

Here (in the expression of our present) the Preterite and the Future are used with equal propriety, according as the speaker views the action or state expressed by the verb as already existing before, but still continuing or perhaps just now ending, or as then first about coming to pass, in progress, or perhaps occurring at the instant (comp. § 127, 2). Accordingly, we find in nearly the same sense לֹא יָבִילְתִּי Ps. xl. 13, and לֹא אֹכַל Gen. xix. 19, xxxi. 35. In such cases the two tenses are often employed interchangeably, e. g. Is. v. 12, Prov. i. 22, Job iii. 17, 18.

* Similar in Latin are novi, meminui, oïa.

4. Even for the Future, in protestations and assurances, in which the mind of the speaker views the action as already accomplished, being as good as done. In German [and English] the Present is sometimes used, in this case, for the Future. So in stipulations or promises in the way of a compact, Gen. xxiii. 11, I give (נָתַתִּי) to thee the field; vs. 13, I give (נָתַתִּי) money for the field; particularly in promises made by God, Gen. i. 29, xv. 18, xvii. 20. Also in confident discourse, especially when God is said to be about to do something, (perhaps, with reference to the divine counsel, where it is present as an accomplished fact,) e. g. פָּרִיתָהּ אֵתִי יְהוָה thou deliverest me, O Jehovah, Ps. xxxi. 6; hence frequently used in lively representations of the future, and in prophecies, e. g. Is. ix. 1, the people who walk in darkness see (רָאוּ) a great light; v. 13, therefore my people goes into captivity (גָּלוּהָ); verses 14, 17, 25, 26; xi. 1, 2, 4, 6, 10. (In these cases also the Preterite may be interchanged with the Future, see, e. g., Is. v. 12; Prov. i. 22; Job iii. 17, 18.

In Arabic, the Preterite, made still stronger by the participle ٲ, is likewise employed in emphatic promises, etc. They say, I have already given it to thee, meaning, it is as good as done. A similar usage is that of the Lat. perii, Gr. ὄλωλα, διέφθορα. (II. 15, 128).

5. For those relative tenses, in which the past is the principal idea, viz., a) for the Imperfect Subjunctive (which is, however, expressed by the Fut. also, § 127, 5); e. g. Is. i. 9, we should have been [essemus] as Solom, we should have resembled Gomorrha; Job iii. 13; b) for the Pluperfect Subjunctive, Is. i. 9, if he had not left; Num. xiv. 2, if we had but died! (לוּ with the Future would be, if we might but die! § 136, 2); Judges xiii. 23; Job x. 19, I should be as if I had never been; c) for the Future Perfect (futurum exactum), e. g. Is. iv. 4, when he shall have washed away, prop. he has washed away; vi. 11.—Gen. xliii. 14, if I am bereaved (for, if I shall be, ubi orbis fuero), then I am bereaved (the language of desponding resignation).

6. In all the foregoing cases, we have viewed the Preterite in its independent use, when not connected with preceding verbs. But its use is no less diversified, when it is joined to preceding verbs by the conjunction ׀ (Far conversive of the

* The assurance that something will happen, can also serve to express the wish that something may happen. So Gen. xl. 14. וְעֵשֶׂתֶּנָּס עִמָּדִי הַקֶּדֶר וְהִזְכַּרְתֶּנִּי וְגו' and do thou a kindness I pray, to me (prop. thou surely dost kindness to me, I hope), and make mention of me to Pharaoh. The addition of ׀ makes this sense of the Pret. here unquestionable. In Arabic, likewise, the Pret. is employed in wishes and obtestations. In Heb. further, Job xxi. 16, the counsel of the wicked be far from me! xxii. 18. Comp. the use of the Preterite when following the Imperative, in No. 6, c.

Preterite). It then takes the tense and mood of the verb going before, and it shifts the tone forward, as explained above in § 49, 3. Hence it stands—

a) Most frequently for the Future, when that tense goes before it, e. g. Gen. xxiv. 40, Jehorah will send his angel וְהִצִּילֶנּוּ וְרִבְּנָהּ and prosper thy way (prop. and then he prospers). Judges vi. 16; 1 Sam. xvii. 32. Here the Future, in the progress of the discourse, passes over by means of the Pret. into easy description, and the sense of the Pret. follows the usage explained in No. 4 above; also—

b) For the Present Subjunctive, when the preceding Future form has this sense (according to § 127, 3); e. g. Gen. iii. 22, lest he put forth his hand and take and eat פֶּן יִשְׁלַח יָדוֹ וְלָקַח וְאָכַל); xxxii. 12; xix. 19; Num. xv. 40; Is. vi. 10.

c) For the Imperative, when a verb in that form goes before; e. g. Gen. vi. 21, take for thyself and gather לָךְ וְאָסַפְתָּ); Gen. xxvii. 43, 44; 1 Ki. ii. 36. As in the case under letter a, the command here passes over into a description of that which is to be done. At times the Pret. in this sense is put separate from the Var, as in Ps. xxii. 22.

d) For the past or the present time, according as the preceding Pret. or Fut. may require.

Rem. 1. The Pret. with Vav conv. relates to futurity, also when it is not preceded by a Future tense, but by some other indication of futurity. Exod. xvi. 6, 7, עֲרֹב וִירֵעֲתֶם at even, then ye shall know; xvii. 4, yet a little while וַיִּקְלְנוּ and they will stone me; 1 Sam. xx. 18; 1 Ki. ii. 42; Eze. xxxix. 27. After a participle which relates to futurity 1 Ki. ii. 2.

The Pret. with Vav conv. may be thus employed in the sense of the Fut. (and Imp.), even when there is no indication of futurity, e. g. after antecedent clauses which imply, a) a cause, or, b) a condition. Comp. for letter a, Num. xiv. 24, because another spirit is with him וְהָבִיאֲתִי and (therefore) I will bring him; and without the causal particle, Gen. xx. 11, there is no fear of God in the place וְהָרַגְנִי and (therefore) they will kill me (for because there is, etc.); xlv. 12, 13; Ex. vi. 6. Comp. Ps. xxv. 11, for thy name's sake וְסָלַחְתָּ so forgive (or thou wilt forgive). For letter b, Gen. xxxiii. 10, if I have found favour וְלָקַחְתָּ then take; and without the conditional particle (§ 155, 4, a), Gen. xlv. 22, should he leave his father וְנָתַתְּ then he (the father) would die; xxviii. 20; xlii. 38; Is. vi. 7, lo, this touches thy lips וְנָקַר and so is taken away thy iniquity.—Also to other very various specifications of the present we find appended by means of ׀ with the Pret. those of the future (e. g. Judges xiii. 3, thou art barren וְגִלְתִּי but thou shalt conceive and bear; 1 Sam. ix. 8, here is the fourth part of a shekel וְנָתַתִּי that will I give), or expressions of a wish (e. g. Ruth iii. 9, I am Ruth וְפָרַשְׁתָּ then spread), or also of interrogation (e. g. Exod. v. 5, the people are many in the land וְהִשְׁפַּתֶּם אֹתָם and will you let them rest? Gen. xxix. 15; 1 Sam. xxv. 10, 11).

2. A very frequent formula in prophetic language (like וְהָיָה and it came to pass in the language of history) is וְהָיָה and it will come to pass. This is found both with a preceding Future and without it (see Rem. 1), especially when a particular time is named, as Is. vii. 18, וְהָיָה בַיּוֹם הַהוּא יִשְׂרָאֵל.

USE OF THE FUTURE.

The significations of the Future are perhaps still more various than those of the Preterite. But the language has here a more definite expression for certain relations of mood, inasmuch as it has (according to § 48) a shortened and a lengthened form of the Future, the former in the jussive sense and the latter in the cohortative (see § 128). The Vav conversive also has a very extensive influence on the force of this tense (§ 129). Yet the shortening, as has been shown in treating of the verb, is not obvious in all the forms, and in other respects, also, there is some uncertainty, so that the common form occurs in almost all the relations, for which the shortened form is especially designed.

The Hebrew Future forms, in general, the exact contrary of the Preterite, and expresses, accordingly, what is unfinished, what is coming to pass and future, but also what is continued and in progress at any point of time, even of the past (see the first Note on § 47).

Hence the Future stands—

1. For strictly future time: Gen. ix. 11, לֹא יִהְיֶה עוֹד מַבּוּל there shall not again be a flood; also in narrative for the future with relation to some past point of time, as 2 Kings iii. 27, the first-born who was to reign (requaturus erat).

2. For present time; 1 Kings iii. 7, לֹא אֵדָע I know not; Is. i. 13, לֹא אוּכַל I cannot bear. Gen. xxxvii. 15. It is employed especially in the expression of permanent states, which exist now and always will exist, hence also in the expression of general truths (where the Pret. also is used, but less frequently, § 126, 3, a, b), e. g. Gen. xliii. 32, the Egyptians may not eat with the Hebrews; Job iv. 17, is man more just than God? ii. 4; Prov. xv. 20, בֶּן נֶחֱם יִטְמֶה אָב a wise son gladdens a father; and very often so in Job and Proverbs.

In the same formula is used sometimes the Preterite, and sometimes the Future, but not necessarily without difference of meaning, e. g. Job i. 7, מֵאַיִן תָּבֹא whence comest thou? Gen. xvi. 8, מֵאַיִן תָּבֹא whence didst thou come?

3. For a series of relations which in Latin are expressed by the Subjunctive, especially by the Present Subjunctive. In this way is expressed what is future or what is expected to occur, according to a subjective view or according to some other condition. It stands—

- a) For the Subjunctive after particles signifying that, that not (ut, ne), as אֲשֶׁר, בִּי אֲשֶׁר, לְמַעַן אֲשֶׁר, and לְמַעַן (without אֲשֶׁר), also יַעַן אֲשֶׁר that, in order that;* e. g. Gen. xi. 7, לֹא יִשְׁמְעוּ אֲשֶׁר לָא יִשְׁמְעוּ that they may not understand; Num. xvii. 5, לֹא יִקְרַב אֲשֶׁר לָא יִקְרַב that there come not near; Deut. iv. 1, לְמַעַן תִּהְיוּ לָא יִהְיוּ that ye may live; Eze. xii. 12, יַעַן אֲשֶׁר לָא יִרְאֶה that he see not; and after כִּן that not, lest, e. g. כִּן יִשְׁלַח יָדוֹ Gen. iii. 22.
- b) For the Optative; Job iii. 3; יָאבֵד יוֹם pereat dies; vs. 5, 6, 8; vi. 9. In this sense the lengthened or shortened form is properly used (§ 128, 1, 2), followed often by the particle נָא;† e. g. יִגְמְרֵנָּה, Ps. vii. 10, O that might cease—! יְדַבֵּרֵנָּה עַבְדְּךָ Gen. xlv. 18, might thy servant speak, for let thy servant speak; ver. 33, יִשְׁבֵּנָּה may he now abide. Yet, at times, the full form is employed even where the shortened one clearly exists, e. g. תִּרְאֶה let appear, Gen. i. 9; comp. xli. 34; יִרְאֶה אֵל Job iii. 9.
- c) For the Imperative, the place of which it always supplies in negative commands (prohibitions). When it expresses prohibition, it is preceded by לֹא, as לֹא תִגְנוֹב thou shalt not steal Exod. xx. 15; when dehortatory, by אַל, as אַל-תִּירָא fear not Gen. xlvi. 3; Job iii. 4, 6, 7 (and in this connexion with אַל the jussive or shortened form is proper to be used, § 128, 2). It is also used for the Imperative when the third person is required, and for the Imperatives of the passive voice, so far as the forms of these are not in use (see § 46); e. g. יְהִי אֹר let light be, Gen. i. 3; יִמָּת let him be put to death, Ex. xxxv. 2, 1 Ki. ii. 24. Comp. § 128, 2.
- d) For the so-called Potential, where we use may, can, might, could, ought, etc.; e. g. Gen. ii. 16, אֲכַל תֹּאכַל thou mayest eat; Prov. xx. 9, מִי יֹאמֵר who can say? Gen. xliii. 7, הֲיָדַע נָדַע could we know? Gen. xx. 9, אֲשֶׁר לֹא יַעֲשֶׂוּ (deeds) that ought not to be done.

4. Even for time past. It is thus used chiefly in these cases:

- a) After the particles אָז then,‡ בְּטָרָם not yet, בְּטָרָם (when not yet) before; e. g. Jos. x. 12, אָז יְדַבֵּר יְהוֹשֻׁעַ then spake Joshua; Gen. ii. 5, טָרָם יְהִיָּה there was not yet; Gen. xxxvii. 18; בְּטָרָם תֵּצֵא before thou comest forth, (priusquam

* When these particles have a different signification, the Future is not used; e. g. כִּי because, with the Pret. Judges ii. 20, אֲשֶׁר because, Gen. xxxiv. 27.

† The particle נָא (§ 105) gives to the verb the force of a request and of a wish. On its use with the first person, see § 128, 1.

‡ When אָז signifies then in respect to future time, this form of the verb has a future sense (Ex. xii. 48).

evires), Jer. i. 5. (Compare the use of the Pret. and Fut. in the same sentence, 1 Sam. iii. 7.)

b) Often also of customary or continued action, and in extended representation, like the Imperfect of the Latin and French languages. Repeated or customary action, as it involves the conception of something unfinished and yet to be, is properly expressed by the Future. Job i. 5, thus did (יַעֲשֶׂה) Job continually; xxii. 6, 7, 8; xxix. 12, 13; Judges xiv. 10; 1 Sam. i. 7; 1 Kings iii. 4 (a thousand burnt-offerings he offered, יַעֲלֶה) Is. x. 6; Ps. xxxii. 4; xlii. 5. Yet also—

c) Of single acts that are done and past, where the Preterite might be expected. Such is the case, at least, in poetry, on the same principle as we employ the Present tense in lively representations of the past. Job iii. 3, perish the day, וְאֵלֶךְ בּוֹ in which I was born; vs. 11, לָמָּה לֹא נִרְחַם אִמּוֹת why did I not from the womb? iv. 12, 15, 16; x. 10, 11; very notable also is Judges ii. 2.

5. For the Imperfect Subjunctive, especially in conditional sentences (the modus conditionalis) both in the protasis and apodosis. Ps. xxiii. 4, גַּם כִּי-אֵלֶךְ . . . . even if I should go . . . . I should not fear; Job v. 8, I would apply unto God (were I in thy place); ix. 21, I should not know myself (if I spoke otherwise); x. 18, I had died, and no eye had seen me; iii. 16; vi. 14. In this case, also, the shortened form is properly used (§ 128, 2, c).

SECT. 128.

USE OF THE LENGTHENED AND SHORTENED FUTURE (COHORTATIVE AND JUSSIVE).

1. The Future as lengthened by the ending הַ־ (the Cohortative) is used almost exclusively in the first person; and is expressive of purpose or endeavour (see § 48, 3). Hence this form is employed, a) to express excitement of one's self, or a determination, spoken with some degree of emphasis. Ps. xxxi. 8, אֲנִילֶה וְאִשְׂמַחָה let me be glad and rejoice! ii. 3; וְנִתְקַה come! let us break asunder. Also, with less emphasis, in soliloquy; Ex. iii. 3, אֶסְבֶּה-נָּא וְאֶרְאֶה I will turn aside now and see; Gen. xxxii. 21. b) To express a wish, a request (for leave to do something); Deut. ii. 27, אֶעֱבְרָה let me pass through; Num. xx. 17, נִעְבְּרָה-נָּא let us pass through, I pray thee. c) When a purpose is expressed, and the verb is commonly joined by ׀ to a preceding Imperative; Gen. xxvii. 4, bring it hither, וְאֶכְלֶה and I will eat = that I may eat; xxix. 21; xlii. 34; Job x. 20. Less frequently, d) it stands in conditional sentences with if, though, expressed or implied, Job xvi. 6; xi. 17; Ps. cxxxix. 8. Moreover, it stands, e) frequently after Vav conversive (§ 49, 2).

In Jeremiah this form is used to give force and emphasis of almost every kind; iii. 25; iv. 19, 21; vi. 10.

2. The shortened Future (the Jussive) is used principally, a) in the expression of command or wish, as תִּצַּח profērat Gen. i. 24, תִּצַּח profēret Is. lxi. 11, יָקָם sistat Jer. xxviii. 6, לֵי יְהִי utinam sit xxx. 34, also joined to a preceding Imperative by ׀ (comp. No. 1, c), Ex. viii. 4, intreat Jehovah וַיִּכַּר and may he take away = that he may take away; x. 17; Judges vi. 30; 1 Kings xxi. 10; Esther vii. 2 (וַתִּשָּׂא). b) In dissuasion, or negative entreaty, as לֹא תֵשֶׁב bring not again Gen. xxiv. 8; 1 Ki. ii. 6; אַל-תִּשְׁחַת destroy not Deut. ix. 26, in the tone of entreaty אַל-תִּשָּׁב אֶת-פָּנָי turn me not away, 1 Kings ii. 20, of warning אַל יֵאֱמָן ne confidat Job xv. 31, xx. 17.* c) Frequently in conditional sentences (like the Arabic usage) both in the protasis and apodosis. Thus, Ps. xlv. 12 (יִתְאָו); civ. 20 (תִּשָּׂא and יִהְיֶה); Hos. vi. 1 (יִרְ); Is. i. 2 (תִּמְתֵּן); Gen. iv. 12 (תִּכְרֶה); Lev. xv. 24 (אִם . . . תִּהְיֶה); Job x. 16, xiii. 5, xvii. 2, xxii. 28; 1 Sam. vii. 3 (וַיִּצַּל). d) After Vav conversive (§ 49, 2).

As the jussive form of the Future is far from being always orthographically distinguished from the usual form (§ 48, 4, and § 127, 3, b, c), its force may occasionally be doubtful, especially as the poets now and then employ the shortened form where the usual one might stand without materially altering the sense, e. g. Ps. xxv. 9. The jussive form, in that case, expresses rather a subjective judgment, such as we indicate by it may be, it might, could, should, must be, according as the sense and context of each passage may require.

USE OF THE FUTURE WITH VAV CONVERSIVE.

1. The Future with Vav conversive (וַיִּקְטַל and he killed, § 49, 2), stands only in connexion with something preceding. Most commonly a narrative begins with a Preterite, and then proceeds in the Future with Vav conversive; which is the most usual way of relating past events;† e. g. Gen. iv. 1, and Adam knew (וַיִּדַע) Eve his wife, and she conceived and bare (וַתַּהַר וַתֵּלֶד) Cain; vi. 9, 10, etc.; x. 9, 10, 15, 19; xi. 12—15, 27, 28; xiv. 5, etc.; xv. 1, 2; xvi. 1, 2; xxi. 1, etc.; xxiv. 1, 2; xxv. 19, 20, etc.; xxxvi. 2—4; xxxvii. 2.‡

* On the cases under a and b, see above in § 127, 3, b and c.

† This construction may perhaps be accounted for by supposing, that what was thus put in the Future was conceived of as relatively future, i. e. as later than and subsequent to what had been expressed by the preceding Preterite. This conjecture will obviously hold good in the first example given above. Compare Rödiger's own view of the Preterite in § 125.—Tr.

‡ The preceding Preterite is, at times, only implied in the sense, e. g. Gen. xi. 10, Shem (was) 100 years old וַיִּזְדַּק

2. If there be, however, any connexion with an earlier event, the Fut. with Vav conv. may even begin a narrative or a section of one. In this case we find a very frequent use of וַיְהִי (καὶ ἐγένετο) and it happened Gen. xi. 1, xiv. 1, xvii. 1, xxii. 1, xxvi. 1, xxvii. 1;* וַיֹּאמֶר יְהוָה and Jehovah said xii. 1.

This use of the Future is found also, especially, a) after an antecedent clause, e. g. after because, as in 1 Sam. xv. 23, because thou hast rejected Jehovah's word וַיִּסְרֹף יְהוָה לְפָנָיו therefore he rejects thee, Gen. xxxiii. 10; after since (כִּי) Job iv. 5; b) after an absolute noun, e. g. 1 Kings xii. 17, as to the children of Israel, וַיִּקְלֹף עֲלֵיהֶם רְחֹבָעַם so Rehoboam reigned over them; ix. 21: Dan. viii. 22.†

The Vav conv. (ו) may be rendered that in sentences like the following: Ps. cxliv. 3, what is man וַתִּדְרְעֵהוּ that thou takest knowledge of him! (comp. Ps. viii. 5, where כִּי is used); Is. li. 12, who art thou וַתִּירָא that thou shouldst be afraid? But the idea in the former passage (Ps. cxliv. 3) is this, how insignificant is man! and yet thou dost notice him.

3. As to the relations of time indicated by this Future of consecution (see Note *, p. 83), we may remark that, in accordance always with the preceding tense, it may refer—

a) To the present time, viz., in continued descriptions of it, when preceded by a Preterite (in the sense of a Present), Gen. xxxii. 6; Is. ii. 7, 8; Job vii. 9; xiv. 2; or a Future (as a Present), Job xiv. 10; 1 Sam. ii. 29; or a Participle, Nah. i. 4; 2 Sam. xix. 2; Amos ix. 6.

b) Less frequently to futurity, when preceded by a Preterite (as a Future), Is. v. 15, 16, xxii. 7, 8; Joel ii. 23; Micah ii. 13; Ps. cxx. 1; or by a Jussive, Joel ii. 18, 19; or by an Imperative, Ps. l. 6 (also when joined to a clause without a verb, e. g. Gen. xlix. 15, or to an absolute noun, e. g. Is. ix. 11, or when it turns to the future, e. g. Is. ii. 9, ix. 13).

The form וַיְהִי stands for then had been in dependent clauses after לוֹי, e. g. Is. xlvi. 18, 19; and וַיֹּאמֶר in a conditional clause, e. g. Ps. cxxxix. 11 and (if) I should say (comp. the common Future, § 127, 5).

THE IMPERATIVE.

1. The Imperative expresses not only command in the strict sense, but also exhortation (Hos. x. 12), entreaty (2 Kings v. 23, sometimes with נָא, verse 22; and he begat, x. 1. So also in this sentence, on the third day וַיִּשָּׂא אֶת־עֵינָיו and he lifted up his eyes; in full it would be, it happened on the third day that—, Gen. xxii. 4; Is. xxxvii. 19; vi. 1.

* This connexion is customary when a specification of time is to be made, e. g. Gen. xxii. 1, וַיְהִי אֶתֶר הַדְּבָרִים וַיְהִי בִּי אֲרָבּוּ לוֹ שֵׁם הַיְחִיִּים וַיִּשְׁקֶה xxxix. 8, וַיִּהְיֶה בְּהַאֲלָהִים וַיִּהְיֶה נָסָה and it happened after these things, that God tried; xxxix. 13, 15, 18, 19; Judges xvi. 16, 25. See the numerous passages in Gesenius's Theo. Ling. Hebr. p. 372. In a similar way, we found וַיְהִי used of the Future in § 126, Rem. 2.

† On the sentences which begin with the Infinitive or Participle, and then proceed with this Future of consecution, see § 132, Rem. 2, and § 134, Rem. 2.

Is. v. 3), wish (Ps. viii. 2, and with ל, Gen. xxiii. 13), permission (2 Sam. xviii. 23; Is. xlv. 11). It is employed especially in strong assurances (comp. thou shalt have it, which expresses both a command and a promise); and hence, in prophetic declarations, as Is. vi. 10, thou shalt make the heart of this people hard, for thou wilt make. These may be either, a) promises, Ps. cxxxviii. 5, thou shalt see (רָאִה) the prosperity of Jerusalem; Is. xxxvii. 30; lxxv. 18; Ps. xxii. 24; Gen. xx. 7; or, *b) threatenings** Is. xxiii. 1, howl, ye ships of Tarshish, for ye shall (will) howl; vs. 2, 4, x. 30, xiii. 6. In all these cases the use of the Imp. approximates much to that of the Fut., which may therefore precede (Gen. xx. 7; xlv. 18) or follow it (Is. xxxiii. 20) in the same signification.

In nearly all its significations, the Imperative is enlivened or strengthened by the addition of the particle אַךְ aye! (§ 105), thus, in the sense of command, both the milder (do now this or that), e. g. Gen. xxiv. 2, and the sterner or menacing, e. g. Num. xvi. 26; xx. 10; and in the sense of entreaty, e. g. אַךְ אֶפְרַיִם נָא Gen. xii. 13. In the sense of ironical permission we have אַךְ עֲקֹרֵי נָפֶשׁ only persist! Is. xlvi. 12.

2. We may, from the above, explain the peculiar use of two Imperatives joined by and; a) where they are employed in a good sense, the first containing an admonition or exhortation, and the second a promise made on the condition implied in the first (like divide et impera), e. g. Gen. xlii. 18, זָאת עֲשׂוּ וְחַיִּי this do, and (ye shall) live; Prov. xx. 13, keep thine eyes open (be wakeful, active), and thou shalt have plenty of bread; Ps. xxxvii. 27 (comp. vs. 3); Prov. vii. 2; ix. 6; Job xxii. 21; Is. xxxvi. 16; xlv. 22; Hos. x. 12; Amos v. 4, 6; b) where a threat is expressed, and the first Imp. tauntingly permits an act, while the second denounces the consequences; Is. viii. 9, רָעוּ עַמִּים וְחַתְּמוּ rage on, ye people, and ye shall surely be dismayed; Is. xxix. 9. Instead of the second Imp. the Fut. also may be used; Is. vi. 9; viii. 10; 1 Sam. xvii. 44.

Rem. 1. How far the Pret. and Fut. may be employed to express command has been shown in § 126, 6, c, § 127, 3, c, and § 128, 2.

2. It is incorrect to suppose that the form of the Imp. is used, as some grammarians maintain, for the third person (let him kill). Among the examples adduced of this usage is Gen. xvii. 10, כָּל־זָכָר כְּבָל־יֻכָּר every male among you shall be circumcised. (In verse 12, יִפּוֹל is used. But הַפּוֹל is the Infinitive which gives the same sense, § 131, 4, b.) Equally mistaken are the other examples, viz., Ps. xxii. 9 (לֵל Inf.); Gen. xxxi. 50; Judges ix. 28; Is. xlv. 21 (in the last three passages we have actual Imperatives of the 2nd person).

* Analogous is the form of menace in the comic writers, vapula, Terent. Phorm. V. 6, 10, vapulare te jubeo, Plaut. Curculio, IV. 4, 12.

SECT. 131.

USE OF THE INFINITIVE ABSOLUTE.

The Infinitive absolute is employed, as has been remarked in § 45, 1, when there is occasion to express the action of the verb by itself, neither connected with something following nor dependent on a preceding noun or particle.* The most important cases of its use are—

1. When it is governed by a transitive verb, and consequently stands as an accusative. Is. xlii. 24, לֹא אָבוּ הַלֹּךְ they would not go; vii. 15, לִרְעֵתוֹ מֵאִים בָּרַע וּבָחֹר, until he learn to refuse the evil, and choose the good; Jer. ix. 4. Here, however, the Inf. constr. is oftener used, with or without a preposition, always according to the construction of the preceding verb, § 142, 1, 2.

In the same construction is Is. xxii. 13, behold! joy and gladness, הָרוּג בָּקָר וְשָׁחַט צֹאן וְנָר the slaying (prop. to slay) oxen, the slaughtering sheep, the eating flesh, the drinking wine (where the Infinitives are mere accusatives governed by behold!) Is. v. 5, I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard פָּרוּץ נִדְרוֹ . . . פָּרוּץ נִדְרוֹ מִיִּשְׁנֹקְתּוֹ הִכָּר the taking away (to take away) its hedge and the tearing down its wall,—q. d. that will I do.

2. When it is in the accusative and used adverbially† (in Latin as gerund in do); e. g. בֵּנֵי הַיֵּטֵב bene faciendo for bene, הַרְבֵּה multum faciendo for multum. Hence—

3. When it is used for emphasis in connexion with a finite verb:

a) It then stands most commonly before the finite verb, to which it gives, in general, strength or intensity. 1 Sam. xx. 6, נִשְׂאָל נִשְׂאָל מִמֶּנִּי he urgently besought of me; Gen. xliii. 3, he strictly charged us (הִצַּד הָעֵד). A very clear example is in Amos ix. 8, I will destroy it from the face of the earth, except that I will not utterly destroy (לֹא הִשְׁמִיד אֶשְׁמִיד) the house of Jacob. Judges i. 28. Its effect is often merely to give a certain prominence to the thought contained in the finite verb,—which in other languages is done chiefly by the tone of the voice or by particles,—as in assurances, questions (such especially as express excitement in view of something strange and improbable), and contrasts; Gen. xliii. 7, could we (then) know? עָלֵינוּ הַמְּלֹךְ הַמְּלֹךְ will thou (indeed)

* Here the Inf. constr. is always used. But when several successive infinitives are to have a preposition, it is often written only before the first; and the second, before which it is to be supplied by the mind, stands in the absolute form, as לֶאֱכַל וְלִשְׁתּוֹ to eat and (to) drink, Ex. xxxii. 6; comp. 1 Sam. xxii. 13; xxv. 26; Jer. vii. 18; xlv. 17. This case is analogous with that explained in § 121, 3. Comp. also No. 4, a, of this section.

† On the accusative as a casus adverbialis, see § 118. In Arabic it takes, in this case, the sign of the accusative. In general, the Inf. absol. answers in most cases (see Nos. 1, 2, 3, of this section) to the accusative of the Infinitive, to which No. 4 also is to be referred.

rule over us? xxxi. 30, hadst thou even gone* (הֲלֹךְ הָלַכְתָּ), since thou didst so earnestly long (נִכְסַף נִכְסַפְתָּ); Judges xv. 13, we will bind thee, but we will not kill thee; 1 Sam. ix. 6; 2 Sam. xxiv. 24; Hab. ii. 3.

- b) When the Inf. stands after the finite verb, this connexion generally indicates continued or lasting action. Is. vi. 9, שָׁמְעוּ שָׁמְעוּ hear on continually; Jer. xxiii. 17; Gen. xix. 9, וַיִּשְׁפֹּט שָׁפוט and he will always be playing the judge! Two Infinitives absolute may be thus used; 1 Sam. vi. 12, הָלְכוּ הָלֹךְ וּנְעוּ they went going on and lowing, for they steadily went on lowing; 1 Kings xx. 37. Instead of the second Inf., a finite verb is sometimes used (Josh. vi. 13), or a participle (2 Sam. xvi. 5).

Rem. 1. This usage in regard to the position of the Inf. is certainly the common one, though not without exceptions. It sometimes follows the finite verb which it strengthens, when the idea of repetition or continuance is excluded by the connexion. Is. xxii. 17; Jer. xxii. 10; Gen. xxxi. 15; xlv. 4; Dan. x. 11, 13. In Syriac, the Inf. when it expresses intensity stands always before, and in Arab. always after, the finite verb.—When a negative is used it is commonly placed between the two (Ex. v. 23), seldom before them both (Gen. iii. 4).

2. With a finite verb of one of the derived conjugations may be connected not only the Inf. absol. of the same conjugation (Gen. xvii. 13; xl. 15), but also that of Kal (e. g. טָרַף טָרַף Gen. xxxvii. 33; Job vi. 2), or of another of the same signification (Lev. xix. 20; 2 Kings iii. 23).

3. In expressing the idea of continuance (letter b), the verb הִלָּךְ is frequently employed, with the signification to go on, to continue on, and thus denotes also constant increase; e. g. Gen. xxvi. 13, וַיִּגְדַּל הָלֹךְ הָלֹךְ he became continually greater and greater. 2 Sam. v. 10; Gen. viii. 3, הַיָּבֵשׁ הַיָּבֵשׁ . . . וַיִּשְׁבַּח הָלֹךְ and the waters flowed off continually. (The participial construction is also frequent here; e. g. 1 Sam. ii. 26, הַנְּעִיר שְׂמוּאֵל הָלָךְ וַיִּגְדַּל וַיִּטְוֶב the child Samuel went on increasing in stature and in goodness; 2 Sam. iii. 1.) A similar mode of expression is found in the French: le mal va toujours croissant, la maladie va toujours en augmentant et en empirant, grows worse continually.

4. When it stands in place of the finite verb. We must here distinguish the two following cases, viz.—

- a) When it is preceded by a finite verb. This is frequent, especially among the later writers, in the expression of several successive acts or states, where only the first of the verbs employed takes the required form in respect to tense and person, the others being simply put in the Infinitive with the same tense and person implied. (Comp. § 121, 3.) So with the Pret. Dan. ix. 5, מְרַדְּנוּ וְסוּר we have rebelled and (we have) turned away; Gen. xli. 43, הִצִּיטוֹ לָרִכְבִּי וַיִּרְדֵּי he caused him to ride in the second chariot, and placed him; 1 Sam. ii. 28; Jer. xiv. 5. With the Fut., Jer. xxxii. 44, יִקְנוּ אֲדָמָה וְיִכְתְּבוּ וְיִשְׂבוּ they will buy fields for money (Fut.), and write and seal bills of sale, and take witnesses (three Infinitives), Num. xv. 35.

* As much as to say, I understand well wherefore thou art gone, viz., from earnest longing. The Vulgate renders it, esto, ad tuos ire cupiebas.

b) It may stand at the beginning of the sentence, without a preceding finite verb. The Infinitive (being the pure abstract idea of the verb) may serve as a short and emphatic expression for any tense and person, which the connexion requires; e. g. it stands a) for the Pret. in lively narration and description, like the Latin Infinitivus historicus. Is. xxi. 5, עָרוּךְ הַשְּׁלֵהֶן צֶפֶה הַצְּפִית אָכֹל וְשָׁתָה to prepare the table, to set the watch, to eat, to drink (sc. this they do), for they prepare, etc.; lix. 4; Hos. iv. 2; Eze. i. 14; Job xv. 35. Also, β) for the Fut. in its proper sense. 2 Kings iv. 43, וְהוֹתֵר אָכֹל וְהוֹתֵר to eat and to leave thereof (sc. ye shall do); γ) most frequently for the emphatic Imp., as Deut. v. 12. שָׁמֹר to observe (sc. thou art to, ye are to); so Ex. xx. 8, זָכוֹר to remember (oughtest thou); hence, with the full form, שָׁמֹר הַשְּׁמֵרֹן, Deut. vi. 17; זָכַר הַנִּזְכָּר, vii. 18. For the Cohortative Is. xxii. 13, אָכֹל וְשָׁתוּ to eat and to drink! (sc. let us eat and drink); 1 Kings xxii. 30 to disguise myself and go (will I do).

Rem. 1. The Inf. for the finite verb is seldom found in connexion with the subject, as in Job xl. 2; Eze. i. 14.

2. The examples are also few of the Inf. constr. employed in these cases. Such are Is. lx. 14, where it is used adverbially like the gerund in do; it is connected with a finite verb in Neh. i. 7 (תָּבֵל), Ps. l. 21 (הָיִיתָ), Ruth ii. 16 (שָׁלַל), Num. xxiii. 25 (קָבַע).

SECT. 132.

INFINITIVE CONSTRUCT.

1. The Inf. constr. as a verbal substantive is subject to the same relations of case with the noun, and the modes of indicating them (§ 117) are also the same. Thus, it is found, a) in the nominative as the subject of the sentence, Gen. ii. 18, לֹא טוֹב הָיִיתָ הָאָדָם לְבַדּוֹ not good (lit. the being of man in his separation) that man should be alone; b) in the genitive, Gen. xxix. 7, עֵת הַאֲכָפָה tempus colligendi, here is to be referred the case where the Infinitive is dependent on a preposition (as being originally a noun), see No. 2; c) in the accusative, 1 Kings iii. 7, לֹא אֲדַע לֹא יָדָעָהּ I know not (how) to go out and to come in, prop. I know not the going out and coming in. (In this case the Inf. absol. may also be used, § 131. 1.)

2. For the construction of the Inf. with prepositions, as in the Greek ἐν τῷ αἶμα, the German [and English] languages generally employ a finite verb with a conjunction which expresses the import of the preposition; e. g. Num. xxxv. 19, כִּבְנֵי-בֹנוֹ when he meets him, prop. in his meeting with him. Jer. ii. 35, עַל אֲמַרְךָ because thou sayest, prop. on account of thy saying. Gen. xxvii. 1, הָיוּ עֵינָיו כְּחַרְצוֹת so that he could not see (comp. the use of כִּן before a noun to express distance from, and the absence or want of a thing). The lexicon must be consulted for particular information on the use of the different prepositions.

3. With respect to relations of time, the Infinitive refers also to the past (comp. on the Participle, § 134, 2), e. g. Gen. ii. 4, בְּהִבְרָאם when they were created (prop. in their being created).

Rem. 1. הֵיָה לַעֲשׂוֹת (or הֵיָה לַעֲשׂוֹת with the omission of הֵיָה) signifies, 1) he is about to do, intends or purposes to do, and he is intent upon, is eager to do (comp. I am to play), as Gen. xv. 12, וַיְהִי הַשָּׁמַיִשׁ לְבוֹא and the sun was about to go down. Hence, it serves for a periphrasis of the Fut., 2 Chr. xxvi. 5, וַיְהִי לְרַשֵׁת אֱלֹהִים and he served God; without הֵיָה in Is. xxxviii. 20, יְהוָה לְהוֹשִׁיעַנִי Jehovah saveth me; xxi. 1, Eccles. iii. 15, Prov. xix. 8, comp. xvi. 20. 2) It is to do for it must be done (comp. I am to give). Jos. ii. 5, וַיְהִי הַשַּׁעַר לִסְגֹר and the gate was to shut for was to be shut. More commonly without הֵיָה; 2 Kings iv. 13, מַה לַּעֲשׂוֹת what (is) to be done; 2 Chr. xix. 2. Also, 3) He was able to do (comp. the Latin non est solvendo). Judges i. 19, לֹא לְהוֹרִישׁ he could not drive out.*

2. The Hebrew writers frequently pass from the Infinitive construction (described in No. 2) to the use of the finite verb, before which the mind must then supply a conjunction answering to the preposition before the Infinitive. Thus, a Pret. follows, in Amos i. 11, וַיִּשְׁתַּח הַחֲמִי—עַל רִדְפוֹ because he pursued—and stifled his compassion; Gen. xxvii. 45; a Fut. with Vav conv. in Gen. xxxix. 18, וַאֲקַרָא קוֹלִי וְאֶקְרָא when I raised my voice and cried. Is. xxx. 12, xxxviii. 9; most commonly a Fut. with only ׀ prefixed, as in Is. v. 24, x. 2, xiii. 9, xiv. 25, xxx. 26. (Comp. the participial construction, § 134, Rem. 2.)

CONNEXION OF THE INF. CONSTRUCT WITH SUBJECT AND OBJECT.

1. The Infinitive may be construed with the case of its verb, and hence, in transitive verbs, it takes the accusative of the object; e. g. Num. ix. 15, הָקִים אֶת-הַמִּשְׁכָּן to set up the Tabernacle; 1 Sam. xix. 1, הָרַג אֶת-דָּוִד to kill David; Gen. xviii. 25, הָרַג צְדִיק to kill the righteous; 1 Kings xii. 15; xv. 4; 2 Kings xxi. 8; Eze. xliv. 30; Lev. xxvi. 15, עֲשׂוֹת אֶת-כָּל-מִצְוֹתַי to do all my commands; Gen. xix. 29, בָּרַח אֶת-הָעָרִים when he overthrew the cities; Prov. xxi. 15, עֲשׂוֹת מִשְׁפָּט to do judgment.† In like manner it takes the accusative of the pronouns, e. g. הָקִים אֶתְךָ in order to establish thee, Deut. xxix. 12; הָשִׁיבֵנִי to bring me back, Jer. xxxviii. 26; הָרַגֵנִי to slay me, Ex. ii. 14; לְבַקֶּשְׁנִי to seek me, 1 Sam. xxvii. 1;

* This sense is necessary from the context, and in the parallel passage Jos. xvii. 12 it is expressed by יָבִילִי לֹא לְהוֹרִישׁ. Comp. also the Hebrew לֹא אֵין non licet mihi, and the Syr. לִי לִית non possum (Agrell. Suppl. Synt. Syr. pp. 9, 10).

† In cases like the last, מִיִּשְׁפָּט might be easily regarded as genitive of the object (§ 114, 2), which construction is common in Arabic; but since in other instances אֶת is used, and since a form like הָקִים never occurs in such connexion, which form would decidedly mark the constr. state and also the genitive relation, we must suppose that the Hebrews considered, at least as a general rule, the object of the Inf. to be in the accusative. Compare Nos. 2. and 3.

v. 10; xxviii. 9; 1 Chron. xii. 17; Gen. xxv. 26, בְּלֶדֶת אֶתֶם quum (mater) eos pareret. If the finite verb governs two accusatives, then they will be employed also with the Infinitive, as אֶחָרֵי הוֹדִיעַ אֱלֹהִים אֶתְךָ אֶת־כָּל־זוֹאת since God has shown thee all this Gen. xli. 39.

The same construction takes place with a verbal noun analogous to the Infinitive, as אֶת־יְהוָה רָעָה knowledge of Jehovah (prop. the knowing Jehovah), Is. xi. 9, לִירְאָה אֶתִּי to fear me Deut. v. 26, Is. xxx. 28, lvi. 6.*

2. The subject of the action is commonly put immediately after the Infinitive, sometimes (where the Inf. is regarded rather as a substantive) in the genitive, but generally in the nominative; e. g. 2 Chron. vii. 3, יָרַד הָאֵשׁ the descending of the fire; Ps. cxxxiii. 1, שָׁבַת אֲחִים גַּם יָחַד that brethren dwell together; Ex. xvii. 1, there was no water for the people to drink (prop. for the drinking of the people). The genitive relation of the subject is quite plain after Infinitives of feminine-ending, as in Is. xlvi. 9, בְּעֶצְמַת הַבְּרִיךְ מְאֹד although thy enchantments are very numerous; Gen. xix. 16, בְּהַמֶּלֶת יְהוָה עָלָיו by Jehovah's pity on him; and also when it is expressed by a suffix, like בְּקִרְאִי when I call, Ps. iv. 2. 4 (yet also incorrectly בְּשׁוּבִי when I return, Eze. xlvi. 7, for בְּשׁוּבִי). On the contrary, the genitive is excluded, and the subject to be considered rather in the nominative in such cases as these: Ps. xlvi. 3, בְּהִמְיֹר אֶרֶץ (not בְּהִמְיֹר) when the earth moves; Deut. xxv. 19, בְּהִנִּיחַ יְהוָה לְךָ when Jehovah gives to thee rest; 2 Sam. xix. 20, לְשׁוֹם הַמֶּלֶךְ אֶל־לְבוֹ that the king should lay it to heart; also when the Inf. and the subject are separated, as in Judges ix. 2, הַמְּשִׁל בָּכֶם שִׁבְעִים אִישׁ אִישׁ מִשָּׁל בָּכֶם אִישׁ whether seventy men rule over you, or one man rules over you? Job xxxiv. 22, לְהַסְתֵּר שָׁם פְּעָלֵי אֲוֹן that the evil-doers hide themselves there; Ps. lxxvi. 10. See further in No. 3.

3. When both subject and object are connected with the Infinitive, the rule is, that the subject should come immediately after the Inf., and then the object. When the latter is plainly in the accusative, the subject is then put, as in No. 2, sometimes in the genitive, but chiefly in the nominative. The genitive (which prevails in Arabic) appears, e. g. in Deut. i. 27, בִּשְׂנֵאתָ יְהוָה אֶתֵּנוּ because Jehovah hates us; Is. xiii. 19, כִּמְהִפְכַת אֱלֹהִים אֶת־סֹדֶם as God overthrew Sodom; Is. xxix. 13, יִרְאֲתֶם אֶתִּי their fearing me; Gen. xxxix. 18, כִּהֲרִמִּי קוֹלִי as I lifted up my voice; but the nominative is found, e. g. in Is. x. 15, כִּהְנִיף שִׁבַּת אֶת־מְרִמּוֹ as if the rod could shake them that lift it up (where we should have had כִּהְנִיף, if שִׁבַּת were in the genitive). Accordingly the subject is usually to be considered in the nominative, as 1 Kings xiii. 4, בְּשִׁמְעוֹ הַמֶּלֶךְ אֶת־דְּבַר אִישׁ הָאֱלֹהִים as the king heard the word of the man of God. Gen. xiii. 10, Jos. xiv. 17, 2 Sam. iii. 11, Jer. xxi. 1, Eze. xxxvii. 13.

Now and then the order of the words is different, the object being put immediately after the Inf., and the nominative of the subject coming next (as a supplement) e. g. Is. xx. 1, בְּשַׁלַּח אֱהוֹ when Sargon sent him; Ezra ix. 8, לְהַאִיר עֵינֵינוּ אֱלֹהֵינוּ that our God enlighten our eyes; 2 Chron. xii. 1, כִּתְּבִין מַלְכוּת רְחֹבָעַם when Rehoboam had established the kingdom. Jos. xiv. 11, Is. v. 24, xxix. 23, Ps. lvi. 1.

USE OF THE PARTICIPLE.

1. The only existing form of the Participle is used to express all the tenses, as מֹת dying (Zech. xi. 9); he who has died, dead (very frequently so); he who is to die (Gen. xx. 3); נֹפֵל he who falls, has fallen, will fall; עֹשֶׂה facturus (Gen. xli. 25; Is. v. 5); though it most frequently has the signification of the Present. The passive Participles, therefore, stand also for the Latin Participle in -ndus, e. g. נֹרָא metuendus, terrible, Ps. lxxvi. 8; מְהֻלָּל laudandus, worthy to be praised, Ps. xviii. 4.

2. The Participle, standing in place of the finite verb as predicate of the sentence, denotes—a) Most frequently the Present:* Eccles. i. 4, דֹּר הַלֶּךְ וְדֹר בָּא one generation goes, another comes; vs. 7, כָּל־הַנְּחָלִים הֹלְכִים all the rivers flow; Gen. iv. 10. If the subject is a personal pronoun, it is either written, in its separate form, in immediate connexion with the Participle, as אֲנִי אֶפָּרַח I fear Gen. xxxii. 12, אֲנִי יִרְאַים we are afraid 1 Sam. xxiii. 3; or it is appended as a suffix to the word אֲנִי (is), as Judges vi. 36, אִם יִשָּׁךְ מִוִּישָׁע if thou savest. In the same manner it is appended, in negative sentences, to אִין; e. g. אִם אֵינְךָ מִשְׁלֵחַ if thou send not away, Gen. xliiii. 5.

Hence, b) the Future (conceived of as present, comp. § 126, 4). Is. v. 5, אֵת אֲשֶׁר אֶעֱשֶׂה what I do, for what I will do. Gen. xix. 13; xli. 25.

Also, c) the Past, especially when it stands connected with the statement of other past contemporaneous circumstances. Job i. 16, עוֹר וְהָ כִּי־דַבֵּר וְזָה בָּא the one (was) still speaking, and another came; vs. 17. Gen. xlii. 35; Ex. ii. 6; Judges xiii. 9; 1 Sam. xvii. 23; 1 Ki. i. 5, 22. But it is also used with reference to past time, and even for the perfect Preterite, without any such connexion; e. g. Deut. iv. 3, עֵינֶיכֶם הָרְאוּ your eyes which have seen.†

With the verb הָיָה it serves to express the Imperfect.‡ Job i. 14, הַבָּקָר הָיָה הֹרֵיטוֹת the oxen were ploughing, Gen. xv. 17; Judges i. 7; xvi. 21.

Rem. 1. In all the three cases alluded to above, a, b, c, הָיָה is employed before the Participle for awakening special attention; e. g. (a) For the Present, הִנֵּה הַנֶּגֶד behold! thou (art) with child,

* In Syriac and Chaldee, it is more frequently used for the Present than in its proper signification as a Participle.

† For the use of the article here before the predicate, see § 110, 3, Rem.

‡ In Syriac, the Present is expressed by interficiens ego (comp. letter a), and the Imperfect by interficiens fui = interficiendum.

Gen. xvi. 11; xxvii. 42; Ex. xxxiv. 11. (b) For the Future. Gen. vi. 17; Is. iii. 1; vii. 14; xvii. 1. (c) For the Past, Gen. xxxvii. 7; xli. 17.

2. By a change of construction, the Participle is often immediately followed by a finite verb: the pronouns that, who, etc. (אֲשֶׁר) implied in the Participle, must then be mentally supplied before the verb. So Part. and Pret. in Is. xiv. 17, that made (עָשָׂה) the world as a wilderness, and (who) destroyed (הָרַס) the cities thereof. Also Part. and Fut. Present, so that the second clause begins with  $\text{וְ}$  or without it, e. g. Is. v. 8, הוֹי כְּנִינֵי כְּנַת כְּבֵית שְׂרָה כְּשֶׁרָה וְקָרִיבוּ woe to those who connect house with house, and (who) join field to field; vs. 11, 23; xxxi. 1; 1 Sam. ii. 8; Prov. xix. 26; also with Vav conversive, e. g. Gen. xxvii. 33, הָצַד צֹדֵר וְנָבֵא that hath hunted game and brought it; xxxv. 3; Ps. xviii. 33. (Compare the strictly analogous deviation from the Infinitive-construction, § 132, Rem. 2.)

SECT. 135.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE PARTICIPLE.

When Participles are followed by the object of the action which they express they are construed in two ways; 1) as verbal-adjectives having the same government as the verbs to which they belong; e. g. 1 Sam. xviii. 29, אֹיֵב אֶת־דָּוִד David's enemy (prop. one hating David); 1 Ki. ix. 23, הַרְדִּים בָּעַם they who rule the people; Ps. xxxiv. 13, הַהֲפִין הַיָּם he who desires life; Eze. ix. 2, לְבוּשׁ בְּדִים clothed with linen garments; 2) as nouns followed by a genitive (§ 112, 2); e. g. Gen. xxii. 12, יִרָא אֱלֹהִים one that fears (a fearer of) God; Ps. lxxxiv. 5, יֹשְׁבֵי בֵיתְךָ inmates of thy house; Eze. ix. 11, לְבוּשׁ הַבְּדִים the one clothed with linen garments; 2 Sam. xiii. 31, קָרַע־בְּגָדֵיהֶם having (their) clothes rent; Ps. xxxii. 1, נִשְׁוִי עוֹן whose transgression is forgiven.

This latter construction with the genitive is properly confined to active verbs (§ 138). The Participle of the verb בָּאָה to enter in, is also construed thus, as this verb is followed by the accusative (comp. ingredi portam); e. g. Gen. xxiii. 10, קָאֵי יֹשְׁעֵר those who enter in at the gate. But there are also examples of the Participle, regarded as a noun, being followed by a genitive in cases where the verb to which it belongs is construed only with a preposition; e. g. הִקְיִי קִמְיִי those who rise up against me,—against him, for עָלָיו עָלֵי, Ps. xviii. 40, 49; Deut. xxxiii. 11; 1s. lix. 20, נִשְׁבִּי קִישָׁע those who turn from evil.

2. The difference explained in No. 1, holds also in regard to the suffixes. After the first method, we have עֲשֵׂנִי he who made me, after the second עֲשֵׂי my maker.

SECT. 136.

EXPRESSION OF THE OPTATIVE.

We have already seen (§ 127, 3, b) that the Future, especially as cohortative with the ending הָרָה and with the particle אֵן, is employed to express the Optative. Here must be added two other forms of circumlocution by which it is expressed, viz.—

1. By questions expressive of desire, e. g. 2 Sam. xv. 4, מִי יִשְׁמַנִּי שֹׁמֵט who will make me judge? i. e. would that I were made judge! Judges ix. 29, מִי יִתֵּן אֶת־הָעַם הַזֶּה בְּיָדִי would that this people were placed in my hand! Ps. lv. 7; Job xxix. 2. In the phrase מִי יִתֵּן the proper force of the verb (to give) is often excluded, and nothing more is expressed than would that! (utinam!) God grant! It is followed, a) by an accusative, as Deut. xxviii. 67, מִי־יִתֵּן עֶרֶב would it were evening! prop. who will give evening? b) by an Infinitive, as Ex. xvi. 3, מִי־יִתֵּן מוֹתֵנוּ O that we had died! c) by a finite verb (with or without וְ), Deut. v. 26, מִי־יִתֵּן וְהָיָה לְבַבְכֶם זֶה לָהֶם O that they had this heart! Job xxiii. 3.

2. By the particles אִם si, O si! לוֹ O si! especially by the latter, Ps. cxxxix. 19. The particle is followed by the Fut., Gen. xvii. 18, by the Part., Ps. lxxxix. 14, seldom by the Imp., Gen. xxiii. 13. When it is followed by the Pret., the desire expressed has reference to past time; as Num. xx. 3, לוֹ נִוְעַנּוּ would we had died!

PERSONS OF THE VERB.

1. In the use of the persons of the verb there is sometimes a neglect in respect to the distinctions of gender: especially are the masculine forms (as being the most readily occurring) employed with reference to objects which are feminine; e. g. יָרַעְתָּם Eze. xxiii. 49, עָשִׂיתָם Ruth i. 8, וַתִּכְרַת thou (fem.) hast made a league Is. lvii. 8; Joel ii. 22; Am. iv. 1; Cant. ii. 7. (Compare the analogous use of the pronoun, § 121, Rem. 1.)

2. The third person (most commonly in the masc.) is very often employed impersonally, e. g. וַיְהִי and it happened; צָר לוֹ and וַיִּצַר לוֹ (lit. it was strait to him) he was in trouble; לוֹ הָם and לוֹ וַיִּהְיֶה לוֹ he became warm. It is also employed thus in the fem., e. g. 1 Sam. xxx. 6, וַתִּצַר לְדָוִד and David was in trouble; Ps. l. 3; Jer. x. 7.

The Arabic and Æthiopic commonly employ here the masc. and the Syriac the fem. form.

3. The indeterminate third person (where the Germans use man, the French on, and we they, one,) is expressed, a) by the 3rd pers. singular, e. g. קָרָא they (prop. he) called Gen. xi. 9; xvi. 14; 1 Sam. xix. 22; xxiv. 11; b) by the 3rd pers. plural, as Gen. xli. 14, וַיְבִיאוּהוּ and they brought him in haste, for he was brought; c) by the 2nd person singular, e. g. Is. vii. 25, לֹא־תָבוֹא שָׁמָּה there shall no one go thither; so in the common phrase עַד בֹּאֵךְ or בֹּאֵךְ until one comes; d) by the passive voice, as Gen. iv. 26, אִז הוֹדְלוּ לְקִרְאָה then they began to call upon —.*

Rem. 1. In the first case (letter a), the force of אִיִּם (impersonal, as we use one, men, they) is implied: the full construction occurs in one instance, 1 Sam. ix. 9, לָפָנֶיךָ בְּיִשְׂרָאֵל בָּה אָמַר הָאִיִּם formerly they said thus in Israel. Sometimes another construction is employed, viz., the repetition of the verb in the form of the Participle as a nominative; e. g. Is. xvi. 10, לֹא יִדְרֹךְ הַדְרֹךְ the treader shall not tread, for they shall not tread = there shall be no treading; xxviii. 4; Jer. ix. 23; Eze. xxxiii. 4. The last not unfrequent in Arabic.

2. When the pronoun is to be expressed with emphasis, it is written separately before the corresponding verbal form; e. g. תָּתַתְּ לָתֶּךָ thou hast given, Judges xv. 18; 1 Kings xxi. 7; Ps. ii. 6; cxxxix. 2; also after the verbal form, Judges xv. 12, and this occurs in the later writers without any special emphasis, as אֲנִי דִבַּרְתִּי אֲנִי Eccles. i. 16, beginning; ii. 11, 12, 13, 15, 20; viii. 15.

3. In the poets and prophets, especially, there is often, in the same construction, a sudden transition from one person to another. Is. i. 29, כִּי יִבְשׂוּ כִּיאֵילִים אֲשֶׁר הֵמְדִתֶּם for they shall be ashamed of the groves in which ye delight, where both the third and second persons are employed with reference to the same subject. Isa. lxi. 7; Deut. xxxii. 15, 17; Mic. ii. 3.—In Job xiii. 28, the third person is probably employed δεικτικῶς for the first, compare also vi. 21 (according to the reading לִּי).

SECT. 138.

VERBS WITH THE ACCUSATIVE.

All transitive verbs govern in general the accusative (§ 118). On this rule we remark—

1. There are many verbs which are construed both without an object (absolutely), and with one (in this latter case the verb in German and English often takes the prefix be); e. g. בָּכָה to weep, and to be-weep; יָשַׁב to dwell, and to dwell in, inhabit; אָצַף to go forth, and also like egredi in the form egredi urbem (Gen. xlv. 4).

Here notice further:

Rem. 1. Several verbs of this kind take after them their own substantive, i. e. one from the same root and with a corresponding signification, as פָּתַר פָּתַר Ps. xiv. 5, יָעַן עָנָה 1 Kings i. 12, like βουλεύειν βουλὰς II. x. 147; most frequently as a specification, or as a limitation of the general idea of the verb (as also in Greek); e. g. Gen. xxvii. 31, וַיִּצְעַק צִעָקָה גְּרִלָּה וּמָרָה he cried a loud and bitter cry; vs. 33; 2 Kings xiii. 14; Zech. i. 14; 1 Chr. xxix. 9. Comp. σοῦαῖν τόσον σοῦαίη, etc.

2. Verbs which signify to flow, to stream, take in the poets an accusative of that which is represented as poured forth in a stream. Lam. iii. 48, פְּלִגְיֵי־מַיִם תִּרְדַּר עֵינַי my eye flows down streams of water. Joel iv. 18, the hills flow milk. So נָזַל to run, to flow, Jer. ix. 17, נָזַף to distil, Joel iv. 18, and הִצִּיף to gush forth, to flow abundantly (hence, to bear along, as does a torrent, Is. x. 22; similar,

* Sometimes, on the contrary, the impersonal dicunt must be understood as strictly the passive dicitur, Job vii. 3, nights of pain have they appointed me, for are appointed me (sc. by God); iv. 19; xvii. 12; xxxii. 15; xxxiv. 20. So in Chaldee very frequently (Dan. ii. 30; iii. 4; v. 3), and in Syriac.

but more bold, is Prov. xxiv. 31, וְהִנֵּה עָלָה בָּלוּ קַפְיָטוֹנִים and behold it (the field) has all gone up to thorns. Is. v. 6. Compare in Greek, προπέειν ὕδωρ, Hymn. in Apoll. 2, 202; δάκρυα στάζειν.

3. It is also to be regarded as a mere poetic usage, when verbs which signify to do, to speak, to cry, and the like, take an accusative of the instrument or member with which the act is performed. This is best illustrated by the example וְעַק קוֹל קָדוֹל to cry a loud voice (comp. Rem. 1), for to cry with a loud voice, Eze. xi. 13; to speak a lying tongue (Ps. cix. 2), hence, Ps. iii. 5, אֶקְרָא קוֹלִי אֶקְרָא with my (whole) voice I cry; קָרָאתִי בִּי קְרָאתִי lxxvi. 17, with my (full) mouth I cry: so, to speak with the mouth, Ps. xvii. 10, with the lips, xii. 3; to labour with the hand, Prov. x. 4; to help with the right hand, with the hand, with the sword, Ps. xvii. 13, 14; xlv. 3; lx. 7; הִשְׁפִּיעָה יְמִינֶךָ *; in which cases the accusativus instrumenti is employed. In the same cases אֲרָ instrumenti is also used, e. g. to praise with the mouth, Ps. lxxxix. 2; cix. 30; to supplicate with the mouth, Job xix. 16. But the same use of the accusative is found in Greek; e. g. προβαίνειν πόδα, παύειν ξίφος (see Porson and Schäfer ad Eurip. Orest. 1427, 1477, Bernhardt Synt. Gr. Sprach. S. 110); and that the accusative is actually dependent on the verb, in these cases, is clear from a comparison with those given under Rems. 1 and 2. In like manner, † in German, the instrument is sometimes construed as the object of the verb, as in the following examples, which are strictly analogous to those given above: Schlittschuhe laufen; eine herrliche Stimme singen; eine tüchtige Klinge schlagen [so in English, to ring the bell, to sound the timbrel, etc.].

2. Many verbs govern the accusative in consequence of a peculiar turn given to their signification, when the corresponding verbs in Greek, Latin, and German are construed with other cases; e. g. עָנָה to reply to (like ἀμείβομαι τινα, prop. to acquaint one); רִיב causam alicujus agere (prop. to defend him before the judge); בָּשַׂר to bring good news to one, to cheer him; נָאֵף to commit adultery with one (prop. to embrace one adulterously); עָרַב to become surety for one (to bail him).

Rem. 1. In the same manner are construed even the passive and reflexive conjugations Niph., Hoph., Hithpa., the verb sometimes assuming under these forms a signification which requires the accusative, as נָבֵא to prophesy, Jer. xxv. 13; נָכַב to surround (prop. to place themselves around), Judges xix. 22; הִתְנַלְמִי I am made (involuntarily) to possess, Job vii. 3; הִתְנַגַּל to plot against, Gen. xxxvii. 18; הִתְבַּוְּנוּ to consider, Job xxxvii. 14.

2. In very common forms of expression the accusative after such verbs may be omitted without injury to the sense (an elliptical expression), as פָּרַת בְּרִית, for פָּרַת בְּרִית to make a covenant, 1 Sam. xx. 16; הִצִּילָה to stretch forth, sc. יָד the hand, Ps. xviii. 17.

3. Whole classes of verbs which govern the accusative are, a) those which signify to clothe and und clothe, as לָבַשׁ to put on a garment, פָּשַׁט to put off a garment,

* In 1 Sam. xxv. 26, 33, we have יָדֶיךָ and יָדִי as subjects to the Inf. הוֹשִׁיעַ, see § 133, 2.

† The Hebrews used also, on the other hand, the אֲרָ instrumenti where we have the accusative. They used indifferently, as we also may, the constructions to shake the head (Ps. xxii. 8), and to shake with the head (Job xvi. 4); to gnash the teeth (Ps. xxxv. 16), and to gnash with the teeth (Job xvi. 9), where head and teeth may be regarded as the object of the verb and as the instrument. But there is a deviation from our mode of expression in these phrases, viz., פָּעַר בִּפְתָּה to open the mouth (Job xvi. 10, prop. to make an opening with the mouth), בָּרִיט בְּיָדַיִם to spread out the hands (Lam. i. 17, prop. to make a spreading with the hands), comp. בָּקוּל וְנָתַן וְנָתַן קוֹל.

עָרְהָ to put on as an ornament; e. g. לְבִשְׁנוּ כָרִים הַצֹּאֵן the pastures are clothed with flocks, Ps. lxx. 14; cix. 29; civ. 2; b) those which signify fulness or want, as מָלֵא to be full, שָׂרִץ to swarm with (Gen. i. 20, 21), שָׂבַע to be satiated, פָּרַן to overflow (Prov. iii. 10), הָסַר to want, שָׁכַל to lose (children); e. g. וַתִּמְלֵא הָאָרֶץ אֹתָם and the land was filled with them Ex. i. 7; אֵלֶּי יִחְסְרוּן הַמֵּשִׁים הַצְּדִיקִים הַמֵּשֶׁה lit. perhaps the fifty righteous will want five, i. e. perhaps there will be lacking five of the fifty Gen. xviii. 28; אֲשַׁכַּל גַּם שְׁנֵיכֶם (why) should I lose you both together Gen. xxvii. 45; c) most verbs of dwelling, e. g. שָׁבַן, גִּיר, יָשַׁב, not merely in a place (Judges v. 17; Is. xxxiii. 16; Gen. iv. 20), but also among a people, with any one (Ps. v. 5; cxx. 5); d) those which express going or coming to a place (petere locum); hence בִּוֵּא, with the accus. to befall one. With this is connected the accus. loci, § 118, 1.

VERBS WITH TWO ACCUSATIVES.

Two accusatives are governed by—

1. The causative conjugations (Piel and Hiphil) of all verbs which in Kal govern one accusative; e. g. מָלֵאתִיו רוּחַ הַכְּמָה I have filled him with the spirit of wisdom, Ex. xxviii. 3; וַיִּלְבַּשׂ אֹתוֹ בְּגָדֵי שֵׁשׁ he clothed him in (caused him to put on) garments of fine cotton, Gen. xli. 42. And, further, אָוַר to gird one with Ps. xviii. 33, בָּרַךְ to bless one with Deut. xv. 14, הָסַר to cause one to lack something Ps. viii. 6.

2. A numerous class of verbs which have even in Kal a doubly-causative signification; such e. g. as, to cover or clothe one with anything (Ps. v. 13; Eze. xiii. 10; hence also to sow, to plant Is. v. 2; xvii. 10; xxx. 23; Judges ix. 45; to anoint Ps. xlv. 8); to fill, to bestow, to deprive (Eze. viii. 17; Gen. xxvii. 37; Pr. xxii. 23); to do one a favour or an injury (1 Sam. xxiv. 18); to make one something (Gen. xvii. 5); e. g. וַעֲשִׂיתָ אֹתוֹ שֶׁמֶן מְשַׁחַת קֹדֶשׁ and make it a holy anointing oil* Ex. xxx. 25.

In such combinations as the one last mentioned, we often adopt another construction, viz., and make of it a holy anointing oil, i. e. we treat the first noun as an accusative of material, 1 Kings xviii. 32, וַיְבַנֶּה אֶת־הָאֲבָנִים מִזֶּבֶחַ and he built of the stones an altar, prop. built the stones into an altar; Lev. xxiv. 5. More notable examples of this construction are those in which the material is placed last, as

* On the passives of these verbs see § 113, 1.

Ex. xxxviii. 3, בָּלִבְרָכָיו עָשָׂה נְחֹשֶׁת all its vessels he made of brass; Gen. ii. 7; Ex. xxv. 39; xxxvi. 14.

There is another use of two accusatives after the same active verb, viz., when the second serves to limit the first, by expressing more definitely the object of the action. This nearly resembles the adverbial use of the accusative (§ 118); e. g. הִקָּה פ' לְהִי to smite one on the cheek, for to smite his cheek, Ps. iii. 8 (comp. Deut. xxxiii. 11; 2 Sam. iii. 27); הִקָּה פ' גְּנָט to smite one as to his life, i. e. to smite him dead, Gen. xxxvii. 21; and in the same manner with שׁוּף Gen. iii. 15.

SECT. 140.

VERBS WITH PREPOSITIONS.

The Hebrew language has no verbs compounded with prepositions. Those modifications of the verbal idea, which other languages indicate by composition with prepositions, are expressed in the Hebrew either, a) by appropriate verbal stems, as בּוֹא to go-in, יֵצֵא to go-out, שׁוּב to re-turn, קָדַם to pre-cede, קָרָה to oc-cur; or, b) by prepositions written after the verb [as in English], e. g. קָרָא to call, with לְ to call to, with בְּ to call upon, with אַחֲרַי to call after; נָפַל to fall, with עַל to fall upon and also to fall off, with לְפָנַי to fall down before; הִלְךְ with אַחֲרַי to go after, to follow.

It is the task of the Lexicon to show the use of the several prepositions with each particular verb. The subject of whole classes of words construed with this or that particle will be best referred to § 154, 3, which treats of the construction and use of the prepositions. [See on the subject of this section, Nordheimer's Heb. Grammar, § 1037.]

CONSTRUCTIO PRÆGNANS.

The so-called constructio prægnaans occurs in Hebrew particularly when a verb, in itself not a verb of motion, is connected with a particle which implies motion; so that, for the completion and correctness of the sense, another verb of motion is to be mentally supplied, so that the principal verb properly obtains the accessory idea of motion through the particle; e. g. אֶל תִּמָּה to turn or look in astonishment to one, Gen. xliii. 33; מָלֵא לְלֶכֶת אַחֲרַי יְהוָה for מָלֵא יְהוָה to fill up to follow Jehorah, i. e. to follow him fully, Num. xiv. 24; Ps. xxii. 22, מִקְרָנֵי רַמִּים עֲנִיתָנִי hear (and save) me from the horns of the buffaloes; Is. xiv. 17, לֹא פָתַח בֵּיתָהּ his prisoners he did not release (and let go) to their homes; Ps. lxxxix. 40; Gen. xlii. 28; Is. xli. 1.

SECT. 142.

CONSTRUCTION OF TWO VERBS TO EXPRESS ONE IDEA.

When one verb serves to complete the meaning of another, the second (according to the sense, the principal verb) is construed as follows, viz.—

1. It stands in the Inf., both absol. (§ 131, 1) and (more commonly) constr., after the other verb, e. g. Deut. ii. 25, 31, אָחַל תֵּת I begin to give; Gen. xxxvii. 5, וַיִּזְכְּפוּ שִׂנְאָה and they went on to hate; Ex. xviii. 23, יָכַלְתָּ עִמָּר thou canst endure; Is. i. 14, נִרְאִיתִי נִשְׂאָה I am weary to bear. But still more frequently—

2. It stands in the Inf. preceded by לְ, as Deut. iii. 24, הִתְחַלֵּוּ לְהַרְאוֹת thou hast begun to show; Gen. xi. 8, וַיִּחְדְּלוּ לְבָנוֹת and they ceased to build; xxvii. 20, מְהֵרָה לְמַצָּא thou hast hastened to find, i. e. hast quickly found, etc.

These two are the usual constructions in prose after verbs signifying to begin (הוֹצִיל, הִחֵל), to continue (הוֹסִיף), to hasten (מָהֵר), to cease (הִדָּל, הִפְקָח), to be finished (הִמָּכָה); so also, to make good (הִיטִיב), to make much or many (הִרְבִּה), and the like modes of action expressed, for the most part, by Hiphil, to be willing (אָבָה, אָבִין), to refuse (מָאָץ), to seek, to strive for (בָּחַץ), to be able (יָכַל, יָדַע), the latter signifying to know [how] to do, to learn (לָמַד), to permit.* It is to be remarked, however, that in poetry the לְ is often omitted where it is used in prose, as אָבָה to be willing, with the לְ, Ex. x. 27, with the mere Inf. Job xxxix. 9; Isa. xxx. 9; xlii. 24.]

3. It has, like the first, the form of the finite verb: they are then construed—

a) With וְ before the second verb, which then agrees with the first in tense, gender, and number, both making up but one idea, as in Nos. 1 and 2. (Comp. our expression, he was pleased and went, for he was pleased to go.)—Judges xix. 6, וְלִין הוֹאֵל-נָא be pleased now and lodge; Jos. vii. 7.—Gen. xxvi. 18, וַיֵּשֶׁב וַיִּחְפֹּר and he returned (repeated) and digged, for he digged again; xxxvii. 7; 2 Kings i. 11, 13; Gen. xxv. 1, he added and took a wife, for he took again a wife.—Esth. viii. 6, אֵיכָבֵד אֶיכָבֵד אֶיכָבֵד וְרָאִיתִי how should I endure and witness? for how should I endure to witness?—Cant. ii. 3; Eccles. iv. 1, 7.

The construction can also begin with the Fut. and proceed in the Pret. with וְ (according to § 126, 6), as in Esther viii. 6; Deut. xxxi. 12, that they may learn (Fut.) and fear (Pret.), for to fear, Hos. ii. 11; Dan. ix. 25. And on the contrary, it may begin in the Pret. and proceed in the Fut. with וְ, Job xxiii. 3.

* To permit one to do a thing, is expressed by נָתַן ב' לַעֲשׂוֹת, and נָתַן ב' עֲשׂוֹת, prop. to give or grant one to do a thing; Gen. xx. 6, לֹא נָתַתִּיךָ קִנְיֵעַ I have not permitted thee to touch.

† So after words which include an analogous verbal idea, e. g. אֵין לְבוֹא it is not permitted to enter in; אֵין עֲרֵךְ (poet.) there is not to be compared, Ps. xl. 6; יָכֵתִיר ready, prepared, commonly with לְ, without it in Job iii. 8.

b) Ἀσυνδέτως, i. e. without the ἢ and, both verbs being of the same tense, gender, and number (as under letter a), but with a closer connexion of the second with the first. Deut. ii. 24, רָשׁוּ וְהָלַךְ begin and take possession; Hos. i. 6, לֹא אֲזַסֵּף אֲרַחֵם I will not go on and have pity, i. e. I will no longer pity; 1 Sam. ii. 3, אַל תִּרְבוּ תִדְבְּרוּ do not multiply and speak = speak not much; Lam. iv. 14, בְּלֹא יִכְלוּ יָגְעוּ so that they could not touch; Job xix. 3; Hos. v. 10.

This construction is more poetical than that under letter a. Comp. e. g. הִזְסִיף with ἢ following in Gen. xxv. 1; xxxviii. 5; but without ἢ in Hos. i. 6; Is. lii. 1; though it occurs also in common prose, as in Neh. iii. 20; Deut. i. 5; Jos. iii. 16; 1 Chron. xiii. 2.

c) Likewise Ἀσυνδέτως, but with the second verb in a close subordinate connexion in the Future, depending on the conjunction that implied. Job xxxii. 22, לֹא יִדְעֵתִי אֲכַנְהָ I know not to flatter (prop. I know not to begin, that I should flatter = I cannot flatter). 1 Sam. xx. 19, וְשָׁלַשְׁתָּ תִרַד and cause on the third day (that) thou come down, for on the third day come down. Is. xlii. 21, הַפִּיץ יִגְדִיל he desires to make great.

In Arabic and Syriac, this construction is very common;* in Hebrew rare; but it was necessarily used in those cases where the second verb was to be distinguished from the first in person or number. Is. xlvii. 1, לֹא תִקְרְאוּנִי וְיִקְרְאוּנִי thou shalt not add (that) they shall call thee, for thou shalt not continue to be called; Num. xxii. 6, וְאִנְיָנִי וְנִגְדֵיבוּ אֵיבֵל perhaps I may be able (that) we shall smite him, and I shall drive him out.

All three constructions (letters a, b, c) and also another akin to that under letter c, are found alike in some verbs in Syriac. He could go, may, for example, be expressed by potuit et irit (letter a), potuit irit (letter b), potuit et irit (not in Hebrew), potuit irit (letter c). See Agrell. Suppl. Synt. Syr., p. 33.

4. It takes the form of the Participle, Is. xxxiii. 1, כְּהַתְיַמֵּךְ שׁוֹדֵד † when thou shalt cease as a destroyer, i. e. to be a destroyer = to destroy; ‡ 1 Sam. xvi. 16.

In the same manner is construed also the verbal adjective, 1 Sam. iii. 2, הִחֵלוּ כְהוֹת began (to grow) dim. Of this construction is Gen. ix. 20, וַהֲלַל נֹחַ אֵיִת הָאֲדָמָה and Noah began (to be) a husbandman.

Rem. 1. In very many of the above examples, the first verb only serves, in effect, to qualify in some manner the second, and hence we translate it by an adverb, as already shown above. Comp. further Gen. xxxi. 27, לָמָּה נִחַפְּסֵתָ לָרֶחֶם wherefore hast thou secretly fled; xxxvii. 7, your sheaves

* The Arabian says volebat dilaceraret for he would rend; and so the Syrian, כָּן נִסַּח volebat tolleret (Luke xviii. 13), he would lift up, but oftener with the conjunction that, כָּן יָבֵן he would come. The Latin also may omit the conjunction in this case; Quid vis faciam? Ter. Volo hoc oratori contingat, Cic. Brut. 84. So in German [and in English] Ich wollte, es wäre; Ich dachte, es ginge [I would it were, I thought it went.]

† For כְּהַתְיַמֵּךְ (§ 20, Rem.) Iuf. Hiph. of הִמַּם.

‡ This construction is also common in Syriac (see Hoffmann's Gram. Syr., p. 343, b), where it is by no means to be taken (as is done by J. D. Michaëlis) for a Gracism.

stood around and bowed, for bowed around; 2 Kings ii. 10, הִקְשִׁיתָ לִּי אֵל לִשְׁאֵל thou hast made hard in asking, i. e. hast made a hard demand (comp. Ex. xiii. 15). The verb which qualifies the other may also occupy the second place, but never without special cause: e. g. Is. liii. 11, יִרְאֶה וְיִשְׂבַּע he shall see and be satisfied (with the sight), and lxvi. 11, that ye may suck and be satisfied by that act); xxvi. 11. Jer. iv. 5, קָרְאוּ בְּלִשְׁאֵי מְלִשְׁאֵי means, call ye (and that, with full voice = call aloud).

2. Of another construction are those verbs which take after them in place of an accusative<sup>1</sup> a sentence or clause depending on יָדָא or יִשְׂפָר that § 155, 1; such, e. g., as to see (Gen. i. 4, 10), to know (Gen. xxii. 12), to believe, to remember, to forget, to say, to think, to happen. On the omission of the conjunction before such clauses, see § 155, 4, c.

CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

1. When a causative conjugation (Piel, Hiphil) has two accusatives (§ 139), its passive retains only one of them (the second, more remote object), taking the other as a nominative, or including it in itself. Ps. lxxx. 11, כְּבִי הַרִים צִדְדָה the mountains are covered with its (the vine's) shade; 1 Kings xxii. 10, מִלְבָּשִׁים בְּנָדָם clothed with garments (prop. made to put on garments); Ex. xxv. 40, מְרִאָה מְרִאָה which was shown thee (prop. which thou wast made to see).

Several striking phenomena in the construction of the passive are readily explained, if we regard it as an impersonal active (dicitur = one says, they say), just as, on the contrary, the impersonal active often supplies the place of the passive (see § 137 Note). We may thus explain those cases, in which—

a) It takes the object of the action in the accusative. Gen. xxvii. 12, וַיַּגֵּד לִרְבֵּקָה אֶת־דְּבָרֵי עֵשָׂו and they made known to Rebecca the words of Esau; iv. 18, וַיֹּאמֶר לְהַנִּיחַ אֶת־עֵרֶדְךָ one bore for his wife bore) to Enoch, Irad; xxi. 5, אֶת־יִצְחָק לֹו בְּהַנְלִיךְ at the time of bearing לְוָתָא to him, Isaac; xl. 20, יוֹם הַלְדָתָא אֶת־פְּרָעָה the day when Pharaoh was born; xvii. 5, לֹא יִקְרָא עֵד אֶת־שֵׁם אַבְרָם they shall no longer call thy name Abram. Ex. x. 8, אֶל פְּרָעָה and Moses was brought back to Pharaoh. Lev. xvi. 27; Jos. vii. 15.

b) It does not agree (as often happens) in gender and number with the noun, even when preceded by it (comp. § 147), because the noun is, in this case, regarded not as the subject but as the object of the verb passive. Is. xxi. 2, הֲוֹת קוֹצָה הַגֵּדְרִי visionem diram nunciarunt mihi (the noun in the accusative); Dan. ix. 21, septuaginta septimanas destinarunt (נִקְדְּשׁוּ); 1 Kings ii. 21; Is. xiv. 3; Gen. xxxv. 26; Hos. x. 6.*

2. The efficient cause, after a passive verb, most frequently takes לְ, and is therefore in the dative (as in Greek), as בְּרוּךְ לְאֵל blessed of God (τῷ Θεῷ), Gen. xiv. 19, Prov. xiv. 20. More rare, but equally certain, is the same use of מִן (prop. from, by which origin, source, in general, is often denoted), Ps. xxxvii. 23, Gen. ix. 11, Job xxiv. 1, xxviii. 4, מִפְּנֵי a parte, Gen. vi. 13; בְּ by, Num. xxxvi. 2. Sometimes this relation is expressed without a preposition with accusat. instrumenti

* Comp. Olshausen Emendationen zum A. T., S. 24, 25.

(comp. § 138, 1, Rem. 3), as Is. i. 20, הַרְבַּב הַתְּאֵבָלוֹ by the sword shall ye be devoured, comp. Ps. xvii. 13.

Rem. Many neuter verbs are sometimes used as passive, in consequence of a peculiar application of their meaning; e. g. יָרַד to go down,—spoken of a forest, to be felled; עָלָה for to be brought up (on the altar), Lev. ii. 12; to be entered (in an account), 1 Chron. xxvii. 24; אָצַף to be brought out of, Deut. xiv. 22.

CHAPTER IV.

CONNEXION OF THE SUBJECT WITH THE PREDICATE.

SECT. 144.

MANNER OF EXPRESSING THE COPULA.

THE union of the substantive or pronoun, which forms the subject of the sentence, with another substantive or adjective as its predicate, is most commonly expressed by simply writing them together without any copula. 1 Kings xviii. 21. יהוה האלהים Jehovah (is) the true God; Gen. ii. 4, אלה תולדות this (is) the history; ii. 12, זהב הארץ ההוא טוב the gold of that land (is) good; Is. xxxi. 2, גם הוא חכם also he (is) wise!—In this construction, a personal pronoun of the third person, which refers to the predicate, frequently serves to make prominent the union of the subject and predicate (see § 121, 2).

Less frequently the copula is expressed by the substantive verb הָיָה. Gen. i. 2, and the earth was (הַיָּתֵה) waste and empty; iii. 1, the serpent was (הָיָה) crafty; vs. 20. Also by יָשַׁב and יָשַׁב (which include the idea of the substantive verb) when the subject is a pronoun and the predicate is a participle (see § 134, 2, a).

On the gender and number of the copula, see § 147.

Rem. Instead of the adjective, the Hebrew often employs the abstract substantive as a predicate (§ 106, 1, Rem. 2); especially when there is no adjective of the signification required (§ 106, 1), e. g. קירותיו עֵץ his walls (are) wood = of wood, wooden. Here the sense is the same as if the substantive, which stands as subject of the sentence, were repeated, in the constr. st., before the predicate (עֵץ קירותיו עֵץ). This full construction occurs Job vi. 12, אֵם בַּח אֲבָנִים בְּחַי קִירוֹתַי עֵץ is my strength the strength of stones? Similar examples are, Cant. i. 15, יְנִיבָה יוֹנִים thy eyes (are) doves' eyes; Ezra x. 13, הָעֵת הַזֶּה יִשְׁקַט הַיָּם the time (is the time) of showers; Ps. xlv. 7, כִּסֵּאֵךְ אֱלֹהִים thy throne (is) a throne of God = solium divinum;* second member (with the full construction) נִשְׁבַּח טִיבֵר

* But see Hengstenberg's Psalms, II., p. 415. Philology requires no other than the simple and natural construction, "Thy throne, O God!" &c., which is given in all the ancient versions as well as in our own.—Tr.

שֵׁבֶט מִלְכוּתְךָ a righteous sceptre is the sceptre of thy dominion. So also especially with כִּי of comparison, as Ps. xviii. 34, כַּאֲזֵלוֹת רַגְלֵי כַּאֲזֵלוֹת my feet like hinds' feet; Is. lxiii. 2, כְּגָרְמֵי בְרֵרֶךְ בְּנֵת thy garments (are) like the garments of one treading the wine-press; xxix. 4; Jer. l. 9, כְּנִבְרֵי הַצֵּי הַצֵּי his arrows as those of a hero.

ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS IN A SENTENCE; CASE ABSOLUTE.

1. The most natural arrangement of words in the simple sentence, in calm discourse, is properly this, viz., subject, copula, predicate; or, when the predicate consists of the verb with its object, subject, verb, object. Adverbial designations (for example, of time or place) may stand either before or after the verb; a negative always immediately before it.*

But the Hebrew can, at pleasure, render either of these members prominent by giving it the first place in the sentence; thus—

- a) The verb: Prov. xxviii. 1, they flee, when there is no pursuer, the wicked; Gen. xlii. 30. This is its common position when there is implied in it an indeterminate subject (the impersonal construction, § 134, 3), as Gen. i. 14, יְהִי כֹאֲרוֹת let there be lights, עָנָה אַיִם they howl (to wit) the jackals Is. xiii. 22 (comp. il vient des hommes); and also wherever the sentence or clause is connected with a preceding one by וְ (of course wherever the Future with וְ is employed), אֲשֶׁר or כִּי; as Gen. iii. 1, all beasts יֵצֵר עֲשָׂה יְיָ which Jehovah had made; ii. 5, כִּי לֹא יֵצֵר הַמַּטֵּיר for Jehovah had not caused it to rain.
- b) The adjective; and this, when it is the predicate, is more commonly placed before than after the subject, as the most important member of the sentence. Jer. xx. 6, וְגָדוֹל אַתָּה וְגָדוֹל שְׁמֶךָ great thou art, and great is thy name.
- c) The object of the verb, which is then immediately followed by the verb, as Prov. xiii. 5, lying speech hates the righteous man; Is. xviii. 5, a ripening grape becomes the blossom; viii. 13; Gen. xlvii. 21. Very rare is the arrangement as in 2 Kings v. 13; some great thing had the prophet commanded thee. Ex. xviii. 23.
- d) The adverbial expression, which is then immediately followed by the verb. Gen. i. 1; Jos. x. 12, אֵיזוֹ יַדְבָּר יְהוֹשֻׁעַ; Judges v. 22.

* Rarely the object is inserted between the negative and the verb (Job xxii. 7, xxxiv. 23, Ecces. x. 10), also the subject (2 Kings v. 26), or an adverbial expression (Ps. vi. 2).

Another arrangement, viz. subject, object, verb, which is common in Aramaean (Dan. ii. 6, 7, 8, 10), is also found in Hebrew, though seldom and only in poetry. Ps. vi. 10, יְהוָה תִּפְּלֵתִי יָחַח; xi. 5; Is. xiii. 18; xlix. 6. See Gesenius's Comment. on Is. xlii. 21.

On the absence of inflexion in the predicate when put first, see § 147.

2. But the greatest prominence is given to any substantive in the sentence (whether it is the genitive, or accusative of the object, or employed by way of qualification of any kind) by permitting it to stand, absolutely, at the beginning of the sentence, and then representing it, in its proper place, by a pronoun (compare c'est moi, qu'on a accusé); e. g. the genitive, Ps. xviii. 31, הַיָּל תִּמְיִם רָרְבוּ God—perfect is his way, for God's way is perfect; xi. 4, civ. 17;—the accusative, Ps. lxxiv. 17, winter and summer—thou hast made them, for thou hast made winter and summer; Gen. xlvii. 21, אֶת־הָעָם הַעֲבִיר אֹתוֹ the people—he removed them; xxi. 13, comp. Jer. vi. 19.* The suffix may also be omitted, Ps. ix. 7, and the connexion indicated by ׀ (as sign of the apodosis). Ps. xviii. 41 (comp. 2 Sam. xxii. 41). Job xxxvi. 26, מִסֶּפֶר שָׁנָיו וְלֹא הִקָּר, sc. לָהֶם the number of his years—there is no searching (to them). Gen. iii. 5; Job iv. 6, xxiii. 12, xxv. 5; 1 Sam. xxv. 27; 2 Sam. xv. 34.

The use of the participle in this manner is peculiar, and resembles the Latin ablative absolute, Prov. xxiii. 24, יֹדֵר הַקָּם וַיִּזְכָּח he who begets a wise son (i. e. when one begets, etc.), then he may rejoice. 1 Sam. ii. 13, כִּלְאִישׁ זָבַח זָבַח וּבָא נֶעֶר הַכֹּהֵן when any one brought an offering, then came the priest's servant; ix. 11; Gen. iv. 15.

RELATION OF THE SUBJECT AND PREDICATE IN RESPECT TO GENDER AND NUMBER.

The predicate (verb, adjective, substantive with copula) conforms, regularly, to the subject in gender and number. From this rule, common to all languages, there are many deviations, partly occasioned by regard to the sense rather than the grammatical form of words (constructio ad sensum), partly by the position of the predicate before the other members of the sentence.

In respect to the first cause, we remark—

1. Collective nouns, e. g. עָם גּוֹי people, בַּיִת family, and nouns used as collective, as אִישׁ men (see 108, 1), are usually construed with the plural, Judges ix. 55, וַיִּרְאוּ אִישׁ־יִשְׂרָאֵל and the men of Israel saw; xv. 10. 1 Kings xx. 20, וַיַּבּוּ אִישׁ־אִישׁ and they slew every one his man; Prov. xi. 26. So when the collective is itself fem. but represents individuals which are of the masc. gender: e. g. 2 Sam. xv. 23, כָּל-הָאָרֶץ בּוֹכִים the whole land (i. e. its inhabitants) wept;* 1 Kings x. 24; Gen. xlviii. 6; 1 Sam. ii. 33, xvii. 47; and vice versâ, Job i. 14, הַבָּקָר הָיוּ הֹרֵשׁוֹת the cattle (cows) were ploughing. For examples of the predicate with the singular form in such cases, see Gen. xxxv. 11; Is. ii. 4 (comp. Micah iv. 3).

Often the construction begins with the singular (especially when the verb is placed first, § 147, a), and then, when the collective is introduced, proceeds with the plural. Ex. xxxiii 4, וַיִּשְׁמַע הָעָם . . . וַיִּתְאָבְלוּ . . . and the people heard . . . and mourned; i. 20.

2. On the other hand plural nouns with a singular signification (§ 108. 2) are construed with the singular, especially the pluralis excellentivæ. Gen. i. 1. 3. † Ex. xxi. 29, בְּעֵלָיו יוּמָת his owner shall be put to death. So feminine forms with a masculine signification are construed with the masculine, as in Eccles. xii. 9, הָיָה קַהֲלָת הַכֹּהֵם the preacher was wise.

3. Plurals which designate beasts or things (but not persons), whether they are masc. or fem. readily take the construction with the fem. sing. ‡ (comp. the feminine form with collective meaning, in § 107, 3, d). Joel i. 20, בְּהֵמַת שָׂרָה תַעְרוֹג the beasts of the field pine for— Job xiv. 19, תַשֹּׁטֵף כְּפִיחֶיהָ its floods wash away. Jer. xlix. 24, אֶהְוֹתָהּ הַכְּבָלִים pains have seized upon her. Ps. xxxvii. 31; Job xii. 7. The same principle applies to pronouns in connexion with their antecedents, Job xxxix. 15; Is. xxxv. 7; 2 Kings iii. 3.

4. Moreover, those plurals also which designate persons are construed with the singular, when, instead of the whole sum of individuals spoken of, the attention is directed to each one of them (comp. כָּל for omnes and omnis). Num. xxiv. 9, מְבֹרָכֶיךָ בְּרוּךְ וְאָרְרֶיךָ אָרוּר blessed (be every one of) those who bless thee, and cursed (each of) those who curse thee; Prov. iii. 18, תְּכַבֶּיהָ מְאִשֵּׁר happy (is every one of) those who retain her; xxvii. 16, צִפְנֶיהָ צְפֹרְרוּחָ xxviii. 1.

5. Dual substantives have their predicates in the plural, since verbs, adjectives, and pronouns have no dual form (§ 88, 1). Gen. xxix. 17, וַעֲנֵי לָאָה רַבּוֹת and the * Sallust. Jugurth. 14, pars in cruce[m] acti, pars bestiis objecti.

† אֱלֹהִים is here and there construed with the plur. only in the older biblical books, and in certain forms of expression which perhaps had their origin in polytheism. Gen. xx. 13; xxxv. 7; Ex. xxii. 5; Ps. lxxxii. 12. The later writers studiously avoid this construction, as polytheistic; comp. Ex. xxxii. 4, 8, and Neh. ix. 18; 2 Sam. vii. 23, and 1 Chron. xvii. 21. See the Lexicon [translated by S. P. Tregelles. Samuel Bagster and Sons].

‡ Perfectly analogous is the Greek construction τὰ ἀνθρώπων ἐλάζον. In Arabic, such a plural is called pluralis inhumanus (i. e. not used of men), and is construed chiefly with the fem. sing., like all its so-called pluralia fracta (collective forms).

eyes of Leah were tender; Ps. xviii. 28; Is. xxx. 20; 2 Sam. xxiv. 3; 1 Sam. i. 13, נֶעְתָּהּ שִׁפְתֶיהָ נֶעְתָּהּ her lips moved; 2 Chron. vii. 15, וְאֵינִי קִשְׁבוֹת וְאֵינִי פִתְחוֹת יְהוָה יְהוָה עֵינַי יְהוָה פִתְחוֹת וְאֵינִי קִשְׁבוֹת; vi. 40; Micah vii. 10, וְעֵינַי הִרְאִינָה my eyes shall see. Jer. xiv. 6; Is. i. 15; Job x. 8; xx. 10; xxvii. 4; Ps. xxxviii. 11. Rarely the principle stated in No. 3 of this section is extended also to the dual; e. g. Mic. iv. 11.

SUBJECT AND PREDICATE, IN RESPECT TO GENDER AND NUMBER.

The other cause of deviation from the general rule, is the position of the predicate at the beginning of the sentence. The subject, to which it would regularly conform, not being yet expressed, it often takes its simplest and readiest form, viz., the masc. sing., even when the subject, which comes after, is feminine or plural: the predicate in this case is not subject to inflexion; e. g.—

- a) The verb: Is. xlvii. 11, בָּא עָלֶיךָ רָעָה there comes upon thee evil; Mic. ii. 6, לֹא יִפְגַּע בְּלִמּוֹת לא יפג כלמות reproaches do not depart. Ps. lvii. 2; Deut. xxxii. 35; Esther ix. 23, וְקִבַּל הַיְהוּדִים וְקִבַּל הַמְּלָחָמָה חָזָק hard was the battle. 1 Sam. xxv. 27. Often the verb may here be regarded as impersonal, as in il vient des hommes, il a paru deux volumes (§ 145, 1, a). More seldom before the plur. fem. we find (at least) the masc. plur. Judges xxi. 21, וְאֵבְיָאָא בָנוֹת שִׁילָה when the daughters of Shilo come forth.
- b) The adjective: Ps. cxix. 137, יֹשֶׁר מִיִּשְׁרָיִךָ יֹשֶׁר righteous are thy judgments; vs. 155, יִשׁוּעָה . . . רְחוּקָה fur (is) salvation. (The German also neglects, in this case, the inflexion of the adjective: gerecht (sind) deine Gerichte.)
- c) The participle as substantive: Gen. xlvii. 3, רְעֵה צֹאן עֲבָדֶיךָ shepherds (are) thy servants. Also—
- d) The copula, when it precedes the subject.* Is. xviii. 5, וְנִצְחָה הַגִּבְעָה הַזֹּאת the blossom becomes a ripening grape; Gen. xxvii. 39; xxxi. 8.

But if the construction is continued after the introduction of the subject, the verb must conform to it in its gender and number. Eze. xiv. 1, וַיִּבְּאוּ אֵלַי אַנְשֵׁים, וַיִּשְׁבּוּ לִפְנֵי; Gen. i. 14; Num. ix. 6.

* Independently of this arrangement, the הוּא, standing for the copula, is retained between plur. and fem. unchanged. Josh. xiii. 14, הוּא נִחְלָתוֹ . . . וְיִצְחָק הַזֶּה הֵוא הַנְּחִלָּה הַזֶּה . . . . . the offerings of Jehovah . . . . . that is his inheritance. Comp. Jer. x. 3

Rem. 1. In general, the language is at times sparing in the use especially of the feminine forms (comp. § 112, 1, Rem. 2), and when a feminine substantive has more than one predicate, contents itself with giving to the nearest one the appropriate feminine form. The following are instructive examples; Is. xxxiii. 9, אָרְזַן אֶבְלֵ אֶמְלֵלָה אֶבְלֵ the loud mourner and languisher; xiv. 9, יִשְׂאֵל פְּתֻמָּה רְנוּחָה, . . . . שְׁעוֹל עֹוֶר לְךָ רַבָּאִים. Sheol beneath is moved . . . it stirreth up the shades to thee. Examples of the masc. form in remote predicates, Gen. xxxii. 9; xlix. 15; Lev. ii. 1; v. 1; xx. 6; in such as stand in dependent sentences, Job vi. 10, לֹא יִתְמַל (אֶפְסָר) בְּתֵילָה; xx. 26; after כִּי, vi. 20.

On the same principle, pronouns which refer to plural nouns take the form of the singular when they stand remote from their antecedents: Job xxxviii. 32; Deut. xxi. 10.

2. The cases in which the predicate follows the subject, without conforming to it in gender and number, are mostly those in which a verb passive is to be regarded as impersonal and in construction with the accusative (§ 143, 1, Rem.); or the predicate is a participle used as a substantive; e. g. Gen. iv. 7, לְפֶתַח תְּסֻאֵת רֶבֶן, at the door (is) sin a burker (i. e. a lurking lion.—Eccles. ii. 7, לִי הָיָה הַיָּהּ וְנִגְלָתָה הַיָּהּ, verna mihi sunt (where לִי הָיָה is to be understood as I have), Gen. xv. 17, וְנִגְלָתָה הַיָּהּ, and darkness, there became (with a special emphasis on the noun,—the verb standing impersonally).

SECT. 148.

CONSTRUCTION OF COMPOUND SUBJECTS.

1. When the subject is composed of a nominative and genitive, the verb sometimes conforms in gender and number to the genitive instead of the governing noun,—viz., when the word in the genitive expresses the principal idea; e. g. Job xxxii. 7, רַב שָׁנִים יְדִיעוּ הַכְּמָה, the multitude of years (i. e. many years) should teach wisdom; Gen. iv. 10. 2 Sam. x. 9, הָיְתָה אֵלָיו פְּנֵי הַמִּלְחָמָה, there was the battle-front against him, i. e. the battle was turned against him. Is. vi. 4; Job xxxviii. 21.

With the substantive כֹּל the whole, and the numerals, this construction is almost universal; e. g. Gen. v. 5, וַיְהִי כָל־יְמֵי אָדָם, and all the days of Adam were; Ex. xv. 20; Gen. viii. 19.

2. When several subjects are connected by and, their common predicate usually takes the plural form, especially when it follows them; Gen. viii. 22, יָרַע וְקָצִיר וְקָרָה . . . . לֹא יִשְׁפְּתוּ, seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat . . . shall not cease; and in the masc. even with subjects of different genders, as, Gen. xviii. 11, אֲבִרְקָם וְקָנִים וְסָרָה, Abraham and Sarah (were) old; Deut. xxviii. 32. When it precedes, it often conforms in gender and number to the first (as being the nearest) subject. Gen. vii. 7, נֹחַ וּבָנָיו, there went in Noah and his sons; Ex. xv. 1; Num. xii. 1, וַתְּדַבֵּר מִרְיָם וְאַהֲרֹן, there spoke Miriam and Aaron; Gen. xxxiii. 7; xlix. 14. Rarely the preference for the singular and also the masc. appears, when the predicate follows the subject; Prov. xxvii. 9, יִשְׂמַח הַלֵּב וְקִטְרֹת יִשְׂמַח הַלֵּב, ointment and perfume rejoice the heart. If the construction is continued, it is always with the plural form, e. g. Gen. xxi. 32; xxiv. 61; xxxi. 14; xxxiii. 7.

CHAPTER V.

USE OF THE PARTICLES.

SECT. 149.

Of the particles, as connected with the system of forms and inflexions (§§ 99—105), we have already treated in their relation to the other parts of speech. We are now to consider the signification and use of these words, which are so necessary to the nice perception of the sense, and hold so important a place in the philosophical treatment of the language. We shall present, in a general view, their most important peculiarities, leaving the more complete representation, as well as the necessary proofs, to the Lexicon.

SECT. 150.

THE ADVERBS.

The most important adverbs, classed according to their signification, are—

1. Adverbs of place: שָׁם there; פֹּה, בֹּה, וְהָ, בָּהָ, hic, here, הֵלֶם and הֵנָּה hither, the latter also here (from the Chald. הַן this), הֵלְלָאָה thither, farther on (prop. to a distance), hence וְהֵנָּה (from thee hither) on this side of thee, and וְהֵלְלָאָה (from thee farther on) beyond thee, 1 Sam. xx. 22, 37. Is. xviii. 2; עַל, more commonly כַּפְּעַל above, כַּתְּמַת below, לְעֹלָה upwards, לְמַטָּה downwards, חוּיִן outside, כַּחוּיִן on the outside, כַּפְּנִימָה and כַּפְּנִימָה within, מִלְּפָנֶיךָ, מִלְּמַחֲנֶיךָ, מִלְּפָנֶיךָ before, on the east, מִלְּאַחֲרֶיךָ behind, מִלְּאַחֲרֵיךָ backwards, נֶגְדְךָ over against, יְמִינֶיךָ to the right, מִיְּמִינֶיךָ on the right, מִיְּמִנֶיךָ on the west (prop. on the sea side, מִסְּבִיב and מִסְּבִיב around, קוֹמְכִימָה upright).

To many of these adverbs כִּן is prefixed, or the accusative-ending הַ־ appended, indicating respectively the relations from and towards; e. g. שָׁם there, מִשָּׁם thence, מִשָּׁמָּה thither; חוּיִן outside, הוֹצֵנָה outwards. There are several which occur only with הַ־ appended, as מִלְּפָנֶיךָ, מִלְּאַחֲרֶיךָ.

Both these additions, however, express also the relation of rest in a place, as מִשָּׁמָּה sometimes there (not merely thither), מִיְּמִנֶיךָ on the right (not from the right). The הַ־ is in both cases accusative-ending (§ 90, 2), and כִּן properly denotes hanging off from an object, and hence being upon the side of it, like a dextra et sinistra, a latere, a tergo, and in French dessous, dessus, dedans, dehors.*

2. Adverbs of time; these are in part the same with those which have been mentioned as adverbs of place, and which, by an easy transition, are made to express relations of time; as שָׁם thence, like ἐκεῖ; כֹּה now; הֵלְלָאָה onward; הֵנָּה עַד and contr. עַדְהֵנָּה hitherto.

Exclusively such are; עֵתָה at the time, hence now, at this time, (also without the pure designation of time, like vñv, rñv), and presently, soon; הַיּוֹם (this day) to-day; כִּיּוֹם כְּהַיּוֹם at this day now; הַמּוֹלָה, הַמּוֹלָה yesterday, and then of old; אֶתְמולֶיךָ yester-evening, last night; שְׁלֹשָׁתוֹם (from שְׁלֹשָׁתַיִם three, and יוֹם) three days ago; כִּסְחָר to-morrow; כִּמְחָרָת on the morrow; כִּיּוֹם by day; לַלַּיְלָה by night; בֶּכֶר and הַטַּחֲבִים in the morning early; כָּל-הַיּוֹם the whole day, then all the time, always; כְּמִיָּד perpetually, always, עוֹלָם, עוֹלָם for ever, לְעוֹלָם לְעוֹלָם continually; אָז then, with reference to both past and future time, כִּיּוֹם long since, formerly, לְקִנְיָם, do., כָּבֵד (length long since; עוֹד to repeat, again, repeatedly, commonly yet, with a negative no more; כְּאַחַד (as one), at once, together; יַחְדָּו, do., רִאשׁוֹנָה at first, בֵּן אַחֲרָיו (after it was so) afterwards, כִּיחֲרָה speedily, פְּתָאִם instantly.

3. Adverbs for other modal ideas, as a) of quality; כֵּן (see above) and כֵּן so; כִּימָד very, יָתֵר exceedingly, very יוֹתֵר more, too much, כֹּלָה, כָּלָה wholly, כְּפָאֵן, כְּכַעֲט about or near nothing, about, i. e. within a little = wanting little) almost, אֲשֶׁנָּה so, so then (Job ix. 24, hence often used intensively in questions (see § 153, 2, Rem.), טוב and הַיְיָבִיב well, כֹּל (in connexion with other adverbs, wholly, just, as כְּל־עוֹד wholly or just so long, Job xxvii. 3.

b) Of quantity: הַרְבֵּה much, לְרַב abundantly, הַיָּוֵן (riches) richly, הֵן followed by the genitive (prop. sufficiency), enough, as הֵן הַיָּוֵן what is enough for thee, רַבָּה much, enough; לְבַד, לְבַד in separation), alone, the former also with suffixes, as לְבַדִּי I alone; יַחַד together.

c) Of asseveration: אֲמֵן truly, אֲשֶׁן certainly, indeed, and by apocope אַךְ truly, also (corrective) nay rather, inno, Gen. xvii. 19; 1 Kings i. 43; אִינִי perhaps.*

The expression of asseveration may easily pass over into that of opposition (comp. verum, verum) and of limitation; and hence some of the above-mentioned affirmative particles are partly adversative and restrictive, as אֲךָ only, אֲכֹל, אֲכֹל (especially in later usage) but. Most strongly adversative is אֲנִלֵּם on the contrary (the LXX. ὁ μὲν ἀλλὰ), thus used almost exclusively in the Pentateuch and Job. Restrictive also is כִּן (used before adjectives like אֲךָ) merely, i. e. only.

d) Of cause: עֲלֵיכֶן, לְכֵן, לְהֵן, therefore. e) Of accession: אֲלֵן also, and (more poetical, and expressive of accession) אֲלֵךְ adeo, you more, even,—both which, however, often take the character of conjunctions.

4. Adverbs of negation: on these, see § 152.

5. Interrogative adverbs include all the former classes: thus, the question may relate to place, as אֵי, אֵי, where? the first with suff. אֵי where (is) he? so הֵן אֵי, אֵי, אֵי, אֵי, where?—אֵי, אֵי, whence? אֵי (from אֵי) whither? to time, as הֵן אֵי when? הֵן אֵי until when? הֵן אֵי how long? עַד אֵי, the same; to quality, as אֵי, אֵי, how? to quantity, as אֵי, אֵי, how much? אֵי, אֵי, how often? to cause, as לְמַיָּה and כִּיחֲרָה (§ 99, 3) wherefore?—Respecting the pure interrogative particles הֵן, אֵי, see § 153.

Most of these interrogative particles are formed by prefixing 'א, 'א, which in itself signifies where (comp. Germ. wovon? wohin?), but by usage becomes also a mere sign of interrogation before particles of place, time, etc.

In this manner, and by the application of the ending הֵן, of the prep. בֵּן, and of the relative אֵי, are formed whole classes of correlative adverbs, as הֵן here, הֵן hence, הֵן אֵי where? אֵי whence? אֵי אֵי whence (relative); הֵן there, הֵן thither, הֵן thence, הֵן אֵי where, אֵי אֵי whither, אֵי אֵי whence.

* Compounded of אֵי and לֵי = אֵי, comp. Aram. הֵן אֵי whether not, perhaps, μῆ ποτε. It is once employed in the sense of אֵי if not, in Num. xxii. 33, then whether not (who knows whether not), consequently perhaps, expressing doubt, solicitude, and also hope.

CONSTRUCTION OF ADVERBS.

1. Adverbs not only serve, in general, to qualify a clause or sentence by expressing circumstances of time, place, etc., but also to qualify single words, as adjectives, e. g. טוב מאד very good, and even substantives (like ἡ χθὲς ἡμέρα). With the latter they stand either, a) in apposition after them, מעט אנשים a few men Neh. ii. 12, הרבה הרבה מאד very much wisdom 1 Kings v. 9; or, b) in the genitive, קרלת הנם a curse uttered without a cause Pro. xvi. 2, ער הנם a witness without a cause xxiv. 28, where the adverb is treated substantively, as in sponte suâ.

The adverbs also appear in the nature of the substantive, when, as in the later writers, they take a preposition; e. g. בן in the so = בן, Esth. iv. 16; אל-הנם, prop. for in vain, Eze. vi. 10.

2. The repetition of an adverb sometimes denotes intensity, and sometimes continual accession; e. g. מאד מאד exceedingly Num. xiv. 7, also more and more Gen. vii. 19, מטה מטה lower and lower Deut. xxviii. 43, מעט מעט by little and little (peu à peu) Ex. xxiii. 30.

On the use of verbs with the force of adverbs, see § 142, Rem. 1.

WORDS WHICH EXPRESS NEGATION.

1. The most important adverbs of negation are: לא = οὐκ not, אל = μὴ that not, אין (the opposite of יש) there is not, מחרם not yet, אפס no more. Almost exclusively poetic are בל, בלי not; negative conjunctions, אל, פן, לבלתי that not.

We subjoin a more particular view of the use of these words:

לא, like οὐ, οὐκ, is used principally for the objective, unconditional negation, and hence it is commonly connected with the Preterite or Future (as Indicative), and with the Future also to express prohibition (§ 127, 3, c). In connexion with כל, when the latter is not followed by the article and therefore means any one, any thing, it expresses the Lat. nullus, none (comp. Fr. ne—personne). Ex. xii. 16, לא-יעשה כל-מלאכה no labour shall be done. Ex. x. 15; xx. 4; 2 Chron. xxxii. 15. Prov. xii. 21; xxx. 30. (The negative is here closely connected with the verb, and there does not happen anything is = there happens nothing. So also אין with כל; Eccles. i. 9, אין כל-חדש there is nothing new. But the case is different when כל is made definite, where it means all, the whole; Num. xxiii. 13, פלו לא תראה all of him (his whole) thou shalt not see (but only a part). On the use of לא in interrogative sentences, see § 153, 1.

On the position of אל in the clause, see § 145, 1, and Note.

לֹא, like μή, Lat. ne, for the subjective and dependent negation is connected with the future (as Jussive); hence the phrase לֹא בֹאֵי ne veniat, may stand either for he shall not come, or for may he not come. See above, § 127, 3, c, and § 128, 2.

Sometimes it stands absolutely, without the verb, (like μή for μή τοῦτο γένηται), may I pray, not so, i. e. let it not be; e. g. Ruth i. 13, לֹא בָנֹתַי not so, my daughters; Gen. xix. 18. On the interrogative use of it, see § 153, 1.

אֵין (prop. const. st. of אֵין nothingness) is the negative of עֵינִי he, she, it is, and includes the verb to be in all its tenses; e. g. Gen. xxxvii. 29, אֵין־יֹסֵף בְּבֹרַח Joseph was not in the pit; Num. xiv. 42, אֵין־יְהוָה בְּקִרְיָתְכֶם Jehorah is not among you. The same formulas are expressed positively with עֵינִי, and negatively with אֵין, as Gen. xxxi. 29, אֵין־לִי־כֹחַ it is in my power (prop. it is in the power of my hand), Neh. v. 5, אֵין־לָנוּ־כֹחַ it is not in our power. It follows, moreover, α that the personal pronouns, when they are the subject of the sentence, are appended to אֵין as suffixes; as אֵין־אֲנִי I am not, I was not, I shall not be, אֵין־אָנֹכִי, etc. β When the predicate is a verb, it almost universally takes the form of a participle, the verb of existence being implied in אֵין; Ex. v. 16, אֵין־נָתַן־לָנוּ straw is not given; vs. 10, אֵין־נָתַן־לָנוּ I will not give; viii. 17; Deut. i. 32. γ As עֵינִי sometimes signifies to be present, to be near or at hand, so אֵין is used in the contrary sense, to be not present or at hand; אֵין־נִכְנָח he was not present = was no more, Gen. v. 24.

From אֵין is formed by abbreviation the negative syllable אֵ, employed in compounds as a prefix: it is found in Job xxii. 30, אֵ־נִקְיָא not-guiltless. In Ethiopic it is the most common form of negation, and is there used even as a prefix to the verbs. On the formation of the interrogative אֵין from אֵין, see § 153, 1.

לֹא־לְבַלְתִּי (prop. constr. st. with the ending לְבַלְתִּי (§ 90, 3, a) from בָּלַת want, non-existence, stem-word בָּלָה) is most frequently employed before the Inf. when it is to be expressed negatively with a preposition; as לֹא־לְאָכַל to eat, לֹא־לְבָלְתִּי not to eat, Gen. iii. 11. Rarely with a finite verb it means that not, Jer. xxiii. 14.

לֵאמֹר (removing, a clearing away) is the same as ne, that not, lest, especially after the mention of an action by which an apprehended evil is to be prevented or shunned (Gen. xi. 4, xix. 15; or after verbs signifying to fear, to beware (like δειδω μή, verror ne) xxxi. 24, 31;—also at the beginning of the sentence, especially in the expression of apprehension or fear, as Gen. iii. 22, וְנִשְׂטָחָה וְנִשְׂטָחָה וְנִשְׂטָחָה and now, lest he stretch forth his hand.

2. Two negatives in the same sentence, instead of destroying each other, as in Latin [and English], make the negation stronger, like οὐκ οὐδεὶς, οὐκ οὐδέποτε. 1 Kings x. 21, אֵין כֶּסֶף לֹא נִהְיָב לְאִאוּמָה silver was not at all regarded for any thing, (in the parallel passage, 2 Chron. ix. 20, לֹא is omitted). Ex. xiv. 11.—Zeph. ii. 2, לֹא־בֹאוּ לִפְנֵימֶם lit. before there shall not come (so in Germ. do er nicht kommt, and in Lat. priusquam . . . non). Is. v. 9, כִּי־אֵין יֹשֵׁב, prop. without no inhabitant.

3. When one negative sentence follows another, especially in the poetic parallelism, the negation is often expressed only in the first, while its influence extends also to the second. 1 Sam. ii. 3, multiply not words of pride,—let (not) that which is arrogant come forth from your mouth. Ps. ix. 19; Job iii. 10; xxviii. 17; xxx. 20. (Compare the same usage in respect to prepositions, § 154, 4.)

INTERROGATIVE WORDS AND SENTENCES.

1. Interrogative sentences are sometimes, though rarely, distinguished as such merely by the tone of voice in which they are uttered; e. g. 2 Sam. xviii. 29, עָלֶיךָ שָׁלוֹם לְנָעָר is it well with the young man? Gen. xxvii. 24, אַתָּה זֶה בְּנִי עֵשָׂו art thou my son Esau? 1 Ki. i. 24. This is somewhat more frequent when the sentence is connected with the previous one by ׀; Jon. iv. 11, וַאֲנִי לֹא אַחֲרֹם and should I not spare? Job ii. 10; x. 8, 9, 13; Judges xi. 23; xiv. 16; and also after the particles גַּם (Zech. viii. 6) and אֲף (Job xiv. 3). But negative sentences still more readily take, in utterance, the interrogative character; e. g. with לֹא, when an affirmative answer is expected (nonne?) Job xiv. 16, לֹא תִשְׁמָר עַל־חַטָּאתִי dost thou not watch for my sin? Jon. iv. 11; Lam. iii. 36, 38; with אֵל in expectation of a negative answer, 1 Sam. xxvii. 10, אַל־פְּשַׁטְתֶּם הַיּוֹם *ye have not then made an excursion in these days?**

Even the few interrogative particles originally expressed either affirmation or negation, and only acquired by degrees their interrogative power.†

Respecting הֲ and its original demonstrative signification (being related to the article), see § 100, 4.

Probably אֵי where? sprung from a negation;—full form אֵינִי (hence אֵינִי whence?), prop. not there, is not there,—uttered interrogatively, is not there? = where is? אֵינִי is he not there? for where is he? Job xiv. 10 man dies אֵינִי and where is he? = אֵינִי and he is no more. In Arabic, אֵי has become an interrogative pronoun = מִי who? (comp. the Germ. wo (where), and Eng. who); but this is not its original use. On the abbreviation of אֵינִי into אֵי, see § 152, 1.

2. Most commonly the simple question begins with He interrogative הֲ num,—the disjunctive question with הֲ utrum followed in the second clause by אִם an (אִם—הֲ=utrum—an?), as in 1 Kings xxii. 15, אִם־נִחַדְדֵּל . . . הֲנִלְךָ shall we go . . . or shall we forbear? The indirect form of inquiry differs only in having אִם more frequently in the simple question, and in the first member of the disjunctive question.

More particularly—

The הֲ is strictly a sign of the simple and pure question, when the inquirer is uncertain what answer may or should be given. Job ii. 3, הֲיִצְיִתָּ לְבָרְךָ my servant Job?

* In the same manner are used ὄκ (nonne?) and μή; the former (Hom. Il. x. 165, iv. 242) in expectation of an affirmative, the latter (Odys. vi. 200) of a negative answer.

† So in Greek and Latin, originally affirmative and then interrogative are ἦ, num (= nunc), an (probably, perhaps); originally negative and then interrogative,—ὄκ, μή,—ne; in German, nicht wahr? (not true?) nicht? (not?)

Often the inquirer expects a negative answer (num?), which may be expressed in the tone itself; Gen. iv. 9, אֲנִי אֶתְיָמָר אֶחָיו אֲנִי am I the keeper of my brother? Job xiv. 14, if a man die, יִחְיֶה will he live again? Such a question may have precisely the force of a negative assertion; 2 Sam. vii. 5, בַּיִת תִּבְנֶה לִּי בָּיִת shalt thou build a house for me? (in the parallel passage, 1 Chron. xvii. 4, וְגַם לֹא תִבְנֶה thou shalt not build a house for me:) and, vice versa, the negative form of the question has the effect of an affirmation; אֲלֵךְ nonne? is it not so? for הִנֵּה behold! 2 Kings xv. 21; xx. 20, comp. 2 Chron. xxvii. 7; xxxii. 32.* On the other hand, the question may be so uttered as to show that the speaker expects affirmation and assent, when it corresponds, in effect, with the negative form of the question in English; compare the use of ἢ γὰρ and ἢ γὰρ οὐ for is not? and of the Latin, ne for nonne? Job xx. 4, אֲדַע לֹא יָדַעְתָּ dost thou (not) know this?—The simple question is very seldom introduced by אֲלֵךְ, and then always in connexion with something already implied which gives a disjunctive sense, like our or perhaps (German oder etwa), Lat. an, as in Is. xxix. 16; 1 Kings i. 27; Job vi. 12.

The disjunctive question (utrum—an?) is usually expressed under the form אֲלֵךְ—וְ, also אֲלֵךְ—וְ, Job xxi. 4, with emphasis on the first question אֲלֵךְ—וְאֵיךְ, xxxiv. 17; xl. 8, 9. Yet also as in German [and English], with אֲלֵךְ or before the second clause, Job xvi. 3, Eccles. ii. 19. The use of this combination אֲלֵךְ—וְ does not, however, always require opposition between the clauses, but often stands in poetic parallelisms and in other passages (Gen. xxxvii. 8; Hab. iii. 8, where the same question is merely repeated in different words in the second clause, as in Job iv. 17, is man just rather than God; and (אֲלֵךְ) is a man pure rather than his Maker? vi. 5, 6; viii. 3; x. 4, 5; xi. 2, 7; xxii. 23; hence וְ also stands before the second clause in such cases, Job x. 3; xiii. 7; xv. 7, 8, or there is no particle at all to connect the clauses, as in Job xxii. 4.

The form of the indirect question is, in general, the same. After verbs of inquiring, doubting, examining, the simple question takes וְ (whether), Gen. viii. 8; Ex. xvi. 4, and אֲלֵךְ, Cant. vii. 13; 2 Kings i. 2; the disjunctive question (whether—or) אֲלֵךְ—וְ, Gen. xxvii. 21, and also וְ—וְ, Num. xiii. 18.—The formula אֲלֵךְ יָדַעְתָּ וְיָדַעְתָּ (who knoweth whether—not) is also used affirmatively like the Latin nescio an, Esther iv. 14.

For interrogative adverbs of place, time, etc., see § 150, 5.

The words וְ (§ 122, 2) and אֲנִי quite, then, serve to give animation or intensity to a question (like ποτέ, tandem, Eng. then, now); as אֲנִי אֲנִי הֲיֵהְיֶה what aileth thee now? quid tibi tandem est? Is. xxii. 1; אֲנִי אֲנִי where now? Job xvii. 15.

3. The affirmative answer is given, as in Latin, by repeating the predicate of the interrogative sentence; Gen. xxvii. 24; xxix. 6; Judges xiii. 11; the negative answer is אֵל no, Gen. xix. 2.

* In a similar manner, וְ what? [why?], spoken with indignation, expresses prohibition under the form of reproach or expostulation. Cant. viii. 4, וְ הֲתִעֲרֹר why do ye rouse? Job xvi. 6; xxxi. 1. This negative force of וְ is very frequent in the Arabic.

SECT. 154.

THE PREPOSITIONS.

1. The simple* prepositions, like the adverbs, originally denote for the most part physical relations, viz. those of space, and are then used tropically of intellectual relations, as those of time, cause, etc. The prepositions of place originally denote either rest in a place, or motion from or to a place; but in each class there are some (several in the first, few in the second) which take also the signification of the other.

a) The most important prepositions of place are:

α) Of rest in a place,  $\text{בְּ}$  in, by, at,  $\text{עַל}$  upon and over,  $\text{תַּחַת}$  under,  $\text{אַחֲרַי}$ ,  $\text{אַחֲרֵי}$  after,  $\text{לְפָנַי}$  before,  $\text{נֶגְדָה}$ ,  $\text{נֶגְדָה}$ ,  $\text{כּוּל}$ , before, opposite to,  $\text{אַצְל}$ ,  $\text{אֶצֶל}$ ,  $\text{אִת}$  with (apud), by, near,  $\text{בְּעַד}$ ,  $\text{בְּעֵד}$  (prop. in separation from), about (ἀμφὶ), behind,  $\text{בֵּין}$  between,  $\text{עֲבָר}$  on the other side of, beyond.

β) Of motion,  $\text{מִן}$  from,  $\text{אֶל}$  and  $\text{לְ}$  to, towards,  $\text{עַד}$  unto, as far as,—and also (from the former class)  $\text{בְּ}$  to (usque ad),  $\text{עַל}$  upon, towards.

b) Very many of the above-mentioned prepositions express also relations of time, as  $\text{בְּ}$  in, within,  $\text{מִן}$ ,  $\text{אֶל}$ ,  $\text{עַד}$ .

c) Of those which denote other relations we may mention,  $\text{בְּ}$  as (בְּרֵי, בְּפִי according to),  $\text{עִם}$  together with, with,  $\text{זוּלָּתָה}$ ,  $\text{זוּלָּתָי}$  besides, בְּלֹתָי without, besides,  $\text{לְמַעַן}$ ,  $\text{לְמַעַנְךָ}$  on account of,  $\text{עָקֵב}$  (prop. as a reward), for, because.

2. The Hebrew language develops a great degree of dexterity and accuracy of discrimination in the composition of prepositions. Thus, those of motion are set before others denoting rest, so as to express not only a change of relation, but also the local one which was existing previously to the change, or which follows as the result of it, as in French de chez, d'auprès.† So—

b) With  $\text{אֶל}$  (more seldom):  $\text{אֶל אַחֲרַי}$  to behind or after;  $\text{לְ מַחוּץ}$  without, i. e. on the outside of,  $\text{לְ מַחוּץ}$  forth without, Num. v. 3.

Thus also compound prepositions, which have adopted an adverbial signification, take after them  $\text{לְ}$  (more seldom  $\text{מִן}$ ), and again become prepositions; e. g.  $\text{מֵעַל}$

\* Among these we reckon such forms as  $\text{לְפָנַי}$ ,  $\text{לְמַעַן}$ , which in themselves considered are indeed compound words, but as prepositions they express only one idea, and are thus distinguished from the compounds under No. 2, e. g.  $\text{מֵלְפָנַי}$  from above.

† When the Hebrew says, he took the offering,  $\text{מֵעַל הַמִּזְבֵּחַ}$  from upon the altar (away from the top of the altar), he presents the idea fully:—while it is but half expressed in the Fr. il prend le chapeau sur la table, the Germ. er nimmt den Hut vom Tische weg [and the Eng. he takes his hat from the table], the Fr. omitting one relation, the Germ. [and Eng.] another.

This accessory preposition may also precede the adverbial form; e. g., לְבַד מִן מִלְבָּד besides, מִבְּלִעְדֵי without, Syr. مَعْلَا *; rarely it is wholly wanting, as מִסִּמְסַת for לְמִסִּמְסַת, Job xxxvi. 5.

3. We now present a few prepositions,—such as occur most frequently and have the greatest variety of meaning,—with their principal significations, in order to explain their construction with verbs (§ 140), and the most important idioms connected with them.†

a) אֵת, which, of all the prepositions, has the greatest variety of significations, denotes, 1) prop. rest in a place (ἐν), hence in with reference to time, and to state or condition, as בְּאַרְבֵּן, בְּרֵאשִׁית, בְּאֶרְצוֹ, —with reference to a company, or number of individuals, among, e. g. בְּנַעֲמִים, —with reference to bounds or limits, within, as בְּשַׁעְרֵים within the gates,—of high objects, upon, as בְּסוּסִים upon horses, Is. lxxvi. 20; but it has rarely all these significations after verbs of motion = ἐς like ponere in loco. The Hebrew says, a) to drink in a cup (for, to drink what is in it), Gen. xlv. 5 [so in Arabic and Chald., Dan. v. 2, ἐν ποτηρῶ ἐν χρυσῶ παῖον Xen. Anab. vi. 1. 4, 3, Ezra iii. 6, in ossibus bibere in Florus, French boire dans une tasse]; β) in the manner, in the model or rule, for after the manner or model (comp. ἐν τῷ νόμῳ, hunc in modum), as בְּדִבְרֵי ב' according to the command, ב' בְּעֵצַת א' according to the counsel of any one, בְּצַלְמֵנוּ בְּדְמוּתֵנוּ in (after) our image, after our likeness, Gen. i. 26; vs. 27, and v. 1, 3, Adam begot a son בְּדְמוּתוֹ בְּצַלְמוֹ. Somewhat different is the signification in Gen. xxi. 12, in Isaac בְּיִצְחָק) = after Isaac thy seed shall call themselves. Especial attention is due to the passages, where we have, γ) the אֵת essentia or plemasticum of the grammarians, which everywhere means, as, tanquam (Fr. en). Ex. vi. 3, I appeared to Abraham, etc., בְּאֵל יִצְחָק as God Almighty. Is. xl. 10, the Lord will come בְּהִנְיָא as a strong one. The most striking use of it is before the predicate-adjective after the verb to be (= conduct or behave as), Eccles. vii. 14, in the day of joy הִיא בְּטוֹב be thou joyful; Ex. xxxii. 22, thou knowest the people הֵיא בְּרַע that they are evil; Job xxiii. 13, הוא בְּאֶחָד he is one [without a rival]. (In Arabic this idiom is frequent; see Thes. Ling. Heb. p. 174.)

2) Nearness, vicinity (Lat. ad, apud), at, by, on; בְּנְהַר = ἐν ποταμῷ, by the river, Eze. x. 15; בְּעֵינַי in the eyes of = before the eyes of one (ἐν ὀφθαλμοῖς, Il. l. 587). In this sense it frequently indicates motion (Lat. ad), to, unto; it differs, however, both from לָא to, towards, and עַד unto, usque ad, since it denotes that the object towards which the motion tends is actually arrived at (which is not determined by the use of אֶל), and yet does not fix attention specially upon this point, as is done by עַד. Gen. xi. 4, a tower בְּשָׁמַיִם רֵאשִׁו whose top may reach to heaven. Hence, it expresses the relation of verbs of motion (and others analogous to them) to their objects; e. g. בְּ אָחֳזוּ to lay hold on, בְּ נָנַע to touch, בְּ שָׁאַל to ask at, to consult, בְּ הִרְאָה to call upon, בְּ הִרְאָה to look upon, בְּ שָׁמַע to hearken to. Verbs having the signification of the last two, often include the idea of the pleasure or pain with which one sees or hears anything. Gen. xxi. 16, I could not witness the death of the child! Hence, in a tropical sense, in respect to, on account of, as בְּ שָׂפָחָה to rejoice on account of, i. e. to have joy in something.

† For fuller information, Gesenius's Lexicon must be consulted.—Tu.

With the idea of vicinity, nearness, that of accompaniment, and of help, instrumentality (with) readily connects itself. Gen. xxxii. 11, with my staff (לַמִּטְּבֵל) I passed over this Jordan. Ps. xviii. 30, by thee (בְּךָ) have I rushed upon troops. Verbs of coming and going, with בְּ (to come, or go, with) express the idea of bringing; e. g. Judges xv. 1, Samson visited his wife with a kid, brought her a kid. Deut. xxiii. 5.

b) עָלַי signifies upon (ἐπι) and over (ἐπέρ); very frequently of motion (down) upon or over—(up) upon or over a thing. In the sense of (resting) upon, (coming) upon, it is used after verbs signifying to be heavy, i. e. burdensome, afflictive (prop. to lie heavily upon), Is. i. 14; Job vii. 20,—to set or appoint over (commission), as עָלַי עָלַי, —to pity, to spare, as עָלַי הוֹסֵם (prop. to look tenderly upon). With the primary idea is connected that of accession (conceived as a laying upon) and of conformity, after, according to (with reference to the rule or pattern, upon which a thing is laid to be measured or modelled), and of cause (ob quam), on account of [prop. upon something as ground or motive], although. In the signification over, it is often used with verbs of covering, protecting עָלַי בְּמָה עָלַי, (prop. to place a covering, a shield, over); and so also with those of kindred meaning, as עָלַי לְמַעַן לְמַעַן to contend for one (prop. in order to protect him), Judges ix. 17. It is used for at, by, chiefly in cases where there is an actual elevation of one of the related objects above the other, conceived as an impending over; e. g. עָלַי בַּיָּם by the sea [or, as we may literally render it, on the sea]; but also where this is not the case, as עָלַי הַיָּם, like our on the side. Hence, it expresses the relation of motion to the object at which it terminates,—to, towards, so that in the later Hebrew style and in poetry it is often used for לָמַעַן and לְ; e. g. Job vi. 27; xix. 5; xxii. 2; xxxiii. 23.

c) מִן (§ 102) indicates motion, removal, away from anything. Its fundamental signification is separation from a whole, derivation, descent. As constr. st. of the noun מִן part, it properly means part of, hence off, from, used at first with reference to the part which is taken from the whole, as to give, to take part of = from. This fundamental signification appears plainest, when it expresses some (more rarely one) of; e. g. מִן זֵקֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל some of the elders of Israel, מִן דַּם some of the blood (Fr. du sang). It has the same signification when (apparently pleonastic) it is connected with the words one, none, in the so often misapprehended idiom of the Hebrew and Arabic non ab uno, i. e. not any one, not the least, prop. not even a part, a piece, the least portion, of one. Lev. iv. 2; Deut. xv. 7; Eze. xviii. 10.

In its most ordinary use, with reference to motion away from, it forms the opposite of לָמַעַן, עָלַי, and is employed not merely after verbs which express actual motion, as to depart (from), to flee (from), but also those of kindred signification, as to be afraid, to hide, to beware: comp. in Gr. and Lat. καλύπτω ἀπὸ, custodire ab. In its tropical use with reference to time, it may mean either from (a time) on, in which case the reckoning is to be made from the beginning, not from the end of the period specified (like ἀπὸ νυκτὸς, de nocte, from the coming on of night), as מִן לַיְלָה, Job xxxviii. 12, from the beginning of thy days onward; or it may mean next from, i. e. immediately after (ἐξ ἀπίστου, ab itinere), as מִן מִן מִן, Ps. lxxiii. 20, immediately after awaking. Gen. xxxviii. 24, מִן מִן מִן after three months. Hos. vi. 2.

For the use of it to denote rest on the side of an object, where the idea is that of near distance, of being just off from (the prope abesse ab, pendere ex aliqua re), see § 150, 1. For its use in the expression of comparison, see § 119, 1.

d) לָמַעַן, לְ (prop. regions, directions, hence towards), denotes motion, and also merely direction towards (with reference both to material objects and the operations of the mind), whether one reaches the place towards which the motion is directed or not. In the former case it is equivalent to עָלַי, e. g. לְמַעַן פִּיהָ even unto his mouth, Job xl. 23; sometimes it means even penetration into a thing, equivalent to לְמַעַן הָאָרְקָה, e. g. לְמַעַן הָאָרְקָה to go into the ark.

It is certainly an unfrequent and improper use of this particule (though sustained by unquestionable examples) when it is employed to denote rest in a place at which one has arrived. Jer. xli. 12, they found him בְּיַמֵּי רַבִּים אֶל־מַיִם גְּדוֹלִים by the great waters in Gibeon. It is so used especially in the formula אֶל־הַמָּקוֹם at the place, Deut. xvi. 6; 1 Kings viii. 30: אֶל־הַהָר on the mountain, 1 Sam. xvii. 3. Compare the Gr. εἰς, ἐς, for ἐν, e. g. ἐς δόμους μέγα, Soph. Ajax. 80. The German use of zu in zu Hause, zu Leipzig, is quite analogous.

e) לְ (an abbreviation of אֶל, but more commonly used in the tropical significations, to, towards, denoting motion or merely direction, either of physical objects or of the mind: hence, employed as a sign of the dative, and also of the genitive of possession § 115. 2, and then with the signification with respect to, on account of, in behalf of. Such a dativus commodi is used pleonastically especially in the language of common intercourse and in the later style after verbs of motion, as to go, to flee, especially in the Imperative, e. g. הָלֵךְ לְךָ go, get thee away, בְּרַחֲלֵךְ for thy safety: but also after other verbs, as הָרַחֵם־לְךָ be thou like, Cant. ii. 17. It is a solecism of the later style (common in Syriac) when active verbs are construed with לְ instead of the accusative, as לְ לֵלֵךְ, Lam. iv. 5. [Compare Ex. xxvii. 3, Num. xxxii. 15.]

Very often also, especially in poetry, it denotes rest in a place,—hence at, or in, with reference to place and time; as לְיְמִינְךָ on thy right, לְעָרָב at evening. On the use of it after passive and other verbs to denote the efficient cause or author, see § 143. 2.

f) כִּי (as an adverb, about, nearly), as a prep. as, like to; for denoting similarity it is doubled כִּי—כִּי as-so, and also so-as in Gen. xlv. 18, in later authors כִּי—כִּי: according to, after, from the idea of conformity to a model or rule; as a designation of time, about (circa). A pleonastic כִּי or Kaph veritatis, as the grammarians called it, is nowhere found with certainty. In all cases the comparative force applies. כִּי עָט is indeed = עָטָה little, but prop. as a scrap; Neh. vii. 2, for he was אִישׁ אֱמִתִּי כַּאֲשֶׁר אִישׁ אֱמִתִּי כַּאֲשֶׁר אִישׁ אֱמִתִּי must be.

4. In the poetic parallelism, a preposition which stands in the first member may (like the negatives, § 152, 3) be omitted in the corresponding place in the second member; e. g. כִּי, Is. xlvi. 14, he will do his pleasure on Babylon (בְּבָבֶל), and his power on the Chaldeans (בְּשַׁדְדַיִם for בְּשַׁדְדַיִם). Hab. iii. 15, Job xii. 12. So also לְ Job xxxiv. 10, Is. xxviii. 6; בֵּין, Is. xxx. 1; Gen. xlix. 25; תַּהֲרֵת, Is. lxi. 7

THE CONJUNCTIONS.

1. The Hebrew language, considered with reference to the number of its conjunctions, frequently consisting of several words combined, and its ability to form still others from most of the prepositions by the addition of אֲשֶׁר and כִּי (§ 104. 1. e), exhibits no small degree of cultivation and copiousness, compared with its usual simplicity. But writers often neglect the means which it furnishes for accurately expressing the relations of sentences and members of a sentence, contenting themselves with less perfect modes of connexion:* hence the various significations which certain conjunctions in frequent use (particularly וְ, כִּי, אֲשֶׁר) either actually have, or at least whereby they must be expressed when translated into our Western languages, where we are not permitted (see No. 3) to retain the loose and indefinite connexions sometimes made by these particles.

Of the most extensive application is וְ, וְ (§ 104, 2):*

a) Properly and usually copulative (and), connecting single words as well as whole sentences. When three or more words stand in connexion, it is used either before every one after the first (2 Kings xxiii. 5), or before the last only (Gen. xiii. 2); rarely after the first only (Ps. xlv. 9). In certain phrases it is commonly omitted, as yesterday (and) the day before=heretofore, Ex. v. 8. The tone of animated description or narration may also occasion the omission of it (constructio usyndeta); as Judges v. 27, at her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay. Job xx. 19; Cant. ii. 11, v. 6; Is. xxvi. 17.

As connecting words, it is often explicative (like isque, et quidem). 1 Sam. xxviii. 3, בְּרָמָה וּבְעִירוֹ in Ramah and (=even) in his own city, 2 Sam. xiii. 20, Amos iii. 11, iv. 10; even when the second idea is subordinate to the first, and would properly be expressed as the genitive after it (the εὐ δὲ δνοῖν of the grammarians), as Gen. iii. 16, I will multiply thy pains and thy conception, i. e. the pains of thy pregnancy.

As connecting clauses or sentences, it denotes either continuation (for then), hence before the apodosis (like German so in da—so) and after absolute designations of time—(see Gen. iii. 5; Ex. xvi. 6; Prov. xxiv. 27, אַחֲרַי וּבְנִיתָ בֵּיתְךָ afterwards, then build thy house); or enhancement, as in Job v. 19, in six troubles he will deliver thee, yea, in seven no evil shall befall thee; or comparison, as in Job v. 7, man is born to trouble, and so the sons of lightning fly on high, for just as these (birds of prey) fly high: xii. 11; xxxiv. 3; Prov. xi. 16; xvii. 3; xxv. 3, 25. But the Var is also—

b) Adversative (and yet, while yet); Judges xvi. 15, how canst thou say I love thee and (yet) thy heart is not with me (i. e. while yet)? Gen. xv. 2; xviii. 13; Ps. xxviii. 3.

c) Causal (for, because); Ps. v. 12, let them ever shout for joy, because (when, since) thou dost defend them. Is. xliii. 12, ye are my witnesses and I (am) God, that I am God.

d) Inferential, (then, so then, therefore); Ezc. xviii. 32, I delight not in the death of him that dieth—therefore turn ye. In this sense it may stand even at the beginning of a sentence, when it implies an inference of some kind from circumstances already mentioned; 2 Kings iv. 41, and he said and he took meal; Ps. iv. 4, then know ye; ii. 10; 2 Sam. xxiv. 3.

e) Final (in order that, so that); in this sense chiefly with the cohortative or jussive (§ 128).

Of scarcely less extensive application are the two relative conjunctions (prop. relative pronouns) אֲשֶׁר and כִּי=ὅτι, quod, quum, that, because,—running almost parallel with each other in their significations, except that כִּי occurs as a conjunction far more frequently and in a great variety of senses, while אֲשֶׁר is generally a relative pronoun, and takes prefixes.

Both are prefixed, like quod, to a whole clause, standing in place of an accusative, and governed by the preceding active verb as its object. אֲשֶׁר is even preceded by the accusative particle אֶת; Josh. ii. 10, we have heard (id quod exsiccarit) that Jehorah hath dried up,—more commonly אֲשֶׁר אֶת, and still oftener כִּי אֶת. 1 Sam. xxiv. 11, 19. Hence the following uses of כִּי: a) it is employed before words directly quoted, like the Gr. ὅτι (very seldom

וְכִי, 1 Sam. xv. 20); b) it is temporal = ὅτε, prop. (at the time that, (at the time) when, sometimes passing over to the conditional power of כִּי [Eng. when = if, differing only in the form of representation], Job xxxviii. 5, comp. vs. 4 and 18 (seldom וְכִי, Lev. iv. 22; Deut. xi. 6, —but often with an accurate discrimination between the two, well illustrated in Ex. xxi.: c, causal, eo quod, because, fully וְכִי יִעַן, וְכִי יִעַן, propterea quod, also for = γὰρ: repeated כִּי—כִּי, Is. i. 29, 30, וְכִי—כִּי because—and because, Job xxxviii. 20), when more than one cause for the same thing is assigned; d) adversative (in which sense וְ only is used) either, α, after a negative, but,—prop. but it is because, e. g. thou shalt not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites—but a Hebrewess, = for thou shalt take a Hebrewess, the former being prohibited because the latter is to be done; or, β) where negation is only implied, e. g. after a question which involves denial § 153, 1, 2), when it may be rendered no, but,—but no,—for surely ἀλλὰ γὰρ, Mic. vi. 3, what injury have I done to thee? . . . for surely I brought thee up, etc. Job xxxi. 18. See on כִּי below, in No. 2, i.

2. We now arrange the remaining conjunctions according to their significations, and in the case of those (very many in number) that have a variety of senses, exhibit together the different uses of each as it first occurs. We must, however, confine ourselves here to a brief general notice, leaving the more complete view, with the references and proofs, to the Lexicon.*

a) Copulative: besides וְ, וְ, the properly adverbial forms וְכִי also, and וְכִי intensive, there is added, wholly, even, once combined וְכִי-וְכִי and even also, Lev. xxvi. 41. The first is often used with plural forms emphatically, to include all, e. g. וְכִי וְכִי both the two, כֻּלָּם all together. It also merely gives emphasis to the following word; Gen. xxix. 30, and he loved וְכִי-וְכִי Rachel not, also Rachel more than Leah; 1 Sam. xxiv. 12.—וְכִי is prop. add that, hence not to mention,—according to the connexion, much more, much less.

b) Disjunctive: אוֹ or (etym. free will, choice, hence prop. rel. but also aut exclusive, 2 Kings ii. 16). Sometimes it stands elliptically for כִּי אוֹ or (be it) that, or (it must be that, when it may be rendered unless that, e. g. Is. xxvii. 5;—hence the transition to the conditional sense, if, but if, Ex. xxi. 36 (the LXX. εἰν δέ, Vulg. sin autem), if haply, 1 Sam. xx. 10, which has been contested without reason (comp. on אוֹלַי, § 150, 3, Note). Repeated, אוֹ—אוֹ, sive—sive, it is the same as אוֹ—אוֹ.

c) Temporal: כִּי, וְכִי = ὅτε, quum (see above), for which more rarely is used the conditional particle כִּי (Is. iv. 4; xxiv. 13); עַד, עַד כִּי until that, also עַד כִּי until that when, עַד also during, so long as, בְּעוֹר, the same, עַד אַחֲרַי after that, כִּיָּא for since that, בְּתוֹרָם and תּוֹרָם before, תְּרַבֵּת for before (Ps. cxxix. 6).

d) Causal: (besides כִּי and וְכִי, No. 1, c, e) עַל כִּי because, or merely כִּי, with the omission of עַל (§ 104, 1, c), Ps. xlii. 7; xlv. 3. כִּי-עַל כִּי (Gen. xviii. 5; xix. 8; 2 Sam. xviii. 20), and עַל-כִּי (Job xxxiv. 27), for עַל-כִּי for the circumstances that = for this cause that, and emphatically עַל-כִּי-אֵלֶּה for the very cause that, and עַל-כִּי prop. on the account, that, and וְכִי prop. as a reward that, that.

e) Final: לְמַעַן to the end that, עַד in order that (also causal, וְ that = in order that (see above), perhaps וְ, 1 Kings vi. 19. With a negative force: אֵל, כִּי that not, lest § 152.

* See especially Gesenius's Heb. Lexicon, translated by Dr. Tregelles.

† See, on these groups of particles, Gesenius's Thesaurus II. p. 682.

f) Conditional: principally  $\text{אם}$  and  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  (for which rarely  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ ), if. The first (which is also a particle of interrogation, § 153, 2) is purely conditional, leaving it uncertain whether what is expressed by the verb is actually so, is actually done, or not (rather the former),—as, if I do—have done—shall do: on the contrary,  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ \* expressly implies that it is not so, is not done (if I should do—had done), at least that it is very uncertain and even improbable. Hence  $\text{אם}$  may properly stand where  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  would express the thought more accurately (Ps. l. 12; cxxxix. 8; Hos. ix. 12); but  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  cannot be used for  $\text{אם}$ . Especially in solemn asseveration, expressed under the form of conditional imprecation,  $\text{אם}$  is used; Ps. vii. 4—6,  $\text{וְנִגַּן יְרֵדָה וְנָחַם אֶם־עָשִׂיתִי זֹאת}$  if I have done this—then let the enemy persecute me, etc.; Ps. xlv. 21; lxxiii. 15; cxxxvii. 5.

What has been said of  $\text{אם}$  and  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  holds good, also, when they are connected with the negative, as in  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ ,  $\text{אם־לֵב־אֵל}$ , and  $\text{לֵב־אֵל}$ . It must be observed further, that  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ , after forms of swearing, e. g.  $\text{יְהוָה יְהִי אֵלֵינוּ}$  as Jehovah lives, has the force of a negative (hence  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  is affirmative), 2 Sam. xi. 11; xx. 20. There is here an ellipsis, which is sometimes filled up, as in 2 Sam. iii. 35,  $\text{כִּי־יִשָּׁאֵה־לִי כִּי־אֵם־לֵב־יִשָּׂאֵה־לִי וְכִי־יִשָּׂאֵה־לִי$  so may God do to me and more also, if—. Hence generally after verbs of swearing and adjuring,  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  stands for not, Cant. ii. 7, iii. 5, also elsewhere in poetry, as Judges v. 8, Is. xxii. 14. On  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ ,  $\text{אם־לֵב־אֵל}$ , as passing over into conditional particles, see above, in No. 2, b, and No. 1, e.

g) Concessive:  $\text{אם־לֵב}$ , with the Pret., even if (= though) I am, Job ix. 15, with the Fut. (though one were), Is. i. 18; x. 22;  $\text{עַל}$  (for  $\text{אם־לֵב־עַל}$ ), although, Job xvi. 17;  $\text{כִּי־עַל}$  even when, although.

h) Comparative:  $\text{כַּאֲשֶׁר}$  as, quemadmodum, with  $\text{כִּי}$  in the second member, as—so, Is. xxxi. 4; iii. 14, 15.— $\text{כַּאֲשֶׁר־כִּי}$  may be omitted in the protasis, Is. lv. 9; Ps. xlvi. 6, and  $\text{כִּי}$  in the apodosis, Obad. 15. Exact conformity is expressed by  $\text{כִּי־כַּאֲשֶׁר}$  in all points as, Eccles. v. 15.

i) Adversative: (see on the adverbs, § 147, 3). Decidedly belong here,  $\text{כִּי־אם־לֵב}$  only that—but, nevertheless, and the difficult combination  $\text{אם־לֵב־כִּי}$ , prop. that if, for if, most frequently but if, in the sense of  $\text{כִּי}$  explained under letter d, but united with  $\text{אם־לֵב}$  to form a connexion with the verb. Ps. i. 1, happy the man who walks not (if he walks not) in the counsel of the ungodly . . . vs. 2, but if (אם־לֵב־כִּי) his delight is in . . .. Then simply but, Ps. i. 4; Gen. xxxii. 29, but if, but when, Gen. xxxii. 27, and merely but=except (after a negative), xxxix. 9; xxviii. 17.

3. A certain brevity and incompleteness † of expression (see No. 1) appears, among other things, in this, that instead of the compound conjunction, by which the relation is fully expressed, may be used one or the other of those composing it. Thus, instead of the full form  $\text{עַל־כֵּן אֲשֶׁר}$  on the account, that=because, we have the shorter  $\text{עַל־כֵּן}$  or  $\text{אֲשֶׁר}$ ; instead of  $\text{כַּאֲשֶׁר־כִּי}$  as (conj.),  $\text{כִּי}$ , Is. lxi. 11, and  $\text{אֲשֶׁר}$ , Ex. xiv. 13; 1 Kings viii. 24.

† More rare is pleonasm, or an unnecessary fullness of expression; e. g.  $\text{אם־לֵב־כִּי}$ , for if, Ex. xxii. 22, comp. old Germ. wenn dass (prop. if it is that) and old Eng. “if so be that.” On the contrary, a degree of pleonasm in the particles is quite at home in the Chaldee; e. g.  $\text{כִּי־כַּאֲשֶׁר־כִּי}$  (Germ. all dieweil) wholly—for—that=because,  $\text{כִּי־כִּי־כִּי}$  just for this=therefore. Emphatic, not pleonastic, is the repetition of the conjunction in  $\text{כִּי־כִּי־כִּי}$  because, even because, Lev. xxvi. 13. Like the German sintemal and all dieweil.

4. This brevity of expression is sometimes carried so far, that the conjunction, which is required to show the relation of one sentence or part of a sentence to another, is omitted altogether. This occurs—

- a) In conditional clauses: Gen. xxxiii. 13, drive they them hard, then they will die, —for, if they drive them hard they will die. Job vii. 20, (if) I have sinned, what do I unto thee? Gen. xlii. 38.
- b) Where comparison is expressed: Ps. xiv. 4, אֲכָלוּ עַמִּי אֲכָלוּ לֶחֶם who devour my people (as) they would eat bread, prop. (as) those who eat bread. Job xxiv. 19, drought and heat bear off the snow-water, שָׂאוֹל הַטָּאוּ (so) Sheol (those who) sin. Jer. xvii. 11.
- c) In members which are usually dependent on the relative conjunctions. Gen. xii. 13, say אַתְּ אִשְׁתִּי אֲחֵי אֲחֵי thou art my sister, commonly כִּי אֲחֵי אֲחֵי. Ps. ix. 21, that they may learn, they are men. Is. xlvi. 8, for I knew, thou art utterly faithless. Ps. xvii. 3, I have purposed, my mouth shall not sin. In all these cases, the second member stands properly in the accusative; comp. § 142, 4, Rem. 2.

THE INTERJECTIONS.

The interjections which correspond to our ah! oh! alas! woe! expressing denunciation as well as lamentation (אֲהֵה, אֵי, הֵי), are connected with the object of the threatening or lamentation either by the prepositions עַל, אֶל, לְ, or without any of these particles, as לָנוּ אֵי woe to us! הֵי הָעָם woe to the people! Is. i. 4; הֵי אֲחֵי alas, my brother! 1 Kings xiii. 30.

On the construction of הֵי with the suffixes, see § 100, 5.

P R E F A C E.

THIS Reading Book is designed as an introduction to the translation of Hebrew, and based upon special and constant references to the forms and rules of Gesenius's Grammar. It is well known that by such a plan the difficulty of learning the inflexions and constructions of a language may be effectually lessened. This advantage is here intended to be secured to the Hebrew beginner.

In selecting and arranging the portions for translation, great pains have been taken to make them progressive (from short and easy to more difficult), and also as diversified as the limited space would allow,—so covering nearly the whole ground of the Grammar with the references.

In the Notes, the main object has been to furnish the learner with those references to the Grammar, by which he will be able to understand the forms and the constructions, and so to make himself master of its principal contents. Other help is given where needful, especially in the first exercises; but care has been taken to leave suitable scope for the skill and research of the student, lest he should become too dependent on such assistance. The experienced teacher, also, will find sufficient scope for his viva voce instruction, while conducting the student through the portions.

In order to avoid a mechanical committing to memory, the teacher should go over each new Paradigm with the scholar, and orally explain the deviations from the Regular Verb, and the normal forms indicated by the asterisk. In this way the memory will be greatly assisted by a perception of the analogy and structure of the language. Thus, for example, if the scholar perceives in Parad. G. how the 3rd pers. Pret. כִּתְּבָה, כִּתְּבוּ is a model for the 3rd Pret. plur. כִּתְּבוּ, and how כִּתְּבוּ is a model for all the remaining forms of the first and second person, he then has in reality but three new forms to learn for the whole Preterite. If he further perceives how all these verbs fundamentally follow the same analogy, he is less deterred by the multiplicity of the Paradigms, which he can thus reduce, in effect, to but one, greatly to the assistance of the memory and the facility of finding out doubtful forms.

In connexion, however, with the foregoing lessons, and during the first weeks of instruction, something should be read and translated (such as the Scripture Phrases in this Reading Book), to afford the teacher the opportunity to explain the Article and Particles, the construct state, etc., of Nouns, and to exercise the student in the inflexion of Verbs. The teacher should take care that in these exercises the pupil reads with fluency, without stumbling and stammering. For this end, it is best to read aloud and repeatedly what one already understands. Besides the readiness in reading, there ought to be expertness in writing the characters, so that they may be distinctly legible to others.

As a further exercise in the Irregular Verbs, it is especially recommended to write out the inflexions of a few others, after the model of the Paradigms, and then to do the same wholly from recollection. Then the student may begin to inflect in writing such verbs as partly follow more than one Paradigm, e. g.  $\text{סָיַב}$ ,  $\text{הָיַיַץ}$ , etc. In doing this, it will be found necessary to enter more fully on the study of those sections of the Grammar which impart the requisite information, and even to notice the exceptions in the Remarks.

With the Paradigms of Nouns, the same course may be followed; but it is necessary, moreover, that the learner should be accustomed to trace back the noun to the stem-word or root. Indeed, these two points affecting the noun, viz., its derivation and its declension, must be constantly attended to in acquiring the language.

As soon as a good knowledge of grammatical forms is gained, there must be a systematic effort to acquire the no less important knowledge of words. The memory must, of course, be tasked for this purpose, just as in learning any other language. It is an injurious plan to require of the pupil but seldom or never the effort of committing to memory. Tantum scimus, quantum memoria tenemus.

The perusal of the Syntax may sometimes be left to the student without oral instruction; and so also may the complete mastering of the whole Grammar. But this leads us to another point, viz., the inexpediency of using skeleton grammars, which give but a rough sketch of the forms and structure of the language. A full Grammar should be used at once, in which the more important parts, usually printed in larger type, should be learned first, leaving the rest in smaller type for after study.

As appropriate Exercises in Hebrew composition, the student may be required to re-translate from memory what he has just translated from the Hebrew; to read and point some unpointed text; and also to write out Hebrew translations to be examined by the teacher, with reference to the inflexion and pointing of the words, and also to their syntactical construction.

To the above suggestions by Gesenius, it may be well to add, that the blackboard may often be used with advantage by a teacher who meets a class in a lecture-room. It was so employed by the great Hebraist himself, in lecturing to his large classes of students.

No pains have been spared to ensure perfect accuracy in this production, as well as in the Grammar. It is confidently hoped, therefore, that there will be no room to complain of typographical or other errors.

III. EXTRACTS IN POETRY.

CHARACTERISTICS OF HEBREW POETRY.

BEFORE the student begins to translate the following Extracts, it is proper in a few brief statements to call his attention to the subject of Hebrew Poetry. Those who may desire fuller instruction are referred to Lowth's Lectures on Hebrew Poetry, especially Lecture xix.: Herder's Geist der Hebr. Poesie; De Wette's Einleitung in die Psalmen; Ewald's Poetische Bücher, I.; and Nordheimer's Hebrew Grammar, §§ 1120—1130.

The greater part of the Old Testament is poetical in its composition, though only the Psalms, Job, and Proverbs (technically called מִסְּמָת, from the first letter in the Hebrew name of each) are generally termed poetical books. The style of these writings is, however, very unlike what is called poetry in most other languages. It does not consist in metre, like the versification of the Greeks, the Romans, and nearly all other nations; and much less does it exhibit rhyme (see below), like most of the poetry of modern Europe and Asia. In its form or structure, the poetry of the ancient Hebrews was distinguished from prose, chiefly if not solely, by brevity of expression, and by impressing the sentiments in the way of repetition, comparison, or contrast. Hence, it has some characteristics of language, viz., the use of peculiar words, forms of words, etc., as explained in the Grammar, § 2, 4. But the grand characteristic, which in fact constitutes its rhythm, is a proportion or correspondence in thought and expression* between the clauses of a sentence, which accordingly, in its simplest form, consists of only two members (δύοτιμον).

Hence the poetry or rhythm of the Hebrews is generally termed parallelism,† as consisting in a mutual correspondence between the members of a period. And the different modes of exhibiting this * Sometimes the proportion or correspondence appears only in expression, while the thought runs on in the common way of prose, as in Job ix 2, 3, 4.

† It is very often of essential service to the interpreter of Scripture to notice this parallelism. There are numerous expressions and passages to the meaning of which a clue may thus be obtained. For example, in Ps lxxvi 3 in tabernacle is נֶבֶדֶם, and his dwelling place in Zion it has been doubted whether נֶבֶדֶם means in peace or in Salem; but the doubt can scarcely remain when one considers the corresponding clause, where in Zion stands parallel to the term in question, and determines it to mean in Salem.

parallelism mainly constitute the varieties of the poetic style, of which these are the principal:—1. Lyric Poetry, consisting chiefly of such compositions as the Psalms, distinguished by the effusion of pious sentiments. 2. Epic Poetry, as in Job—at least the style of this book resembles the epic more than any other production of the classic muse. 3. Didactic Poetry, as in the Proverbs. 4. Pastoral Poetry or Idyls, such as the Canticles. 5. Prophetic Poetry, which is best exemplified in the earlier prophetic books (Joel, Isaiah, Habakkuk, etc.), for in the later (e. g. Ezekiel, Haggai, Zechariah), it scarcely differs from prose.

Parallelism is generally distinguished into three sorts, according to the relation in sense between the corresponding members, which relation may be synonymous, antithetic, or synthetic.

1. Synonymous Parallelism.—In this the second member is more or less a repetition of the first. These examples may serve to illustrate the correspondence:—

Prov. vi. 2.

נֹמְשֵׁת בְּאִמְרֵי־פִיךָ
נִלְבַּדְתָּ בְּאִמְרֵי־פִיךָ :

Thou art snared in the words of thy mouth ;
Thou art taken in the words of thy mouth.

Job v. 6.

כִּי לֹא־יֵצֵא מִעֶפֶר אֲנֹן
וּמִצְמֵחַ לֹא־יֵצֵמַח עֵמֶל :

For affliction comes not forth from the dust ;
And trouble springs not forth from the ground.

Sometimes each member of the parallelism consists of two parts, so that we have four clauses, as in

Gen. iv. 23.*

עָדָה וְצִלָּה שָׁמְעוּ קוֹלִי
נִשְׂאִי לְךָ הַתְּהִינָה אִמְרֹתַי

* This passage strikingly exhibits rhyme as well as parallelism. The same is found in many other poetic sentences ; e. g. in Job vi. we find it six times, viz., in vs. 4, 7, 9, 13, 22,

כִּי אִישׁ הִרְנֵתִי לְפָנָי
וְיִלְדָה לְחִבְרָתִי :

Adah and Zillah, hear my voice,

Ye wives of Lamech, hearken to my speech ;
For I have slain a man to my wounding,
And a youth to my hurt.

As another instructive example of this parallelism with four clauses, we may adduce Ps. xix. 8.

תֹּרַת יְהוָה תְּמִימָה
מִשִּׁיבַת נְפֶשׁ
עֲדוֹת יְהוָה נְאֻמָּה
מִקְהִימַת פֶּתִי :

The law of Jehovah is perfect,
Reviving the spirit ;
The testimony of Jehovah is sure,
Making wise the simple.

It may be remarked in general, that under this synonymous parallelism, which is the most frequent form of the Hebrew rhythm, we find an exceedingly great variety of constructions.

2. Antithetic Parallelism.—In this the idea of the second member stands in opposition or contrast to

29. But there is no satisfactory proof that in these or other cases the rhyme was (as De Wette, etc., suppose) designed by the poet. On the contrary, it is almost certain that the poet had no such design. For, if he had, he might with perfect ease have given in Job vi. ten more rhymes, e. g. in vs. 8 there might be as good a rhyme as we find in vs. 9, by a very simple change in the arrangement of the words ; thus, instead of the present order—

כִּי־יִסֵּן קְבוֹא שְׂאֵלֹתַי
וְהִתְנֵהוּ יִסֵּן אֵלֶיךָ :

he might, without affecting the sense, have written—

כִּי־יִסֵּן קְבוֹא שְׂאֵלֹתַי
וְיִסֵּן אֵלֶיךָ הִתְנֵהוּ :

As another proof that rhymes in Hebrew Poetry are undesigned, we may point out the fact, that they consist in the recurrence of like suffixes or terminations in the inflexions of nouns and verbs, so that they actually often appear also in the plainest prose, e. g. Josh. xxiii. 11—

וְהַשְׂבָּרִים כִּי־אֵדָה
לְאֵתָהּ אֲתִידְוָהּ אֲתִידְוָהּ :

that of the first. This construction is specially frequent in the book of Proverbs, where very many of the sentiments are thus illustrated or impressed by antithesis; e. g. Prov. x. 1:

בן חכם ילמדה אב
ובן כסיל תועת אמו:

A wise son maketh a glad father;
But a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.

For other examples, see Ps. i. 6; cii. 27, 28; cxlvii. 6; Is. i. 3.

3. Synthetic Parallelism.—In this the idea of the first member is enforced not so much by repetition or antithesis in what follows, as by expansion and modification; e. g. Ps. xxvii. 4:

אחת ישאלתי מאת יהוה
אותה אבקש
שבתיה בבית יהוה
כל ימי הי

לְהוֹדֹת כְּלוֹמֵר יְהוָה
וּלְבַקֵּשׁ בְּחֵיקוֹ:

One thing I ask from Jehovah,
It will I seek after,— My dwelling in the house of Jehovah all the days of my life,
To behold the beauty of Jehovah,
And to inquire in his temple.

* * * In most editions of the Hebrew Bible, the poetry is not given (as in the above examples) in lines according to the parallelism, but appears in the same form as the prose—except in Ex. xv., Deut. xxxii., Judges v., and 2 Sam. xxii.—The accents, however, serve to indicate the divisions or lines. Thus, a simple parallelism is divided into two members by Athnach (—) or Merka with Mahpakh (,); and in a compound one the subdivisions of the members are usually made by Zaqeph-qaton (ˆ) and Rebhia (ˆ).

NOTES.

I. SCRIPTURE PHRASES AND SENTENCES.

N. B. For the derivation of Nouns, the Lexicon must be consulted; but this necessity can occasion no difficulty, even to the beginner, now that he can have Gesenius's, with the words in alphabetical order.

1. P'rî' ghô-dhël lê-bhā'bh.* Fruit-of greatness-of heart, i. e., boasting. P'rî' is a noun masc. sing. in the constr. state (see § 89), and belongs to Class or Parad. VI. i. (§ 92): the ם has Daghesh lene (see § 6, 3, § 13, 1, § 21, 1). Ghô'dhël noun masc. sing. constr. st., Parad. VI. e: the ם without Daghesh lene (§ 6, 3) because preceded by a word ending with a vowel and closely connected (see § 21, 1, at the end). Lēbhā'bh, noun masc. sing. absol. st. (see § 89, 1, at the close), Parad. IV. a. This example shows, a) that the relation of the genitive case, or what is called the constr. state in Hebrew, is indicated essentially by mere closeness of connexion between words as uttered, for there is no change whatever in the form of p'rî' and ghodhel though each is in constr. state (see § 89, 1, and Note †); b) that there may be several successive nouns in the constr. state depending on each other (see § 114, 1): see also below, in No. 3.

* For the sounds of the consonants and vowels, as here employed to express the Hebrew pronunciation, see § 6 with Notes* on pages 17 and 20, also § 10.—On Hebrew syllables, see § 26.

—The sign (:) at the end is Sōph-pāsūq, which is always preceded by the accent Silluq (§ 15).

2. D'bhār hām-mā'-lēkh hāg-gā-dhōl. Word-of the great king. D'bhār, noun masc. sing. constr. st. of ךָ, Parad. IV.—Here notice how the close connexion in utterance, or the constr. state, occasions a change of the vowels (see § 89, 1). Hām-mā'lēkh noun masc. sing. absol. st., Parad. VI. a: with the article (ה) prefixed (see § 35). Hāggād'hōl, adj. masc. sing. with article: on ם with Dagh. forte, see § 13, 3.—Observe how the adj. stands after the noun, and agrees with it in gender and number (see § 112, 1), and in taking the article (see § 111, 2).

3. Y'mé' sh'né' chāy-yé' bhō-thā'i. The days-of the years-of the life-of my fathers. Y'mé', noun masc. plural, constr. state; the sing. יום, irregularly inflected (§ 96). Sh'né', noun fem. pl. constr. state; sing. שנה (§ 95, Parad. B. a) but here with masc. plural (see § 87, 4). Chāyyé', noun masc. pl. constr. st.; sing. יום, Parad. VIII.—the plural form used with sing. sense (see § 108, 2, a). ימים noun m. pl. (but with feminine form, § 87, 4, with suff. 1 pers. sing. יומי for יום because of pause, Silluq, § 29,

4. a): sing. כִּסֵּי, irreg. inflexion (§ 96).—Observe here the succession of three nouns in constr. st. (§ 114, 1), and the effect of the close connexion in utterance not only changing the vowels (as in No. 2), but also eliding or slurring over the consonant כ (כִּסֵּי for כִּסֵּי, etc., according to § 89, 2, a).—Observe also the absence of the art. before the nouns, owing to their being in the constr. st., and as such not needing the art. (see § 110, 2); comp. our expression God's word for the word of God (see Note *, p. 185).

4. Zē-khēr tsād-dī'q libh-rā-khā'. The memory of a righteous (man) for a blessing, i. e., is blessed. Zē-khēr, Parad. VI. b; article omitted (§ 110, 2); constr. state without any change (see above, No. 1). Tsād-dī'q, adj. masc. sing., agreeing with כִּסֵּי man, which is understood. Libh-rākhā', noun fem. sing. absol. state, Parad. B. c; with prep. לְ to prefixed (§ 102, 2), here with short Chireq (י) according to § 28, 1.—Observe the ellipsis of the copula (i. e., the verb to be), according to § 144.

5. Āt-tā' Y'hō-vā' tōbh v'sāl-lā'ch. Thou, Jehovah (art) good and forgiving. Āttā', pronoun personal or separate, 2 pers. sing. masc. (see § 32). Y'hōvā', pr. name: for the signification and the pronunciation of this word, see Lexicon. Tōbh, adj. masc. sing., agreeing with תֹּבִיחֵ. V'sāl-lā'ch, adj. masc. sing., with conj. וְ and prefixed (§ 104, 2).—Obs. ellipsis of copula (art) according to § 144.

6. Tīq-tōl 'lō'h rā-shā'. Thou wilt slay, O God, the wicked. Tīqtōl, verb 2 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal; root לָחַץ, Parad. B. תִּיבִיחֵ, noun masc. sing., Parad. I.; the תִּי with Mappiq (§ 14) and Pathach furtive (see § 8, 2). Rāshā' (on omission of א, see p. 16) adj. masc. sing., agreeing with תִּיבִיחֵ understood; art. omitted in poetic style (see p. 184).—Observe the arrangement of the words (§ 145, 1).

7. Mī yīsh-kōn b'hār qōdh-shē'-khā. Who shall dwell in the mountain-of thy holiness? i. e., in thy holy mount. Mī, pron. interrog. (§ 37) used of persons. Yīshkōn, r. יָשַׁב, Parad. B. B'hār, noun masc. sing. constr. st., Parad. VIII. a; pl. יָשָׁבוּ for יָשָׁבוּ, because ה excludes Daghes forte (see § 22, 5). Qōdhshē'khā, noun (שְׁבִיחָה, Parad. VI. e) with suff. 2 pers. sing. masc. (§ 91, 1), joined by means of (ו) because of the pause, Silluq (§ 29, 4, b).—Obs. subst. used to express adj. (see § 106, 1); and for the position of the suff. הָ, see § 121, 6.

8. Kā-bhē'dh hā-rā-ā'b bā-ā'rēts. Heavy was the famine in the land. כָּבֵד, verb 3 pers. sing. masc. pret. Kal (see Parad. B.), agreeing in gend., numb., and pers. with its nominative (§ 146 at beginning). כָּבֵדָה, noun (Parad. IV.) with art. הָ (see § 35, 1). יָמֵי, noun (Parad. VI. a) with prep. בְּ prefixed with Qamets because it displaces the art. and takes its pointing (בְּ for בָּ, see § 102, 2, b, and § 23, 5); see also § 29, 4, a, § 93, Rem. 1, for the (ו) instead of (ו) under כ. The arrangement is the same as in No. 6.

9. Āy-yē' sō-phēr' ēth-hām-māgh-dā-līm. *Where (is one) counting the towers? Sōphēr, act. part. masc. sing. Kal; r. סָפַר, Paradigm B. סֵפֶר, sign of the definite accusative (see § 117, 2, and Note *), here followed by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1) and hence with (ו) shortened to (ו), see § 27, 1. סֵפֶר, noun masc. pl. absol. st., Parad. II., with art. prefixed (§ 35); in accus. case, governed by sōphēr (see § 135 and § 138).*

10. Tsē'-dhēq mīsh-shā-mā'-yīm nīsh-qā'ph. Righteousness from heaven looked down. מִשְׁפָּטִים, noun masc. plur. but seemingly dual (see § 88, 1, Rem. 2), with prep. מִן prefixed (§ 102, 1); on plur. form in this noun, see § 108, 2. הִשְׁתַּחֲוֶה, verb 3 pers. m. sing. pret. Niphal, r. הִשְׁתַּחֲוֶה, Parad. B.; here with (ו) for (ו), because of the Silluq (§ 29, 4).—Observe, the proper sense of this verb in Niphal is reflexive, viz., to bend one's self forward (see § 51, 2, and the Lexicon under הִשְׁתַּחֲוֶה).

11. The iniquity of his fathers shall be remembered. יָזַכְרָה (yīz-zā-khēr verb (r. זָכַר) 3 pers. sing. masc. fut. of Niphal, which has here a passive force (see § 51, 2, d), Paradigm B. יָזַכְרָה, not 'ōn, because the cholem requires a consonant before it, which must be the א, and not the א which has the Chateph-Pathach, see § 26, 1) noun in constr. state (Paradigm III.), governing the verb in gend., numb., and pers. (see § 146).  $\text{בְּחֹ-תֹאֲרִי}$  (bhō-thā'ri, see § 8, 5) compare on No. 3; there scriptio plena, here scriptio defectiva (§ 8, 4).—The arrangement is according to § 145, 1, a.

12. Who hath tried the spirit of Jehovah?  $\text{מִי}$  (see § 37, 1).  $\text{תִּכְנֶן}$  (thik-kēn, ת without Daghesh lene, because the preceding word ends with a vowel and is in close connexion, § 21, 1) verb (ר.  $\text{כִּנְּן}$ ) in Piēl, which has here intensive force (§ 52, 2, a), Parad. B.  $\text{תִּנְּן}$  sign of accusative here before a noun made definite by the constr. state (see on No. 9).  $\text{רֹחַ}$  (rā'ch, with Pathach furtive, § 22, 2, b), noun in constr. st. (Parad. I.).

13. Honour thy father and thy mother.  $\text{כָּבֹד}$ , verb (ר.  $\text{כִּבְּד}$ , see on No. 8) 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. of Piēl (here causative of Kal, § 52, 2, b), agreeing with  $\text{אֲתָּה}$  thou (see No. 5) understood; Parad. B.  $\text{תִּכְבֹּד}$  (twice) before a noun made definite by the suffix (see on No. 9).  $\text{אֲבִי-כְחָא}$  (ā-bhī'-khā), noun irregular ( $\text{כָּחָא}$ , § 96, 2) with suffix 2 pers. sing. masc. (§ 91, 1, Rem. 1).  $\text{וְ}$  copulative conj. prefixed with Sh'ra (§ 104, 2).  $\text{שִׁירָה}$  noun ( $\text{שִׁירָה}$ , Parad. VIII.) sing. fem. with suffix, here appended by Seghol instead of Sh'ra, on account of the pause accent Silluq (see § 29, 4, b).

14. His blood from thy hand will I require.  $\text{אֶחְדָּק}$  (nāy-gā-dk'khā', second syllable with Methegh (§ 16, 2), to show that the vowel-sign  $\text{ָ}$  stands for ā not ō, see § 9, 12, Rem. 1, a) noun fem. singular (ר. Parad. II.), with prep.  $\text{מִן}$  prefixed (§ 102, 1) and suffix appended.  $\text{תִּקְבֹּד}$ , Parad. B. On the arrangement, see § 145, 1, c.

15. I was stolen from the land of the Hebrews.  $\text{גִּבְּרֵי}$  verb (ר.  $\text{גִּבְּרֵי}$ , Parad. B.) 1 pers. sing. com., pret. of Pual (the passive of Piēl, § 52, 2).  $\text{מִן}$  prep. ( $\text{מִן}$ ) prefixed according to § 102, 1.  $\text{הָ}$  art. (see No. 8).

16. He has made heavy my chain.  $\text{כִּבְּדִי}$ , 3 pers. sing. masc., pret. of Hiphil (causative of Kal, § 53, 2); r.  $\text{כִּבְּרִי}$ . N'chōsh-ti' ( $\text{נְחֹשֶׁת}$ , § 95, Parad. D. b).

17. Upon Jehovah I was cast from the womb.  $\text{הִשְׁלַחְתִּי}$  (hōsh-lā'kh-ti) 1 pers. sing. com., pret. of Hophal (passive of Hiphil, § 53, 2); r.  $\text{הִשְׁלַחְתִּי}$ , Parad. B.  $\text{חֵטְא}$ , noun, Parad. VI. here with  $\text{ָ}$  on account of the pause accent, § 29, 4, a, and § 27, Rem. 2, c).

18. I will keep myself from my iniquity.  $\text{אֲשָׁמַר}$ , 1 pers. sing. c. fut. of Hithpaēl (with reflexive force, and here with transposition of ת, see § 54, 2, a, and 3; r.  $\text{אֲשָׁמַר}$ , Parad. B.  $\text{אֲשָׁמַר}$  (see No. 11, and No. 15).

19. And now let your hands be strong (lit. shall be strong).  $\text{תִּשְׁמְרוּ}$  (tē-ch'zā'q-nā, ת has Daghesh lene, because a distinctive accent, P'siq  $\text{ָ}$ , precedes, § 21, 1), 3 pers. pl. fem. fut. Kal, r.  $\text{תִּשְׁמְרוּ}$ , Parad. D. (or verb Pe Guttural :—fut. used for imper. according to § 127, 3, c.  $\text{תִּשְׁמְרוּ}$ , dual of ר.  $\text{תִּשְׁמְרוּ}$ , see § 88) with suff. 2 pers. pl. masc.—On the use of a plur. verb with a dual noun, see § 146, 5.

20. The generation of the upright shall be blessed.  $\text{דֹּר}$ , noun constr. st. Parad. I.  $\text{בְּרָכָה}$  adj. pl. masc. (agreeing with  $\text{אֲנָשִׁים}$  men understood, Parad. IV.  $\text{בְּרָכָה}$ , 3 pers. sing. m. fut. Pual (see Parad. E., 1) here with  $\text{ָ}$  because of Silluq, agreeing in genl. numb., and pers. with the subject.

21. Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation.  $\text{שָׁחַחְתְּ}$  (shā-khā'-chāt, see § 28, 1, Note 1), 2 pers. sing. fem. pret. Kal of  $\text{שָׁחַח}$  verb L'ra th Guttural, Parad. F.).  $\text{אֱלֹהֵי}$  constr. st. pl. of  $\text{אֱלֹהִים}$  (the ת loses both Mappiq and Pathach furtive, because it ceases to be final, § 22, 2, b : on the plural use of this word (pluralis excellentia) see § 108, 2, b.  $\text{יְשׁוּעָה}$ , noun, Parad. VI. c, with suffix 2 pers. sing. fem.

22. A wise son will gladden his father. On position and agreement of adj. and subst., see No. 2.  $\text{בְּרָכָה}$ , see § 96, 2.

23. Jehovah will keep thee from all evil (lit. all of evil).  $\text{יִשְׁמְרֶנִּי}$  (yīsh-mōr'-khā', § 9, 12, 1, a; § 10, 1, at end; § 21, 2, c' 3 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal with suffix, 2 pers. sing. masc., see Parad. C. and § 60. לֹל (here  $\text{לֹל}$  lōl, because followed by Maqqef, which takes away the tone of the word and so makes a closed unaccented syllable, which cannot have a long vowel, see § 26, 5), prop. a noun

(but commonly rendered as an adj.) in constr. state, Parad. VIII. c. נָעַד, with ׀ for ׀ according to § 29, 4, a.

24. Cause me to walk in thy truth and teach me. הַרְרִיבֵנִי (ר. הַרְרָה, Parad. E.), 2 pers. sing. m. imper. Hiphil, with suffix 1 pers. sing. com., see Parad. C. and § 61. בְּאִמְרֹתָי (אִמְרָה, see Lexicon), noun fem. sing. (Parad. D.) with prep. בְּ (here with ׀ according to § 102, 2, a) and with suffix, 2 pers. sing. masc.

25. When you hear (lit. according to your hearing) the voice of the trumpet. כִּי־שֹׁמְעֵיכֶם (k'shōm-<sup>a</sup>khē'm), inf. Kal of שָׁמַע (Parad. F.) with prep. כִּי (§ 102, 2) and suffix 2 pers. plur. masc., see § 61, 1, and § 65, 2.—On the use of כִּי before infinitive, see § 132, 2.

26. This (has been) thy way from thy youth, for thou hast not hearkened to my voice. הָיָה, see § 34. הַרְרִיבֵנִי, noun sing. masc., Parad. VI. a, with suffix, 2 pers. sing. fem. הַרְרִיבֵנִי, see § 91, 2, and § 108, 2, a. Observe the effect of prep. בְּ on the sense of שָׁמַע, which here means to hearken = obey, but without the בְּ (as in No. 25) it means simply to hear = perceive sound.

27. They encompassed me like bees, they were extinguished like fire of thorns. See § 67, Parad. H.; with suffix, 1 pers. sing. הִלְכֵנִי. Pual, Parad. E.

28. The door will turn on its hinge, and a slug-gard on his bed. הִסּוּבָה, 3 pers. sing. fem. fut. Kal of סָבַח (verb הִסּוּבָה, Paradigm H.), agreeing in gend., numb., and pers. with הִלְכֵנִי. קָמְטוּ, see § 91, 4

29. Then they began (lit. it was begun) to call on the name of Jehorah. הוֹחֵל, 3 pers. sing. masc. pret. Hophal of חָלַל (Paradigm H.): see § 137, 3. בְּ with Daghesh lene, because of the distinctive accent (Tiphcha ׀) under the preceding word, see § 21, 1.

30. Ps. exix. 69. See on No. 23. אֶצְרֶה, 1 pers. sing. com. fut. Kal of צָרַח (verb אֶצְרֶה, Parad. G.).

31. Gen. xiv. 21. הִנֵּה, 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. Kal of הִנֵּה (Parad. G., and § 66, 1). לִי, § 103, 2, a. הִנֵּה, noun singular, but here with collective force, § 108, 1. הִנֵּה, 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. Kal of הִנֵּה

(treated as a verb אֶצְרֶה, Parad. G., and partly after Parad. F.; see § 66, Rem. 2). הִנֵּה for הִנֵּה on account of pause, § 103, 2, a.

32. Judges xiii. 16. הַמְעַרְרִי, 2 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal of עָרַר (Parad. D.) with suffix, 1 pers. sing. com. (§ 60). On the position of the negative, see § 145, 1. אֶבְלֵ, 1 pers. sing. com. fut. Kal of אָבַל (verb אָבַל, Parad. I., see § 68, 2); here with ׀ instead of ׀ on account of the conjunctive accent, Munach (׀), § 68, 1. See on No. 7.

33. Jer. xvii. 14. הוֹשִׁיעֵנִי, imper. Hiphil of יָשַׁע (verb יָשַׁע, Parad. K.). אֶהְיֶה, 1 pers. sing. fut. Niphal of יָשַׁע, with He paragogic (§ 48, 3): see also § 29, 4, b.

34. Job xiv. 1. יִלְוֶה, pass. part. sing. masc. Kal of יָלוּהוּ, in constr. state, according to § 135, 1. On the construct state of the adjectives קָצַר and יָבֵעַ, see § 112, 2. Conjunction וְ prefixed with Shureq, before simple Sh'va, according to § 104, 2, b.

35. Genesis xxviii. 12. הִצִּיב, part. sing. masc. Hophal of יָצַב (verb יָצַב of 3rd class, § 71) or יָצַב (verb יָצַב, Parad. G.). אֶרְרֶה, אֶרְרֶה with He paragogic or ancient case-ending for the accusative, § 90, 2: so also in last word. הִנֵּינִי, part. sing. masc. Hiphil of נָגַע (after Parad. G. and F.).

36. Is. xxxvii. 23. הִרְפֵּתָהּ, Piël, Parad. E. On the next word the accent (׀) Zaqeph-qaton, § 15. הִרְמִימָהּ, Hiphil of רָמַח (verb רָמַח, Paradigm M.). וְ, with Daghesh forte conjunctive, § 20, 2, a.

37. Judges xiv. 14. מְהֵאֲבֵל, part. sing. masc. Kal of אָבַל, with article הַ (§ 35, 1) and preposition מִ (§ 102, 1). יָצָא, verb יָצָא and יָצָא, Paradigms K. and O.

38. 1 Sam. ii. 27. הִנְנִיחָהּ, infin. absol. Niphal of נָחַח (verb נָחַח, Parad. P.), with He interrogative prefixed, according to § 100, 4 (see its use in § 153, 2): this infin. stands before the finite verb to make it emphatic, according to § 131, 3, a. בֵּיתָהּ, constr. st. of בֵּיתָהּ (Parad. VI. h.).

39. Ps. xxxi. 14. לְמַחֲתָהּ, infin. Kal of מָחַח (Paradigm H., § 66, Rem. 2), with preposition לְ prefixed according to § 102, 2, c, and § 142, 2. וְחִינֵי verb עָע (Paradigm H.) inflected here as regular (after Paradigm B., see § 67, Rem. 10, also § 29, 4, b).

40. Num. x. 30. מוֹלְדֵתָי noun fem. sing. (segbolate, Parad. D.) with suffix. אָלָא (Parad. K.) from אָלָא or אָלָא, see § 69, Rem. 8.

41. Prov. vii. 1. וּמִצְוֹתַי (ū-mīts-rō-thāt, see on No. 11) noun fem. plur. (Paradigm A.) with suffix appended (§ 91) and conj. וְ prefixed with Shureq before the labial מ (§ 104, 3, b). אָלָא for אָלָא (prep. אָלָא § 103, 1, Rem. 1), see on No. 31.

42. Jer. xliii. 9. אָלָא see on No. 31. וּמִצְוֹתָי noun common gender (§ 107, 1, c) plural (אָלָא Paradigm VI.), governing אָלָא in fem. pl. (§ 112, 1) but the suffix of the next word in the masc. וּמִצְוֹתָי (lit. and thou hast hid them) pret. for imper. according to § 126, 6, c.

43. Ps. civ. 24. אָלָא prop. interrog. pron., but here an adverb of interrog. (lit. as to what? then how? see § 100, 2, e, and Lexicon sub voce). אָלָא (Parad. H.) pret. for present, according to § 126, 3. Under אָלָא (Parad. IX.) Methegh and the accent Athnach אָלָא (§ 15). אָלָא, Parad. O., § 74, Rem. 1; see also § 138, 3, b. אָלָא, always so for אָלָא for the sake of euphony with the art. (§ 35, 1, and § 93, Rem. 1).

44. Judges xiv. 18. See § 37, 1, Rem. for אָלָא and אָלָא. אָלָא noun m. (Parad. VI., § 93, Rem. 4) with prep. אָלָא (§ 102, 1) which here denotes the comparative (see § 119, 1).

45. Gen. ix. 20. אָלָא 3 pers. sing. m. fut. apoc. Hiphil of אָלָא (Parad. H.), with Var conversive (see § 48, 2) giving to the fut. the sense of the pret. (see § 129). אָלָא from אָלָא (Parad. H. and F.).

V. 23. תִּבְרַכְוּ, Parad. E., see § 10, 2, Rem. אֲמֹר, inf. absol. standing for fut. or imper., according to § 131, 4, b.

V. 25. אָרַר, Hiphil of אָרַר (Paradigm M., jussive form, § 128, 2). וְיִהְיֶה (r. הִיזַן, Parad. II.) 3 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal with suffix with Num epenthetic (§ 58, 4), and וְ prefixed according to § 104, 2, c.

* * * In reading these Extracts, it may be well to learn more of the names and uses of the Accents (§ 15).

2. JOHAM'S PARABLE.

Judges ix. 6—15.

V. 6. וַיִּצְעַק fut. Niph'al (Parad. D.). עָם prep. at or by, see Lex. B, 2.

V. 7. וַיִּגְדְּלוּ (r. נִגְדַּד) 3 pers. plur., used according to § 137, 3, b.

V. 8. See § 131, 3, a.—Obs. מְלוֹכָה with small circle referring to the margin, where a different form of the word is given (see § 17). Both the K'thibh מְלוֹכָה and the Q'ri מְלוֹכָה have the same sense, and stand for 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. Kal, with He paragoric (§ 48, 5). This K'thibh form of the imper. is not recognised in the grammars, but it occurs also in Ps. xxvi. 2: comp. verse 12 below.

V. 9. הִתְהַלַּכְתִּי pret. Kal (the Chateph-Qamets irregular for Qamets, with He interrog. § 100, 4, Rem.), used for fut., according to § 126, 4. אֲשִׁרְצִי * וְנוֹ which in me God and men honour (see § 127, 2). וְהִלַּכְתִּי pret. with Var. conv. (see § 48, 3, and § 126, 6, a). לָנוּעַ (inf. with prep.) to wave.

V. 10. See on No. 51 above.

V. 11. כְּוֹתֵק (כְּוֹתֵק), Parad. VI. e). הַטְּוֹקָה adj.

* See § 5, Rem. 4.

fem. sing. with the art., because its noun has a suff. (see § 111, 2, and § 112, 1).

V. 12. Kethibh קְלוּבֵי but Qeri קְלוּבֵי, see on verse 8.

V. 13. הַמְּיֻשָּׁמָה part. with art. (prefixed according to § 20, 3, b), answering to our relative pron. with the indicative, which cheers.

V. 15. הָסִי from הָקָה הַלְבָנוֹן, see § 109, 3.

3. ELIJAH'S ASCENSION.

2 Kings ii. 1—12.

V. 1. וַיְהִי fut. apoc. § 75, Rem. 3, e) with Var conv. (§ 49, 2), used for tense of narration (§ 129, 2). בְּהֵעֲלוֹתָ Hiphil of עָלָה (see § 132, 2, and also § 133, 3). בְּפָעֻרָה (§ 10, 2, Rem.—comp. בְּפָעֻרָה in verse 11) with Chateph-Qamets irreg., which is noticed in the margin קָמִץ בְּהַטָּף הָסִי, i. e., the ס with Chateph-Qamets. הַיְצֻמִּים (No. 10, p. 270; § 118, 1).

V. 2. וַיֵּיזֶן וְהִי גַפְנֵיךָ, see § 130, 1, Rem. (lit. living is Jehorah and the life of thy soul) as Jehorah liveth and by the life of thy soul, a form of oath: הִי const. st. § 89, 2, c. אִם if=not, see Lex. C. 1, c. גֵּית־אֵל (also in the next verse) in the adverbial accusative, § 118, 1.

V. 3. הַיּוֹם prop. the day=this day, see § 109, at beginning. אֲרָגְיָךְ plur. excel. (§ 108, 2, b). הִיָּנָה.

V. 5. בִּירִיחוֹ, prep. בַּ prefixed, according to § 102, 2, a. הִירָעָה, pret. for pres. (§ 126, 3); see § 153, 2.

V. 6. הַיְיָרֶנָּה, § 109, 3, and § 90, 2. יִשְׁנֵיהֶם their two=both of them, § 97, Rem. 2.

V. 7. Construction of the numeral, § 120, 2.

V. 8. לָקָה, see above on No. 51. אֲרָרְתָּ noun fem. (Parad. D.). לָכָה, see above on No. 63. † conj. with Qamets, see above on No. 47. ‡ prep. with art. (§ 35, 2, B. b, and Rem. 2).

V. 9. בְּקָעָרְךָ inf. with suff. and prep. § 132, 2, (see also above on No. 25). † and=that after וַיְהִי. וַיְהִי־יָנָה פִּי וַיְהִי־יָנָה פִּי וַיְהִי then † inferential, § 155, 1, d) shall be, pray, a portion of two in thy spirit to me, i. e. may I have a double portion (twice as much as any one else) of thy spirit (comp. Deut. xxi. 17: פָּה, see § 96).

V. 10. הָקִשִּׁיתָ לְיָסָוֹל lit. thou hast made hard to ask, i. e. thou hast asked a hard thing, see § 142, 4, Rem. 1. לָהָה for לָהָה, see § 52, Rem. 5.

V. 11. Lit. and it was, they walking to walk and to speak, that lo! a chariot, etc.: see § 134, 2, a or c, and § 131, 3, b. וַיֵּלֶךְ fut. Kal of עָלָה הַיְצֻמִּים adverbial accus. (§ 118, 1).

V. 12. † according to § 28, 2. כִּיעֵלָה part. Piel, § 64, 3. רָכֵב יִשְׂרָאֵל וַחֲרָטָיו Israel's chariot and his horsemen.—Observe, that in Hebrew two or more nouns cannot be in the construct state before the same genitive (see Note * on § 114, 1: e. g. רָכֵב יִשְׂרָאֵל וַחֲרָטָיו יִשְׂרָאֵל would be scarcely admissible in this place, and hence the language required either the expression of the genitive after each noun רָכֵב יִשְׂרָאֵל וַחֲרָטָיו יִשְׂרָאֵל, as in verse 11, וְיִשְׂרָאֵל וַחֲרָטָיו יִשְׂרָאֵל) or the use of the possessive pronoun after the second noun (as exhibited in this verse, or the periphrastic construction (see § 115) which expresses the genitive in the manner of the dative רָכֵב יִשְׂרָאֵל וַחֲרָטָיו יִשְׂרָאֵל the chariot and the horsemen to Israel).—There are some apparent exceptions, as in Jer. xxvi. 9, where we find הַבַּיִת הַזֶּה הַבַּיִת הַזֶּה handlers of—benders of—the bow; but the two nouns in the construct state are here in apposition, just like בְּתוּלַת מִצְרַיִם virgin daughter of Egypt, in verse 11 of the same chapter (see § 116, 5).

* אֲרָשׁ has both vowels unchangeable, see page 17, No. 4, Rem.)

I. PART OF THE SONG OF MOSES.

Deut. xxxii. 1—4.

*.* In this Extract, the parallel members are clearly exhibited in separate lines.

V. 1. Article before vocative, § 110, Rem. 2. וַאֲדַבְרָה, § 128, 1; § 29, 4, b.

V. 2. הָיָל, verb פָּזַע. עָלַי, § 103, 3.

V. 3. הָבִי, verb פָּיַץ. לְ prep. (§ 102, 2, a).

V. 4. הַצֵּיִר, the rock, i. e. Jehovah, case absol. (§ 145, 2).—Large צ (so the marginal notice calls it) to mark out the word as having a peculiar use or mystic sense attached to it by the Masoretic authors (see § 3, 2).

2. PARABLE OF THE DEGENERATE VINEYARD.

Isaiah v. 1—7.

V. 1. אֲשִׁירָה נָא לִירֵדִי, § 128, 1, a). concerning my beloved, i. e. Jehovah.

V. 2. נָטַע with double accus. (§ 139, 2). בָּנָה, § 75, Rem. 3. קָוָה, § 75, Rem. 9.

V. 3. וַיִּטְעוּ and אֵינִי collectives (§ 108, 1, c) and hence with verb plur. (§ 146, 1).

V. 4. See § 132, Rem. 1, 2.

V. 5. וַדַּע with two accus. (§ 139, 1). עֵינָיָה part. for fut. (§ 134, 2, b). הָסֵר and פָּרַץ, § 131, 1, Rem. לִקְצֹר lit. for to cut up = to be eaten up.

V. 6. וַיֵּלֶךְ גִּבּוֹר וַיֵּלֶךְ גִּבּוֹר (i. e. grow) briar and thorn (§ 138, 1, Rem. 2). מִהַמַּטֵּר lit. from to rain (§ 132, 2).

V. 7. Observe the striking paronomasia or alliteration between כִּינִינֶכָּה and כִּינִינֶכָּה, and between צִדְקָה and צִדְקָה, which we can partly copy in translation, thus,—he looked for right, and behold might! for wal, and behold woc!

3. PRAISE OF A GOOD WIFE.

Prov. xxxi. 10—31.

*.* This piece is alphabetical, a sort of Hebrew Acrostick (§ 5, Rem. 2).

V. 10. אֵינִי, § 96, 2.

V. 11. Pref. for present (§ 126, 3).

V. 12. נִמְלֶתְהוּ (§ 59, 1, a, and Rem. 3).

V. 14. כְּאֵינִיּוֹת (kō-āy-yōth, see page 28, No. 2, Rem.).

V. 15. בְּעוֹר, either as noun (in continuance of) or as infinitive (in continuing of, § 132, 2), while it is yet night. Fut. with I'aw convers. for present (§ 128, 3, a).

V. 16. וְנִטְעָה, see above, on No. 39. Q'ri נִטְעָה referring to the wife; but K'thibh either נָטַע referring to the husband, or נָטַע (Niph'al, is planted), agreeing with נָטַע as subject.

V. 18. Sense of Q'ri and K'thibh is here the same.

V. 20. לָעֵינִי, § 102, 2, b.

V. 21. לָבִישׁ, pass. part. with accus., § 143, 1.

V. 27. צוֹפְיָה, § 75, Rem. 5. Q'ri הַלִּיבוֹחַ, but K'thibh (with the same sense) הַלִּיבוֹחַ; the latter probably derived from הָלַץ, but the former from הָלַץ.

V. 29. רַבּוֹת, adj. put before the noun either for emphasis, many women, etc., (see § 112, 1, Rem. 1), or as predicate, many are the women who, etc. (see § 145, 1, b). בְּלֶנֶה for the usual בְּלֶנֶה, see § 91, 1, Rem. 2.

V. 30. וַיִּרְאָה אִשָּׁה יִרְאָה אִשָּׁה a woman fearing Jehovah, put prominently in nom. case absol. (§ 145, 2).—Observe, the crowning praise of a good wife is the fear of the Lord or piety. See § 54, Rem., at the end.
